Apple Sauce For Paris
No Rush To Aid U. S.
Eyes Made To Look

THEY DO NOT SERVE apple sauce with roast duck in Paris, and American children complain, but, if you will pardon the "unpardonable" slang, Paris is not entirely devoid of "apple sauce."

For instance, you may read a very fine plaque commemorative. On this pretty plaque, which was put up by the Franco-American committee, on July 4, 1924, you may read the statements of four American ambassadors.

Ambassador Bacon said in August, 1914, "France is at war, I rush," meaning presumably, I rush to her assistance. He said it in French in this way: "La France se dat, j'accours."

Ambassador Herrick wrote, in 1914, "Paris belongs to the world," "Paris appartient au monde."

By 1917 we were "all wound up," in connection with the big foolishness of going into a war with which we had nothing to do, and Ambassador Sharpe had this to say: "France personifies to the highest point, for the other peoples, everything that is inspiration," "La France personnifie au plus haut point pour les autres peuples tout ce qui est inspiration."

Finally, in 1920, when it was over, and we were out of it, and should have been content to keep quiet and figure up our losses, personal and financial, Ambassador Wallace said, from the bottom of his deep heart, "Civilization itself was saved at the Marne by the French army singing the Marseillaise," "La civilization meme a ete sauveee sur la Marne par armee Francaise chantant La Marseillaise."

Those things were said, all in deep sincerity, doubtless, by men that never sat in the trenches. They did not help to any great extent the American conscripted, some times against his will, crawling over the edge of a trench to get his first smell of war gas, or the little American business man of today, trying to pay for the tens of billions squandered in war, including ten billions of bad debts scattered over many European countries, while at the same time he tries to pay for all the new ideas that are born every few minutes.

Can you imagine anybody in France, England or Germany, pariphrasing Ambassador Bacon's statement to read: "America is at war, I rush"

There would be very little "rushing" to our assistance from Europe if the United States were at war, unless it might possibly be to help our interesting aggressor, and as for lending us ten billions of dollars, in such a war, our European friends would find it not convenient or possible to lend us a hundred sixpences.

When Americans become sentimental and go crazy, they go really crazy.

THE MOOSE RIVER gold mine where three men were imprisoned for 10 days reminds us all, young and old, to learn to use our eyes. In 1866 a lumberman blasting rock to widen a stream noticed yellow flakes in the rock, and because he saw what he looked at, gold has been taken out of the Moose river mine for more than 50 years.

THE LATE SENATOR George Hearst, who located some of the most important mines in the world, was

COCKRELL MINERAL RIGHTS SUSTAINED

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Judgment upholding the Louisiana state supreme court's ruling that Ernest Cockrell, Houston, Tex., was owner of 127-150 interest in mineral rights on 44,951 acres of land in Plaquemine parish, was handed down today by United States Judge Wayne G. Borah.

After the Louisiana state supreme court in 1932 held that Cockrell was owner of major interest of mineral rights on land under contest in townships 19 and 20 south, range 26 east, and township 20 south, range 27 east, in Plaquemine parish, Cockrell applied to the federal court for a declaratory judgment to the lands under federal statutes, and Judge Borah issued such judgment in Cockrell's favor.

WHITE'S PLAN READY

JACKSON, Miss., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Governor Hugh White's industrial program designed to "balance agriculture with industry" in Mississippi was ready for submission to the legislature tonight in the form of a house bill which was mailed to legislators today.

FORCED TO LAND WHEN SUPPLY OF GASOLINE GONE

Plane Badly Damaged When Grounding At Louisburg, Nova Scotia

ADVERSE WEATHER FAILS TO DAUNT FLYING SPIRIT

Forecasting Experts Look Upon Success As 'Almost Incredible'

LOUISBURG, Nova Scotia, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Mrs. Beryl Markham, "feeling fine," and "with just a bump on my head" to show for her forced landing, ended her England to New York flight unexpectedly but safely today at Baleine Cove, near here.

There were scratches on her nose and face and her plane was badly damaged, but the 33-year-old English matron was unhurt.

"It was nice to have landed right side up," she commented with a nervous laugh. "This is my first visit to America, you know."

She was not quite "sound," however, for the cut in her forehead required a stitch or two.

The plane landed in six feet of mud, coming down so suddenly that the propellor was smashed, the left wing torn and the undergear put out of commission.

"The weather was very bad all the way across," she said. "Fog and winds forced me to fly blind part of the way."

This bore out the expression of New York weather experts, who had commented earlier in the day that "if Mrs. Markham gets through that weather it will be almost incredible."

But she did get through, crossing the Atlantic from land to land on a flight which her husband, back in England, said he "wouldn't have attempted for a million pounds."

Mrs. Markham, who is no stranger to adventure, confessed that there

ROOSEVELT GIVES LABOR DAY TALK

Asserts Job And Adequate Wage For All Is His Aim

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—(AP)—In a labor day message to American workers today, President Roosevelt outlined as a national objective the achievements of "a national economy whose factors are so finely balanced that the worker is always sure of a job which will guarantee a living wage."

"By a living wage," the chief executive added, "I mean a wage which will insure the worker and the worker's dependents a living in accordance with American standards of decency, happiness and self respect."

The president's statement was made public here on the eve of his return to the White House for a radio address tomorrow night in which he will give not only his impressions of the drouth area, but will discuss re-employment.

A White House announcement that the chief executive would make a "special announcement" regarding private re-employment has stirred speculation over the nature of the president's speech. He will talk from

MUSSOLINI WEARS SELASSIE MANTLE

ROME, Sept. 5—(AP)—Premier Benito Mussolini today literally as well as practically wore the mantle of Haile Selassie, defeated emperor of Ethiopia.

The mantle, decorated with a lion's mane, was draped over the shoulders of Il Duce by Ras Gugsa, who deserted Haile Selassie, went over to the Italian side during the war, and now is governor of Tigrai province.

In the Palazzo Venezia the pop-eyed Gugsa handed over the mantle which had been given him by Haile Selassie in the years when he was still loyal to the negus. He also gave Il Duce a shield and other colorfully decorated ornaments.

Gugsa said:

"Under Italy's banner Ethiopian populations will enjoy peace and prosperity."

Il Duce thanked him.

LABOR EDITIONS BRING RESULTS

Central Trades Council Pleased With Results Of Advertising

Gratification over the pre-Labor Day sales of local merchants who advertised in special editions of the Morning World and News-Star which were sponsored by the Monroe Central Trades and Labor council, was expressed last night by J. L. Conditt, president of the council, following interviews made by himself and other officials of the council with the merchants.

The editions sponsored by the council were published Friday afternoon and Saturday morning. The council members' interviews with the merchants were made late yesterday.

"We were gratified with the unanimous report of the merchants that their pre-Labor Day trade volume was larger than that of any other trade day this year," Mr. Conditt said.

"We were especially pleased to learn in such positive terms that the advertising we sold the merchants brought noteworthy results," Mr. Conditt continued. "Giving the merchants something in return for their money is far more appealing to us than asking them to assist us in financing our Labor Day program without giving them an adequate return.

"The results of the advertising in our special editions were so satisfactory that the council definitely decided to make the publishing of annual Labor Day editions a permanent project.

"Again, the council extends its sincere thanks to the merchants and to all others who have assisted in arranging and making possible our program for Labor Day.

"We extend to the public a hearty and cordial invitation to attend the various events scheduled by the council for Labor Day."

DAVIS SISTERS FACE COMPLICITY CHARGE

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Estelle Davis and her sister, Dorothy Davis Gray, won their freedom from jail today through habeas corpus action only to be rearrested immediately on charges of aiding three Arkansas convicts to escape.

They were held without formal charge for state rangers before Arkansas Prison Superintendent Tom Cogbill took them to Star City today for a hearing.

The women now are accused of helping Charles Chapman, O. Hugh Lindsey and Buddy Saddler escape from Cummings prison farm August 25. Texas and Louisiana authorities captured the fugitives after they held up an Atlanta, Texas, bank Monday.

The women denied complicity in the Cummings break.

Deputy United States Marshal Joe Latch said at Texarkana, where the two were arrested, that Estelle Davis was accused in 1935 of harboring the late Raymond Hamilton, southwest bandit.

RA INVESTIGATOR FOUND DEAD; MAN IN CAR CAPTURED

Body Of Wesley D. Amott, Missing Since Tuesday, Located

SUSPECT SAYS HE STOLE CAR BUT DID NOT SLAY

Highway Officers Say Pistol In His Possession Fired Recently

FAY'S STATION, Ala., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Chief Walter K. McAdory of the Alabama highway patrol, announced today the body of Wesley D. Amott, resettlement administration investigator mysteriously missing since Tuesday, was found today in a cotton field near here.

A man giving the name of Frank Greene, 29, was arrested late Wednesday driving Amott's car near Demopolis, Ala.

Amott, former Mormon missionary, whose family lives in Salt Lake City, vanished Tuesday at noon when his superior in the resettlement office at Birmingham sent him to Montgomery, 100 miles south, to investigate a government case.

A filling station attendant at Homewood, Ala., just south of Birmingham on the Montgomery highway, said he sold Amott gasoline at 1 p.m. Tuesday, and at that time he was alone in his new automobile.

Greene, according to authorities, has steadfastly insisted he stole the Amott automobile in Birmingham, and that he knew nothing of the missing man.

The body was discovered by a negro ten feet from a lonely road near here. It lay face down.

McAdory said a laundry mark in the trousers gave the name "Amott."

WOMAN FLIER'S HUSBAND HAPPY

Spends Most Of Night Pacing Floor As Wife Crosses Ocean

LONDON, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Mansfield Markham was out for an automobile drive with his 7-year-old son today when friends tried to reach him with the news that his wife, Mrs. Beryl Markham, had been reported sighted flying over Newfoundland on her projected non-stop solo flight from England to New York.

Markham had been up most of the night pacing the floor of his home while his wife was winging her way over the gusty, squall-tossed Atlantic.

A member of the household said: "He went out in the car with his son to kill time. He'll be tremendously relieved. The son is very excited and I think he is just beginning to understand what is happening."

WOMAN SWIMS TWO MILES TO SAVE SON

QUINCY, Mass., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Mrs. Chester V. Anderson, 24, went about her household tasks today as usual, a mile swim fully clothed to rescue her five-year-old son and his chum only a memory.

Suddenly missing the chatter of her son, Chester, and Gerard Reed, 8, Mrs. Anderson stepped to the porch of her home yesterday afternoon and saw the two drifting in the middle of Fore river in an oarless rowboat. The current was carrying the boat to sea.

She plunged into the water fully clothed and swam through the choppy water to the boat a mile away. Then grabbing the stern with one hand, she pushed the boat back to shore by swimming with one arm and kicking her feet.

"When I saw Junior and Gerard out there I did not think of anything," Mrs. Anderson said. "I ran to the end of the pier and jumped off, although I had all my clothes on.

"I am a fair swimmer, but it took me more than a half an hour to get the boat in."

The boys had been playing in the rowboat at the shore. They lifted the anchor and soon found themselves drifting in the middle of the river.

Mrs. Anderson, a former beauty contest winner, is the wife of a machinest at the naval air base at Squantum.

SPEED PILOT AND WIFE BADLY HURT

Condition Of Benny Howard Critical; Two In New Mexico Hospital

CROWN POINT, N. M., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Asking over and over, "How is my plane?" Speed Pilot Benny Howard, 32, tossed in delirium today in a hospital to which he and his pretty blonde wife, Maxine, 22, were brought after lying four hours in their wrecked ship.

The plane, "Mister Mulligan," which Howard constructed, became a twisted mass in a forced landing as the two were leading in the Bendix air dash from New York to Los Angeles yesterday. Because superstitious Indians refused to go near, it was five hours before the injured couple reached the hospital from the crash scene 40 miles away.

A rag stuffed in a hole apparently ruptured in the gas tank behind the pilot's seat told silently of efforts to avert fire during the agonizing hours the two were imprisoned before help was summoned by an Indian trader, his wife and another white couple.

Dr. Max E. Feldman listed Howard's injuries as both legs broken, one "practically amputated," left arm broken, brain concussion, possible skull fracture and internal injuries.

His blue-eyed wife suffered broken legs and shock.

Billy Juan, a Navajo brave, described Howard's attempt to land his crippled ship in the rough country that surrounds the Lake Valley Indian day school, 40 miles north of here.

Gesticulating and grunting, Juan said through an interpreter the plane "came from the east about noon with lots of smoke."

He said it flew past, circled over the school, then swooped down and crashed. He told how the plane skimmed some brush and smashed its undercarriage as it struck the ground and turned over.

Neither Juan nor Natch Begay, an assistant at the school, nor a dozen other Navajos who were in the vicinity and ran to the scene would dare

Council Completes Plans For Labor Day Celebration

Parade, Speaking Program, Barbecue, Ball Game, Dance Listed

Final plans were completed late yesterday by the Monroe Central Trades and Labor council for a major celebration of Labor Day in Monroe and West Monroe today.

The schedule of activities arranged by the council will begin with a parade through downtown Monroe and West Monroe this morning. Drivers of the various units of the parade, which will form on Riverside Drive north of the new Bridge over the Ouachita river, are requested to go to Riverside by traveling out North Third street to Forsythe avenue, then traveling east on Forsythe to Riverside. By entering Riverside from the north, the drivers may be readily directed to their respective places in the parade line.

Signs marking the places where each unit is to be located in the parade will be placed along Riverside Drive before the units begin arriving there, F. G. McMullen, the parade marshal, an official of the railroad carmen's union, and other members of the parade committee will be located along Riverside to form the parade.

The parade will form in the following general order: Mr. McMullen and escort of motorcycle officers; Mayor C. C. Bell of West Monroe and Mayor Arnold Bernstein of Monroe, followed by other speakers of the Bernstein place program; members of the labor council; Prof. Vincent LaRocca's band; craft unions, each union entering a float to be preceded by its float; floats of business firms and civic institutions; vehicles not in preceding classification.

Mayor C. C. Bell of West Monroe will lead the parade into that city, and on the return to Monroe Mayor

Retreating Government Militiamen Set Fire To Fuenterrabia

INTERNATIONAL BRIDGE IS CLOSED BY FASCISTS

Desperate Government Fighters Driven Across Into France

HENDAYE France Sept. 5.—(AP)—Fort Guadalupe, former Spanish government stronghold, and the town of Fuenterrabia fell tonight before Fascist rebels marching victoriously westward along Spain's northern coast from captured Irun.

Pressing toward San Sebastian, Spain's one-time summer capital, now held by government forces, the insurgents took the fort and the little coastal town with slight resistance.

Retreating government militiamen had set fire to Fuenterrabia, determined to leave their enemies only another ruined town. It was there that United States Ambassador Claude G. Bowers made his headquarters early in the revolt, before he quit Spain.

Fort Guadalupe had been evacuated when the government soldiers' position became untenable by the fall of Irun. Fuenterrabia apparently was defended only slightly.

Most of the defenders, finding themselves surrounded by the enemy, crossed the narrow Bidassoa river to France or took boats to San Sebastian.

The capture of the two coastal points tightened the insurgents' control of the possible sources of provisions in northern Spain. Conquest of the region, the rebels assert, would frustrate government efforts to bulwark the Madrid defenses by attacking the insurgents north of the capital from the rear.

With Fuenterrabia in flames, as Irun had been before, thousands stood on

LANDON ISSUES LABOR DAY CALL

Holiday In Kansas For Occasion Called By Governor

TOPEKA, Kas., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Monday was proclaimed a labor holiday with "no room in it for class divisions and prejudices," by Gov. Alf M. Landon today as he planned a presidential campaign conference with Herbert Hoover.

To "the people of Kansas" the Republican candidate issued a "formal call" to a Labor day of "good will and friendly association," saying:

"We should remain steadfast in the belief that the concern of labor is the concern of all; that labor should be free to organize for fair consideration; that this right to organize and promote such consideration must remain forever free from governmental or any other form of coercion."

"No good citizen," he added, would "contribute" to "class divisions and prejudices."

Coincident with issuance of the proclamation, the nominee told a press conference that "I hope to see" former President Hoover "on his way home" from an eastern trip. Before leaving San Francisco last night, Hoover told of a telephone conference with Landon and his intention to speak in the Kansan's behalf.

LABOR SECRETARY WILL GO TO TEXAS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Secretary of Labor Perkins announced tonight she had accepted an invitation of Gov. James V. Allred of Texas to hold a regional conference on state labor problems and methods of labor law enforcement in Houston September 28-29.

Governors of Arizona, Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, New Mexico and Oklahoma, their official delegates, representatives of labor organizations, and other interested groups have been invited to attend and discuss problems of hours, child labor, wage collection and safety and health industry.

Other regional conferences have been conducted by Secretary Perkins in Nashville, San Francisco, Ashville and Columbia.

ROOSEVELT ENDS DROUTH JOURNEY

Will Return To Washington And Make Speech On Impressions

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 5—(AP)—In conferences with governors of four states, President Roosevelt completed here today his far-flung personal survey of the degree to which a blazing sun has burned away crops in the midwestern dust bowl.

He turned tonight toward Washington, leaving here in the Indiana capital a promise repeated many times during his swing through the blistered farm area—to continue federal cooperation with state and local governments "to the end that the country will be a happier, better and safer place to live in for ourselves and our children."

At the Indianapolis Athletic club he held the last of his drouth parleys with Governors A. B. Chandler of Kentucky, Martin L. Davey of Ohio, Frank D. Fitzgerald of Michigan and Paul V. McNutt of Indiana.

Mr. Roosevelt will wind up his trip tomorrow in Washington, where in the evening he arranged to tell the nation in a radio address his reactions to what he had seen through thousands of acres of scorched farming country.

To a throng at the state fair grounds the president remarked that he was "grateful" for the chance to see the nation's "problems at first-hand." He said he would carry back to Washington "a broader knowledge" of the west's problems and a "stronger purpose" to continue coordination of fed-

MOTORCYCLE RIDERS INJURED IN MISHAP

J. W. Martin and his wife, residents of Monroe, were slightly injured yesterday when a motorcycle they were riding skidded and turned off the highway ten miles south of Little Rock, Ark., according to an Associated Press dispatch.

The couple were en route to St. Louis.

Mr. Martin received a shoulder injury and his wife suffered minor bruises.

Mr. Martin has for some years been a motorcycle riding enthusiast. He has operated a motorcycle sales agency and repair shop here. When air mail service was inaugurated for Monroe, he was the first person to have the job of transporting mail from the postoffice to Selman field. He used a motorcycle with a carrier for the work.

BANDITS ROB CLEANER

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Two young bandits, using a stolen automobile, robbed R. L. O'Daniel, 39, cashier for Kraus cleaners, 726 Madison avenue, of approximately $5,000 at 9:30 a.m. today after firing tear gas into his face. The bandits stole the car an hour before from a downtown street where it was parked by its owner, C. E. Bussey.

THREE VICTIMS, YOUNG WOMAN ARE IDENTIFIED

Difficulty Experienced In Reaching Craft Over Rough Ground

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Eight persons died in flames tonight as a tri-motored sightseeing airplane crashed and burned in Buttermilk hollow near the county airport.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 5.—(AP)—The sole girl survivor of the fatal plane crash near Allegheny county airport and three victims were identified tonight.

The girl was Lydia McDonald, of Miami, Fla.

The three identified dead were: William Leeay, 43, a janitor, and his sister and brother-in-law.

They were listed among the passengers by a friend, Edward Holm, who said he tried but failed, to get a seat in the same ship on the ill-fated passenger ride over the county fair.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Nine persons were believed killed outright tonight as a tri-motored sightseeing plane faltered and crashed into Buttermilk hollow near the Allegheny county airport.

One woman, temporarily unidentified, escaped by leaping from the plane, but was bruised and suffered from shock.

LABOR FACTIONS IN OPEN WARFARE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—(AP)—The American Federation of Labor declared war on the committee for industrial organization today, for control of organized labor in the United States.

Open warfare broke out as the ten unions in the committee, headed by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, passed out of the federation—in itself a historic incident in American labor history. Whether they had been suspended or had withdrawn was debated.

"They're out of the federation—that's clear!" said William Green, A. F. of L. president, at a press conference.

Green issued the federation's declaration of war in a formal statement, saying that the A. F. of L. would "carry on aggressive organizing work in all fields and among those employed in all industries."

"I won't add to that," Green said. "It means just what it says—all fields and all industries."

He emphasized "all" each time he used the word.

His statement forshadowed a direct conflict between the federation and the ten "rebel" unions in contesting for membership among workers in many industries.

The ten unions affiliated with Lewis claim to represent 1,100,000 workers in the coal, steel, garment, textile, automobile, rubber, metal mine, flat glass and oil field and refinery industries. They intend to pro-

RUSSELL ELLZEY CONCEDES DEFEAT

JACKSON, Miss., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Russell Ellzey, who trailed Congressman Dan McGehee 344 votes in the recent Democratic primary nor congress in the seventh district, and who conducted a recount this week, said tonight that his recheck revealed no material change from the official tabulation.

He sent a message of congratulations to Congressman McGehee.

"The official returns of the recent congressional election in the seventh district of Mississippi showed a small margin of only 344 votes out of approximately 42,000 votes cast," Mr. Ellzey said.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—(AP)—In a labor day message to American workers today, President Roosevelt outlined as a national objective the achievements of "a national economy whose factors are so finely balanced that the worker is always sure of a job which will guarantee a living wage."

"By a living wage," the chief executive added, "I mean a wage which will insure the worker and the worker's dependents a living in accordance with American standards of decency, happiness and self respect."

The president's statement was made public here on the eve of his return to the White House for a radio address tomorrow night in which he will give not only his impressions of the drouth area, but will discuss re-employment.

A White House announcement that the chief executive would make a "special announcement" regarding private re-employment has stirred speculation over the nature of the president's speech. He will talk from

MUSSOLINI WEARS SELASSIE MANTLE

ROME, Sept. 5—(AP)—Premier Benito Mussolini today literally as well as practically wore the mantle of Haile Selassie, defeated emperor of Ethiopia.

The mantle, decorated with a lion's mane, was draped over the shoulders of Il Duce by Ras Gugsa, who deserted Haile Selassie, went over to the Italian side during the war, and now is governor of Tigrai province.

In the Palazzo Venezia the pop-eyed Gugsa handed over the mantle which had been given him by Haile Selassie in the years when he was still loyal to the negus. He also gave Il Duce a shield and other colorfully decorated ornaments.

Gugsa said:

"Under Italy's banner Ethiopian populations will enjoy peace and prosperity."

Il Duce thanked him.

Central Trades Council Pleased With Results Of Advertising

Gratification over the pre-Labor Day sales of local merchants who advertised in special editions of the Morning World and News-Star which were sponsored by the Monroe Central Trades and Labor council, was expressed last night by J. L. Conditt, president of the council, following interviews made by himself and other officials of the council with the merchants.

The editions sponsored by the council were published Friday afternoon and Saturday morning. The council members' interviews with the merchants were made late yesterday.

"We were gratified with the unanimous report of the merchants that their pre-Labor Day trade volume was larger than that of any other trade day this year," Mr. Conditt said.

"We were especially pleased to learn in such positive terms that the advertising we sold the merchants brought noteworthy results," Mr. Conditt continued. "Giving the merchants something in return for their money is far more appealing to us than asking them to assist us in financing our Labor Day program without giving them an adequate return.

"The results of the advertising in our special editions were so satisfactory that the council definitely decided to make the publishing of annual Labor Day editions a permanent project.

"Again, the council extends its sincere thanks to the merchants and to all others who have assisted in arranging and making possible our program for Labor Day.

"We extend to the public a hearty and cordial invitation to attend the various events scheduled by the council for Labor Day."

DAVIS SISTERS FACE COMPLICITY CHARGE

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Estelle Davis and her sister, Dorothy Davis Gray, won their freedom from jail today through habeas corpus action only to be rearrested immediately on charges of aiding three Arkansas convicts to escape.

They were held without formal charge for state rangers before Arkansas Prison Superintendent Tom Cogbill took them to Star City today for a hearing.

The women now are accused of helping Charles Chapman, O. Hugh Lindsey and Buddy Saddler escape from Cummings prison farm August 25. Texas and Louisiana authorities captured the fugitives after they held up an Atlanta, Texas, bank Monday.

The women denied complicity in the Cummings break.

Deputy United States Marshal Joe Latch said at Texarkana, where the two were arrested, that Estelle Davis was accused in 1935 of harboring the late Raymond Hamilton, southwest bandit.

RA INVESTIGATOR FOUND DEAD; MAN IN CAR CAPTURED

Body Of Wesley D. Amott, Missing Since Tuesday, Located

SUSPECT SAYS HE STOLE CAR BUT DID NOT SLAY

Highway Officers Say Pistol In His Possession Fired Recently

FAY'S STATION, Ala., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Chief Walter K. McAdory of the Alabama highway patrol, announced today the body of Wesley D. Amott, resettlement administration investigator mysteriously missing since Tuesday, was found today in a cotton field near here.

A man giving the name of Frank Greene, 29, was arrested late Wednesday driving Amott's car near Demopolis, Ala.

Amott, former Mormon missionary, whose family lives in Salt Lake City, vanished Tuesday at noon when his superior in the resettlement office at Birmingham sent him to Montgomery, 100 miles south, to investigate a government case.

A filling station attendant at Homewood, Ala., just south of Birmingham on the Montgomery highway, said he sold Amott gasoline at 1 p.m. Tuesday, and at that time he was alone in his new automobile.

Greene, according to authorities, has steadfastly insisted he stole the Amott automobile in Birmingham, and that he knew nothing of the missing man.

The body was discovered by a negro ten feet from a lonely road near here. It lay face down.

McAdory said a laundry mark in the trousers gave the name "Amott."

WOMAN FLIER'S HUSBAND HAPPY

Spends Most Of Night Pacing Floor As Wife Crosses Ocean

LONDON, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Mansfield Markham was out for an automobile drive with his 7-year-old son today when friends tried to reach him with the news that his wife, Mrs. Beryl Markham, had been reported sighted flying over Newfoundland on her projected non-stop solo flight from England to New York.

Markham had been up most of the night pacing the floor of his home while his wife was winging her way over the gusty, squall-tossed Atlantic.

A member of the household said: "He went out in the car with his son to kill time. He'll be tremendously relieved. The son is very excited and I think he is just beginning to understand what is happening."

WOMAN SWIMS TWO MILES TO SAVE SON

QUINCY, Mass., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Mrs. Chester V. Anderson, 24, went about her household tasks today as usual, a mile swim fully clothed to rescue her five-year-old son and his chum only a memory.

Suddenly missing the chatter of her son, Chester, and Gerard Reed, 8, Mrs. Anderson stepped to the porch of her home yesterday afternoon and saw the two drifting in the middle of Fore river in an oarless rowboat. The current was carrying the boat to sea.

She plunged into the water fully clothed and swam through the choppy water to the boat a mile away. Then grabbing the stern with one hand, she pushed the boat back to shore by swimming with one arm and kicking her feet.

"When I saw Junior and Gerard out there I did not think of anything," Mrs. Anderson said. "I ran to the end of the pier and jumped off, although I had all my clothes on.

"I am a fair swimmer, but it took me more than a half an hour to get the boat in."

The boys had been playing in the rowboat at the shore. They lifted the anchor and soon found themselves drifting in the middle of the river.

Mrs. Anderson, a former beauty contest winner, is the wife of a machinest at the naval air base at Squantum.

SPEED PILOT AND WIFE BADLY HURT

Condition Of Benny Howard Critical; Two In New Mexico Hospital

CROWN POINT, N. M., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Asking over and over, "How is my plane?" Speed Pilot Benny Howard, 32, tossed in delirium today in a hospital to which he and his pretty blonde wife, Maxine, 22, were brought after lying four hours in their wrecked ship.

The plane, "Mister Mulligan," which Howard constructed, became a twisted mass in a forced landing as the two were leading in the Bendix air dash from New York to Los Angeles yesterday. Because superstitious Indians refused to go near, it was five hours before the injured couple reached the hospital from the crash scene 40 miles away.

A rag stuffed in a hole apparently ruptured in the gas tank behind the pilot's seat told silently of efforts to avert fire during the agonizing hours the two were imprisoned before help was summoned by an Indian trader, his wife and another white couple.

Dr. Max E. Feldman listed Howard's injuries as both legs broken, one "practically amputated," left arm broken, brain concussion, possible skull fracture and internal injuries.

His blue-eyed wife suffered broken legs and shock.

Billy Juan, a Navajo brave, described Howard's attempt to land his crippled ship in the rough country that surrounds the Lake Valley Indian day school, 40 miles north of here.

Gesticulating and grunting, Juan said through an interpreter the plane "came from the east about noon with lots of smoke."

He said it flew past, circled over the school, then swooped down and crashed. He told how the plane skimmed some brush and smashed its undercarriage as it struck the ground and turned over.

Neither Juan nor Natch Begay, an assistant at the school, nor a dozen other Navajos who were in the vicinity and ran to the scene would dare

Council Completes Plans For Labor Day Celebration

Parade, Speaking Program, Barbecue, Ball Game, Dance Listed

Final plans were completed late yesterday by the Monroe Central Trades and Labor council for a major celebration of Labor Day in Monroe and West Monroe today.

The schedule of activities arranged by the council will begin with a parade through downtown Monroe and West Monroe this morning. Drivers of the various units of the parade, which will form on Riverside Drive north of the new Bridge over the Ouachita river, are requested to go to Riverside by traveling out North Third street to Forsythe avenue, then traveling east on Forsythe to Riverside. By entering Riverside from the north, the drivers may be readily directed to their respective places in the parade line.

Signs marking the places where each unit is to be located in the parade will be placed along Riverside Drive before the units begin arriving there, F. G. McMullen, the parade marshal, an official of the railroad carmen's union, and other members of the parade committee will be located along Riverside to form the parade.

The parade will form in the following general order: Mr. McMullen and escort of motorcycle officers; Mayor C. C. Bell of West Monroe and Mayor Arnold Bernstein of Monroe, followed by other speakers of the Bernstein place program; members of the labor council; Prof. Vincent LaRocca's band; craft unions, each union entering a float to be preceded by its float; floats of business firms and civic institutions; vehicles not in preceding classification.

Mayor C. C. Bell of West Monroe will lead the parade into that city, and on the return to Monroe Mayor

Desperate Government Fighters Driven Across Into France

HENDAYE France Sept. 5.—(AP)—Fort Guadalupe, former Spanish government stronghold, and the town of Fuenterrabia fell tonight before Fascist rebels marching victoriously westward along Spain's northern coast from captured Irun.

Pressing toward San Sebastian, Spain's one-time summer capital, now held by government forces, the insurgents took the fort and the little coastal town with slight resistance.

Retreating government militiamen had set fire to Fuenterrabia, determined to leave their enemies only another ruined town. It was there that United States Ambassador Claude G. Bowers made his headquarters early in the revolt, before he quit Spain.

Fort Guadalupe had been evacuated when the government soldiers' position became untenable by the fall of Irun. Fuenterrabia apparently was defended only slightly.

Most of the defenders, finding themselves surrounded by the enemy, crossed the narrow Bidassoa river to France or took boats to San Sebastian.

The capture of the two coastal points tightened the insurgents' control of the possible sources of provisions in northern Spain. Conquest of the region, the rebels assert, would frustrate government efforts to bulwark the Madrid defenses by attacking the insurgents north of the capital from the rear.

With Fuenterrabia in flames, as Irun had been before, thousands stood on

Holiday In Kansas For Occasion Called By Governor

TOPEKA, Kas., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Monday was proclaimed a labor holiday with "no room in it for class divisions and prejudices," by Gov. Alf M. Landon today as he planned a presidential campaign conference with Herbert Hoover.

To "the people of Kansas" the Republican candidate issued a "formal call" to a Labor day of "good will and friendly association," saying:

"We should remain steadfast in the belief that the concern of labor is the concern of all; that labor should be free to organize for fair consideration; that this right to organize and promote such consideration must remain forever free from governmental or any other form of coercion."

Coincident with issuance of the proclamation, the nominee told a press conference that "I hope to see" former President Hoover "on his way home" from an eastern trip. Before leaving San Francisco last night, Hoover told of a telephone conference with Landon and his intention to speak in the Kansan's behalf.

LABOR SECRETARY WILL GO TO TEXAS

WASHINGTON, Sept 5.—(AP)—Secretary of Labor Perkins announced tonight she had accepted an invitation of Gov. James V. Allred of Texas to hold a regional conference on state labor problems and methods of labor law enforcement in Houston September 28-29.

Governors of Arizona, Arkansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, New Mexico and Oklahoma, their official delegates, representatives of labor organizations, and other interested groups have been invited to attend and discuss problems of hours, child labor, wage collection and safety and health industry.

Other regional conferences have been conducted by Secretary Perkins in Nashville, San Francisco, Ashville and Columbia.

ROOSEVELT ENDS DROUTH JOURNEY

Will Return To Washington And Make Speech On Impressions

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 5—(AP)—In conferences with governors of four states, President Roosevelt completed here today his far-flung personal survey of the degree to which a blazing sun has burned away crops in the midwestern dust bowl.

He turned tonight toward Washington, leaving here in the Indiana capital a promise repeated many times during his swing through the blistered farm area—to continue federal cooperation with state and local governments "to the end that the country will be a happier, better and safer place to live in for ourselves and our children."

At the Indianapolis Athletic club he held the last of his drouth parleys with Governors A. B. Chandler of Kentucky, Martin L. Davey of Ohio, Frank D. Fitzgerald of Michigan and Paul V. McNutt of Indiana.

Mr. Roosevelt will wind up his trip tomorrow in Washington, where in the evening he arranged to tell the nation in a radio address his reactions to what he had seen through thousands of acres of scorched farming country.

To a throng at the state fair grounds the president remarked that he was "grateful" for the chance to see the nation's "problems at first-hand." He said he would carry back to Washington "a broader knowledge" of the west's problems and a "stronger purpose" to continue coordination of fed-

MOTORCYCLE RIDERS INJURED IN MISHAP

J. W. Martin and his wife, residents of Monroe, were slightly injured yesterday when a motorcycle they were riding skidded and turned off the highway ten miles south of Little Rock, Ark., according to an Associated Press dispatch.

The couple were en route to St. Louis.

Mr. Martin received a shoulder injury and his wife suffered minor bruises.

Mr. Martin has for some years been a motorcycle riding enthusiast. He has operated a motorcycle sales agency and repair shop here. When air mail service was inaugurated for Monroe, he was the first person to have the job of transporting mail from the postoffice to Selman field. He used a motorcycle with a carrier for the work.

BANDITS ROB CLEANER

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Two young bandits, using a stolen automobile, robbed R. L. O'Daniel, 39, cashier for Kraus cleaners, 726 Madison avenue, of approximately $5,000 at 9:30 a.m. today after firing tear gas into his face. The bandits stole the car an hour before from a downtown street where it was parked by its owner, C. E. Bussey.

THREE VICTIMS, YOUNG WOMAN ARE IDENTIFIED

Difficulty Experienced In Reaching Craft Over Rough Ground

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Eight persons died in flames tonight as a tri-motored sightseeing airplane crashed and burned in Buttermilk hollow near the county airport.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 5.—(AP)—The sole girl survivor of the fatal plane crash near Allegheny county airport and three victims were identified tonight.

The girl was Lydia McDonald, of Miami, Fla.

The three identified dead were: William Lecay, 43, a janitor, and his sister and brother-in-law.

They were listed among the passengers by a friend, Edward Holm, who said he tried but failed, to get a seat in the same ship on the ill-fated passenger ride over the county fair.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Nine persons were believed killed outright tonight as a tri-motored sightseeing plane faltered and crashed into Buttermilk hollow near the Allegheny county airport.

One woman, temporarily unidentified, escaped by leaping from the plane, but was bruised and suffered from shock.

LABOR FACTIONS IN OPEN WARFARE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—(AP)—The American Federation of Labor declared war on the committee for industrial organization today, for control of organized labor in the United States.

Open warfare broke out as the ten unions in the committee, headed by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, passed out of the federation—in itself a historic incident in American labor history. Whether they had been suspended or had withdrawn was debated.

"They're out of the federation—that's clear!" said William Green, A. F. of L. president, at a press conference.

Green issued the federation's declaration of war in a formal statement, saying that the A. F. of L. would "carry on aggressive organizing work in all fields and among those employed in all industries."

"I won't add to that," Green said. "It means just what it says—all fields and all industries."

He emphasized "all" each time he used the word.

His statement forshadowed a direct conflict between the federation and the ten "rebel" unions in contesting for membership among workers in many industries.

The ten unions affiliated with Lewis claim to represent 1,100,000 workers in the coal, steel, garment, textile, automobile, rubber, metal mine, flat glass and oil field and refinery industries. They intend to pro-

RUSSELL ELLZEY CONCEDES DEFEAT

JACKSON, Miss., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Russell Ellzey, who trailed Congressman Dan McGehee 344 votes in the recent Democratic primary for congress in the seventh district, and who conducted a recount this week, said tonight that his recheck revealed no material change from the official tabulation.

He sent a message of congratulations to Congressman McGehee.

"The official returns of the recent congressional election in the seventh district of Mississippi showed a small margin of only 344 votes out of approximately 42,000 votes cast," Mr. Ellzey said.

INTERNATIONAL BRIDGE IS CLOSED BY CAPTORS

(Copyright, 1936, by Associated Press)

IRUN, Spain, Sept. 5—Fascist rebels, masters of this battle-scarred city, closed the international bridge into Hendaye tonight to cut off fleeing Socialist government troops and consolidated forces for attack on nearby forts.

The Fascists drove off desperate government fighters who sought to retain the Spanish end of the bridge into France after fleeing the rebel fire that marked the fall of Irun.

Chickens squawked and ran hastily with flapping wings as four armored cars, camouflaged with tree branches rumbled through the ruined city and bore down on the fleeing Irun defenders who sought refuge in a few isolated trenches and fields.

The city itself was a mass of wreckage, the streets littered with bodies and blasted paving-block barricades.

Several convents were destroyed by fire. The largest hotel was burned. Interiors of houses were destroyed by flames, their walls scarred with bullets and shrapnel. Windows were shattered.

Swinging into the city, besieged bitterly since the revolt began more than six weeks ago and now empty of its women and children who fled before their menfolk abandoned the defense, the Fascist rebels shouted victory songs and stopped to gulp tinned food left in wrecked cafes.

Rebel artillery shelled the forts of Fuenterrabia and Guadalupe, where small forces of government militia still held forth.

Rebel Captain Sastan said Frenchmen and Belgians were believed among the defenders. Infantry attack against the forts was delayed until reinforcements could reach Irun and aid the advance. Additional rebel troops arrived from the Pamplona base and others were expected. The fate of Fascist hostages held by government defenders of Irun was unknown. There were reports 100 of the war prisoners were executed, but hundreds of others still were believed held in the government forts.

A heavy barrage of artillery protected the rebel attack on the bridge.

Three of the Socialist force which held the approach to the bridge on the Spanish side throughout the night, were left dead. Five were wounded. Thirty-five more fled to safety on French soil.

Ten government anarchists died in the retreat.

Several rebel shells fell near the French customs house at Hendaye. Others demolished houses on the Spanish side of the Bidassoa river.

The Barcelona munitions supply to government fighters had come by railroad from the Hendaye station. An international convention between France and Spain, by which the Spanish use the railroad from Barcelona through Hendaye, permitted delivery of the munitions. Spain does not operate a line of its own along the northern Spanish frontier.

(Eight hundred government soldiers, routed from Irun, fled to France, surrendered their arms, then were permitted to cross back by special train en route to resume battle.

(Three women, wearing men's clothes, were included in the group. Andre Jambon, an officer in the French artillery reserve, accompanied the Spaniards. He said he joined them on the Irun front, then fled to France because of a shortage of munitions. He declared he would continue to fight with the government forces.

(French officials in Paris said the government did not consider transport of Spanish belligerents on its soil a violation of neutrality. "We cannot prevent Spaniards from returning to Spain," an official spokesman said.)

Good Corn Crop Slated As Result Of Irrigation Plan

By Paul Martin

Drouth-stricken farmers whose corn crops have been depleted by the ravages of heat and no rain can look with envy at the bumper corn crop at Grecian Bend plantation north of here on Bayou Bartholomew where a practical experiment in irrigation a year ago has been brought into use so that the planter is looking forward to harvesting one of the most abundant crops, considering the acreage, of any farmer in Ouachita parish this fall.

A little more than a year ago, when the destruction caused to crops by drouth was apparently widening as the seasons passed, Allen B. Guthrie, local attorney, whose father, Grayson Guthrie, owns the 450-acre Grecian Bend plantation 16 miles north of here with Bayou Bartholomew separating it from Morehouse parish, conceived the idea of harnessing the waters of the bayou so that in times of rainless months, when crops were being burned under the scorching sun, he could irrigate his fields and quench the thirst of the crops.

Last year's experiment with the irrigation idea on an 18-acre plot of corn was so successful that the irrigation facilities were extended the past spring to cover 33 acres of corn and six acres of cotton, and now, with the harvesting season nearing after another damaging period of dry, rainless days, the Guthrie corn crop gives promise of an abundant yield. While the stalks are not heavily burdened with corn, the ears are large and completely filled in contrast to the stunted, sparsely filled ears that reportedly will make up the bulk of the corn harvest from most other farms over the area.

Of course, when rainfall is adequate, other farms, not under irrigation, can produce corn or other crops as fine as any on the Grecian Bend plantation, but it is during the dry years when other farmers' crops are withering and Mr. Guthrie turns Bayou Bartholomew's waters over his fields that the Guthrie crops will excel.

A mile-long ditch, winding over the 450-acre bend, carries the needed water through the corn fields and a small acreage of cotton that is being included in the experiment this year. A six-inch pipe guides the water from the bayou to the irrigation ditch, which is from three to four feet deep and five or six feet wide.

A six-inch centrifugal pump, operated by an ordinary farm tractor, sends approximately 800 gallons of water a minute through the long pipe that leads up and over the bayou banks to the highest land on the plantation and the irrigation ditch.

The simple construction of the ditch shows much consideration and care. It stretches along the highest parts of the acreage with levees about a foot and a half or two feet high along each side. When the ditch is filled to overflowing, a part of the levee is removed and the water rushes out through the opening and down into the furrows, flooding the section of the field it is intended for. As the main irrigation channel is in the highest part of the plantation, the water naturally flows to the lower spots, reaching any part of the crops.

When a section is watered thoroughly, the gap in the levee is closed and another made at another point to flood other portions.

The irrigation takes up very little time once the means of getting water to the fields has been prepared, and the pump does not have to be run more than 10 or 12 days a season, depending on the duration of dry spells. At the present the irrigation ditch is dry, for the Guthrie crops will need no more watering this year.

The shortage of corn in the nation's grain markets is causing a rise in the price to such an extent that Mr. Guthrie, whose irrigated crops have been unaffected by the arid summer months, hopes to more than double the profits that would otherwise have been made. Of course, the entire Guthrie plantation has not been put under irrigation and the returns from the unwatered acres will be no more than those of neighboring farms.

While the average corn yield an acre in Ouachita parish this year has been cut considerably by drouth conditions and approximately 15 bushels to the acre is as much as the average farmer can expect, depending on the time of its planting, Mr. Guthrie can count on at least 45 bushels an acre from his irrigated land.

Mr. Guthrie is inclined to be conservative in his views of his probable harvest, and while he may get more than 45 bushels an acre, he hesitates to say so.

While corn was first experimented with by Mr. Guthrie and is the major crop in irrigation now, cotton, too, has been included this year with a six-acre plot getting the bayou's water. Indications are that the planter will be amply repaid for the trouble of extending the irrigating facilities to the cotton. The cotton, supplied with water, has already been picked over once, yielding half a bale to the acre, and the plants are still laden with large boles of unopened cotton that are bending the stalks to the ground. Mr. Guthrie hopes to get more than half a bale at the next picking.

The Guthrie corn, however, is nothing unusual. Farmers all over the country are raising as fine or better corn when weather conditions are favorable. It is during drouth periods that the crops in the bend become unique, for irrigation has truly made the crops exceptional.

Irrigation has been tried in Ouachita parish before and is still being employed on farms other than Grecian Bend. D. Y. Smith at Sterlington; Bob Harmon, W. W. McDonald and N. W. McHenry, living a short distance south of here on the Columbia road; and Sam Pipes and W. A. Calloway of Bosco are others who are getting their water supply from the Ouachita river.

Vegetable gardens on the Harmon and McDonald farms were irrigated this year, keeping the planters with a supply of vegetables throughout the summer, while Mr. McHenry is experimenting with sugar cane and corn. The McHenry cane is expected to rival the famous south Louisiana productions in quality. As Bosco, S. A. Pipes is watching the effect of watering on an acre of corn and an acre of cotton, while Mr. Calloway has several acres of corn under irrigation.

They, too, will reap the profits in store for producers of good grain and produce during shortages such as are now being experienced.

mote the organization of all the workers in each of these industries—and others, too, eventually—into one large union in each industry.

The committee now is concentrating on the steel industry, where an organization campaign was started several months ago.

The ten unions formed the committee to start these campaigns when the federation's executive council insisted that highly skilled workers should, in most instances, be enrolled in craft unions, regardless of where they worked.

Calling this move "insurrection" the council ordered the ten unions to stand trial. They refused. The trial was held, and the ten unions were found guilty.

Members of the council told reporters they had ordered the Lewis unions to withdraw from the committee for industrial organization by September 5 or be suspended.

Green said today, however, that the Lewis unions—who disregarded the order—had not been suspended, but had withdrawn.

"These organizations which make up the C. I. O. have made their decision," Green's statement said.

"Their representatives have chosen to continue their membership in the C. I. O. and to withdraw their affiliated relationship with the A. F. of L.

"They have exercised their freedom of choice. The A. F. of L. accepts it as a determination on the part of the organizations involved to leave the A. F. of L. and to maintain the C. I. O.

"This organization was classified by the executive council as a dual organization functioning as a rival to the A. F. of L."

Lewis told reporters today that he agreed with David Dubinsky, president of the Ladies Garment Workers and an associate on the committee for industrial organization, that the committee unions had not withdrawn.

ROOSEVELT GIVES LABOR DAY TALK

9:45 to 10:15 p.m., eastern standard time.

In his labor day statement, Mr. Roosevelt said employment and weekly pay envelopes had increased during the past three years and had been "stimulated by the spending of the federal government in useful ways."

Contending progress had been made in "respect to those vital problems which affect so profoundly the lives and destinies of the nation's workers, he added:

"We must continue to move forward."

FORCED TO LAND WHEN SUPPLY OF GASOLINE GONE

were many minutes of worry on the flight. "I had visions of falling into the Atlantic," she said, wryly.

Mrs. Markham, who lifted her small monoplane, "The Messenger," from the Abingdon airport in England at 12:50 p.m., eastern standard time, Friday, had been in the air 23 hours and 45 minutes when she was forced down, by lack of fuel, at 1:05 p.m. eastern standard time today. Foul weather chalenged her plane most of the way, eating up her gasoline supply more rapidly than she had anticipated.

"I knew my fuel was almost gone, so I landed at the first clear spot I sighted," she said after she had been brought to Louisburg.

"I flew over Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, after I had been in the air about 20 hours. The heavy fog there made a landing impossible. I then headed for Sydney; and here I am, safe and sound."

As soon as she could reach a telephone she asked that a motorcar be sent to pick her up. She was brought to Louisburg, where she was the dinner guest tonight of Captain George Lewis. She said she probably would remain there over night.

Ray Goodwin, Cape Breton flying club pilot, looked over the monoplane and said that it was not damaged beyond repair.

The field in which Mrs. Markham came down was about 20 miles from this Cape Breton town which once was known as "the Dunkirk of America," the proudest fortress and the only walled city in North America. It was named in honor of Louis IV of France.

Mrs. Markam, blonde, athletic mother of a 7-year-old son, was the second flier of either sex to succeed in making the dangerous east-west crossing alone.

The spot where the plane came down was within 10 miles of where Col. Charles Lindbergh left the Cape Breton coast on his epoch solo flight in the opposite direction.

After landing "right side up" Mrs. Markham walked three miles to the nearest farmhouse, that of Alex Burke, where she sought aid. She was later driven into Louisburg by Captain Lewis.

Goodwin, the Cape Breton airman who surveyed the wreck, expressed belief it would be extremely difficult to carry out the machine through the bog and underbrush.

Mrs. Markham, after having her head wounds dressed by Dr. Freeman O'Neill of Louisburg, talked with her husband and Jim Mollison, famous British aviator, in London. On her arm, still ticking merrily, was the wrist-watch Mollison gave her just before she hopped.

FULL STATE FARM MAP BEING MADE

Survey In Several Parishes Will Be Completed In Short Time

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 5.—(AP)—A complete map is being made of all Louisiana farm land to afford accurate acreage measurement.

J. W. Bateman, state extension director, disclosed today that a survey of several parishes would soon be finished and that half the state would be surveyed this year.

He is directing the work for the federal agricultural conservation program, with C. J. Hutchinson, extension agricultural engineer, supervising the mapping operations.

"Under former control programs the crop acreages were arrived at by estimates and crude methods of measuring the land," Mr. Bateman said.

"Three years of that procedure convinced the extension service that it was possible to secure accurate drawings representing definite acreage on farms, either by plane table drawings or aerial photographs."

Farm maps are being copied from enlarged aerial photographs and accurate measurements obtained in this manner, he asserted.

Mr. Bateman said that when the survey was finished every farmer in Louisiana would not only know the actual acreage of each plot of his farm, but would be furnished a copy of the map of the farm for future crop planning.

There has heretofore been no official data regarding the total farm acreage in Louisiana.

160 ATTEND RADIO RELAY LEAGUE MEET

Approximately 160 persons attended the opening meeting at the convention of the Delta division of the American Radio Relay league in the Virginia hotel Saturday afternoon, with members of the Monroe Amateur Radio club as hosts. The two-day meeting will adjourn tonight after a barbecue at Mayor Arnold's Bernstein's place on Bayou DeSiard.

A feature of Saturday's program Cameo room of the Virginia, with L. C. Parker, captain, ORC, in charge. H. W. Royer, engineer of the field technical section, radio division of the General Motors corporation, addressed the meeting, and recorded lectures with pictures were given.

Officers of the local club are J. G. Elliott, president; C. McCoy, vice president; Mrs. Jewel Caraway, secretary; and U. W. Pickens, treasurer. The steering committee is composed of J. G. Elliott, P. P. Lynch, Dr. F. P. Cerniglia, and U. P. Pickens, Jr.

A luncheon will be held today at noon in the Cameo room of the Virginia, with Pat Lynch as toastmaster.

STORE MANAGER

NEW WOMEN'S STORE OPENED

Its doors opened to the public Friday morning, the new establishment of the Dixie Shops here at 325 DeSiard street, served an unusually large opening trade during the past two days. A constant stream of customers and friends of employes of the store filed into the establishment to inspect the store and merchandise and make purchases.

Among the attractive and unique merchandise which sold fastest at the store were Coolie coats and Japanese-effect pajamas. These articles were especially favored by girls who are going away to school in the near future.

Many other articles of distinctive design and high quality materials also were popular with the purchasers. The entire stock won the approval of the most discriminating purchasers.

Located in the building formerly occupied by the Sol Cahn women's apparel shop, the Dixie Shops' new store was remodeled into modernistic design, at a cost of $10,000, before the fixtures and merchandise were moved in. The exclusive store front of the Dixie Shops is one of the most interesting features of the store.

All of the remodeling work was done by union labor, and all fixtures and equipment which could be purchased from local firms was obtained here.

Every employe of the store is a native of Monroe or West Monroe. Mrs. Lillian Anzalone Harris was selected for the position of manager. That she will be an important factor in the success of the new store was demonstrated during the past two days.

Merchandise carried by the new shop includes coats, suits, blouses, skirts, robes, bags, lingerie and sweaters.

Jack Miller, supervisor of the Dixie Shops, with headquarters at New York City, was here for the opening of the store and will return to New York within a few days. Mr. Miller said he was pleased with the economic outlook for northeast Louisiana, and was gratified by the friendly spirit of people of this area. He attributed a large measure of the heavy volume of trade at the store during the past two days to the fact that the establishment published a full page advertisement of the store opening in the News-Star on Thursday afternoon and the Morning World on Friday.

today and finding the body still lying there, the negro notified authorities.

Greene was outraced and arrested by state patrolmen after he was reported to have driven away from a Demopolis filling station without paying for gasoline.

The state police said a quick check of license plate revealed the car he was driving belonged to Amott.

"We believe," said Detective Chief Giles at Birmingham, "that the most important questions concerning the mystery of Amott's disappearance will be answered when we find out exactly what Greene did Tuesday afternoon up to 5 p.m., the hour he said he left Amott's automobile on a downtown Birmingham parking lot."

The investigators said they were checking why Greene, after putting the car in a lot, went to his Birmingham hotel, had his evening meal brought to him and did not leave his room.

Wednesday morning, they stated, Greene "headed west," but decided to return to Alabama after a brief jaunt into Mississippi.

Upon his arrest after the chase near Demopolis, highway patrolmen reported the man was without funds, and a pistol in the car apparently had not been fired recently.

Birmingham associates of Amott described him as a man of fine charac- church. He formerly was a missionary ter and a devout member of his to England for the Latter Day Saints. He worked in the office of Senator King, D., Utah, sometime before coming to Birmingham with the resettlement administration in April.

LABOR DAY PLANS ARE COMPLETED

Arnold Bernstein of Monroe will lead the procession.

Traveling across the new bridge to West Monroe, the parade will turn southward on Trenton street and proceed to Wood street, where it will turn westward and proceed to Cypress street. After proceeding north on the latter street to Bridge street, the parade will head eastward and cross the bridge to return to Monroe.

In Monroe the parade will proceed southward on Riverside to Pine street, east on Pine street to Walnut street, south on Walnut street to North Grand and DeSiard streets, east on DeSiard to Bernstein place, where a speaking program and barbecue dinner will be held.

Upon entering the gate at the Bernstein place, each person attending the program and barbecue dinner there will be given a ticket for his or her dinner. The ticket will provide a check on the number of persons present, so that a plate dinner may be prepared for everyone.

The principal speakers of the program will be Holt Ross, district organizer of the American Federation of Labor, and E. H. Williams of Shreveport, state labor president. Other speakers will be Mayor Bernstein, Mayor Bell, R. D. Swayze and W. D. H. Rodriguez, Monroe city commissioners; W. H. Harper, Monroe city judge; Paul Fink, state representative and attorney of the labor council; J. L. Warren, president, and Barney Oakland, member of the Ouachita parish police jury.

Music will be rendered on the grounds by the LaRocca band.

Several fun provoking contests will be held, with prizes awarded the winners. The contests will be on for the largest family, a fat man's race, a beauty contest for women, a contest to decide the ugliest man, an egg race, free-for-all race and a contest to select the best baby.

In the afternoon, at 3:30 o'clock, a softball game, the fourth of a series between the Adller and Southern Bell teams, will be played at Casino park. The game was originally scheduled for Tuesday, but the date was changed to Monday to complete the program for Labor Day.

The Adler team recently won the City league championship, while the Southern Bell team won the Twilight league championship. The teams have played two games of the title series, the Southern Bell club winning the opening contest 10 to 5, and the second game ending in a 6 to 6 tie in eight innings, darkness preventing the playing of nine innings.

This afternoon at 4 o'clock the teams will play the third game of the series. If the Southern Bell team wins this game, the Labor Day game will be a crucial contest, as three victories will give either team the city championship.

A dance at the Missouri Pacific Booster club hall at 8 p. m. will bring the day's schedule to a close. The public is invited to be present.

LABOR DAY SCHEDULE

9 a.m.—Parade units to assemble on Riverside drive, north of new bridge.

9:30 a.m.—Parade to move across new bridge and proceed through downtown West Monroe.

9:50 a.m.—Parade to return to Monroe and travel out DeSiard street to barbecue and speaking grounds at Bernstein place on Bayou DeSiard.

10:30 a.m.—Public speaking program, fun provoking contests, awarding of prizes to contest winners.

Noon—Barbecue dinner free to public.

3:30 p.m.—Fourth game of a series between the Adler and Southern Bell teams for the softball championship of the city. Game to be played at Casino park.

8 p.m.—Dance at Missouri Pacific Booster club hall.

from an altitude of about 1,000 feet shortly after it had taken off for a flight over nearby South Park, where the county fair was in progress.

A few seconds after the ship struck it caught fire.

As it had fallen into a thickly wooded ravine fire apparatus hurriedly sent from the airport and from the fairgrounds could not reach it.

Airport officials said no record of the passengers was kept and it was likely identification of some of the dead would be a difficult task.

The young woman who leaped from the ship told a farm couple who rushed to the scene that she was a visitor here from Miami and that her escort had died in the wreck.

She quoted the young woman as saying she tried to get the other passengers to jump as the plane fell in the ravine, but that they apparently were paralyzed by fear and clung to their safety belts.

Airport attaches said this indicated most or all of the passengers may have survived the crash itself only to die in the flames that followed.

The only way would-be rescuers could reach the scene itself was by walking a slender pipe line and scrambling the rest of the way through the thicket.

Ambulances and police could not get within many yards of the crash.

Roads were blocked by the rush of traffic from the fair and from parks and night clubs in the vicinity.

INTERNATIONAL BRIDGE IS CLOSED BY CAPTORS

(Copyright, 1936, by Associated Press)

IRUN, Spain, Sept. 5—Fascist rebels, masters of this battle-scarred city, closed the international bridge into Hendaye tonight to cut off fleeing Socialist government troops and consolidated forces for attack on nearby forts.

The Fascists drove off desperate government fighters who sought to retain the Spanish end of the bridge into France after fleeing the rebel fire that marked the fall of Irun.

Chickens squawked and ran hastily with flapping wings as four armored cars, camouflaged with tree branches rumbled through the ruined city and bore down on the fleeing Irun defenders who sought refuge in a few isolated trenches and fields.

The city itself was a mass of wreckage, the streets littered with bodies and blasted paving-block barricades.

Several convents were destroyed by fire. The largest hotel was burned. Interiors of houses were destroyed by flames, their walls scarred with bullets and shrapnel. Windows were shattered.

Swinging into the city, besieged bitterly since the revolt began more than six weeks ago and now empty of its women and children who fled before their menfolk abandoned the defense, the Fascist rebels shouted victory songs and stopped to gulp tinned food left in wrecked cafes.

Rebel artillery shelled the forts of Fuenterrabia and Guadalupe, where small forces of government militia still held forth.

Rebel Captain Sastan said Frenchmen and Belgians were believed among the defenders. Infantry attack against the forts was delayed until reinforcements could reach Irun and aid the advance. Additional rebel troops arrived from the Pamplona base and others were expected. The fate of Fascist hostages held by government defenders of Irun was unknown. There were reports 100 of the war prisoners were executed, but hundreds of others still were believed held in the government forts.

A heavy barrage of artillery protected the rebel attack on the bridge.

Three of the Socialist force which held the approach to the bridge on the Spanish side throughout the night, were left dead. Five were wounded. Thirty-five more fled to safety on French soil.

Ten government anarchists died in the retreat.

Several rebel shells fell near the French customs house at Hendaye. Others demolished houses on the Spanish side of the Bidassoa river.

The Barcelona munitions supply to government fighters had come by railroad from the Hendaye station. An international convention between France and Spain, by which the Spanish use the railroad from Barcelona through Hendaye, permitted delivery of the munitions. Spain does not operate a line of its own along the northern Spanish frontier.

(Eight hundred government soldiers, routed from Irun, fled to France, surrendered their arms, then were permitted to cross back by special train en route to resume battle.

(Three women, wearing men's clothes, were included in the group. Andre Jambon, an officer in the French artillery reserve, accompanied the Spaniards. He said he joined them on the Irun front, then fled to France because of a shortage of munitions. He declared he would continue to fight with the government forces.

(French officials in Paris said the government did not consider transport of Spanish belligerents on its soil a violation of neutrality. "We cannot prevent Spaniards from returning to Spain," an official spokesman said.)

Good Corn Crop Slated As Result Of Irrigation Plan

By Paul Martin

Drouth-stricken farmers whose corn crops have been depleted by the ravages of heat and no rain can look with envy at the bumper corn crop at Grecian Bend plantation north of here on Bayou Bartholomew where a practical experiment in irrigation a year ago has been brought into use so that the planter is looking forward to harvesting one of the most abundant crops, considering the acreage, of any farmer in Ouachita parish this fall.

A little more than a year ago, when the destruction caused to crops by drouth was apparently widening as the seasons passed, Allen B. Guthrie, local attorney, whose father, Grayson Guthrie, owns the 450-acre Grecian Bend plantation 16 miles north of here with Bayou Bartholomew separating it from Morehouse parish, conceived the idea of harnessing the waters of the bayou so that in times of rainless months, when crops were being burned under the scorching sun, he could irrigate his fields and quench the thirst of the crops.

Last year's experiment with the irrigation idea on an 18-acre plot of corn was so successful that the irrigation facilities were extended the past spring to cover 33 acres of corn and six acres of cotton, and now, with the harvesting season nearing after another damaging period of dry, rainless days, the Guthrie corn crop gives promise of an abundant yield. While the stalks are not heavily burdened with corn, the ears are large and completely filled in contrast to the stunted, sparsely filled ears that reportedly will make up the bulk of the corn harvest from most other farms over the area.

Of course, when rainfall is adequate, other farms, not under irrigation, can produce corn or other crops as fine as any on the Grecian Bend plantation, but it is during the dry years when other farmers' crops are withering and Mr. Guthrie turns Bayou Bartholomew's waters over his fields that the Guthrie crops will excel.

A mile-long ditch, winding over the 450-acre bend, carries the needed water through the corn fields and a small acreage of cotton that is being included in the experiment this year. A six-inch pipe guides the water from the bayou to the irrigation ditch, which is from three to four feet deep and five or six feet wide.

A six-inch centrifugal pump, operated by an ordinary farm tractor, sends approximately 800 gallons of water a minute through the long pipe that leads up and over the bayou banks to the highest land on the plantation and the irrigation ditch.

The simple construction of the ditch shows much consideration and care. It stretches along the highest parts of the acreage with levees about a foot and a half or two feet high along each side. When the ditch is filled to overflowing, a part of the levee is removed and the water rushes out through the opening and down into the furrows, flooding the section of the field it is intended for. As the main irrigation channel is in the highest part of the plantation, the water naturally flows to the lower spots, reaching any part of the crops.

When a section is watered thoroughly, the gap in the levee is closed and another made at another point to flood other portions.

The irrigation takes up very little time once the means of getting water to the fields has been prepared, and the pump does not have to be run more than 10 or 12 days a season, depending on the duration of dry spells. At the present the irrigation ditch is dry, for the Guthrie crops will need no more watering this year.

The shortage of corn in the nation's grain markets is causing a rise in the price to such an extent that Mr. Guthrie, whose irrigated crops have been unaffected by the arid summer months, hopes to more than double the profits that would otherwise have been made. Of course, the entire Guthrie plantation has not been put under irrigation and the returns from the unwatered acres will be no more than those of neighboring farms.

While the average corn yield an acre in Ouachita parish this year has been cut considerably by drouth conditions and approximately 15 bushels to the acre is as much as the average farmer can expect, depending on the time of its planting, Mr. Guthrie can count on at least 45 bushels an acre from his irrigated land.

Mr. Guthrie is inclined to be conservative in his views of his probable harvest, and while he may get more than 45 bushels an acre, he hesitates to say so.

While corn was first experimented with by Mr. Guthrie and is the major crop in irrigation now, cotton, too, has been included this year with a six-acre plot getting the bayou's water. Indications are that the planter will be amply repaid for the trouble of extending the irrigating facilities to the cotton. The cotton, supplied with water, has already been picked over once, yielding half a bale to the acre, and the plants are still laden with large boles of unopened cotton that are bending the stalks to the ground. Mr. Guthrie hopes to get more than half a bale at the next picking.

The Guthrie corn, however, is nothing unusual. Farmers all over the country are raising as fine or better corn when weather conditions are favorable. It is during drouth periods that the crops in the bend become unique, for irrigation has truly made the crops exceptional.

Irrigation has been tried in Ouachita parish before and is still being employed on farms other than Grecian Bend. D. Y. Smith at Sterlington; Bob Harmon, W. W. McDonald and N. W. McHenry, living a short distance south of here on the Columbia road; and Sam Pipes and W. A. Calloway of Bosco are others who are getting their water supply from the Ouachita river.

Vegetable gardens on the Harmon and McDonald farms were irrigated this year, keeping the planters with a supply of vegetables throughout the summer, while Mr. McHenry is experimenting with sugar cane and corn. The McHenry cane is expected to rival the famous south Louisiana productions in quality. As Bosco, S. A. Pipes is watching the effect of watering on an acre of corn and an acre of cotton, while Mr. Calloway has several acres of corn under irrigation.

They, too, will reap the profits in store for producers of good grain and produce during shortages such as are now being experienced.

LABOR FACTIONS IN OPEN WARFARE

mote the organization of all the workers in each of these industries—and others, too, eventually—into one large union in each industry.

The committee now is concentrating on the steel industry, where an organization campaign was started several months ago.

The ten unions formed the committee to start these campaigns when the federation's executive council insisted that highly skilled workers should, in most instances, be enrolled in craft unions, regardless of where they worked.

Calling this move "insurrection" the council ordered the ten unions to stand trial. They refused. The trial was held, and the ten unions were found guilty.

Members of the council told reporters they had ordered the Lewis unions to withdraw from the committee for industrial organization by September 5 or be suspended.

Green said today, however, that the Lewis unions—who disregarded the order—had not been suspended, but had withdrawn.

"These organizations which make up the C. I. O. have made their decision," Green's statement said.

"Their representatives have chosen to continue their membership in the C. I. O. and to withdraw their affiliated relationship with the A. F. of L.

"They have exercised their freedom of choice. The A. F. of L. accepts it as a determination on the part of the organizations involved to leave the A. F. of L. and to maintain the C. I. O.

"This organization was classified by the executive council as a dual organization functioning as a rival to the A. F. of L."

Lewis told reporters today that he agreed with David Dubinsky, president of the Ladies Garment Workers and an associate on the committee for industrial organization, that the committee unions had not withdrawn.

ROOSEVELT GIVES LABOR DAY TALK

9:45 to 10:15 p.m., eastern standard time.

In his labor day statement, Mr. Roosevelt said employment and weekly pay envelopes had increased during the past three years and had been "stimulated by the spending of the federal government in useful ways."

Contending progress had been made in "respect to those vital problems which affect so profoundly the lives and destinies of the nation's workers, he added:

"We must continue to move forward."

FORCED TO LAND WHEN SUPPLY OF GASOLINE GONE

were many minutes of worry on the flight. "I had visions of falling into the Atlantic," she said, wryly.

Mrs. Markham, who lifted her small monoplane, "The Messenger," from the Abingdon airport in England at 12:50 p.m., eastern standard time, Friday, had been in the air 23 hours and 45 minutes when she was forced down, by lack of fuel, at 1:05 p.m. eastern standard time today. Foul weather chalenged her plane most of the way, eating up her gasoline supply more rapidly than she had anticipated.

"I knew my fuel was almost gone, so I landed at the first clear spot I sighted," she said after she had been brought to Louisburg.

"I flew over Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, after I had been in the air about 20 hours. The heavy fog there made a landing impossible. I then headed for Sydney; and here I am, safe and sound."

As soon as she could reach a telephone she asked that a motorcar be sent to pick her up. She was brought to Louisburg, where she was the dinner guest tonight of Captain George Lewis. She said she probably would remain there over night.

Ray Goodwin, Cape Breton flying club pilot, looked over the monoplane and said that it was not damaged beyond repair.

The field in which Mrs. Markham came down was about 20 miles from this Cape Breton town which once was known as "the Dunkirk of America," the proudest fortress and the only walled city in North America. It was named in honor of Louis IV of France.

Mrs. Markam, blonde, athletic mother of a 7-year-old son, was the second flier of either sex to succeed in making the dangerous east-west crossing alone.

The spot where the plane came down was within 10 miles of where Col. Charles Lindbergh left the Cape Breton coast on his epoch solo flight in the opposite direction.

After landing "right side up" Mrs. Markham walked three miles to the nearest farmhouse, that of Alex Burke, where she sought aid. She was later driven into Louisburg by Captain Lewis.

Goodwin, the Cape Breton airman who surveyed the wreck, expressed belief it would be extremely difficult to carry out the machine through the bog and underbrush.

Mrs. Markham, after having her head wounds dressed by Dr. Freeman O'Neill of Louisburg, talked with her husband and Jim Mollison, famous British aviator, in London. On her arm, still ticking merrily, was the wrist-watch Mollison gave her just before she hopped.

FULL STATE FARM MAP BEING MADE

Survey In Several Parishes Will Be Completed In Short Time

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 5.—(AP)—A complete map is being made of all Louisiana farm land to afford accurate acreage measurement.

J. W. Bateman, state extension director, disclosed today that a survey of several parishes would soon be finished and that half the state would be surveyed this year.

He is directing the work for the federal agricultural conservation program, with C. J. Hutchinson, extension agricultural engineer, supervising the mapping operations.

"Under former control programs the crop acreages were arrived at by estimates and crude methods of measuring the land," Mr. Bateman said.

"Three years of that procedure convinced the extension service that it was possible to secure accurate drawings representing definite acreage on farms, either by plane table drawings or aerial photographs."

Farm maps are being copied from enlarged aerial photographs and accurate measurements obtained in this manner, he asserted.

Mr. Bateman said that when the survey was finished every farmer in Louisiana would not only know the actual acreage of each plot of his farm, but would be furnished a copy of the map of the farm for future crop planning.

There has heretofore been no official data regarding the total farm acreage in Louisiana.

STORE MANAGER

NEW WOMEN'S STORE OPENED

Its doors opened to the public Friday morning, the new establishment of the Dixie Shops here at 325 DeSiard street, served an unusually large opening trade during the past two days. A constant stream of customers and friends of employes of the store filed into the establishment to inspect the store and merchandise and make purchases.

Among the attractive and unique merchandise which sold fastest at the store were Coolie coats and Japanese-effect pajamas. These articles were especially favored by girls who are going away to school in the near future.

Many other articles of distinctive design and high quality materials also were popular with the purchasers. The entire stock won the approval of the most discriminating purchasers.

Located in the building formerly occupied by the Sol Cahn women's apparel shop, the Dixie Shops' new store was remodeled into modernistic design, at a cost of $10,000, before the fixtures and merchandise were moved in. The exclusive store front of the Dixie Shops is one of the most interesting features of the store.

All of the remodeling work was done by union labor, and all fixtures and equipment which could be purchased from local firms was obtained here.

Every employe of the store is a native of Monroe or West Monroe. Mrs. Lillian Anzalone Harris was selected for the position of manager. That she will be an important factor in the success of the new store was demonstrated during the past two days.

Merchandise carried by the new shop includes coats, suits, blouses, skirts, robes, bags, lingerie and sweaters.

Jack Miller, supervisor of the Dixie Shops, with headquarters at New York City, was here for the opening of the store and will return to New York within a few days. Mr. Miller said he was pleased with the economic outlook for northeast Louisiana, and was gratified by the friendly spirit of people of this area. He attributed a large measure of the heavy volume of trade at the store during the past two days to the fact that the establishment published a full page advertisement of the store opening in the News-Star on Thursday afternoon and the Morning World on Friday.

her hazardous flight her son remained with the father as the intrepid aviatrix believed the child was too young to comprehend her danger.

At Croydon airport pilots were jubilant over the news and their unconcealed anxiety was dissipated in expressions of admiration for the plucky woman.

One of those who awaited news at Croydon was the American crooner, Harry Richman, who with his pilot, Dick Merrill, flew from New York to Wales on the first leg of their projected round trip between New York and London.

"Isn't that grand," Richman beamed.

British pilots smiled broadly and slapped each other on the back.

"That'll jar them," one exulted.

James Mollison, the British flier who is a close friend of Mr. and Mrs. Markham, was jubilant at the news.

"That's fine," he said, "I am very happy indeed."

today and finding the body still lying there, the negro notified authorities.

Greene was outraced and arrested by state patrolmen after he was reported to have driven away from a Demopolis filling station without paying for gasoline.

The state police said a quick check of license plate revealed the car he was driving belonged to Amott.

"We believe," said Detective Chief Giles at Birmingham, "that the most important questions concerning the mystery of Amott's disappearance will be answered when we find out exactly what Greene did Tuesday afternoon up to 5 p.m., the hour he said he left Amott's automobile on a downtown Birmingham parking lot."

The investigators said they were checking why Greene, after putting the car in a lot, went to his Birmingham hotel, had his evening meal brought to him and did not leave his room.

Wednesday morning, they stated, Greene "headed west," but decided to return to Alabama after a brief jaunt into Mississippi.

Upon his arrest after the chase near Demopolis, highway patrolmen reported the man was without funds, and a pistol in the car apparently had not been fired recently.

Birmingham associates of Amott described him as a man of fine characchurch. He formerly was a missionary ter and a devout member of his to England for the Latter Day Saints. He worked in the office of Senator King, D., Utah, sometime before coming to Birmingham with the resettlement administration in April.

LABOR DAY PLANS ARE COMPLETED

Arnold Bernstein of Monroe will lead the procession.

Traveling across the new bridge to West Monroe, the parade will turn southward on Trenton street and proceed to Wood street, where it will turn westward and proceed to Cypress street. After proceeding north on the latter street to Bridge street, the parade will head eastward and cross the bridge to return to Monroe.

In Monroe the parade will proceed southward on Riverside to Pine street, east on Pine street to Walnut street, south on Walnut street to North Grand and DeSiard streets, east on DeSiard to Bernstein place, where a speaking program and barbecue dinner will be held.

Upon entering the gate at the Bernstein place, each person attending the program and barbecue dinner there will be given a ticket for his or her dinner. The ticket will provide a check on the number of persons present, so that a plate dinner may be prepared for everyone.

The principal speakers of the program will be Holt Ross, district organizer of the American Federation of Labor, and E. H. Williams of Shreveport, state labor president. Other speakers will be Mayor Bernstein, Mayor Bell, R. D. Swayze and W. D. H. Rodriguez, Monroe city commissioners; W. H. Harper, Monroe city judge; Paul Fink, state representative and attorney of the labor council; J. L. Warren, president, and Barney Oakland, member of the Ouachita parish police jury.

Music will be rendered on the grounds by the LaRocca band.

Several fun provoking contests will be held, with prizes awarded the winners. The contests will be on for the largest family, a fat man's race, a beauty contest for women, a contest to decide the ugliest man, an egg race, free-for-all race and a contest to select the best baby.

In the afternoon, at 3:30 o'clock, a softball game, the fourth of a series between the Adller and Southern Bell teams, will be played at Casino park. The game was originally scheduled for Tuesday, but the date was changed to Monday to complete the program for Labor Day.

The Adler team recently won the City league championship, while the Southern Bell team won the Twilight league championship. The teams have played two games of the title series, the Southern Bell club winning the opening contest 10 to 5, and the second game ending in a 6 to 6 tie in eight innings, darkness preventing the playing of nine innings.

This afternoon at 4 o'clock the teams will play the third game of the series. If the Southern Bell team wins this game, the Labor Day game will be a crucial contest, as three victories will give either team the city championship.

A dance at the Missouri Pacific Booster club hall at 8 p. m. will bring the day's schedule to a close. The public is invited to be present.

LABOR DAY SCHEDULE

9 a.m.—Parade units to assemble on Riverside drive, north of new bridge.

9:30 a.m.—Parade to move across new bridge and proceed through downtown West Monroe.

9:50 a.m.—Parade to return to Monroe and travel out DeSiard street to barbecue and speaking grounds at Bernstein place on Bayou DeSiard.

10:30 a.m.—Public speaking program, fun provoking contests, awarding of prizes to contest winners.

Noon—Barbecue dinner free to public.

3:30 p.m.—Fourth game of a series between the Adler and Southern Bell teams for the softball championship of the city. Game to be played at Casino park.

8 p.m.—Dance at Missouri Pacific Booster club hall.

The latest figures indicate there are 243 commercial pilots, 263 registered aircraft, and 368 licensed airports in Australia.

ONE GIRL SAVES LIFE BY JUMPING AS WRECK COMES

from an altitude of about 1,000 feet shortly after it had taken off for a flight over nearby South Park, where the county fair was in progress.

A few seconds after the ship struck it caught fire.

As it had fallen into a thickly wooded ravine fire apparatus hurriedly sent from the airport and from the fairgrounds could not reach it.

Airport officials said no record of the passengers was kept and it was likely identification of some of the dead would be a difficult task.

The young woman who leaped from the ship told a farm couple who rushed to the scene that she was a visitor here from Miami and that her escort had died in the wreck.

She quoted the young woman as saying she tried to get the other passengers to jump as the plane fell in the ravine, but that they apparently were paralyzed by fear and clung to their safety belts.

Airport attaches said this indicated most or all of the passengers may have survived the crash itself only to die in the flames that followed.

The only way would-be rescuers could reach the scene itself was by walking a slender pipe line and scrambling the rest of the way through the thicket.

Ambulances and police could not get within many yards of the crash.

Roads were blocked by the rush of traffic from the fair and from parks and night clubs in the vicinity.

UNION PARTY'S NAME LEFT OFF STATE'S BALLOT

Conway Says No Application Made For Place On Ticket

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 5.—(AP)—The printing of ballots for the November election in Louisiana not bearing the Union party ticket has begun.

There had been question whether the ballots would carry the printed names of Representative William Lemke and Thomas C. O'Brien as the Union party's candidates for president and vice-president in the state's presidential voting.

It was disclosed today that the ballots on which the printer is at work will carry only the Roosevelt-Garner Democratic ticket which the state administration is backing, and the Landon-Knox Republican ticket, with a blank column for the "writing in" of any independent of whom the voter approves.

There was no official comment. Secretary of State E. A. Conway said before the ballot printing started that no request had been received to place the Union party candidates on the ballots.

The attorney-general's office has not announced any opinion interpreting the law regarding recognition of a new party nor said that it had been asked for any.

The printing of the ballots is a large job. It will consume about three carloads of paper.

Louisianians will vote in November not only for president and vice-president but also for:

United States senator.

Eight congressmen.

All district judges and district attorneys.

A Louisiana public service commissioner, third district.

Education board members for the sixth and seventh districts.

Various city judges and ward officers.

The state Democratic nominees were named at the party primary last January 21 and their election is conceded. The Republicans have no state ticket.

There are 35 proposed constitutional amendments approved by the 1936 legislature on which the people will vote for or against.

These include measures setting up the state social security program.

POTENTIAL OIL RATING RAISED

Important Discovery Made In Cotton Valley Field In Webster Parish

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Louisiana advanced toward a potential high rating during the past week with an important oil discovery in the Cotton Valley field in Webster parish where a 500-barrel well was completed, the state conservation department announced today.

The oil in the Cotton Valley field was found at a total depth of 5,500 feet and was completed at a total depth of 5,600 feet, officials said. They said this was the first oil produced in the field at that horizon.

In addition to the Cotton Valley well, there were seven other completions in the state. Four of these were in south Louisiana, and three in the Rodessa field.

Dr. J. A. Shaw, director of the department's minerals division said that the Rodessa field was the most active deep drilling field in the United States. A total of 85 wells are being bored in the area, 39 in Louisiana and 46 on the Texas side of the pool. Thus far 271 wells have been completed on Louisiana side of the field.

The field, parish location, name of producing company and the initial daily production of each well follow in order:

Cotton Valley in Webster parish, Ohio Oil company, 500 barrels; Evangeline in Acadia parish, Leonard Wayne Oil company, 150 barrels; Gillis in Calcasieu parish, Union Sulphur company, 500 barrels; Port Barre in St. Landry parish, Pan-American Production company, 410.40 barrels; Roanoke in Jefferson Davis parish, Humble Oil and Refining company, 194.76 barrels; Rodessa in Caddo parish, Magnolia Petroleum company, 264 barrels; Rodessa, Standard Oil company of Louisiana and Gulf Refining company (jointly) 2,160 barrels, and Rodessa, W. A. Tharpe, 840 barrels.

A total of 19 permits for drilling operations were issued by the department during the week ended Thursday. They are as follows: Continental Oil company in Acadia parish, four; Premier Investment company in Bossier parish, three; Lion Oil Refining company in Caddo parish, one; Louisiana Oil Refining company, one; Union Sulphur company in Calcasieu parish, one.

Jefferson Lake Oil company in Iberia parish, two; Urania Oil and Gas company in LaSalle parish, one; Natchitoches Oil company in Natchitoches parish, one; Gulf Refining company in Plaquemines parish, one; Interstate Natural Gas company in Union parish, two; Magnolia Petroleum company in Webster parish, one, and United Gas Public Service company in Webster, one.

HOUSE OF SHADOWS

by Ida R. Gleason © 1936 NEA Service, Inc.

CHAPTER VII

Claire watched alone at Bob Steele's bedside. Hannah had gone to get a room ready for herself, and Susie was busy about her kitchen duties. A foreboding stillness hung over the old house. Only the sound of the breeze in the pine tree and the faint, uneven dripping of the eaves could be heard. Claire moved to the window, hoping to see Pat returning.

As she came back to the side of the injured man she noticed that his eyelids fluttered. She laid her cool hand on his forehead.

"Claire." White lips formed the word.

"Yes, Bob. I'm here. What is it?"

"Dear, I—I—love you," the murmur trailed into silence, and Claire knew he was still unconscious.

For a minute she stood looking down at Bob in amazement. Of course it was only delirium; Bob didn't know what he was saying. She turned away and caught a glimpse of herself in the mirror of an ancient dressing table. If both these young men were in love with her, when she was practically engaged to Nick Baum—what a mess, what a dreadful mess it had all become!

Her thoughts were broken by the sound of the door opening, and Hannah beckoned her from the room. She led Claire to the recess of a deep bay window.

"I caught her red-handed! Going through your bag," she whispered.

"What do you mean, Hannah?"

"Just what I'm sayin'. I came into your room and there was Susie, rummaging 'round in your things. She kinder giggled and said you sent her for something."

Claire shook her head. "No, that was her own idea. But I can't imagine what she was after. I never knew her to do anything like that before."

Hannah shrugged. "I never have put anything past that woman."

"Oh, well, you're prejudiced, Hannah. But I'll speak to Susie about it." She walked back to Bob's room, more disturbed than she wanted the maid to know. For some time she had been conscious of a growing suspicion of Susie, and this news did not in any way lessen the feeling. She determined to have a straight talk with Susie as soon as she could leave Bob. She had promised Pat to stay until he came back.

But the hours went by and Pat did not return. At last Claire called Hannah and went downstairs to see if she could find him. The house seemed deserted. Dan Dallas had been sent down to the village for supplies, but where had the housekeeper disappeared, and why didn't Pat come back?

Claire turned her steps toward the little cabin where Dallas stayed. She skirted the aspen grove, aware of a growing uneasiness, and hurried on to the cabin. To her surprise, the door was partly open. She hesitated, and after knocking once or twice, went in. Nobody was there. Dan Dallas' possessions were arranged neatly and everything was scrupulously clean.

"Must have had military training," decided Claire as she noted how precisely his shoes were lined upon a low shelf, with his clothes hung carefully above. In one corner stood his rifle. She picked this up and looked at it curiously. Was this the gun Pat had quizzed Dallas about the night before? She put it back, just as she had found it.

Giving another hasty glance around, she went out quickly and closed the door behind her. As she stood on the doorstep a rat peeped down at her from the logs above her head. At her slight movement, it scurried out of sight, but the next moment something rolled over the edge of the roof and dropped at her feet, evidently dislodged by the tiny animal's panic.

Claire picked it up curiously, then gazed at it wide-eyed. A silencer for a gun. She remembered having seen one in a play. What was it doing on Dallas' roof? The shots that had killed the watch dog, and come so near to snuffing out her own life had been fired from a weapon with a silencer. There was no other way to account for the lack of sound. Dan would have to explain this to everyone's satisfaction or else—

She hastened back toward the house. As she came within sight of the kitchen door, she saw Susie carrying a small, covered tray. From her arm an unlighted lantern was swinging. Something in the housekeeper's manner made Claire draw back behind a tree to watch her. What on earth could Susie want with a lantern at this time of day? The answer was given when the woman walked quickly to a large root cellar at the back of the house, and disappeared down the steep flight of stone steps.

Claire promptly followed. The root cellar had always held a fascination for her ever since her little girl days. Now a familiar coolness rushed up to meet her, mingled with an earthy odor.

The cellar was very large and so cool that pieces of meat, securely covered with cheesecloth wrappings, could be safely hung from its rafters. Bins for vegetables took up one side of the room. Along the other side was built a huge wooden cupboard. Inside, Claire knew, were shelves holding neatly labeled glasses of jelly and preserves.

But there was no sign of Susie. Perhaps she was back in the shadowy end of the room, storing something away.

"Susie, are you there?" Claire called.

There was no reply. Puzzled, the girl walked back into the shadows. Susie undoubtedly was back there and had not heard her. This would be as good a place as any to ask her some important questions.

But, to Claire's astonishment, there was no sign of the housekeeper.

"Susie!" she called again. No answer. Claire opened the cupboard door, as though she half expected to find the jelly gone and some mysterious opening instead. But the shelves still bore their orderly rows of glasses and jars.

Claire smiled at herself as she thought of Susie's plump figure, and then noticed how little space had been wasted in the cupboard. She must have been mistaken. Susie couldn't have come down into the root cellar, after all. Perhaps it just looked from a distance as though she had. Claire blew out the lamp and put it back on the shelf, then hurried upstairs to the open air.

The girl circled a huge woodpile, expecting to see the housekeeper, but there was no one in sight. She walked out to the big barn that now served as garage and store house. This also was empty. Claire looked about in bewilderment. Had lack of sleep begun to play havoc with her nerves? She was starting for the house when, to her surprise, she saw Susie come up the root cellar steps. This time the tray was empty and the lantern gone.

Claire's first impulse was to call to the woman, but, on second thought, she stepped back into the barn and let her go into the house, unaware that she had been seen. Then Claire ran to the cellar steps and descended. A minute examination of every inch of the place revealed nothing. Where had Susie been and why? Was there some secret place under the house that its present owners knew nothing about? Claire stood, puzzling over the problem. If Pat would only come she could tell him about it. Perhaps he could find a clew that she had missed in the seemingly solid cellar walls.

At last the girl went up to the open again and walked into Susie's kitchen.

"Oh, here you are! I've been looking for you," she began. "Where were you just now?"

"I was up in the linen closet, Claire, sorting over some sheets." Susie glanced up sideways and then went on with her work.

For an instant Claire was tempted to demand the truth. Then the thought came to her that it would be better not to put Susie on her guard. So she asked, in a matter-of-fact tone, "Has Mr. Magan come in yet?"

Claire went into the library. Her growing uneasiness about Pat's abscence, and now Susie's deliberate falsehood was beginning to fray her nerves. She distinctly distrusted the baby-faced housekeeper. Could she depend on Dan Dallas? How much did the tall, scar-faced man know about what was going on?

Claire stood before the mantel, looking at the cryptic broken arrow. What could it mean? Was her uncle trying, in vain, to point out something from beyond the grave? And why had he gone to such weird lengths to conceal this message of the House of Long Shadows? Almost as though the answer had been spoken, came the thought of Susie, and her sly, inquisitive searching.

Claire moved to the bookcase and again took down the red volume of poems in which her uncle had written the four lines of verse, "Wedded pines above me lie." She laid the book down on the radiator. Why, the great pine tree by the house was two trees grown together! Could Lyman Fosdick have been thinking of that? The girl walked to the window and looked at the majestic spreading branches. Perhaps the tree held the secret of the hidden jewel.

Suddenly her attention was caught by another sound. She held her breath and listened. Regularly and at even intervals came the same tapping noise that had startled her in Lyman Fosdick's bedroom. The room was directly above the library.

FORMER MAYOR OF OPELOUSAS BURIED

Hundreds Attend Funeral Of Dr. Benjamin A. Littell

OPELOUSAS, La., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Final rites for Dr. Benjamin A. Littell, physician of Opelousas, who died at his home Friday morning, were conducted today with hundreds of friends paying tribute to his memory. The funeral procession was the largest ever held in Opelousas and was made up of persons in all walks of life, from throughout southwest Louisiana.

Dr. Littell was a member of the Opelousas Masonic lodge, the Eastern Star, the Opelousas hook and ladder fire company and the Elks whose officers and members formed in a body at his home this morning to attend the funeral. Services were held at the Episcopal church. Interment took place in Myrtle Grove cemetery.

"Dr. Buster," as he was known to persons who depended upon him for many years, began his medical practice in Opelousas in 1888 upon completion of his course at Tulane university.

A year ago failing health caused him to retire from actual practice. "Dr. Buster" served as mayor of Opelousas for a number of years. He was coroner of St. Landry parish from 1927 until this year when he relinquished the position.

Dr. Littell was also closely identified with the parish and city boards of health He was known throughout St. Landry for numberless deeds of charity he performed during his medical career.

Pallbearers for the late physician were his colleagues in the medical profession and included Dr. Lionel Bienvenue, Dr. Oscar Bienvenue, Dr. Sidney J. Rozas, Dr. E. J. Petitjean, Dr. George Beridon, all of Opelousas, and Dr. A. Brinkhaus of Sunset.

DEATHS

WILLARD BENNETT CAMPBELL

Willard Bennett Campbell, of 200 LaDel street, died shortly after birth in a Monroe hospital early Saturday. The funeral and interment took place in the Monroe cemetery late Saturday afternoon.

Surviving are the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Bennett Campbell, Sr., and the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Campbell.

T. T. MERRITT

T. T. Merritt, 59, of Meridian, Miss., died at his home Saturday morning. He was owner of the Interstate Printing company in Meridian and prior to removing to the Mississippi city he was associated with the Times-Picayune in New Orleans.

The funeral will be held at the residence in Meridian this afternoon, and interment will be made in Meridian.

Surviving are the widow, three children, three brothers and one sister. Also a sister-in-law, Mrs. E. P. Stratton, of West Monroe.

WELCH FUNERAL

LAKE PROVIDENCE, La., Sept. 5.—(Special)—Funeral services for Sam Welch, resident of East Carroll parish who was slain in Van's saloon in Sondheimer Thursday night, will be held Sunday morning at 10 o'clock from the Mulhearn funeral home at Delhi with Rev. S. C. Gordon, Baptist minister, officiating. Interment will be made in Midway cemetery at Epps.

Welch is alleged to have been shot to death by H. L. Van Valkenburgh, his employer, when the latter ordered him to leave the premises because of an argument which is said to have started during a card game. Van Valkenburgh was arrested and is in the parish jail pending a grand jury investigation.

F. J. WAINWRIGHT

F. J. Wainwright, 55, died at a local sanitarium Saturday afternoon after a lingering illness. Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Welcome Home cemetery at Grayson, and interment will be made there.

ELSIE JANIS WILL SELL 'EVERYTHING'

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Elsie Janis, famed stage actress, listed "everything for sale" today as she looked forward to the charity auction of her properties Monday that will launch her new career of "living to make others happy."

Two months ago the one-time "sweetheart of the A. E. F.," who applied her stage talents to entertaining doughboys in the trenches, announced her resolve "to do something, something swell that would give me a reason for living."

Only a few mementoes, a picture here and a stage souvenir there, were reserved.

"This auction is going to be a blessing or it isn't," said Miss Janis, now 47. "My entire being is wrapped up in this event and I want to keep it on a high level. I'm playing honest with everyone."

UNION PARTY'S NAME LEFT OFF STATE'S BALLOT

Conway Says No Application Made For Place On Ticket

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 5.—(AP)—The printing of ballots for the November election in Louisiana not bearing the Union party ticket has begun.

There had been question whether the ballots would carry the printed names of Representative William Lemke and Thomas C. O'Brien as the Union party's candidates for president and vice-president in the state's presidential voting.

It was disclosed today that the ballots on which the printer is at work will carry only the Roosevelt-Garner Democratic ticket which the state administration is backing, and the Landon-Knox Republican ticket, with a blank column for the "writing in" of any independent of whom the voter approves.

There was no official comment. Secretary of State E. A. Conway said before the ballot printing started that no request had been received to place the Union party candidates on the ballots.

The attorney-general's office has not announced any opinion interpreting the law regarding recognition of a new party nor said that it had been asked for any.

The printing of the ballots is a large job. It will consume about three carloads of paper.

Louisianians will vote in November not only for president and vice-president but also for:

United States senator.

Eight congressmen.

All district judges and district attorneys.

A Louisiana public service commissioner, third district.

Education board members for the sixth and seventh districts.

Various city judges and ward officers.

The state Democratic nominees were named at the party primary last January 21 and their election is conceded. The Republicans have no state ticket.

There are 35 proposed constitutional amendments approved by the 1936 legislature on which the people will vote for or against.

These include measures setting up the state social security program.

POTENTIAL OIL RATING RAISED

Important Discovery Made In Cotton Valley Field In Webster Parish

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Louisiana advanced toward a potential high rating during the past week with an important oil discovery in the Cotton Valley field in Webster parish where a 500-barrel well was completed, the state conservation department announced today.

The oil in the Cotton Valley field was found at a total depth of 5,500 feet and was completed at a total depth of 5,600 feet, officials said. They said this was the first oil produced in the field at that horizon.

In addition to the Cotton Valley well, there were seven other completions in the state. Four of these were in south Louisiana, and three in the Rodessa field.

Dr. J. A. Shaw, director of the department's minerals division said that the Rodessa field was the most active deep drilling field in the United States. A total of 85 wells are being bored in the area, 39 in Louisiana and 46 on the Texas side of the pool. Thus far 271 wells have been completed on Louisiana side of the field.

The field, parish location, name of producing company and the initial daily production of each well follow in order:

Cotton Valley in Webster parish, Ohio Oil company, 500 barrels; Evangeline in Acadia parish, Leonard Wayne Oil company, 150 barrels; Gillis in Calcasieu parish, Union Sulphur company, 500 barrels; Port Barre in St. Landry parish, Pan-American Production company, 410.40 barrels; Roanoke in Jefferson Davis parish, Humble Oil and Refining company, 194.76 barrels; Rodessa in Caddo parish, Magnolia Petroleum company, 264 barrels; Rodessa, Standard Oil company of Louisiana and Gulf Refining company (jointly) 2,160 barrels, and Rodessa, W. A. Tharpe, 840 barrels.

A total of 19 permits for drilling operations were issued by the department during the week ended Thursday. They are as follows: Continental Oil company in Acadia parish, four; Premier Investment company in Bossier parish, three; Lion Oil Refining company in Caddo parish, one; Louisiana Oil Refining company, one; Union Sulphur company in Calcasieu parish, one.

Jefferson Lake Oil company in Iberia parish, two; Urania Oil and Gas company in LaSalle parish, one; Natchitoches Oil company in Natchitoches parish, one; Gulf Refining company in Plaquemines parish, one; Interstate Natural Gas company in Union parish, two; Magnolia Petroleum company in Webster parish, one, and United Gas Public Service company in Webster, one.

HOUSE OF SHADOWS

by Ida R. Gleason © 1936 NEA Service, Inc.

CHAPTER VII

Claire watched alone at Bob Steele's bedside. Hannah had gone to get a room ready for herself, and Susie was busy about her kitchen duties. A foreboding stillness hung over the old house. Only the sound of the breeze in the pine tree and the faint, uneven dripping of the eaves could be heard. Claire moved to the window, hoping to see Pat returning.

As she came back to the side of the injured man she noticed that his eyelids fluttered. She laid her cool hand on his forehead.

"Claire." White lips formed the word.

"Yes, Bob. I'm here. What is it?"

"Dear, I—I—love you," the murmur trailed into silence, and Claire knew he was still unconscious.

For a minute she stood looking down at Bob in amazement. Of course it was only delirium; Bob didn't know what he was saying. She turned away and caught a glimpse of herself in the mirror of an ancient dressing table. If both these young men were in love with her, when she was practically engaged to Nick Baum—what a mess, what a dreadful mess it had all become!

Her thoughts were broken by the sound of the door opening, and Hannah beckoned her from the room. She led Claire to the recess of a deep bay window.

"I caught her red-handed! Going through your bag," she whispered.

"What do you mean, Hannah?"

"Just what I'm sayin'. I came into your room and there was Susie, rummaging 'round in your things. She kinder giggled and said you sent her for something."

Claire shook her head. "No, that was her own idea. But I can't imagine what she was after. I never knew her to do anything like that before."

Hannah shrugged. "I never have put anything past that woman."

"Oh, well, you're prejudiced, Hannah. But I'll speak to Susie about it." She walked back to Bob's room, more disturbed than she wanted the maid to know. For some time she had been conscious of a growing suspicion of Susie, and this news did not in any way lessen the feeling. She determined to have a straight talk with Susie as soon as she could leave Bob. She had promised Pat to stay until he came back.

But the hours went by and Pat did not return. At last Claire called Hannah and went downstairs to see if she could find him. The house seemed deserted. Dan Dallas had been sent down to the village for supplies, but where had the housekeeper disappeared, and why didn't Pat come back?

Claire turned her steps toward the little cabin where Dallas stayed. She skirted the aspen grove, aware of a growing uneasiness, and hurried on to the cabin. To her surprise, the door was partly open. She hesitated, and after knocking once or twice, went in. Nobody was there. Dan Dallas' possessions were arranged neatly and everything was scrupulously clean.

"Must have had military training," decided Claire as she noted how precisely his shoes were lined upon a low shelf, with his clothes hung carefully above. In one corner stood his rifle. She picked this up and looked at it curiously. Was this the gun Pat had quizzed Dallas about the night before? She put it back, just as she had found it.

Giving another hasty glance around, she went out quickly and closed the door behind her. As she stood on the doorstep a rat peeped down at her from the logs above her head. At her slight movement, it scurried out of sight, but the next moment something rolled over the edge of the roof and dropped at her feet, evidently dislodged by the tiny animal's panic.

Claire picked it up curiously, then gazed at it wide-eyed. A silencer for a gun. She remembered having seen one in a play. What was it doing on Dallas' roof? The shots that had killed the watch dog, and come so near to snuffing out her own life had been fired from a weapon with a silencer. There was no other way to account for the lack of sound. Dan would have to explain this to everyone's satisfaction or else—

She hastened back toward the house. As she came within sight of the kitchen door, she saw Susie carrying a small, covered tray. From her arm an unlighted lantern was swinging. Something in the housekeeper's manner made Claire draw back behind a tree to watch her. What on earth could Susie want with a lantern at this time of day? The answer was given when the woman walked quickly to a large root cellar at the back of the house, and disappeared down the steep flight of stone steps.

Claire promptly followed. The root cellar had always held a fascination for her ever since her little girl days. Now a familiar coolness rushed up to meet her, mingled with an earthy odor.

The cellar was very large and so cool that pieces of meat, securely covered with cheesecloth wrappings, could be safely hung from its rafters. Bins for vegetables took up one side of the room. Along the other side was built a huge wooden cupboard. Inside, Claire knew, were shelves holding neatly labeled glasses of jelly and preserves.

But there was no sign of Susie. Perhaps she was back in the shadowy end of the room, storing something away.

"Susie, are you there?" Claire called.

There was no reply. Puzzled, the girl walked back into the shadows. Susie undoubtedly was back there and had not heard her. This would be as good a place as any to ask her some important questions.

But, to Claire's astonishment, there was no sign of the housekeeper.

"Susie!" she called again. No answer. Claire opened the cupboard door, as though she half expected to find the jelly gone and some mysterious opening instead. But the shelves still bore their orderly rows of glasses and jars.

Claire smiled at herself as she thought of Susie's plump figure, and then noticed how little space had been wasted in the cupboard. She must have been mistaken. Susie couldn't have come down into the root cellar, after all. Perhaps it just looked from a distance as though she had. Claire blew out the lamp and put it back on the shelf, then hurried upstairs to the open air.

The girl circled a huge woodpile, expecting to see the housekeeper, but there was no one in sight. She walked out to the big barn that now served as garage and store house. This also was empty. Claire looked about in bewilderment. Had lack of sleep begun to play havoc with her nerves? She was starting for the house when, to her surprise, she saw Susie come up the root cellar steps. This time the tray was empty and the lantern gone.

Claire's first impulse was to call to the woman, but, on second thought, she stepped back into the barn and let her go into the house, unaware that she had been seen. Then Claire ran to the cellar steps and descended. A minute examination of every inch of the place revealed nothing. Where had Susie been and why? Was there some secret place under the house that its present owners knew nothing about? Claire stood, puzzling over the problem. If Pat would only come she could tell him about it. Perhaps he could find a clew that she had missed in the seemingly solid cellar walls.

At last the girl went up to the open again and walked into Susie's kitchen.

"Oh, here you are! I've been looking for you," she began. "Where were you just now?"

"I was up in the linen closet, Claire, sorting over some sheets." Susie glanced up sideways and then went on with her work.

For an instant Claire was tempted to demand the truth. Then the thought came to her that it would be better not to put Susie on her guard. So she asked, in a matter-of-fact tone, "Has Mr. Magan come in yet?"

Claire went into the library. Her growing uneasiness about Pat's abscence, and now Susie's deliberate falsehood was beginning to fray her nerves. She distinctly distrusted the baby-faced housekeeper. Could she depend on Dan Dallas? How much did the tall, scar-faced man know about what was going on?

Claire stood before the mantel, looking at the cryptic broken arrow. What could it mean? Was her uncle trying, in vain, to point out something from beyond the grave? And why had he gone to such weird lengths to conceal this message of the House of Long Shadows? Almost as though the answer had been spoken, came the thought of Susie, and her sly, inquisitive searching.

Claire moved to the bookcase and again took down the red volume of poems in which her uncle had written the four lines of verse. "Wedded pines above me lie." She laid the book down on the radiator. Why, the great pine tree by the house was two trees grown together! Could Lyman Fosdick have been thinking of that? The girl walked to the window and looked at the majestic spreading branches. Perhaps the tree held the secret of the hidden jewel.

Suddenly her attention was caught by another sound. She held her breath and listened. Regularly and at even intervals came the same tapping noise that had startled her in Lyman Fosdick's bedroom. The room was directly above the library.

FORMER MAYOR OF OPELOUSAS BURIED

Hundreds Attend Funeral Of Dr. Benjamin A. Littell

OPELOUSAS, La., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Final rites for Dr. Benjamin A. Littell, physician of Opelousas, who died at his home Friday morning, were conducted today with hundreds of friends paying tribute to his memory. The funeral procession was the largest ever held in Opelousas and was made up of persons in all walks of life, from throughout southwest Louisiana.

Dr. Littell was a member of the Opelousas Masonic lodge, the Eastern Star, the Opelousas hook and ladder fire company and the Elks whose officers and members formed in a body at his home this morning to attend the funeral. Services were held at the Episcopal church. Interment took place in Myrtle Grove cemetery.

"Dr. Buster," as he was known to persons who depended upon him for many years, began his medical practice in Opelousas in 1888 upon completion of his course at Tulane university.

A year ago failing health caused him to retire from actual practice. "Dr. Buster" served as mayor of Opelousas for a number of years. He was coroner of St. Landry parish from 1927 until this year when he relinquished the position.

Dr. Littell was also closely identified with the parish and city boards of health. He was known throughout St. Landry for numberless deeds of charity he performed during his medical career.

Pallbearers for the late physician were his colleagues in the medical profession and included Dr. Lionel Bienvenue, Dr. Oscar Bienvenue, Dr. Sidney J. Rozas, Dr. E. J. Petitjean, Dr. George Beridon, all of Opelousas, and Dr. A. Brinkhaus of Sunset.

DEATHS

WILLARD BENNETT CAMPBELL

Willard Bennett Campbell, of 200 LaDel street, died shortly after birth in a Monroe hospital early Saturday. The funeral and interment took place in the Monroe cemetery late Saturday afternoon.

Surviving are the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Bennett Campbell, Sr., and the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Campbell.

T. T. MERRITT

T. T. Merritt, 59, of Meridian, Miss., died at his home Saturday morning. He was owner of the Interstate Printing company in Meridian and prior to removing to the Mississippi city he was associated with the Times-Picayune in New Orleans.

The funeral will be held at the residence in Meridian this afternoon, and interment will be made in Meridian.

Surviving are the widow, three children, three brothers and one sister. Also a sister-in-law, Mrs. E. P. Stratton, of West Monroe.

WELCH FUNERAL

LAKE PROVIDENCE, La., Sept. 5.—(Special)—Funeral services for Sam Welch, resident of East Carroll parish who was slain in Van's saloon in Sondheimer Thursday night, will be held Sunday morning at 10 o'clock from the Mulhearn funeral home at Delhi with Rev. S. C. Gordon, Baptist minister, officiating. Interment will be made in Midway cemetery at Epps.

Welch is alleged to have been shot to death by H. L. Van Valkenburgh, his employer, when the latter ordered him to leave the premises because of an argument which is said to have started during a card game. Van Valkenburgh was arrested and is in the parish jail pending a grand jury investigation.

F. J. WAINWRIGHT

F. J. Wainwright, 55, died at a local sanitarium Saturday afternoon after a lingering illness. Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Welcome Home cemetery at Grayson, and interment will be made there.

He is survived by his widow; three daughters, Mrs. C. W. Lewis of Monroe, Mrs. Loy Swilley of El Dorado, and Mrs. M. A. Lee of Vivian; four sons, T. J. Wainwright, C. E. Wainwright, R. B. Our Valuable World

We should appreciate what this world can do for us.

Unless we watch ourselves we may look only on the distressful side of this world. The world is distressful. It is terrible. But what makes it terrible? The people in the world have made it so.

Really, the worst things about this world are the things that human beings bring on themselves. The misery of the great depression can be attributed directly to our selfishness, to our unwillingness to do our best individually and collectively for the welfare of all. The black war clouds that are now making the world shiver with dread are wholly the result of human perversity.

On one occasion, two men were standing on Portland heights, overlooking the city of Portland, Ore.

"A beautiful city," one of them said, remarking the buildings showing among the wealth of trees.

"It would be more beautiful to me," replied the other, "if there were a tree in place of every building; and it would be a safer place in which to live; for man's most dangerous enemy is man."

Whatever this world is, it is a better world than most of us are fit for. We are continually proving that fact by the way we behave ourselves.

This world gives us opportunity to learn how to live with others. Any one of us would be safer in a wilderness a million miles from a human being than in the midst of civilization. The lives of our pioneer forefathers illustrate that fact. But life in isolation does not teach us how to work wholesomely and constructively with our fellows.

In the higher realms, without question, unselfish cooperation is the rule. It must be the rule in order to have a higher realm.

This world gives us the opportunity to practice unselfish cooperation. It gives us a chance to develop our better selves. It offers us ways and means of practicing at improving our souls. After a person has spent a lifetime here, he is usually a better human being than when he came here. If he is not, it is because he has allowed the spirit of selfishness to wreck his sense of the decent values of living.

It should be the objective of each generation to improve standards of character, and to try to live up to these standards; and to train youth to do so—that each generation may be an improvement on the one that has immediately preceded it.

There is no distress that befalls us in this world which has not in it the value of a lesson. We should always look for the lesson; for the more we learn about character betterment while we are in this world, the more we shall get out of this world and take with us when we go.

Yes, we should appreciate this world, and the opportunity it offers us for higher, finer soul improvement.

SINISTER NOTE FROM GERMANY

There are numerous and important consequences of the pen stroke through which Chancellor Adolf Hitler raised the military strength of the reich to more than a million men. Principal among them is the certainty that war in Europe becomes a more imminent danger.

Germany today, as a result of Hitler's daring, the restless energy with which he has pushed forward the development of his military establishment, his flaunting of treaties, agreements and inhibitions, is in a position comparable to that occupied in 1914. There is even the same spirit in the nation's leadership, the identical determination that Germany shall have her place in the sun—her day.

Just what does Germany intend to do with her new force and strength? In the writings of the utterances of Hitler and Goering and Goebbels there are a score of answers, any or all of them logical. Germany may be looking, as Hitler in the story of his life declared she would eventually look, toward the east, where territory lies which is suitable to the needs of her expanding population. And in the east, incidentally, she would find the greatest military force in the world, so far as numerical strength is concerned, a standing army of 1,600,000 Russians, with 7,000,000 reserves.

And on the west there is always France, somewhat larger by reason of the repossession of the provinces of Alsace and Lorraine, but still an inferior military power. Fortunately, so far as France's interests are concerned, however, she will probably act in concert with Russia on the east in the event of difficulties with the reich.

It is illogical to hold that Germany is proceeding so feverishly with the development of her military establishment without a definite, clear-cut purpose in view. Necessarily, this purpose involves war. Where will the blow fall, and when?

For some sound ideas as to a practical approach to Utopia, Dr. Townsend and some of the other starry-eyed idealists might look toward Denmark, where there is a hotel which advertises beer piped to all rooms.

In view of the fact that the Olympic games did not start another European war, we assume it is in order to classify them as a success.

Just at present, the acquisition of a castle in Spain is not one of our major longings.

If the government ever takes to awarding decorations for heroic service in peace time, as it does for bravery in war, some weary lads in CCC outfits must be entitled to stand in line and get pretty, bronze medals pinned on their chests.

The CCC boys work in the forests. Forests frequently catch fire, especially in times of drouth. When they do, the CCC goes into action; and, in case you didn't know it, fighting a forest fire can be one of the hardest, toughest, and generally meanest jobs ever shouldered by perspiring man.

Isle Royale is far out in the lake and is preserved as a primeval wilderness. It has no roads at all and its soil is rocky and rough. This makes impossible the use of plows and tractors—two of the most important weapons in the armory of men who fight forest fires. And Isle Royale lacks sand, another important weapon.

Over dozens of square miles its rocky surface is covered by a shallow layer of leaf mold and moss, which burned like tinder. The fire crews had to lug portable hand pumps and to pump water over mile-long hose lines to fight this blaze. With pick and shovel they hacked out 100 miles of fire-checking trenches through hard rock and clay. And all the while they contended with a wind that could whirl blazing bits of bark a mile or more through the air, to set new blazes behind them.

Ben East, correspondent for several Michigan newspapers, visited the Isle Royale front during the worst of the fire and told how the CCC boys worked.

They got up at 3:30 a. m., ate breakfast, and started on a three to five-mile hike to the scene of action. They carried their noonday meal with them, on their backs; they also carried shovels, axes, picks, hand pumps, cans of gasoline, and other impedimenta.

By 6 in the morning they were at the fire. They stayed there until 6 p. m., performing the most back-breaking kind of work imaginable, under the most difficult conditions; then they would be relieved by a night crew, would trudge the long miles back to camp, eat supper, and tumble exhausted into bed—to be routed out at 3:30 the next morning for more of the same.

This, says Mr. East, went on for 19 unbroken days, without a rest or a let-up.

You have there a record of bravery and dogged endurance which compares very favorably with the kind of stunts that win soldiers medals in wartime.

The CCC boys met the hardest test that could have been given them, and passed it with flying colors. Incidentally, they saved thousands of acres of magnificent virgin forest for the country's national park system.

If the government has any spare medals, there must be some likely candidates for them among those Isle Royale forest fire fighters.

NEW YORK Day by Day

by O. O. McIntyre

From my Scotch forebears, I presume, I inherit a belief in the gift of prophecy. I have several friends—three to be precise—who have foretold many things. One told me of the passing of a friend in Palm Beach, describing him perfectly and giving the month of his demise. He had no particular interest in the occult. Things, somehow, just came to him.

A librarian on a newspaper, a gentle, tituppy old fellow with white hair and mustaches, predicted to a group of us the year the World war would end, naming three possible months. It came to end that year and in one of the months, although at the time everybody believed it would be over in a short time.

Still another diviner was a character actor. But a student of the supernatural. He predicted several things that came to pass just as he said they would. Many believe this coincidence. But there has been too much of it through the years for that listing.

I have tried predicting myself, at times. But my diving rod does not even twitch. There is a power given certain individuals to look ahead and to see. Visions, they were called in Biblical days.

Dr. Alexis Carrel recently wrote: "The facts of prediction of the future lead us to the threshold of an unknown world." Every student of the Bible knows that many of the prophecies have already been fulfilled. Such as those of Amos, Jeremiah, Micah and Ezekiel. Recently Henry James Forman, a cultured gentleman, wrote a book on "The Story of Prophecy." He has listed an amazing number of the fulfillments.

For instance, late in the spring of 1934, a Spaniard announced that Chancellor Dolfuss of Austria would die a violent death within three months. The exact date was May 23.

A still living seer foretold the death of Lord Kitchener at sea in his 60th year and there is the record in Mark Twain's own writings of the prediction of a seer that he would be rich at the end of his life, after his 68th year. And he was. Tycho Brahe was 17 when he foretold, in 1563, the great plague that was to sweep Europe in 1665-1666.

Then there is this ominous from a modern prophet: "Certain happenings in 1936 will do more to annihilate the veil between the seen and the unseen than any other line of activity hitherto initiated. Death will lose its terrors, and the fear of death will come to an end between the years of 1936 and 1945."

It strikes me few persons can look so well-scrubbed and freshly laundered as those cafe managers who stand in their doorways—a sort of rite—just before the evening rush sets in. They are models of expert cleanliness, the triumph of water, soap and hair brushes.

The Spanish colony in New York has a rendezvous in Greenwich Village, a restaurant called El Chico. It is here matadors of Spain visiting America congregate. Also, many of the nobles and commoners who have left their sunny land for this reason or that. I dined there the other night. If the recent tragedies of Spain have depressed them they do not show it. Castanets were clacking and guitars twanging merrily. And there was as lusty singing as I have heard in a long while. It is, however, a part of the Spanish temperament to laugh in the teeth of disaster. They are good actors.

One of the most interesting slum streets in the metropolis is 46th street a few blocks west of Broadway. Here people live literally on the sidewalks, stoops, in the windows and in the street. Automobiles have to inch through for there are a dozen and one childish games in progress. And always there is the ring of happy shouts and merry laughter. If 46th street has tragedy, it hides it with amazing deftness. And it's a slum shot out of the movies in real life.

A meticulous grammarian in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, writes in to observe that one of the most pronounced faults lately is the constant misplacement of the adverb "only" in general conversation, radio announcements, magazines and newspapers. It is, she points out, so seldom used near the word it modifies. How often you hear: "I only have one," "I only went twice" or "They only have three children."

No one has ever squeezed such profits out of one little parlor trick as has Robert Benchley with his "The Treasurer's Report." It began for the sole amusement of his friends but proved so hilarious it was incorporated in a Music Box Revue where, as its delineator, Benchley appeared for a year at a fat salary. It then appeared in a magazine, then in a book, and is now seen in movie shorts. The thing just won't die.

Family Health

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

(Editor Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine)

Among the greatest blessings of mankind are those drugs and preparations which either completely deprive a human being of consciousness or temporarily inhibit it so that he becomes insensibe to pain or to outside stimuli.

The ancient Arabs and Egyptians were familiar with drugs that would produce sleep or temporary unconsciousness.

Only in modern centuries, however, have we been able to develop a great number of such drugs and preparations, varying in strength from those which act for only a few moments and produce slight degrees of insensibility to those which may cause complete unconsciousness for long periods.

All such drugs are poisons if taken in large quantities. They should, therefore, be used with utmost caution, preferably never except on advice of a physician.

In some countries, druggists are not permitted to sell such preparations to anyone without a doctor's prescription.

The family medicine chest is better off without preparations of this nature. If, however, they have been prescribed by the doctor for use according to his directions, they should always be kept safely, to avoid any possibility of error in their use.

Among the oldest of the sleep producers is opium and its chief principle, morphine. These products now can be prescribed only by a doctor licensed under the Harrison anti-narcotic law. The mildest of the opium preparations is one called codeine.

Cocaine today is used chiefly in relation to products called local anesthetics which are injected under the skin or into the nerves to stop the passing of sensation.

Among the older sleep producers are the bromides, now available in many forms. They are used chiefly to quiet the spasms and convulsions associated with epilepsy, but the doses and the intervals of taking them must always be regulated by the doctor.

There are many other derivatives of barbituric acid, varying in strength or toxicity and poisoning character, such as veronal, trional, nembutal, ipral and amytal.

There are also combinations of these products with pyramidon, as in such products as ipralidon, cibalgine and similar preparations. A warning against the dangerous character of pyramidon combinations should be repeated.

Narcotic preparations should never be used by anyone without a doctor's prescription, and no drug that has to be administered with a hypodermic syringe should find a place in the average family medicine chest.

Some diabetes patients have been taught by doctors to inject themselves with insulin. Even these persons should always keep their syringe outfits separate from the family medicine chest.

Anesthetics such as chloroform and ether, occasionally purchased for use in destroying animal life, should be disposed of immediately after use and never kept permanently in the family medicine chest. These products are dangerous poisons, either inflammable or explosive, and a menace unless under complete and proper control.

Personnel of the Royal Canadian Air force is expected to be increased this year by about 40 per cent.

Behind The Scenes In Washington

By Rodney Dutcher

NEW YORK.—The Wall Street industrial-financial community is still lined up almost solidly against the re-election of Franklin D. Roosevelt, but with certain exceptions, a few mental reservations, and a fairly general tendency to fear the worst.

Governor Landon is not a hero in the Wall Street area. That may be partly because of a feeling that he hasn't yet fully demonstrated his capacity to straighten out the nation's affairs. But it is certainly in part due to the fact that he has refused to take an outright conservative position and insists on demonstrating certain liberal leanings.

Landon conspicuously refused, on his eastern trip, to rub noses with Old Guard leaders in New York state with whom Wall Street is on excellent terms. His declaration for repeal of the undivided corporate surplus tax appealed to many financiers and big business men and his previous stand on labor was popular among conservatives. But there are other factors which tend to make him somewhat less than an idol.

The president of one of the largest corporations in America went west awhile ago laden with advice to see Landon. He came back reporting that no one in the Landon camp at Topeka was in the least interested in his ideas, although some interest was displayed in the amount of money he might contribute.

Contributions Slowed Up

Reports from Chicago that contributions, especially from New York, aren't coming in to the Republican treasury quite as rapidly as anticipated may reflect the fact that Wall Street is nowhere as sure Roosevelt can be beaten as it was a few months ago.

One hears of wealthy men who practically had pen in hand and then, hearing reports through private sources of a muddle at Republican national headquarters, put their check books back, pending more encouraging assurances. Chairman John D. M. Hamilton is reported to be straightening out that situation.

In any event, everyone who knows anything about it seems to be sure the G. O. P. will have far more campaign money to spend than will the Democrats.

Congress Another Worry

Although the bitterness which the upper and near-upper crust in New York feels toward Roosevelt hasn't abated and shouldn't be minimized, one no longer hears many complaints based on the uncertainty of what to expect under Roosevelt.

Whether the president's assurances that new taxes won't be sought if he is still in the White House after December have had much to do with that is doubtful.

"Big business" operators have assimilated the fact that the next congress will be Democratic, certainly in the senate and by all odds of probability in the house as well. And that still leaves "uncertainty" as an element to face, regardless of who's elected.

Without horning into the issues between Wall Street and the president, it may be said that some of the relatively big figures in downtown New York have some lurid personal testimonials of experiences in Washington.

Some of them have been pushed around by underlings—and very often to the wrong places—in a manner different from anything to which they are accustomed.

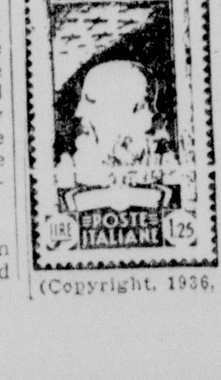
MECHANIC WHO BECAME A GREAT ARTIST

IN the Louvre, in Paris, hangs the famous Mona Lisa, portrait of a woman whose mysteriously smiling lips and devilish eyes have mystified the art world. In the refectory of the Santa Maria della Grazia cathedral in Milan hangs another great painting, depicting "The Last Supper." Both masterpieces are the work of a man who believed himself a better mechanic than artist—Leonardo da Vinci.

This genius, who lived from 1452 to 1519, had an abundance of brilliant ideas, but few ever came to completion. Besides the two great paintings, his famed works included a remarkable equestrian statue, which was destroyed later. He is believed to have drawn the first design for an airplane. He invented various engines of war and other mechanical devices. Even his sketches of paintings he never completed are considered masterpieces.



In tribute to Da Vinci's thoughts of flight, Italy in 1935 issued a set of air-mail stamps on one of which the great master is shown.

Our Valuable World

We should appreciate what this world can do for us.

Unless we watch ourselves we may look only on the distressful side of this world. The world is distressful. It is terrible. But what makes it terrible? The people in the world have made it so.

Really, the worst things about this world are the things that human beings bring on themselves. The misery of the great depression can be attributed directly to our selfishness, to our unwillingness to do our best individually and collectively for the welfare of all. The black war clouds that are now making the world shiver with dread are wholly the result of human perversity.

On one occasion, two men were standing on Portland heights, overlooking the city of Portland, Ore.

"A beautiful city," one of them said, remarking the buildings showing among the wealth of trees.

"It would be more beautiful to me," replied the other, "if there were a tree in place of every building; and it would be a safer place in which to live; for man's most dangerous enemy is man."

Whatever this world is, it is a better world than most of us are fit for. We are continually proving that fact by the way we behave ourselves.

This world gives us opportunity to learn how to live with others. Any one of us would be safer in a wilderness a million miles from a human being than in the midst of civilization. The lives of our pioneer forefathers illustrate that fact. But life in isolation does not teach us how to work wholesomely and constructively with our fellows.

NEW YORK Day by Day

by O.O. McIntyre

From my Scotch forebears, I presume, I inherit a belief in the gift of prophecy. I have several friends—three to be precise—who have foretold many things. One told me of the passing of a friend in Palm Beach, describing him perfectly and giving the month of his demise. He had no particular interest in the occult. Things, somehow, just came to him.

A librarian on a newspaper, a gentle, tituppy old fellow with white hair and mustaches, predicted to a group of us the year the World war would end, naming three possible months. It came to end that year and in one of the months, although at the time everybody believed it would be over in a short time.

Still another diviner was a character actor. But a student of the supernatural. He predicted several things that came to pass just as he said they would. Many believe this coincidence. But there has been too much of it through the years for that listing.

I have tried predicting myself, at times. But my diving rod does not even twitch. There is a power given certain individuals to look ahead and to see. Visions, they were called in Biblical days.

Dr. Alexis Carrel recently wrote: "The facts of prediction of the future lead us to the threshold of an unknown world." Every student of the Bible knows that many of the prophecies have already been fulfilled. Such as those of Amos, Jeremiah, Micah and Ezekiel. Recently Henry James Forman, a cultured gentleman, wrote a book on "The Story of Prophecy." He has listed an amazing number of the fulfillments.

For instance, late in the spring of 1934, a Spaniard announced that Chancellor Dolfuss of Austria would die a violent death within three months. The exact date was May 23.

A still living seer foretold the death of Lord Kitchener at sea in his 60th year and there is the record in Mark Twain's own writings of the prediction of a seer that he would be rich at the end of his life, after his 68th year. And he was. Tycho Brahe was 17 when he foretold, in 1563, the great plague that was to sweep Europe in 1665-1666.

Then there is this ominous from a modern prophet: "Certain happenings in 1936 will do more to annihilate the veil between the seen and the unseen than any other line of activity hitherto initiated. Death will lose its terrors, and the fear of death will come to an end between the years of 1936 and 1945."

It strikes me few persons can look so well-scrubbed and freshly laundered as those cafe managers who stand in their doorways—a sort of rite—just before the evening rush sets in. They are models of expert cleanliness, the triumph of water, soap and hair brushes.

The Spanish colony in New York has a rendezvous in Greenwich Village, a restaurant called El Chico. It is here matadors of Spain visiting America congregate. Also, many of the nobles and commoners who have left their sunny land for this reason or that. I dined there the other night. If the recent tragedies of Spain have depressed them they do not show it. Castanets were clacking and guitars twanging merrily. And there was as lusty singing as I have heard in a long while. It is, however, a part of the Spanish temperament to laugh in the teeth of disaster. They are good actors.

One of the most interesting slum streets in the metropolis is 46th street a few blocks west of Broadway. Here people live literally on the sidewalks, stoops, in the windows and in the street. Automobiles have to inch through for there are a dozen and one childish games in progress. And always there is the ring of happy shouts and merry laughter. If 46th street has tragedy, it hides it with amazing deftness. And it's a slum shot out of the movies in real life.

A meticulous grammarian in Cedar Rapids, Iowa, writes in to observe that one of the most pronounced faults lately is the constant misplacement of the adverb "only" in general conversation, radio announcements, magazines and newspapers. It is, she points out, so seldom used near the word it modifies. How often you hear: "I only have one," "I only went twice" or "They only have three children."

No one has ever squeezed such profits out of one little parlor trick as has Robert Benchley with his "The Treasurer's Report." It began for the sole amusement of his friends but proved so hilarious it was incorporated in a Music Box Revue where, as its delineator, Benchley appeared for a year at a fat salary. It then appeared in a magazine, then in a book, and is now seen in movie shorts. The thing just won't die.

Family Health

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Among the greatest blessings of mankind are those drugs and preparations which either completely deprive a human being of consciousness or temporarily inhibit it so that he becomes insensibe to pain or to outside stimuli.

The ancient Arabs and Egyptians were familiar with drugs that would produce sleep or temporary unconsciousness.

Only in modern centuries, however, have we been able to develop a great number of such drugs and preparations, varying in strength from those which act for only a few moments and produce slight degrees of insensibility to those which may cause complete unconsciousness for long periods.

All such drugs are poisons if taken in large quantities. They should, therefore, be used with utmost caution, preferably never except on advice of a physician.

In some countries, druggists are not permitted to sell such preparations to anyone without a doctor's prescription.

The family medicine chest is better off without preparations of this nature. If, however, they have been prescribed by the doctor for use according to his directions, they should always be kept safely, to avoid any possibility of error in their use.

Among the oldest of the sleep producers is opium and its chief principle, morphine. These products now can be prescribed only by a doctor licensed under the Harrison anti-narcotic law. The mildest of the opium preparations is one called codeine.

Cocaine today is used chiefly in relation to products called local anesthetics which are injected under the skin or into the nerves to stop the passing of sensation.

Among the older sleep producers are the bromides, now available in many forms. They are used chiefly to quiet the spasms and convulsions associated with epilepsy, but the doses and the intervals of taking them must always be regulated by the doctor.

There are many other derivatives of barbituric acid, varying in strength or toxicity and poisoning character, such as veronal, trional, nembutal, ipral and amytal.

There are also combinations of these products with pyramidon, as in such products as ipralidon, cibalgine and similar preparations. A warning against the dangerous character of pyramidon combinations should be repeated.

Narcotic preparations should never be used by anyone without a doctor's prescription, and no drug that has to be administered with a hypodermic syringe should find a place in the average family medicine chest.

Some diabetes patients have been taught by doctors to inject themselves with insulin. Even these persons should always keep their syringe outfits separate from the family medicine chest.

Anesthetics such as chloroform and ether, occasionally purchased for use in destroying animal life, should be disposed of immediately after use and never kept permanently in the family medicine chest. These products are dangerous poisons, either inflammable or explosive, and a menace unless under complete and proper control.

Personnel of the Royal Canadian Air force is expected to be increased this year by about 40 per cent.

Behind The Scenes In Washington

By Rodney Dutcher

NEW YORK.—The Wall Street industrial-financial community is still lined up almost solidly against the reelection of Franklin D. Roosevelt, but with certain exceptions, a few mental reservations, and a fairly general tendency to fear the worst.

Governor Landon is not a hero in the Wall Street area. That may be partly because of a feeling that he hasn't yet fully demonstrated his capacity to straighten out the nation's affairs. But it is certainly in part due to the fact that he has refused to take an outright conservative position and insists on demonstrating certain liberal leanings.

Landon conspicuously refused, on his eastern trip, to rub noses with Old Guard leaders in New York state with whom Wall Street is on excellent terms. His declaration for repeal of the undivided corporate surplus tax appealed to many financiers and big business men and his previous stand on labor was popular among conservatives. But there are other factors which tend to make him somewhat less than an idol.

The president of one of the largest corporations in America went west awhile ago laden with advice to see Landon. He came back reporting that no one in the Landon camp at Topeka was in the least interested in his ideas, although some interest was displayed in the amount of money he might contribute.

Contributions Slowed Up

Reports from Chicago that contributions, especially from New York, aren't coming in to the Republican treasury quite as rapidly as anticipated may reflect the fact that Wall Street is nowhere as sure Roosevelt can be beaten as it was a few months ago.

One hears of wealthy men who practically had pen in hand and then, hearing reports through private sources of a muddle at Republican national headquarters, put their check books back, pending more encouraging assurances. Chairman John D. M. Hamilton is reported to be straightening out that situation.

In any event, everyone who knows anything about it seems to be sure the G. O. P. will have far more campaign money to spend than will the Democrats.

Congress Another Worry

Although the bitterness which the upper and near-upper crust in New York feels toward Roosevelt hasn't abated and shouldn't be minimized, one no longer hears many complaints based on the uncertainty of what to expect under Roosevelt.

Whether the president's assurances that new taxes won't be sought if he is still in the White House after December have had much to do with that is doubtful.

"Big business" operators have assimilated the fact that the next congress will be Democratic, certainly in the senate and by all odds of probability in the house as well. And that still leaves "uncertainty" as an element to face, regardless of who's elected.

Without horning into the issues between Wall Street and the president, it may be said that some of the relatively big figures in downtown New York have some lurid personal testimonials of experiences in Washington.

Some of them have been pushed around by underlings—and very often to the wrong places—in a manner different from anything to which they are accustomed.

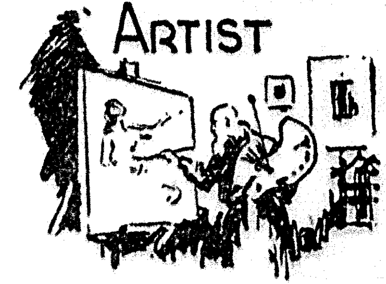
STORIES IN STAMPS

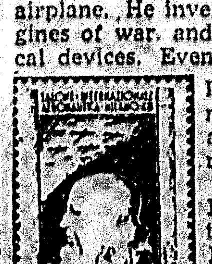
By I. S. Klein

MECHANIC WHO BECAME A GREAT ARTIST



IN the Louvre, in Paris, hangs the famous Mona Lisa, portrait of a woman whose mysteriously smiling lips and devilish eyes have mystified the art world. In the refectory of the Santa Maria della Grazia cathedral in Milan hangs another great painting, depicting "The Last Supper." Both masterpieces are the work of a man who believed himself a better mechanic than artist—Leonardo da Vinci.

This genius, who lived from 1452 to 1519, had an abundance of brilliant ideas, but few ever came to completion. Besides the two great paintings, his famed works included a remarkable equestrian statue, which was destroyed later. He is believed to have drawn the first design for an airplane. He invented various engines of war, and other mechanical devices. Even his sketches of paintings he never completed are considered masterpieces.



In tribute to Da Vinci's thoughts of flight, Italy in 1935 issued a set of airmail stamps on one of which the great master is shown.

TWIN CITY HAS BEAR EQUIPMENT

Oldsmobile Agency Offers Expert Frame And Front End Work

Automobile and truck owners, who have experienced the expense and inconvenience of laying up their cars for considerable time while the axle was removed, heated, straightened and put back in the car, should be interested in the announcement of the Twin City Motor company, 1700 South Grand street, that installation has been made of a new Bear hydraulic axle press which will straighten bent or twisted axles cold right in the car. The whole job can be done with this press in reasonable length of time.

The secret of the Bear method insofar as straightening twists (the Bear press is the only one designed for this operation) is concerned, lies in the fact that special clamps hold the axle rigid at the spring bed so that it is not disturbed when twisting pressure is supplied at the end of the axle.

Axle manufacturers are almost universal in their condemnation of the use of heat to straighten axles, because heating affects the annealing or "temper" of the axle, causing a soft spot wherever heat has been applied, which will bend or twist again much more easily.

An axle that is twisted has two effects that the car owner will notice. The first of these is to tires, which show scuffing on the treat until sometimes it is worn right down to the fabric. Or sometimes a pitting or cupping may be noticeable; and sometimes a peculiar sort of wear on both shoulders of the tread while the center rib remains unaffected. And the second is in the steering—the car may steer hard, wander, weave, and sometimes shimmy. With our present high speeds, anything that affects steering is extremely dangerous. Thus, with a danger not only to the pocketbook, but to life itself, twisted axles should never be permitted to go unstraightened.

It is not necessary to have your car in a wreck or collision for the axle to become twisted. The circumstances of ordinary driving are frequently sufficient to twist an axle. The drag of balloon tires is often partly responsible. Even more important is the general use of front wheel brakes. When brakes are even a little out of adjustment, the one which "grabs hold" first causes a twisting pressure on the axle, which is frequently sufficient to twist it out-of-line. Then, too, bumping a curb or a chuck hole in the road may cause a twisted axle.

With all of these things apt to twist the axle, and throw both wheels and axle out of line, every car should be checked for alinement at least every 5,000 miles—oftener if any misalinement is suspected. And if a bend or twist in the axle is discovered it should be straightened immediately.

Paul Wayland Bartlett, American sculptor, was born at New Haven, Conn., in 1865. He died in 1925.

FORD V-8 ENABLES CUT IN BUS FARES

Use Of New Equipment Makes Possible A Five Cent Charge

A five cent fare made possible by the use of Ford V-8 bus equipment is now in effect in Jackson, Mich., following institution of bus service by the National City lines. The city's street car system has been abandoned.

The bus franchise was granted to the National City company by the Jackson city commission on the strength of the company's guarantee of nickel fares. Twenty new Ford V-8 buses, operating on five lines intersecting in the downtown section, will provide the city with ten minute service during rush hours and twenty minute service at other times.

Jackson is the eighth city in which National City lines are operating buses. The other cities are: Kalamazoo, Mich., Joliet and East St. Louis, Ill., Tulsa, Okla., Biloxi and Gulfport, Miss., and Montgomery, Ala.

Issuance of the franchise to the Chicago firm terminated many months of negotiations which began when it became apparent that the city's electric lines would have to cease operation. Bids were received by the city commission from many different sources. Some proposed fares of 7 1-2 cents and more.

During the spring the field narrowed down to two bidders. The National City company won the franchise when it offered to provide new Ford V-8 equipment and nickel fares. Thus far since operations were begun, the company has been able to provide rigid adherence to schedules and fast service.

The buses are of 21-passenger type and painted white and yellow with chromium trim. Seats have tubular frames and are fitted with rubber air cushions. Fare boxes are electrically operated. The National City lines selected its employes from among the employes of the street car company.

FOUR CYLINDER CARS ECONOMICAL

Willys-Overland President Comments On Indianapolis Results

TOLEDO, O., Sept. 5—The time-proven four-cylinder type motor that powered nine winners in 23 Indianapolis speedway races to victory again scored in the 1936 event by winning first position for Louis Meyer of California and set up a new track record of 109.069 miles per hour.

Meyer, a three-time winner of the Indianapolis classics, set up this new speed record with his Ring Free four-cylinder special, beating his old records made with multi-cylinder racers, including a 16-cylinder car with which he finished fourth at an average speed of 95.253 miles per hour in the 1930 event.

Seven of the first 10 cars to get the checkered flag in the 1936 races were four cylinder racers, that competed with several multi-cylinder cars in a large field, Three "eights," but no "sixes" completed this number. Since 1911 ten of these races have been won with 4-cylinder engines, but with the 1934, 1935 and 1936 all won with "fours" the future trend would seem to be toward their being used entirely.

Drivers were limited to 37 1-2 gallons of gasoline for the 500-mile race. Meyer had 3 1-2 gallons of gasoline remaining after completing the race, having averaged approximately 15 miles to the gallon at record-breaking speeds. Ten cars exhausted their fuel supply before completing the 500 miles and were forced out of the race.

Commenting on the excellent performance of the four-cylinder cars in the Indianapolis races, David R. Wilson, president of Willys-Overland, which for 28 years has manufactured four-cylinder cars, declared that Meyer's record proved beyond a shadow of doubt that both speed and economy in fuel consumption can be obtained in the four-cylinder engine.

"While the four-cylinder Willys gives up to 35 per miles per gallon, other cars consume approximately the same amount of gas in every-day driving as was used in Meyer's car at speeds over 100 miles per hour," Mr. Wilson pointed out.

"To the additional credit of the four-cylinder type engine," he added, "is its stamina, which is required in the maximum in the gruelling 500-mile races at Indianapolis."

"Willys-Overland has 28 years of manufacturing experience behind it in producing four-cylinder type engines and we have no intention of altering our objective of producing this type car. Because we have been and still are concentrating upon four-cylinder models it can be properly expected that Willys-Overland will maintain the position of having the best car in its class on the market for years to come."

The Indianapolis victory climaxed a year of unusual success in competitions for the four-cylinder cars. By winning first place in the 1935 racing events staged by the American Racing Club of America, the four-cylinder Willys recently was awarded the coveted "No. 1" for the 1936 racing events of that club.

The Willys No. 11 entered the 1935 racing events of the club and moved up to first position by scoring a total of 1,900 points. The nearest competitor scored 1,125 points, giving the Willys first position by an unusually safe margin of 775 points.

In the American Grand Prix road race at Briar Cliff, the Willys scored 1,000 points, almost double the number of points attained by its nearest competitor. The four-cylinder Willys also made the fastest time ever attained by a four-cylinder car on the track at Muroc Lake, Calif., last fall when it covered 1,810 miles at an average speed of 75.41 miles per hour in a 24-hour run. This same car then ran another 24 hours at lower speeds and obtained 36.03 miles per gallon. In addition, the Willys during the past few months has won several hill climbing contests here and abroad, as well as a number of economy tests.

CHRYSLER OWNER LAUDS OVERDRIVE

Economy Of Outstanding Chrysler Feature Proved In Stiff Test

Striking proof of the economy made possible by the Chrysler automatic overdrive was recently given in a test run made by three cars from San Francisco to Del Monte and return. The test was under the auspices of a committee of three San Francisco newspaper observers and the cars were furnished by James W. McAlister, Inc., San Francisco Chrysler and Plymouth distributor, according to Willis, Inc., local Chrysler and Plymouth dealer, at 211 North Second street.

The cars used in the test were a Chrysler Six, with a cubic piston displacement of 241.5 inches, a Chrysler DeLuxe Eight, with a piston displacement of 273.8 inches and a Chrysler Airflow Imperial, with a piston displacement of 323.5 inches. All three were sedan models.

The running time in each direction was two hours and 45 minutes, which means that an average road speed of from 45 to 60 miles an hour was generally maintained. The cars were driven by amateur drivers in order that owner driving conditions might be maintained. Rules of the test required that cars be kept constantly in gear when the engine was running.

The official report of the test shows that the Chrysler Six averaged 20.5 miles per gallon of gasoline, the DeLuxe Eight, 17.9 miles and the Airflow Imperial, a big, powerful car, with a wheelbase of 128 inches and 130 horsepower, 17.2 miles.

These remarkable figures were due to the use of the Chrysler automatic overdrive over much of the route. The overdrive is in effect, a fourth speed that automatically comes into operation when the car reaches a speed of from 35 to 45 miles an hour. It permits a given car speed to be maintained with about one-third fewer engine revolutions than in conventional drive. The saving in gasoline and oil is obvious and also the saving in engine wear.

In the case of the Chrysler Airflow, economy is further promoted by the streamlined design of the car. This design offers a minimum of resistance to the air and greatly reduces the vacuum and disturbance created in the "wake" of a car with a conventional rear end design.

The economy feature of the Chrysler overdrive is not its only one, however. It permits a smoothness of performance not possible in conventional drive, and a sensation that the car is not being pulled by its engine but is coasting. As some owners have put it, a Chrysler in overdrive gives the closest approach to the sensation of flying that anyone ever had on four wheels.

STUDEBAKER HAS LEADING RECORD

Many Achievements Listed By Manufacturer Of Popular Car

"The Gay Nineties, 1892 to be exact, saw the birth of the automobile industry," according to "Sticky" Steele of the Central Automobile company, Studebaker dealer, whose showrooms are located at 212 North Second street.

Since that time, he states that more than 800 American makes of automobiles have been put on the market. Today there are only 13 manufacturers in the field, building 26 makes of cars.

"In each case, the stumbling block seems to have been lack of engineering advancement," said Mr. Steele. "Those companies that failed did so because they could not keep pace with the American demand for speed, safety and comfort in motor car construction."

No other automobile can point to a record that will compare with that of Studebaker; 84 years in the vehicle business, 34 years building automobiles. From the birth of the industry, Studebaker has pioneered important motor car refinements. A few of the most outstanding among these are: free-wheeling, safety glass all-around, steel-reinforced-by-steel bodies, fuel pumps, automatic spark control, and three-passenger front seats. There are many others of varying degrees of importance in the automobile industry. On such achievements as these has Studebaker's fine reputation been built.

In 1936, Studebaker astonished the motor car industry with 97 different improvements over the admittedly fine 1935 model. One of the most outstanding of these 97 new features on the 1936 Studebaker, and certainly one that is typical of the strides made by Studebaker engineers, is the automatic hill holder.

This device, found on no other motor car, is simple to operate. When the car stops facing up an incline, the driver applies pressure to the brake pedal in the usual manner, pressing down the clutch at the same time—a normal stop. When the car has been brought to a dead stop, the driver releases the brake pedal, while the pressure of his left foot alone on the clutch pedal automatically keeps the wheels locked. Thus the driver's right foot is left entirely free for operation of the accelerator pedal. To continue up the hill it is merely necessary to depress the accelerator and release the clutch. The latter action releases the brakes. The device is gaining a reputation among motorists everywhere as a preserver of patience, as well as safety.

With recent improvements in ground organization and night flying, the flying time between Holland and Batavia, Dutch East Indies, may be reduced from 55 to 48 hours.

CHEVROLET TRUCK SETS NEW RECORD

Performance Of Popular Model Proves More Than Satisfactory

Eastern Air Lines lays claim to a new world's record. But instead of pinning the ribbon on one of its giant Douglas airliners, the claim is now made that the Chevrolet truck, used by Eastern Air Lines for refueling planes at Jacksonville, Fla., has achieved the world's short-haul record, with a total of 38 miles registered on the speedometer after 12 months of daily service. That's really going places. Every day it makes eight round trips. It backs up, non-stop, for 35 feet. Then it refuels a plane and makes a forward non-stop run of 35 feet. There it rests until it is time to do it all over again.

The truck is one of a fleet of four 1½-ton trucks, its brethren being located at Atlanta, Washington and Newark, respectively. Each has a capacity of 510 gallons of 80-octane gas and 150 gallons of 87-octane. The latter contains more lead and is used only on take-offs. Sixty gallons per minute are pumped from the truck into the Douglas planes, a total of 1,500 gallons per day during summer. As a matter of fact, it is expected that 2,500 gallons will be used every day next winter when extra sections will be flown to take care of the New York and Chicago-Miami business.

The "Champ," as the airport crew calls it, has three drivers but no state license, since it operates entirely on the company property. It forms an important part in the efficient operation of the great silver fleet and has made consistent contribution in enabling Eastern Air Lines to keep a minimum schedule of 8½ hours between New York and New Orleans.

It is estimated that the truck will have to be in service 5,812 years before it can equal the record of 225,000 miles now held by several Chevrolet trucks.

Sixty new American fighting planes will take to the air each month for the remainder of the year, and 500 will have been delivered before the first of next year.

Oldsmobile Agency Offers Expert Frame And Front End Work

Automobile and truck owners, who have experienced the expense and inconvenience of laying up their cars for considerable time while the axle was removed, heated, straightened and put back in the car, should be interested in the announcement of the Twin City Motor company, 1700 South Grand street, that installation has been made of a new Bear hydraulic axle press which will straighten bent or twisted axles cold right in the car. The whole job can be done with this press in reasonable length of time.

The secret of the Bear method insofar as straightening twists (the Bear press is the only one designed for this operation) is concerned, lies in the fact that special clamps hold the axle rigid at the spring bed so that it is not disturbed when twisting pressure is supplied at the end of the axle.

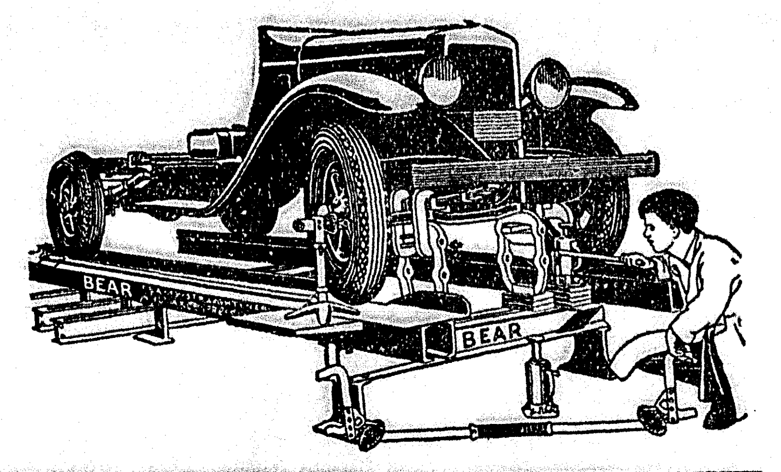
Axle manufacturers are almost universal in their condemnation of the use of heat to straighten axles, because heating affects the annealing or "temper" of the axle, causing a soft spot wherever heat has been applied, which will bend or twist again much more easily.

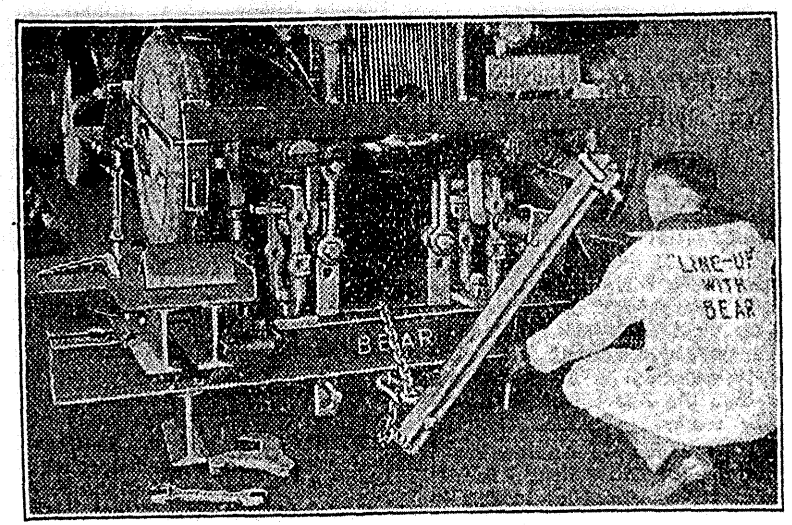
An axle that is twisted has two effects that the car owner will notice. The first of these is to tires, which show scuffing on the treat until sometimes it is worn right down to the fabric. Or sometimes a pitting or cupping may be noticeable; and sometimes a peculiar sort of wear on both shoulders of the tread while the center rib remains unaffected. And the second is in the steering—the car may steer hard, wander, weave, and sometimes shimmy. With our present high speeds, anything that affects steering is extremely dangerous. Thus, with a danger not only to the pocketbook, but to life itself, twisted axles should never be permitted to go unstraightened.

It is not necessary to have your car in a wreck or collision for the axle to become twisted. The circumstances of ordinary driving are frequently sufficient to twist an axle. The drag of balloon tires is often partly responsible. Even more important is the general use of front wheel brakes. When brakes are even a little out of adjustment, the one which "grabs hold" first causes a twisting pressure on the axle, which is frequently sufficient to twist it out-of-line. Then, too, bumping a curb or a chuck hole in the road may cause a twisted axle.

With all of these things apt to twist the axle, and throw both wheels and axle out of line, every car should be checked for alinement at least every 5,000 miles—oftener if any misalinement is suspected. And if a bend or twist in the axle is discovered it should be straightened immediately.

BEAR EQUIPMENT AT TWIN CITY





Above are two views of the Bear alignment machine at Twin City Motor company. With the installation of Bear equipment, Twin City is prepared to make axle, frame and front end adjustments without guesswork, and expertly. This equipment is the most modern available and assures Twin City patrons of efficient repair work.

FORD V-8 ENABLES CUT IN BUS FARES

Use Of New Equipment Makes Possible A Five Cent Charge

A five cent fare made possible by the use of Ford V-8 bus equipment is now in effect in Jackson, Mich., following institution of bus service by the National City lines. The city's street car system has been abandoned.

The bus franchise was granted to the National City company by the Jackson city commission on the strength of the company's guarantee of nickel fares. Twenty new Ford V-8 buses, operating on five lines intersecting in the downtown section, will provide the city with ten minute service during rush hours and twenty minute service at other times.

Jackson is the eighth city in which National City lines are operating buses. The other cities are: Kalamazoo, Mich., Joliet and East St. Louis, Ill., Tulsa, Okla., Biloxi and Gulfport, Miss., and Montgomery, Ala.

Issuance of the franchise to the Chicago firm terminated many months of negotiations which began when it became apparent that the city's electric lines would have to cease operation. Bids were received by the city commission from many different sources. Some proposed fares of 7 1-2 cents and more.

During the spring the field narrowed down to two bidders. The National City company won the franchise when it offered to provide new Ford V-8 equipment and nickel fares. Thus far since operations were begun, the company has been able to provide rigid adherence to schedules and fast service.

The buses are of 21-passenger type and painted white and yellow with chromium trim. Seats have tubular frames and are fitted with rubber air cushions. Fare boxes are electrically operated. The National City lines selected its employes from among the employes of the street car company.

FOUR CYLINDER CARS ECONOMICAL

Willys-Overland President Comments On Indianapolis Results

TOLEDO, O., Sept. 5—The time-proven four-cylinder type motor that powered nine winners in 23 Indianapolis speedway races to victory again scored in the 1936 event by winning first position for Louis Meyer of California and set up a new track record of 109.069 miles per hour.

Meyer, a three-time winner of the Indianapolis classics, set up this new speed record with his Ring Free four-cylinder special, beating his old records made with multi-cylinder racers, including a 16-cylinder car with which he finished fourth at an average speed of 95.253 miles per hour in the 1930 event.

Seven of the first 10 cars to get the checkered flag in the 1936 races were four cylinder racers, that competed with several multi-cylinder cars in a large field. Three "eights," but no "sixes" completed this number. Since 1911 ten of these races have been won with 4-cylinder engines, but with the 1934, 1935 and 1936 all won with "fours" the future trend would seem to be toward their being used entirely.

Drivers were limited to 37 1-2 gallons of gasoline for the 500-mile race. Meyer had 3 1-2 gallons of gasoline remaining after completing the race, having averaged approximately 15 miles to the gallon at record-breaking speeds. Ten cars exhausted their fuel supply before completing the 500 miles and were forced out of the race.

Commenting on the excellent performance of the four-cylinder cars in the Indianapolis races, David R. Wilson, president of Willys-Overland, which for 28 years has manufactured four-cylinder cars, declared that Meyer's record proved beyond a shadow of doubt that both speed and economy in fuel consumption can be obtained in the four-cylinder engine.

"While the four-cylinder Willys gives up to 35 per miles per gallon, other cars consume approximately the same amount of gas in every-day driving as was used in Meyer's car at speeds over 100 miles per hour," Mr. Wilson pointed out.

"To the additional credit of the four-cylinder type engine," he added, "is its stamina, which is required in the maximum in the gruelling 500-mile races at Indianapolis."

"Willys-Overland has 28 years of manufacturing experience behind it in producing four-cylinder type engines and we have no intention of altering our objective of producing this type car. Because we have been and still are concentrating upon four-cylinder models it can be properly expected that Willys-Overland will maintain the position of having the best car in its class on the market for years to come."

The Indianapolis victory climaxed a year of unusual success in competitions for the four-cylinder cars. By winning first place in the 1935 racing events staged by the American Racing Club of America, the four-cylinder Willys recently was awarded the coveted "No. 1" for the 1936 racing events of that club.

The Willys No. 11 entered the 1935 racing events of the club and moved up to first position by scoring a total of 1,900 points. The nearest competitor scored 1,125 points, giving the Willys first position by an unusually safe margin of 775 points.

In the American Grand Prix road race at Briar Cliff, the Willys scored 1,000 points, almost double the number of points attained by its nearest competitor. The four-cylinder Willys also made the fastest time ever attained by a four-cylinder car on the track at Muroc Lake, Calif., last fall when it covered 1,810 miles at an average speed of 75.41 miles per hour in a 24-hour run. This same car then ran another 24 hours at lower speeds and obtained 36.03 miles per gallon. In addition, the Willys during the past few months has won several hill climbing contests here and abroad, as well as a number of economy tests.

CHRYSLER OWNER LAUDS OVERDRIVE

Striking proof of the economy made possible by the Chrysler automatic overdrive was recently given in a test run made by three cars from San Francisco to Del Monte and return. The test was under ths auspices of a committee of three San Francisco newspaper observers and the cars were furnished by James W. McAlister, Inc., San Francisco Chrysler and Plymouth distributor, according to Willis, Inc., local Chrysler and Plymouth dealer, at 211 North Second street.

The cars used in the test were a Chrysler Six, with a cubic piston displacement of 241.5 inches, a Chrysler DeLuxe Eight, with a piston displacement of 273.8 inches and a Chrysler Airflow Imperial, with a piston displacement of 323.5 inches. All three were sedan models.

The running time in each direction was two hours and 45 minutes, which means that an average road speed of from 45 to 60 miles an hour was generally maintained. The cars were driven by amateur drivers in order that owner driving conditions might be maintained. Rules of the test required that cars be kept constantly in gear when the engine was running.

The official report of the test shows that the Chrysler Six averaged 20.5 miles per gallon of gasoline, the DeLuxe Eight, 17.9 miles and the Airflow Imperial, a big, powerful car, with a wheelbase of 128 inches and 130 horsepower, 17.2 miles.

These remarkable figures were due to the use of the Chrysler automatic overdrive over much of the route. The overdrive is in effect, a fourth speed that automatically comes into operation when the car reaches a speed of from 35 to 45 miles an hour. It permits a given car speed to be maintained with about one-third fewer engine revolutions than in conventional drive. The saving in gasoline and oil is obvious and also the saving in engine wear.

In the case of the Chrysler Airflow, economy is further promoted by the streamlined design of the car. This design offers a minimum of resistance to the air and greatly reduces the vacuum and disturbance created in the "wake" of a car with a conventional rear end design.

The economy feature of the Chrysler overdrive is not its only one, however. It permits a smoothness of performance not possible in conventional drive, and a sensation that the car is not being pulled by its engine but is coasting. As some owners have put it, a Chrysler in overdrive gives the closest approach to the sensation of flying that anyone ever had on four wheels.

STUDEBAKER HAS LEADING RECORD

Many Achievements Listed By Manufacturer Of Popular Car

"The Gay Nineties, 1892 to be exact, saw the birth of the automobile industry," according to "Sticky" Steele of the Central Automobile company, Studebaker dealer, whose showrooms are located at 212 North Second street.

Since that time, he states that more than 800 American makes of automobiles have been put on the market. Today there are only 13 manufacturers in the field, building 26 makes of cars.

"In each case, the stumbling block seems to have been lack of engineering advancement," said Mr. Steele. "Those companies that failed did so because they could not keep pace with the American demand for speed, safety and comfort in motor car construction."

No other automobile can point to a record that will compare with that of Studebaker; 84 years in the vehicle business, 34 years building automobiles. From the birth of the industry, Studebaker has pioneered important motor car refinements. A few of the most outstanding among these are: free-wheeling, safety glass all-around, steel-reinforced-by-steel bodies, fuel pumps, automatic spark control, and three-passenger front seats. There are many others of varying degrees of importance in the automobile industry. On such achievements as these has Studebaker's fine reputation been built.

In 1936, Studebaker astonished the motor car industry with 97 different improvements over the admittedly fine 1935 model. One of the most outstanding of these 97 new features on the 1936 Studebaker, and certainly one that is typical of the strides made by Studebaker engineers, is the automatic hill holder.

This device, found on no other motor car, is simple to operate. When the car stops facing up an incline, the driver applies pressure to the brake pedal in the usual manner, pressing down the clutch at the same time—a normal stop. When the car has been brought to a dead stop, the driver releases the brake pedal, while the pressure of his left foot alone on the clutch pedal automatically keeps the wheels locked. Thus the driver's right foot is left entirely free for operation of the accelerator pedal. To continue up the hill it is merely necessary to depress the accelerator and release the clutch. The latter action releases the brakes. The device is gaining a reputation among motorists everywhere as a preserver of patience, as well as safety.

CHEVROLET TRUCK SETS NEW RECORD

Eastern Air Lines lays claim to a new world's record. But instead of pinning the ribbon on one of its giant Douglas airliners, the claim is now made that the Chevrolet truck, used by Eastern Air Lines for refueling planes at Jacksonville, Fla., has achieved the world's short-haul record, with a total of 38 miles registered on the speedometer after 12 months of daily service. That's really going places. Every day it makes eight round trips. It backs up, non-stop, for 35 feet. Then it refuels a plane and makes a forward non-stop run of 35 feet. There it rests until it is time to do it all over again.

The truck is one of a fleet of four 1½-ton trucks, its brethren being located at Atlanta, Washington and Newark, respectively. Each has a capacity of 510 gallons of 80-octane gas and 150 gallons of 87-octane. The latter contains more lead and is used only on take-offs. Sixty gallons per minute are pumped from the truck into the Douglas planes, a total of 1,500 gallons per day during summer. As a matter of fact, it is expected that 2,500 gallons will be used every day next winter when extra sections will be flown to take care of the New York and Chicago-Miami business.

The "Champ," as the airport crew calls it, has three drivers but no state license, since it operates entirely on the company property. It forms an important part in the efficient operation of the great silver fleet and has made consistent contribution in enabling Eastern Air Lines to keep a minimum schedule of 8½ hours between New York and New Orleans.

It is estimated that the truck will have to be in service 5,812 years before it can equal the record of 225,000 miles now held by several Chevrolet trucks.

Sixty new American fighting planes will take to the air each month for the remainder of the year, and 500 will have been delivered before the first of next year.

BROWN CLICKS

Although "Buck" Brown has been here only a week, he's already made a big hit as assistant football coach at Northeast Center. Buck isn't exactly a stranger in these parts, but many fans hereabouts who had known of him by name only are getting acquainted with the former L. S. U. star and they've stamped him O. K.

Brown was a great all-'round athlete at Louisiana State. He was a brilliant football luminary, and his work on the diamond was just as outstanding. Buck was a guard at L. S. U. and in the recent poll to select an all-star team for the big game at Chicago, he polled thousands of votes, despite the fact that middle west players naturally dominated the poll.

Buck was one of the leading hurlers of the Southeastern conference, and when he wasn't winning games for the Tigers on the mound, they stuck him in the outfield and let him rap a few in the pinches. Local baseball fans may get to see him in action as a member of the Brown Paper mill team. In fact, he may be just what the Brownies need to cop that flag.

Brown's first week as line coach at Northeast Center was a strenuous one, to say the least. There wasn't a candidate on the field who worked any harder than Buck. In fact, Jim Malone had to ask the big fellow to ease up on 'em once or twice.

From all indications, Monroe and northeast Louisiana will go for Buck in a big way.

TECH PICK-UPS

Despite Eddie McLane's complaint about a light team, the head coach is pretty well satisfied with his prospects. We saw 'em in action Friday and they look plenty good. And as peppy a squad as we've ever lamped. Keep your eye on Guy Carroll. He looks better than ever. . . . And don't overlook that freshman squad. Some big fellows, and plenty fast.

Athletes and coaches alike are singing the praises of President Richardson, the new boss at Tech. He's strong for physical education, and you can expect him in the front row of the rooting brigade. "He does things in a big way," is how one fellow expressed it. . . . They're beautifying the stadium with shrubbery and flowers. It's a neat little plant, all right. . . . That tip we gave you a month ago about the two games with Butler is still okay. Some said we were talking through our hat when we broke the nows that Tech would invade Indiana next year, but you can expect a definite announcement any time now. . . . Bill Ruple, star guard of last year's team, is running the Bulldog Kennel, a sandwich and cold drink emporium, near the campus and is doing nicely, thank you. Bill's a papa now and he needs the biz. Shoesies come high these days, not to mention other equipment necessary for a strapping young offspring. . . . Professor Kenneth Hewins, who has put Tech on the front pages of every newspaper in the state, is still pounding out high class copy. The good Prof also can dish out the sports with the best of 'em. . . . McLane and his gang are busy working out a football clinic to be staged this month. Teams will go through the motions of demonstrating the various systems, and grid fans of this section can learn a lot about the game by attending.

SPORTS FODDER

Glowing tales of another and stronger football team are emanating from Minnesota . . . "It'll be stronger than the 1935 team and about as good as the 1934 powerhouse," promises George Barton, sports editor of the Minneapolis Tribune . . . George, who has seen most of the great Gopher elevens in action, is a shrewd judge of gridiron talent . . . "Many of my friends want me to run for the state legislature in Ohio and I may do it," says Jesse Owens, the Buckeye Comet who captured three gold medals in Berlin . . . Rumor has it Mike Jacobs, of the Twentieth Century Sporting club, still may be named promoter for Madison Square Garden . . . Art Lasky is said to be battling against going blind as the result of an opponent accidentally sticking his thumb in the heavyweight's eye in a recent fight . . . Carl Stockholm, formerly the "Flying Milkman" to Chicago six-day bike race fans, is now promoting auto races in the Windy City . . . He got the wherewithal from a successful string of cleaning shops.

Barney Oldfield, whose name is a byword for reckless speed, won his last race at an average of 13.84 miles per hour. . . It was a stunt race held at the Chicago World's fair in 1934. . . Barney drove a 1901 model 13 times around a 1,300-foot track on Friday the 13th to win . . . And his car number was "No. 13!" . . . Dressing up for the $10,000 Open December 4-7, Miami Biltmore Country club officials have planted 100 young cocoanut-palm trees on the famous southern course . . . Bobby Cruickshank, the "Wee Scot," is the only player ever to break 70 twice in one day in a National Open, turning the trick with 69-68 for the last 36 holes of the 1932 tourney . . . Joe Stripp, Dodgers third sacker, will open a baseball school for youngsters in Florida this coming winter . . . Phil Scott, who is probably down in the record books as the greatest of all "horizontal" heavyweights, is running a string of barber shops in England.

Joe Kirkwood, famous Australian trick shot golfer, has made four holes-in-one during his long career—one of them was made when he drove a ball off the face of a watch at Cedar Rapids, Ia.! . . . Rodge Kiley, an All-American end on two of Knute Rocke's best Notre Dame teams, learned his football from his brother John, who didn't play college football. . . . The tallest player on the American Olympic basketball team, which won all of its games in Berlin, is Willard Schmidt—six feet, nine inches . . . Joe Louis will shadow box for 10 minutes in his dressing room before all future fights . . . To be eligible for the world series a player must be on the club roster before the morning of September 1 . . . William Woodward, nationally known turfman and owner of such great thoroughbreds as Gallant Fox, Omaha and Granville, never bets on races.

National league pitchers generally are supposed to be superior to their American league brethren. . . . Yet figures show that those of the junior circuit have turned in nearly 100 more complete contests. . . . A good share of the Giants' success is attributed to their having adopted the St. Louis Cardinal and Cincinnati system of slight rewards for noble deeds and assessments for flops and skulls, with the pot to be split 24 ways when the last shot has been fired. . . . Heads of Cardinal subsidiaries became presidents of two of the three AA leagues, George Trautman of the American association and Warren Giles of the International. . . . Branch Rickey now is looking over the Pacific Coast league field. . . . Dizzy Dean hops through the hoop when Pepper Martin, his closest pal, snaps his fingers. . . . Paul Dean is urging Dizzy to let him do the fighting on the ground that it won't hurt the Red Birds if he is given the bum's rush. . . . Bookmakers throughout the country took a bath when Idle Way came down in front in the third at Washington park the other afternoon. . . . No handicapper as much as mentioned the steed. . . . Moose Earnshaw asks teammates to pinch him. . . . Wants to know if it's a dream or if it really is true that he is with the Gas House Gang and not on the banks of the Gowanus. . . . Charley Grimm beat a hasty retreat when Ripper Collins told him that the Cubs choked up against the Detroit Tigers in the world series last fall and that it was absolutely necessary for the Cardinals to battle the Yankees this trip. . . . Collins says that Billy Herman of the Bruins is so two-base hit crazy that he stops at second base on a home run.

SOFTBALL SERIES RESUMED TODAY

Bell And Adler Meet In Third Game Of Title Set At Casino Park

The third game of the city softball championship series between Southern Bell, Twilight league champions, and Adler's Garage, City league title holders, will be played this afternoon at Casino park. The game will get under way at 4 o'clock sharp.

Southern Bell is one up on the City leaguers, having won the first game by a score of 10 to 5. The second game played last Thursday came out in a 6-6 draw in eight innings. Southern Bell outclassed the Garagemen in every department of the game in the initial game, but the Adler crew looked better in the second game, and regardless of who wins the series, good ball games are expected.

The proceeds of today's game will be donated to the Neville High school band for uniforms. Through mutual agreement of the two teams the fourth game of the series will be played at Casino park Monday afternoon at 3:30 as the feature athletic event of the Labor Day celebrations.

The two teams are expected to line-up as follows:

Umpires will be Monroe, Wene and Jones.

MOORE SATISFIED WITH SHAPE OF L. S. U. SQUAD

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Coach Bernie Moore said today he was "satisfied" with the progress achieved by the Louisiana State university football squad in practice so far.

"With the weather so warm and so much to be done you can't expect too much in the way of results the first week," he said.

"However, I feel we have made as much progress as could be expected and I am satisfied."

WALBERG HOLDS SLUGGING ARRAY TO FOUR SAFETIES

Red Sox Take First, 3-2; New Yorkers Rally To Tie Second Game

BOSTON, Sept. 5.—(AP)—The league-leading New York Yankees came dangerously close to losing their first double header of the season today, but rallied in the nightcap long enough to pull out a 7-all tie with the Red Sox, after losing the opener, 3 to 2.

The defeat, however, did not cut their 17 1-2 game league lead, since the second place Cleveland Indians also lost their start.

Rube Walberg's four-hit pitching featured the opener, as Bump Hadley was belted for a dozen safe blows and his fourth defeat of the year against 12 victories. Two runs on four hits in the third, and a run in the seventh on Eric McNair's single produced the winning total.

The nightcap went 12 innings, and then was called because of impending darkness, after each club had shoved a run over in the third extra frame. The Sox executed a fielding masterpiece in the form of a triple play to stop a threatenig New York rally in the eighth. Frak Crosetti's attempted sacrifice, with first and second mates on became a pop fly to Joe Cronin, who threw to McNair to double Tony Lazzeri off second. McNair then tossed to Jimmy Foxx, who caught Pinch-Runner Roy Johnson off first for the third out.

WALKER DRILLS CHARGES IN WARNER FORMATIONS

UNIVERSITY, Miss., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Scrimmage sessions previously slated for today were overlooked as Coach Ed Walker drilled his University of Mississippi rebel grid charges in the intricacies of the Warner double wing back formations.

Walker delayed any statement relative to individual progress made by the 43 performers, saying he would have no real chance to get a line on the squad until teams are lined up and sent through play drills.

He promised that these drills would begin early next week, with next Saturday to be a tough day for all concerned. Meanwhile the only casualty of the five days of training was big Frank Hart, 209, tackle. Hart was suffering from a boil on his left leg.

Brown Expects Another Good Eleven At Neville

Tigers Open Against Camden On Sept. 18 With Lighter Squad

The Neville High school Tigers, with two weeks' training behind them, show promise of another good team this year, Coach Percy Brown has announced, even though the team that takes the field against the Camden, Ark., Panthers here within the next two weeks is expected to be somewhat lighter than the 1935 eleven that lost only one conference battle.

With the exception of Andrew Pappas, fullback, the entire Bengal backfield will be composed of inexperienced and second string backs of last fall. Joe Gimler, last season's stellar end, is being counted on to hold down one of the halfback posts, but as yet he has not been out for the practice sessions althoug' he is expected to join the squad soon.

At least three new faces are sure to appear in the line. Regulars practically assured of assuming their old roles in the forward wall are Urbane Kelly, end; John Ernest Kelly, tackle; P. A. Poag, center; and Edward Endom, second string tackle last season, who appeared in enough games to letter. Bob Prophit, elongated wingman who is developing into a good pass receiver, is slated to get one of the end positions if he continues his present good work.

The biggest battle for line positions is among the candidates for the guard posts. Four boys, Billy Bendel, who started as a back but was moved into the line division last week; Howard Earl, G. C. Kelly and George Sager are the aspirants for the guard slots and the fight for the positions is expected to develop a couple of good sets of guards despite their lack of experience.

Aside from Pappas and Gimbler, who are expected to bear the brunt of Neville's backfield work, Milo Mattinson, Dick Pritchard and Jack Lanham are leading the race for places among the ball carriers.

Coach Brown said he did not expect to have the eleven clicking smoothly at the start of the season, but that they would improve considerably as the season progressed and Monroe fans could be assured of a good club when the going began to "get hot" in the Class , district title race along about mid-season.

Complete equipment has already been issued and the first scrimmage season was held about the middle of the week. Most of the Bengals' work to date has taken in the whole category of football fundamentals from blocking and tackling, passing and punting to signal drill and scrimmage.

Beginning next week Coach Brown will scrimmage his charges twice each day, and, by the end of the week, expects to have a fair conception of the kind of team Neville will place on gridirons of this area this fall.

TEXARKANA CLUB SLATES FOUR-STATES GOLF MEET

TEXARKANA, Ark., Sept. 5.—(AP)—The Texarkana Country club announced tonight it would sponsor a four-states invitation golf tournament here October 29, 30, 31.

J. A. Buchanan, Jr., club president, said he expected the event to attract stars from Oklahoma, Texas, Louisiana and Arkansas.

Club members said they believed outstanding shotmakers attending would include Reynolds Smith and Ed White, Texans on the Walker Cup team; Jack Tinnin, Ed Allis and Harrow Smith, Little Rock; Edwin McClure, Shreveport, La., and representative Oklahomans.

COACHES TO MEET AT NATCHITOCHES

Annual Confab Of North Louisiana Association Slated Sept. 12

NATCHITOCHES, Sept. 5.—(Special)—Louisiana State Normal college campus will be the scene of the second annual fall meeting of the North Louisiana Coaches association Saturday, Sept. 12, when more than 200 prep school coaches from the northern section of the state and many secondary school mentors from the southern area are expected to attend the one-day confab.

Discussion of football rules will be the order of the day, and Assistant Coach Joe Aillet of the State Normal college, former Haynesville high school mentor and first president of the association, who has charge of local arrangements for the meeting, promises a busy session throughout.

With Alvin Bell of Little Rock, Ark., leading the discussion, the first meeting will get under way at 10 a. m. and last until noon. The second session will open at 1:30 p. m. and adjourn at 3:30. Remarks about the 1935 season, rule changes for 1936, general rules interpretation and officiating procedure will constitute the main topics for discussion in both meetings. During his lectures, Bell is scheduled to outline the regular coaching procedure of the Southeastern conference.

A meeting of the executive council of the coaches association, a general meeting of the coaches, hiring of officials and the checking of schedules will be other matters that will hold the attention of the prep school mentors at the meet.

Two special features of the conclave will be a fish fry given the members of the association and other coaches and officials by the State Normal college on Cane river lake from 6 to 7:30 p. m., and a field demonstration under the arc lights on the Normal field from 7:30 p. m. to 9 p. m. with the varsity and freshman squads of the state teachers' college here assisting.

FOUR ABSENT LETTERMEN OF SEWANEE TO REPORT

SEWANEE, Tenn., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Four absent lettermen are due to report to Coach Hek Clark Monday when the second week of training will begin.

Rough work is scheduled to start around next Wednesday.

The squad of two dozen has limited its activities thus far to calisthenics, passing, punting, dummy blocking and other conditioning exercises.

GEORGIA TECH PLAYERS ROUNDING INTO SHAPE

ATLANTA, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Fifty Georgia Tech football candidates today completed their first week of practice with handlers reporting a good performance of kicking, evidence of power and smooth passing.

Next week is scheduled to bring first scrimmages, after further fundamental work and grooving down of forward and lateral passes, an integral part of the scheduled attack system.

TERRYMEN LOSE GROUND IN RACE BY DROPPING TWO

Hurling Of MacFayden And Chaplin Puts Crimp In Pennant Parade

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—(AP)—The Boston Bees put a severe crimp in the Giants' pennant-bound parade today, knocking the league leaders over in both ends of a double header, 6 to 2 and 7 to 3, behind some fine pitching by Danny MacFayden and Tiny Chaplin.

With the second-place St. Louis Cardinals winning their single start, the double defeat clipped the Giants' lead to 2 1-2 games and ruined their home-coming from their successful western invasion.

A five-run fifth inning sewed up the opener for the Bees and blasted Freddy Fitzsimmons off the mound. In the nightcap, the Bees took the lead with three runs in the third, and after Jim Ripple's homer for the Giants had tied it up in the fifth, clinched the game with two more tallies in the sixth.

BROWN CLICKS

Although "Buck" Brown has been here only a week, he's already made a big hit as assistant football coach at Northeast Center. Buck isn't exactly a stranger in these parts, but many fans hereabouts who had known of him by name only are getting acquainted with the former L. S. U. star and they've stamped him O. K.

Brown was a great all-'round athlete at Louisiana State. He was a brillant football luminary, and his work on the diamond was just as outstanding. Buck was a guard at L. S. U. and in the recent poll to select an all-star team for the big game at Chicago, he polled thousands of votes, despite the fact that middle west players naturally dominated the poll.

Buck was one of the leading hurlers of the Southeastern conference, and when he wasn't winning games for the Tigers on the mound, they stuck him in the outfield and let him rap a few in the pinches. Local baseball fans may get to see him in action as a member of the Brown Paper mill team. In fact, he may be just what the Brownies need to cop that flag.

Brown's first week as line coach at Northeast Center was a strenuous one, to say the least. There wasn't a candidate on the field who worked any harder than Buck. In fact, Jim Malone had to ask the big fellow to ease up on 'em once or twice.

From all indications, Monroe and northeast Louisiana will go for Buck in a big way.

TECH PICK-UPS

Despite Eddie McLane's complaint about a light team, the head coach is pretty well satisfied with his prospects. We saw 'em in action Friday and they look plenty good. And as peppy a squad as we've ever lamped. Keep your eye on Guy Carroll. He looks better than ever. . . . And don't overlook that freshman squad. Some big fellows, and plenty fast.

Athletes and coaches alike are singing the praises of President Richardson, the new boss at Tech. He's strong for physical education, and you can expect him in the front row of the rooting brigade. "He does things in a big way," is how one fellow expressed it. . . . They're beautifying the stadium with shrubbery and flowers. It's a neat little plant, all right. . . . That tip we gave you a month ago about the two games with Butler is still okay. Some said we were talking through our hat when we broke the nows that Tech would invade Indiana next year, but you can expect a definite announcement any time now. . . . Bill Ruple, star guard of last year's team, is running the Bulldog Kennel, a sandwich and cold drink emporium, near the campus and is doing nicely, thank you. Bill's a papa now and he needs the biz. Shoesies come high these days, not to mention other equipment necessary for a strapping young offspring. . . . Professor Kenneth Hewins, who has put Tech on the front pages of every newspaper in the state, is still pounding out high class copy. The good Prof also can dish out the sports with the best of 'em. . . . McLane and his gang are busy working out a football clinic to be staged this month. Teams will go through the motions of demonstrating the various systems, and grid fans of this section can learn a lot about the game by attending.

SPORTS FODDER

Glowing tales of another and stronger football team are emanating from Minnesota . . . "It'll be stronger than the 1935 team and about as good as the 1934 powerhouse," promises George Barton, sports editor of the Minneapolis Tribune . . . George, who has seen most of the great Gopher elevens in action, is a shrewd judge of gridiron talent . . . "Many of my friends want me to run for the state legislature in Ohio and I may do it," says Jesse Owens, the Buckeye Comet who captured three gold medals in Berlin . . . Rumor has it Mike Jacobs, of the Twentieth Century Sporting club, still may be named promoter for Madison Square Garden . . . Art Lasky is said to be battling against going blind as the result of an opponent accidentally sticking his thumb in the heavyweight's eye in a recent fight . . . Carl Stockholm, formerly the "Flying Milkman" to Chicago six-day bike race fans, is now promoting auto races in the Windy City . . . He got the wherewithal from a successful string of cleaning shops.

Barney Oldfield, whose name is a byword for reckless speed, won his last race at an average of 13.84 miles per hour. . . It was a stunt race held at the Chicago World's fair in 1934. . . Barney drove a 1901 model 13 times around a 1,300-foot track on Friday the 13th to win . . . And his car number was "No. 13!" . . . Dressing up for the $10,000 Open December 4-7, Miami Biltmore Country club officials have planted 100 young cocoanut-palm trees on the famous southern course . . . Bobby Cruickshank, the "Wee Scot," is the only player ever to break 70 twice in one day in a National Open, turning the trick with 69-68 for the last 36 holes of the 1932 tourney . . . Joe Stripp, Dodgers third sacker, will open a baseball school for youngsters in Florida this coming winter . . . Phil Scott, who is probably down in the record books as the greatest of all "horizontal" heavyweights, is running a string of barber shops in England.

Joe Kirkwood, famous Australian trick shot golfer, has made four holes-in-one during his long career—one of them was made when he drove a ball off the face of a watch at Cedar Rapids, Ia.! . . . Rodge Kiley, an All-American end on two of Knute Rocke's best Notre Dame teams, learned his football from his brother John, who didn't play college football. . . . The tallest player on the American Olympic basketball team, which won all of its games in Berlin, is Willard Schmidt—six feet, nine inches . . . Joe Louis will shadow box for 10 minutes in his dressing room before all future fights . . . To be eligible for the world series a player must be on the club roster before the morning of September 1 . . . William Woodward, nationally known turfman and owner of such great thoroughbreds as Gallant Fox, Omaha and Granville, never bets on races.

National league pitchers generally are supposed to be superior to their American league brethren. . . . Yet figures show that those of the junior circuit have turned in nearly 100 more complete contests. . . . A good share of the Giants' success is attributed to their having adopted the St. Louis Cardinal and Cincinnati system of slight rewards for noble deeds and assessments for flops and skulls, with the pot to be split 24 ways when the last shot has been fired. . . Heads of Cardinal subsidiaries became presidents of two of the three AA leagues. George Trautman of the American association and Warren Giles of the International. . . . Branch Rickey now is looking over the Pacific Coast league field. . . . Dizzy Dean hops through the hoop when Pepper Martin, his closest pal, snaps his fingers. . . . Paul Dean is urging Dizzy to let him do the fighting on the ground that it won't hurt the Red Birds if he is given the bum's rush. . . . Bookmakers throughout the country took a bath when Idle Way came down in front in the third at Washington park the other afternoon. . . . No handicapper as much as mentioned the steed. . . . Moose Earnshaw asks teammates to pinch him. . . . Wants to know if it's a dream or if it really is true that he is with the Gas House Gang and not on the banks of the Gowanus. . . . Charley Grimm beat a hasty retreat when Ripper Collins told him that the Cubs choked up against the Detroit Tigers in the world series last fall and that it was absolutely necessary for the Cardinals to battle the Yankees this trip. . . . Collins says that Billy Herman of the Bruins is so two-base hit crazy that he stops at second base on a home run.

SOFTBALL SERIES RESUMED TODAY

Bell And Adler Meet In Third Game Of Title Set At Casino Park

The third game of the city softball championship series between Southern Bell, Twilight league champions, and Adler's Garage, City league title holders, will be played this afternoon at Casino park. The game will get under way at 4 o'clock sharp.

Southern Bell is one up on the City leaguers, having won the first game by a score of 10 to 5. The second game played last Thursday came out in a 6-6 draw in eight innings. Southern Bell outclassed the Garagemen in every department of the game in the initial game, but the Adler crew looked better in the second game, and regardless of who wins the series, good ball games are expected.

The proceeds of today's game will be donated to the Neville High school band for uniforms. Through mutual agreement of the two teams the fourth game of the series will be played at Casino park Monday afternoon at 3:30 as the feature athletic event of the Labor Day celebrations.

The two teams are expected to line-up as follows:

Umpires will be Monroe, Wene and Jones.

MOORE SATISFIED WITH SHAPE OF L. S. U. SQUAD

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Coach Bernie Moore said today he was "satisfied" with the progress achieved by the Louisiana State university football squad in practice so far.

"With the weather so warm and so much to be done you can't expect too much in the way of results the first week," he said.

"However, I feel we have made as much progress as could be expected and I am satisfied."

WALBERG HOLDS SLUGGING ARRAY TO FOUR SAFETIES

Red Sox Take First, 3-2; New Yorkers Rally To Tie Second Game

BOSTON, Sept. 5.—(AP)—The league-leading New York Yankees came dangerously close to losing their first double header of the season today, but rallied in the nightcap long enough to pull out a 7-all tie with the Red Sox, after losing the opener, 3 to 2.

The defeat, however, did not cut their 17 1-2 game league lead, since the second place Cleveland Indians also lost their start.

Rube Walberg's four-hit pitching featured the opener, as Bump Hadley was belted for a dozen safe blows and his fourth defeat of the year against 12 victories. Two runs on four hits in the third, and a run in the seventh on Eric McNair's single produced the winning total.

The nightcap went 12 innings, and then was called because of impending darkness, after each club had shoved a run over in the third extra frame. The Sox executed a fielding masterpiece in the form of a triple play to stop a threatenig New York rally in the eighth. Frak Crosetti's attempted sacrifice, with first and second mates on became a pop fly to Joe Cronin, who threw to McNair to double Tony Lazzeri off second. McNair then tossed to Jimmy Foxx, who caught Pinch-Runner Roy Johnson off first for the third out.

WALKER DRILLS CHARGES IN WARNER FORMATIONS

UNIVERSITY, Miss., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Scrimmage sessions previously slated for today were overlooked as Coach Ed Walker drilled his University of Mississippi rebel grid charges in the intricacies of the Warner double wing back formations.

Walker delayed any statement relative to individual progress made by the 43 performers, saying he would have no real chance to get a line on the squad until teams are lined up and sent through play drills.

He promised that these drills would begin early next week, with next Saturday to be a tough day for all concerned. Meanwhile the only casualty of the five days of training was big Frank Hart, 209, tackle. Hart was suffering from a boil on his left leg.

Brown Expects Another Good Eleven At Neville

The Neville High school Tigers, with two weeks' training behind them, show promise of another good team this year, Coach Percy Brown has announced, even though the team that takes the field against the Camden, Ark., Panthers here within the next two weeks is expected to be somewhat lighter than the 1935 eleven that lost only one conference battle.

With the exception of Andrew Pappas, fullback, the entire Bengal backfield will be composed of inexperienced and second string backs of last fall. Joe Gimler, last season's stellar end, is being counted on to hold down one of the halfback posts, but as yet he has not been out for the practice sessions althoug' he is expected to join the squad soon.

At least three new faces are sure to appear in the line. Regulars practically assured of assuming their old roles in the forward wall are Urbane Kelly, end; John Ernest Kelly, tackle; P. A. Poag, center; and Edward Endom, second string tackle last season, who appeared in enough games to letter. Bob Prophit, elongated wingman who is developing into a good pass receiver, is slated to get one of the end positions if he continues his present good work.

The biggest battle for line positions is among the candidates for the guard posts. Four boys, Billy Bendel, who started as a back but was moved into the line division last week; Howard Earl, G. C. Kelly and George Sager are the aspirants for the guard slots and the fight for the positions is expected to develop a couple of good sets of guards despite their lack of experience.

Aside from Pappas and Gimbler, who are expected to bear the brunt of Neville's backfield work, Milo Mattinson, Dick Pritchard and Jack Lanham are leading the race for places among the ball carriers.

Coach Brown said he did not expect to have the eleven clicking smoothly at the start of the season, but that they would improve considerably as the season progressed and Monroe fans could be assured of a good club when the going began to "get hot" in the Class , district title race along about mid-season.

Complete equipment has already been issued and the first scrimmage season was held about the middle of the week. Most of the Bengals' work to date has taken in the whole category of football fundamentals from blocking and tackling, passing and punting to signal drill and scrimmage.

Beginning next week Coach Brown will scrimmage his charges twice each day, and, by the end of the week, expects to have a fair conception of the kind of team Neville will place on gridirons of this area this fall.

TEXARKANA CLUB SLATES FOUR-STATES GOLF MEET

TEXARKANA, Ark., Sept. 5.—(AP)—The Texarkana Country club announced tonight it would sponsor a four-states invitation golf tournament here October 29, 30, 31.

J. A. Buchanan, Jr., club president, said he expected the event to attract stars from Oklahoma, Texas, Louisiana and Arkansas.

Club members said they believed outstanding shotmakers attending would include Reynolds Smith and Ed White, Texans on the Walker Cup team; Jack Tinnin, Ed Allis and Harrow Smith, Little Rock; Edwin McClure, Shreveport, La., and representative Oklahomans.

COACHES TO MEET AT NATCHITOCHES

Annual Confab Of North Louisiana Association Slated Sept. 12

NATCHITOCHES, Sept. 5.—(Special)—Louisiana State Normal college campus will be the scene of the second annual fall meeting of the North Louisiana Coaches association Saturday, Sept. 12, when more than 200 prep school coaches from the northern section of the state and many secondary school mentors from the southern area are expected to attend the one-day confab.

Discussion of football rules will be the order of the day, and Assistant Coach Joe Aillet of the State Normal college, former Haynesville high school mentor and first president of the association, who has charge of local arrangements for the meeting, promises a busy session throughout.

With Alvin Bell of Little Rock, Ark., leading the discussion, the first meeting will get under way at 10 a. m. and last until noon. The second session will open at 1:30 p. m. and adjourn at 3:30. Remarks about the 1935 season, rule changes for 1936, general rules interpretation and officiating procedure will constitute the main topics for discussion in both meetings. During his lectures, Bell is scheduled to outline the regular coaching procedure of the Southeastern conference.

A meeting of the executive council of the coaches association, a general meeting of the coaches, hiring of officials and the checking of schedules will be other matters that will hold the attention of the prep school mentors at the meet.

Two special features of the conclave will be a fish fry given the members of the association and other coaches and officials by the State Normal college on Cane river lake from 6 to 7:30 p. m., and a field demonstration under the arc lights on the Normal field from 7:30 p. m. to 9 p. m. with the varsity and freshman squads of the state teachers' college here assisting.

FOUR ABSENT LETTERMEN OF SEWANEE TO REPORT

SEWANEE, Tenn., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Four absent lettermen are due to report to Coach Hek Clark Monday when the second week of training will begin.

Rough work is scheduled to start around next Wednesday.

The squad of two dozen has limited its activities thus far to calisthenics, passing, punting, dummy blocking and other conditioning exercises.

GEORGIA TECH PLAYERS ROUNDING INTO SHAPE

ATLANTA, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Fifty Georgia Tech football candidates today completed their first week of practice with handlers reporting a good performance of kicking, evidence of power and smooth passing.

Next week is scheduled to bring first scrimmages, after further fundamental work and grooving down of forward and lateral passes, an integral part of the scheduled attack system.

TERRYMEN LOSE GROUND IN RACE BY DROPPING TWO

Hurling Of MacFayden And Chaplin Puts Crimp In Pennant Parade

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—(AP)—The Boston Bees put a severe crimp in the Giants' pennant-bound parade today, knocking the league leaders over in both ends of a double header, 6 to 2 and 7 to 3, behind some fine pitching by Danny MacFayden and Tiny Chaplin.

With the second-place St. Louis Cardinals winning their single start, the double defeat clipped the Giants' lead to 2 1-2 games and ruined their home-coming from their successful western invasion.

A five-run fifth inning sewed up the opener for the Bees and blasted Freddy Fitzsimmons off the mound. In the nightcap, the Bees took the lead with three runs in the third, and, after Jim Ripple's homer for the Giants had tied it up in the fifth, clinched the game with two more tallies in the sixth.

DOWNING, JR., MEDALIST IN LABOR DAY MEET

MATCH PLAY TO START TODAY IN ANNUAL TOURNEY

Local Youngster Posts 73 For Lead; Many Entrants This Year

Ben Downing, Jr., 14-year-old Monroe youngster, won medalist honors in the fifth annual Labor Day golf tournament at Lakeside Country club, with a one-over-par 73. The tournament opened yesterday with the qualifying round, and there were 101 entrants in what shapes up as the most successful tourney of them all.

Young Downing shot his 73 several days ago and no one could better it yesterday, the final qualifying date. H. K. Touchstone was runner-up with a 75, Wesley Shafto shot a 76 and H. A. Dingey, of Chicago, posted a 78.

Downing's card:
Par out—5 3 4 4 4 3 4 4 5—36.
Downing out—5 3 4 4 4 3 5 4 5—37.
Par in—5 3 4 4 4 3 4 4 5—36-36-72.
Downing in—4 3 3 4 4 4 5 4 5—36-37-73.

Cramer Haas, defending champion, was exempt from qualifying.

First round matches will be played this morning with second round scheduled for this afternoon, semifinals Monday morning and finals Monday afternoon. The prizes will be awarded at conclusion of play Monday evening.

Two elaborate entertainment features were arranged for visitors. Tourney entrants, their guests and club members and guests attended a dance at the club last night. Tonight there will be a barbecue for tournament entrants only. The committee reiterated last night their previous announcement that the barbecue will be given for tourney entrants and their wives or "dates" only, and club members who are not playing in the tournament may not attend.

Fourth and fifth flight matches today will be played at the Municipal club, it was announced last night, in order to avoid crowding of the Lakeside course. However, Monday matches in all flights will be played at the country club.

Play today will start with the first match of the first flight teeing off at 7:45 o'clock this morning at the Country club. The matches will be started at five minute intervals. The championship flight will get under way at 8:10 o'clock, the second flight at 8:35 and the third flight at 9 o'clock. The fourth flight will start at 8:30 o'clock at the Muny links. All players in the fifth flight drew byes and will play their second round matches this afternoon at Muny.

Winnie Cole, Municipal pro is in charge of running off the tournament. Six entrants posted 83s and thus are tied for one spot in the championship flight. They were Kenneth Holt, Ford Hines, Art Surguine, J. S. Tisington, Dr. T. A. Brulte and Ralph Wheat. They will engage in a playoff this morning, with the winner getting the championship berth and the other five going into the first flight.

Following are the pairings, with qualifying scores:

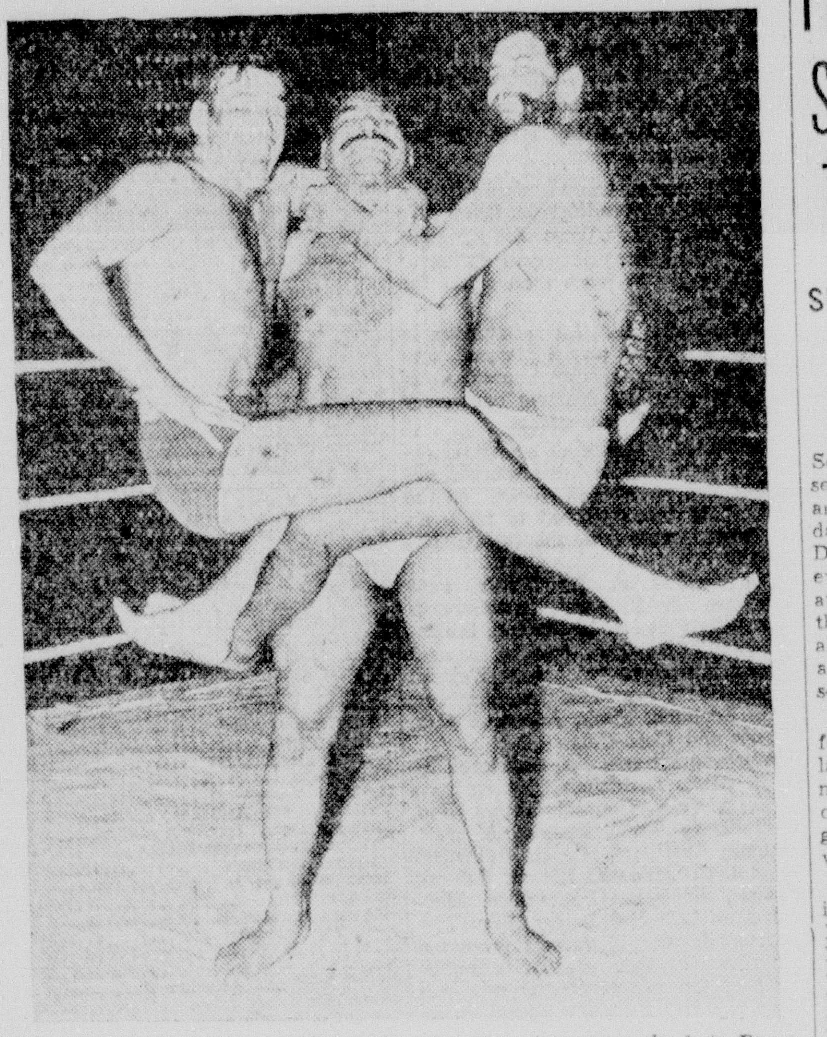
Macaluso Meets Doula In Main Event Tuesday Night

TOUGH HINDU RETURNS TUESDAY



Tiger Doula, latest sensation of the wrestling ring, comes back to Roosevelt stadium Tuesday night to meet Len Macaluso, clever former all-America football star. Doula is the gent with the mustache who's holding up the other two pachyderms.

FORMER GRIDIRON STAR TO TACKLE TOUGH HINDU ACE

Slagle Returns To Meet Cy Berger In Semi-Final At Stadium

Len Macaluso, whose match with Sol Slagle last week was the best seen here in many months, will tackle an even more formidable foe Tuesday night when he meets Tiger Doula, tough Hindu, in the main event of the weekly wrestling show at Roosevelt stadium. Slagle, one of the best showmen in the business, also will be back, meeting Cy Berger, another rugged performer, in the semi-final match.

Macaluso, the former all-America football star from Colgate, returned last week after an absence of several months and picked up where he left off. Already popular here, the big grid star added more followers by his work with Slagle.

Mac has defeated some of the leading grapplers of the nation, including Dick Shikat, Emil Dusek, Hans Kampfer, Hans Steinke, Ivan Vacturoff, Man Mountain Dean, Jim Browning, Strangler Lewis, Jim McMillan and others. During his football career, he was regarded as one of the greatest backs of all time. In fact, "Pop" Warner said he was the equal of Ernie Nevers, whom Warner has termed the greatest back in football.

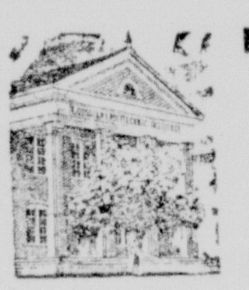
Macaluso is a human flash in the ring, mixing speed with science and a superb natural balance that makes him a real crowd-pleaser. He is strong and able to handle the rough boys at their own game, but prefers to break clean and wrestle decently. He meets the rough attack with a smashing flying tackle, and he's the best in the business with that method of attack.

Doula, the latest sensation of the wrestling game, made his local debut last week by quickly disposing of Jack League. He won the first fall by downing League with what Doula termed an "East Indian death lock." He won the fall by standing on the back of League's legs, just about the knee joints, and twisting his feet behind Jack's knees. League was unable to come back for the second fall.

Doula was plenty rough, giving League a thorough going-over while they were at it. Promoter Phil Lisotta said he was certain Macaluso could make a better showing against the tough Hindu than League, and he expects a fast battle.

Slagle, the "rubber man," will get a chance to demonstrate his ability to break holds against a top-notcher when he goes up against Berger. Cy is much stronger than Slagle, and he's likely to give the roly-poly "rubber man" a large evening.

Both matches will be best two out of three falls, with the main event limited to two hours and the semi-final having a one-hour time limit.



TECH TIDINGS

By Ruston Sports Correspondent

RUSTON, La., Sept. 5.—Some say one thing and some say another, but when a football coach says his boys look "pretty good," the boys can consider themselves complimented; for it may be a cold day in December before they ever hear it again.

Anyway, Coach Eddie McLane of Louisiana Tech feels that way about his 42 varsity candidates this weekend. He wouldn't swell their heads, you understand. In fact, they have only turned lightly to the matter of football so far. But so far, so good. The head man can't complain, he concedes.

Many of the varsity aspirants being lighter than desired, no strenuous tactics will be resorted to until the middle of the coming week, the chief announces. Although the candidates are cavorting in shorts at drill sessions, one hour in the morning and an hour and a half in the afternoon, they were issued their regulation fall clothing Friday afternoon. Incidentally, George (Blue) Hogg, freshman coach, and his manual training pupils are due a line or two for having made hangers for the varsity equipment in their workshop at Tech during the summer.

Last Of Technicians

Don Wiley, who took up with the ways of Coach McLane in Birmingham, Ala., was the 42nd member of the Tech squad to report for practice. His arrival completes the roster of all the varsity men expected to return. Wiley never does anything in the right way, but using the left way he has kicked up plenty of star dust at Tech. The local squad also includes some other stars who fell from Alabama, namely, Herman Hewett, Houston Beaumont, Bill Dukes and Robert Swindell, the latter being a sophomore.

Some Missing Links

Since Coach McLane has not yet endeavored to form any team combinations (although he will get around to that presently), he is unable to determine where the weakest points will exist in his 1936 machine. He does observe, however, that there are some important holes in the ranks that have resulted from the absence of such former mainstays as Madison Brooks, Bill Ruple, Archie Turner, Tom Deas, Fred Beckett, W. C. Johnston, James Mize, Gene Hasha, Jack Thigpen and C. C. (Bunker) Hill. It was also a "blow" to the mentor to learn that Charles Williams, a freshman of last year who was booked for fullback with the varsity this fall, will not return to school here.

Free Football Clinic

Plans are being made by Coach McLane for a free football clinic to be held at Louisiana Tech on Wednesday night, September 16, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. Several high school teams in north Louisiana will be invited to join the Techmen in staging the show, which will feature demonstrations of the Notre Dame, Warner and other systems of the gridiron sport. Coach McLane will be down on the field with a microphone to describe the plays through loud speakers to the fans in the stadium. He has done that before, while at Howard college in Birmingham, where in 1933 about 15,000 people turned out to learn more about football from the spectators' point of view. By the way, events like a football clinic fit in with the ideas of Tech's new president, E. S. Richardson. The prexy wants the college to be of service to all, both off and on the campus. He deems it the duty as well as the privilege of the institution to be a "community center" on a large scale, he says.

Coaching Staff Unchanged

Principal instructors in football at Louisiana Tech this fall will be the same men who did the work last year. Coach McLane will handle the backs, Coach Herb Duggins the ends, and Mike Wells the linemen of the varsity. "Blue" Hogg will have charge of the frosh. Eddie Wojecki, who declares that he takes pains with his work, will continue as the trainer. This is the first time in several years that there has not been a change in an assistant or two on the coaching staff. The combination last year produced a winner.

Football Premises Beautified

Part of the cyclone fence around the football grounds at Tech is being lined with shrubs. The planting not only makes the premises prettier, but will work a hardship on the knot-hole gang. Despite the long dry spell, the grass on the football field has grown satisfactorily

Rajcan From Duquesne

George Rajcan, Tech linesman of repute, wants the folks to know that this correspondent did him wrong by reporting him from Rochester, Pa., the other day. He is from Duquesne. The fellow giving out the hometown probably knew it all the time but didn't know how to spell Duquesne. Mr. Rajcan, did you ever hear the story about the policeman who found a dead horse on Massachusetts avenue? In making his report, the cop couldn't spell Massachusetts, so he dragged the horse over to Ohio street.

COTTON STATES LEAGUE

LIONS WHIP BUCKS

EL DORADO, Ark., Sept. 5.—(AP)—The El Dorado Lions took a 2 to 1 lead over the Greenville Buckshots tonight in the Cotton States league championship playoff, winning a free-hitting game, 9 to 7.

The Lions sent four runs across in the second inning and five in the third and used three pitchers in checking rallies by the visitors. Boward and Hawley hurled for Greenville. Dark, Ginn and Moore saw service for El Dorado.

Greenville	.......021 031 000—	7	13	1
El Dorado	.......045 000 00x—	9	18	1

BARNETT, STEPHENS TO SEMI-FINALS AT ALEX

ALEXANDRIA, La., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Ed Barnett of Little Rock and H. M. Stephens of Shreveport entered the semi-finals in men's singles in the Louisiana state tennis tournament here today.

In junior singles Morey Lewis of Texarkana, Chester Granville of Austin, Marlin King of Austin and George Dunklin of Pine Bluff reached the semi-final round. King was the only unseeded entry to make the round.

Barnett went into the semi-finals by trimming Bub Murphy of Shreveport, 2-6, 9-7, 6-1, while Stephens beat Lasker Ehman of Austin, 6-3, 6-2.

M. J. McLaney of New Orleans will play the winner of the Jake Shapiro of Alexandria and Van Wilson of Shreveport match to enter the semi-finals against Stephens.

MISSISSIPPI TEAM PACED IN OPENING SCRIMMAGE

STATE COLLEGE, Miss., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Appearing in regulation togs for the first time this fall, the Mississippi State squad sweltered through a hard two hour drill which included the first real scrimmaging of the training period.

The backs, under Frank Carideo, got thirty minutes of tackling at full speed and the linemen, supervised by Captain John Stokes, were called on for lengthy blocking and tackling exercises.

Major Ralph Sasse compensated the players for consistent work throughout the week by deleting the morning drill, but added extra heavy duties for the afternoon.

AUBURN SQUAD BEGINS SWIFT GRID TRAINING

AUBURN, Ala., Sept. 5.—(AP)—With the opening game less than three weeks away, Coach Jack Meagher started his 50-odd Auburn university athletes through intensive workouts today. Kilgore, Hitchcock, Kelly and Blake will be under close observance Monday for selection of a lead-off punter.

The varsity team began to take definite shape this afternoon when Capt. Walter Gilbert led the prospective team against Birmingham-Southern plays, opening opponent at Montgomery September 25.

ENGINEERS AT BROWN

The league leading Brown Paper mill Brownies, only half a game ahead of the Sterlington Engineers, will be "on the spot" today when they face the Sterlington aggregation in what is expected to be the crucial battle of the second half flag race. The game is scheduled to start promptly at 3:30 o'clock at the Brownies' park.

The Engineers are highly confident that they will be able to turn back the Papermakers and wrest the league leadership from them for the first time since the second half schedule began. A victory for the visitors would put them half a game ahead.

Both clubs, however, stand a chance to tie for the league lead at the end of the schedule. In such a case a preliminary series before the title battles will take place. The regular schedule ends next Sunday.

"Buck" Brown, new coach at Northeast Center of L. S. U. and a former L. S. U. pitching star, is a Brownie eligible and will be in uniform today. He may get an opportunity to pitch, or play in the Brown outfield, Manager Herb Steed said last night. Mayes will be the starting hurler, with Priester catching, while the Sterlington battery probably will be Cranford and Gumber.

Admission price for the game will be 25 cents.

FLORIDA GRIDSTERS END WEEK OF GRIDIRON WORK

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Punting was the password today as the University of Florida gridsters concluded their first week of conditioning and prepared to hustle into rougher work next week.

Under the watchful eye of Coach Josh Cody, who is making his debut as a Gator mentor this year, Walter Mayberry, and Bob Ivey, quarterbacks; Harry Kicliter, tackle and Duke Warren, halfback, booted the pigskin around Murphree field, shortly before the regular practice session got under way with an overcast sky, concluding the session in a light shower.

COMMODORES GO THROUGH FIRST LIVE SCRIMMAGE

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Coach Ray Morrison said he was "pleased with the progress we have made" after watching his Vanderbilt Commodores go through their first live scrimmage of the training season today.

Sam Agee, varsity fullback missing since Tuesday's initial session, appeared today, much underweight, to complete the squad of 52.

Today was the final public drill. The canvass will be placed around the fence Monday and no visitors admitted.

NEYLAND ORDERS FULL SPEED FOR TENNESSEE U.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Expressing satisfaction with the first week of practice, Coach Bob Neyland today ordered full speed ahead next week for the University of Tennessee football squad. The first scrimmage is scheduled for either next Friday or Saturday.

Two drills daily are being held.

Phil Dickens, Red Harp, Woodrow Derryberry and two sophomores, Bob Sneed and Babe Wood are being trained in passing and punting. Neyland said he expected the combined group to show improved punting over that of last season.

ALABAMA SQUAD GIVEN TASTE OF ROUGH WORK

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Sept. 5.—(AP)—The first taste of rough work was given Alabama's squad of 50-odd Crimson Tide football players today at the closing practice of the first week. With the tackles and ends on defense a light scrimmage was ordered by Coach Frank Thomas.

There were no casualties reported after the strenuous week of conditioning.

Coach Haynes Has Husky But Inexperienced Squad At Parish High

The Lions of Ouachita parish high school finished their first week of training for the 1936 campaign yesterday morning with a squad that shows promise of producing a good team for the local gridirons this fall.

Although there will be a decided majority of unseasoned performers breaking into the games this year, the team will be composed chiefly of heavy linemen and an average sized backfield.

The forwards will average a good 175 pounds to the man, with such huskies as Wheeler Mitchell, 197, Fain Richards, 190, and Rudy Vandenberg, 170, two guards and a center, forming the nucleus of the line.

With Vandenberg, Mitchell and Richards in the middle of the line, opponents will find plenty of trouble making headway by that route, providing the forwards live up to expectations.

The remainder of the line positions will be filled more or less by inexperienced players who had only a taste of the game last season. The best bets for the other line posts are Floyd Vann, 175, Abner McClary, 185, and Moise Peters, 175, tackles; and Sherman Gideon, 185, Wright Sherrod, 160, and James Bates, 157, ends. Other prospective linemen are Benny Averette, end, who hasn't been out for work yet; Buford Goss, a 218-pounder who is expected to make a valuable man when he gets a little experience, and J. C. Black, tackles; James Peters and Bernard Vann, guards; and James Brothers, center.

The battle for positions in the backfield will be the hardest fought, as the places are sought by players of about the same experience and weight. Sol Mayer, the speedy little halfback of last season, weighing 152 pounds at the present, is about the only backfield candidate assured of his place. There are anywhere from two to three candidates for the other backfield berths.

Leading the race for backfield posts, other than Mayer, are Paul Patterson, Clyde Roye, Alvin Fleming, Cason Mitchell, W. B. Stewart, George Vaughan, Morris LeBlanc and Haney, a newcomer from Columbia. Roye, Fleming, C. Mitchell and Vaughan all weigh around 150 pounds, Patterson weighs 160 and Stewart tips the beam at 165 and will be the heaviest of the ball carriers.

Other candidates for places on the team, mostly light youngsters with little experience but plenty of pep, are Melvin Alexander, Albert Gerson, Sam Williams, Dick Eason, Eddie Fleming, Winchester, Leo Dozier, W. A. Arant, Howard Williams, Freeman and Harry Peters.

A feature of the backfield will be the fact that just about every back, with the exception of Mayer, who will be depended on chiefly for his running and ball carrying ability, will be able to pass and punt. Roye, C. Mitchell and Patterson are all fair punters as well as passers and Stewart and Alvin Fleming are fairly accurate passers.

The workouts during the past week were light, although conducted twice a day, until yesterday morning when the Lions were run through their stiffest session, getting their first day's work at tackling. Tomorrow Coach Lefty Haynes will put them through a session of limbering up exercises after today's layoff and then open up with everything in the catalog Tuesday when the first scrimmage is scheduled to be held.

Once started, the scrimmages will continue every day until two or three days before the opening game here September 25 with the Delhi Bears. Coach Haynes' new assistants, Roy Ary of Tulane and Woodrow Turner of Normal, are on hand, along with George Riser, who has been with the locals a number of years, to lend their assistance in turning out a winning Ouachita eleven.

DELHI STARTS FOOTBALL DRILL WITH 20 SQUADMEN

DELHI, La., Sept. 5.—(Special)—The Delhi Bears went to work here Tuesday with 20 candidates for the team answering the initial call of Coach Vernon Coates, who is beginning his first season with the locals, and at least 15 more are expected to join the squad in the next few days.

Prospects for the 1936 season are looking slim with half of the Bruins' lettermen lost through graduation and the others showing up for training underweight and inexperienced material, Coates said.

The work during the past week consisted of limbering up exercises and signal drills, but the harder work will start next week.

At present there are two open dates on Delhi's schedule, which Coach Coates would like to have filled. The dates are October 23 and November 20 and teams desiring games on those days are requested to communicate with Coates at Delhi high school.

TULANE GREENIES READY FOR INTENSIVE TRAINING

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 5.—(AP)—With week's conditioning behind them, Tulane university's football candidates were ready to start intensive training next week.

Johnny Andrews at fullback and Wiltz Ott at quarter seemed favored at those posts. The other two back positions are sought by "Bucky" Bryan, who was ineligible last year, and Doug Johnson, who was out most of last season because of a broken leg.

ST. JOHN REGATTA TO BE HELD TODAY

Attendance And Course Records Expected To Be Broken At Races

FERRIDAY, La., Sept. 5.—(Special)—Attendance as well as course records should be shattered Sunday when the seventh annual outboard motorboat regatta of the Gray-McCearley post of the American Legion is conducted at Lake St. John's beach front.

Topped by the largest entry list in the history of the regatta, including a group of the nation's best boat owners, the program this year has several added attractions.

Foremost of the new features promised the thousands who attend the regatta Sunday will be the Bristow Flying circus, formerly known as Reg I. Robbins air show. The flying Bristows will give a series of stunt exhibitions during the day and passengers will be carried up by the pilots of the troupe. Then, too, there will be the fireworks display at 9 o'clock Sunday night, followed by a Bud Scott dance. Dancing will also be enjoyed throughout the day at the pavilion, recently remodeled.

Dr. E. E. Bemoist, racing director, and Dr. A. B. Browne, legion post commander, announced the first race will begin at 2:30 o'clock. The races will be two heats of three laps each. A pole boat and official starters, timers, secretaries and others will aid the judges. Mayor S. Beekman Lamb of Natchez, Miss., Mrs. A. J. McCearley, and Dr. E. E. Bemoist. Mayor E. W. Vogt will act as master of ceremonies and a public address system will be used to broadcast results and other announcements.

More than 50 boats will compete in the four contests, the class A, B, C, a runabout contest, and the free-for-all, feature race on the program. Prizes are $40 for the first place winners and trophies for second places. The free-for-all contest also carries an award of a loving cup for third place. All of the boats will participate in the free-for-all and this should prove the most thrilling of them all.

GOVERNORS READY FOR YACHT RACE ON MONDAY

BILOXI, Miss., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Governors Richard Leche of Louisiana and Hugh White of Mississippi and a retinue of colonels and dignitaries from throughout Mississippi and Louisiana reached Biloxi today aboard the Louisiana dockboard yacht to participate in a Labor Day celebration here.

The two governors came here to match skippering ability over the Biloxi Yacht club course Monday afternoon, the race, the climax of what Biloxi expects will be its greatest Labor Day in history, will attract thousands of visitors.

The governors will answer the starting gun in gulf one design boats from New Orleans.

As the two governors, Senator Pat Harrison, Adjutant General John A. O'Keefe of Mississippi and Raymond H. Fleming of Louisiana, and other prominent officials stepped from their boat the Biloxi schools' band serenaded them and a large twin motored plane from the Biloxi coast guard air station piloted by Lieut. F. F. Harding circled overhead.

Several coast guard boats were in harbor for the occasion and one took a party of local officials headed by Mayor Louis Braun a short distance from the port to greet the visitors.

HOLLY RIDGE NINE ENDS YEAR WITH BEOUF RIVER

HOLLY RIDGE, La., Sept. 5.—(Special)—The Holly Ridge baseball club will end its season here Sunday against the strong Beouf River Tigers. The batteries for the game are expected to be Jeffery and Stokes for Holly Ridge and Harris and Hunt for the visitors.

ALL-STARS MEET PROS AT DALLAS

Collegians To Put Strong Team On Field Against Bears Monday

DALLAS, Tex., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Southern football fans will be treated to a taste of that popular pre-season pigskin recipe—professional stars against collegians—in the Cotton Bowl here Monday night.

"Big name" college stars from last season have been picked for the centennial All-Stars. The Chicago Bears will furnish the professional opposition.

Matty Bell, Southern Methodist mentor, and Leo Meyer, coaching the All-Stars, said their offensive would be in the air.

"I understand, too," he said, "that Bell has some little rabbits on his club. My scouts last year told me this Bobby Wilson and Rex Clark (former T. C. U. halfback) can scat. Well, it looks like the only thing to do is to try to keep them from getting past the line of scrimmage."

Meyer said, "You're going to see one heck of a passing game." Bell echoed the statement.

Officials of the Texas centennial said they expected a near-capacity crowd. The stadium seats 40,000.

Starting for the All-Stars will be: ends, Geny (Vanderbilt) and Howell (Arkansas); tackles, Reynolds (Stanford) and Throgmorton (Vanderbilt); guards, Sklar (Kansas) and Stamps (S. M. U.); center, Muller (Stanford); quarterback, Mickal (L. S. U.); halfbacks, Macauley (Rice) and Lawrence (T. C. U.); fullback, Manton (T. C. U.).

Halas has not announced his lineup but indicated it probably would be: ends, Hewitt and Karr; tackles, Trost and Musso; guards, Carlson and Zeller; center, Miller; quarterback, Nolting; halfbacks, Manders and Masterson, and fullback, Sisk.

DOWNING, JR., MEDALIST IN LABOR DAY MEET

Local Youngster Posts 73 For Lead; Many Entrants This Year

Ben Downing, Jr., 14-year-old Monroe youngster, won medalist honors in the fifth annual Labor Day golf tournament at Lakeside Country club, with a one-over-par 73. The tournament opened yesterday with the qualifying round, and there were 101 entrants in what shapes up as the most successful tourney of them all.

Young Downing shot his 73 several days ago and no one could better it yesterday, the final qualifying date. H. K. Touchstone was runner-up with a 75, Wesley Shafto shot a 76 and H. A. Dingey, of Chicago, posted a 78.

Downing's card:
Par out—5 3 4 4 4 3 4 4 5—36.
Downing out—5 3 4 4 4 3 5 4 5—37.
Par in—5 3 4 4 4 3 4 4 5—36-36-72.
Downing in—4 3 3 4 4 4 5 4 5—36-37-73.

Cramer Haas, defending champion, was exempt from qualifying.

First round matches will be played this morning with second round scheduled for this afternoon, semi-finals Monday morning and finals Monday afternoon. The prizes will be awarded at conclusion of play Monday evening.

Two elaborate entertainment features were arranged for visitors. Tourney entrants, their guests and club members and guests attended a dance at the club last night. Tonight there will be a barbecue for tournament entrants only. The committee reiterated last night their previous announcement that the barbecue will be given for tourney entrants and their wives or "dates" only, and club members who are not playing in the tournament may not attend.

Fourth and fifth flight matches today will be played at the Municipal club, it was announced last night, in order to avoid crowding of the Lakeside course. However, Monday matches in all flights will be played at the country club.

Play today will start with the first match of the first flight teeing off at 7:45 o'clock this morning at the Country club. The matches will be started at five minute intervals. The championship flight will get under way at 8:10 o'clock, the second flight at 8:35 and the third flight at 9 o'clock. The fourth flight will start at 8:30 o'clock at the Muny links. All players in the fifth flight drew byes and will play their second round matches this afternoon at Muny.

Winnie Cole, Municipal pro is in charge of running off the tournament. Six entrants posted 83s and thus are tied for one spot in the championship flight. They were Kenneth Holt, Ford Hines, Art Surguine, J. S. Tisington, Dr. T. A. Brulte and Ralph Wheat. They will engage in a play-off this morning, with the winner getting the championship berth and the other five going into the first flight.

Following are the pairings, with qualifying scores:

Championship flight—Cramer Haas vs. H. T. Taylor, 80; M. C. McDonald, 82, vs. H. A. Dingey, 78; Paul Stinson, 79, vs. Jack Rogers, 82; T. O. Bancroft, 81, vs. H. K. Macaluso Meets Doula In Main Event Tuesday Night

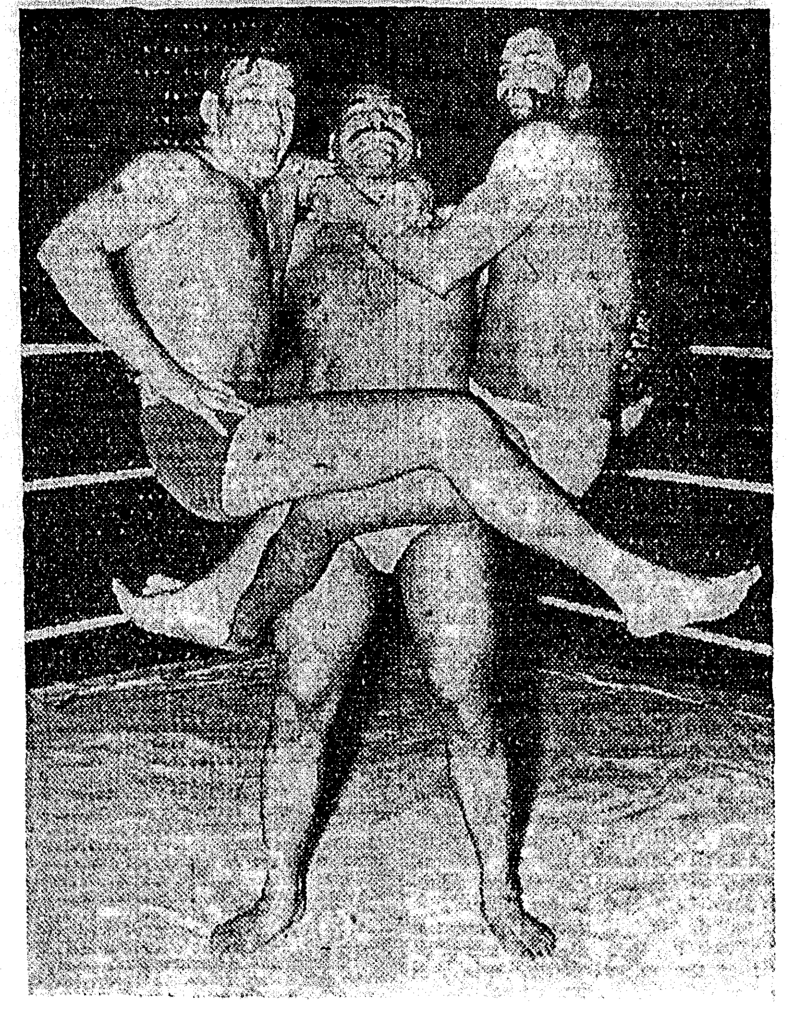
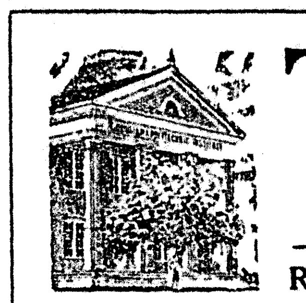
TOUGH HINDU RETURNS TUESDAY



Tiger Doula, latest sensation of the wrestling ring, comes back to Roosevelt stadium Tuesday night to meet Len Macaluso, clever former all-America football star. Doula is the gent with the mustache who's holding up the other two pachyderms.



TECH TIDINGS

—By—
Ruston Sports Correspondent

RUSTON, La., Sept. 5.—Some say one thing and some say another, but when a football coach says his boys look "pretty good," the boys can consider themselves complimented; for it may be a cold day in December before they ever hear it again.

Anyway, Coach Eddie McLane of Louisiana Tech feels that way about his 42 varsity candidates this week-end. He wouldn't swell their heads, you understand. In fact, they have only turned lightly to the matter of football so far. But so far, so good. The head man can't complain, he concedes.

Many of the varsity aspirants being lighter than desired, no strenuous tactics will be resorted to until the middle of the coming week, the chief announces. Although the candidates are cavorting in shorts at drill sessions, one hour in the morning and an hour and a half in the afternoon, they were issued their regulation fall clothing Friday afternoon. Incidentally, George (Blue) Hogg, freshman coach, and his manual training pupils are due a line or two for having made hangers for the varsity equipment in their workshop at Tech during the summer.

Last Of Technicians

Don Wiley, who took up with the ways of Coach McLane in Birmingham, Ala., was the 42nd member of the Tech squad to report for practice. His arrival completes the roster of all the varsity men expected to return. Wiley never does anything in the right way, but using the left way he has kicked up plenty of star dust at Tech. The local squad also includes some other stars who fell from Alabama, namely, Herman Hewett, Houston Beaumont, Bill Dukes and Robert Swindell, the latter being a sophomore.

Some Missing Links

Since Coach McLane has not yet endeavored to form any team combinations (although he will get around to that presently), he is unable to determine where the weakest points will exist in his 1936 machine. He does observe, however, that there are some important holes in the ranks that have resulted from the absence of such former mainstays as Madison Brooks, Bill Ruple, Archie Turner, Tom Deas, Fred Beckett, W. C. Johnston, James Mize, Gene Hasha, Jack Thigpen and C. C. (Bunker) Hill. It was also a "blow" to the mentor to learn that Charles Williams, a freshman of last year who was booked for fullback with the varsity this fall, will not return to school here.

Free Football Clinic

Plans are being made by Coach McLane for a free football clinic to be held at Louisiana Tech on Wednesday night, September 16, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. Several high school teams in north Louisiana will be invited to join the Techmen in staging the show, which will feature demonstrations of the Notre Dame, Warner and other systems of the gridiron sport. Coach McLane will be down on the field with a microphone to describe the plays through loud speakers to the fans in the stadium. He has done that before, while at Howard college in Birmingham, where in 1933 about 15,000 people turned out to learn more about football from the spectators' point of view. By the way, events like a football clinic fit in with the ideas of Tech's new president, E. S. Richardson. The prexy wants the college to be of service to all, both off and on the campus. He deems it the duty as well as the privilege of the institution to be a "community center" on a large scale, he says.

Coaching Staff Unchanged

Principal instructors in football at Louisiana Tech this fall will be the same men who did the work last year. Coach McLane will handle the backs, Coach Herb Duggins the ends, and Mike Wells the linemen of the varsity. "Blue" Hogg will have charge of the frosh. Eddie Wojecki, who declares that he takes pains with his work, will continue as the trainer. This is the first time in several years that there has not been a change in an assistant or two on the coaching staff. The combination last year produced a winner.

Football Premises Beautified

Part of the cyclone fence around the football grounds at Tech is being lined with shrubs. The planting not only makes the premises prettier, but will work a hardship on the knot-hole gang. Despite the long dry spell, the grass on the football field has grown satisfactorily

Rajcan From Duquesne

George Rajcan, Tech linesman of repute, wants the folks to know that this correspondent did him wrong by reporting him from Rochester, Pa., the other day. He is from Duquesne. The fellow giving out the hometown probably knew it all the time but didn't know how to spell Duquesne. Mr. Rajcan, did you ever hear the story about the policeman who found a dead horse on Massachusetts avenue? In making his report, the cop couldn't spell Massachusetts, so he dragged the horse over to Ohio street.

LIONS WHIP BUCKS

EL DORADO, Ark., Sept. 5.—(AP)—The El Dorado Lions took a 2 to 1 lead over the Greenville Buckshots tonight in the Cotton States league championship playoff, winning a free-hitting game, 9 to 7.

The Lions sent four runs across in the second inning and five in the third and used three pitchers in checking rallies by the visitors. Boward and Hawley hurled for Greenville. Dark, Ginn and Moore saw service for El Dorado.

Slagle Returns To Meet Cy Berger In Semi-Final At Stadium

Len Macaluso, whose match with Sol Slagle last week was the best seen here in many months, will tackle an even more formidable foe Tuesday night when he meets Tiger Doula, tough Hindu, in the main event of the weekly wrestling show at Roosevelt stadium. Slagle, one of the best showmen in the business, also will be back, meeting Cy Berger, another rugged performer, in the semi-final match.

Macaluso, the former all-America football star from Colgate, returned last week after an absence of several months and picked up where he left off. Already popular here, the big grid star added more followers by his work with Slagle.

Mac has defeated some of the leading grapplers of the nation, including Dick Shikat, Emil Dusek, Hans Kampfer, Hans Steinke, Ivan Vacturoff, Man Mountain Dean, Jim Browning, Strangler Lewis, Jim McMillan and others. During his football career, he was regarded as one of the greatest backs of all time. In fact, "Pop" Warner said he was the equal of Ernie Nevers, whom Warner has termed the greatest back in football.

Macaluso is a human flash in the ring, mixing speed with science and a superb natural balance that makes him a real crowd-pleaser. He is strong and able to handle the rough boys at their own game, but prefers to break clean and wrestle decently. He meets the rough attack with a smashing flying tackle, and he's the best in the business with that method of attack.

Doula, the latest sensation of the wrestling game, made his local debut last week by quickly disposing of Jack League. He won the first fall by downing League with what Doula termed an "East Indian death lock." He won the fall by standing on the back of League's legs, just about the knee joints, and twisting his feet behind Jack's knees. League was unable to come back for the second fall.

Doula was plenty rough, giving League a thorough going-over while they were at it. Promoter Phil Lisotta said he was certain Macaluso could make a better showing against the tough Hindu than League, and he expects a fast battle.

Slagle, the "rubber man," will get a chance to demonstrate his ability to break holds against a top-notcher when he goes up against Berger. Cy is much stronger than Slagle, and he's likely to give the roly-poly "rubber man" a large evening.

Both matches will be best two out of three falls, with the main event limited to two hours and the semi-final having a one-hour time limit.

BARNETT, STEPHENS TO SEMI-FINALS AT ALEX

ALEXANDRIA, La., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Ed Barnett of Little Rock and H. M. Stephens of Shreveport entered the semi-finals in men's singles in the Louisiana state tennis tournament here today.

In junior singles Morey Lewis of Texarkana, Chester Granville of Austin, Marlin King of Austin and George Dunklin of Pine Bluff reached the semi-final round. King was the only unseeded entry to make the round.

Barnett went into the semi-finals by trimming Bub Murphy of Shreveport, 2-6, 9-7, 6-1, while Stephens beat Lasker Ehman of Austin, 6-3, 6-2.

M. J. McLaney of New Orleans will play the winner of the Jake Shapiro of Alexandria and Van Wilson of Shreveport match to enter the semi-finals against Stephens.

MISSISSIPPI TEAM PACED IN OPENING SCRIMMAGE

STATE COLLEGE, Miss., Sept. 5—(AP)—Appearing in regulation togs for the first time this fall, the Mississippi State squad sweltered through a hard two hour drill which included the first real scrimmaging of the training period.

The backs, under Frank Carideo, got thirty minutes of tackling at full speed and the linemen, supervised by Captain John Stokes, were called on for lengthy blocking and tackling exercises.

Major Ralph Sasse compensated the players for consistent work throughout the week by deleting the morning drill, but added extra heavy duties for the afternoon.

AUBURN SQUAD BEGINS SWIFT GRID TRAINING

AUBURN, Ala., Sept. 5.—(AP)—With the opening game less than three weeks away, Coach Jack Meagher started his 50-odd Auburn university athletes through intensive workouts today. Kilgore, Hitchcock, Kelly and Blake will be under close observance Monday for selection of a lead-off punter.

The varsity team began to take definite shape this afternoon when Capt. Walter Gilbert led the prospective team against Birmingham-Southern plays, opening opponent at Montgomery September 25.

ENGINEERS AT BROWN

The league leading Brown Paper mill Brownies, only half a game ahead of the Sterlington Engineers, will be "on the spot" today when they face the Sterlington aggregation in what is expected to be the crucial battle of the second half flag race. The game is scheduled to start promptly at 3:30 o'clock at the Brownies' park.

The Engineers are highly confident that they will be able to turn back the Papermakers and wrest the league leadership from them for the first time since the second half schedule began. A victory for the visitors would put them half a game ahead.

Both clubs, however, stand a chance to tie for the league lead at the end of the schedule. In such a case a preliminary series before the title battles will take place. The regular schedule ends next Sunday.

"Buck" Brown, new coach at Northeast Center of L. S. U. and a former L. S. U. pitching star, is a Brownie eligible and will be in uniform today. He may get an opportunity to pitch, or play in the Brown outfield, Manager Herb Steed said last night. Mayes will be the starting hurler, with Priester catching, while the Sterlington battery probably will be Cranford and Gumber.

Admission price for the game will be 25 cents.

FLORIDA GRIDSTERS END WEEK OF GRIDIRON WORK

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Punting was the password today as the University of Florida gridsters concluded their first week of conditioning and prepared to hustle into rougher work next week.

Under the watchful eye of Coach Josh Cody, who is making his debut as a Gator mentor this year, Walter Mayberry, and Bob Ivey, quarterbacks; Harry Kicliter, tackle and Duke Warren, halfback, booted the pigskin around Murphree field, shortly before the regular practice session got under way with an overcast sky, concluding the session in a light shower.

COMMODORES GO THROUGH FIRST LIVE SCRIMMAGE

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Coach Ray Morrison said he was "pleased with the progress we have made" after watching his Vanderbilt Commodores go through their first live scrimmage of the training season today.

Sam Agee, varsity fullback missing since Tuesday's initial session, appeared today, much underweight, to complete the squad of 52.

Today was the final public drill. The canvass will be placed around the fence Monday and no visitors admitted.

NEYLAND ORDERS FULL SPEED FOR TENNESSEE U.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Expressing satisfaction with the first week of practice, Coach Bob Neyland today ordered full speed ahead next week for the University of Tennessee football squad. The first scrimmage is scheduled for either next Friday or Saturday.

Two drills daily are being held.

Phil Dickens, Red Harp, Woodrow Derryberry and two sophomores, Bob Sneed and Babe Wood are being trained in passing and punting, Neyland said he expected the combined group to show improved punting over that of last season.

ALABAMA SQUAD GIVEN TASTE OF ROUGH WORK

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Sept. 5.—(AP)—The first taste of rough work was given Alabama's squad of 50-odd Crimson Tide football players today at the closing practice of the first week. With the tackles and ends on defense a light scrimmage was ordered by Coach Frank Thomas.

There were no casualties reported after the strenuous week of conditioning.

Coach Haynes Has Husky But Inexperienced Squad At Parish High

The Lions of Ouachita parish high school finished their first week of training for the 1936 campaign yesterday morning with a squad that shows promise of producing a good team for the local gridirons this fall.

Although there will be a decided majority of unseasoned performers breaking into the games this year, the team will be composed chiefly of heavy linemen and an average sized backfield.

The forwards will average a good 175 pounds to the man, with such huskies as Wheeler Mitchell, 197, Fain Richards, 190, and Rudy Vandenberg, 170, two guards and a center, forming the nucleus of the line.

With Vandenberg, Mitchell and Richards in the middle of the line, opponents will find plenty of trouble making headway by that route, providing the forwards live up to expectations.

The remainder of the line positions will be filled more or less by inexperienced players who had only a taste of the game last season. The best bets for the other line posts are Floyd Vann, 175, Abner McClary, 185, and Moise Peters, 175, tackles; and Sherman Gideon, 185, Wright Sherrod, 160, and James Bates, 157, ends. Other prospective linemen are Benny Averette, end, who hasn't been out for work yet; Buford Goss, a 218-pounder who is expected to make a valuable man when he gets a little experience, and J. C. Black, tackles; James Peters and Bernard Vann, guards; and James Brothers, center.

The battle for positions in the backfield will be the hardest fought, as the places are sought by players of about the same experience and weight. Sol Mayer, the speedy little halfback of last season, weighing 152 pounds at the present, is about the only backfield candidate assured of his place. There are anywhere from two to three candidates for the other backfield berths.

Leading the race for backfield posts, other than Mayer, are Paul Patterson, Clyde Roye, Alvin Fleming, Cason Mitchell, W. B. Stewart, George Vaughan, Morris LeBlanc and Haney, a newcomer from Columbia. Roye, Fleming, C. Mitchell and Vaughan all weigh around 150 pounds, Patterson weighs 160 and Stewart tips the beam at 165 and will be the heaviest of the ball carriers.

Other candidates for places on the team, mostly light youngsters with little experience but plenty of pep, are Melvin Alexander, Albert Gerson, Sam Williams, Dick Eason, Eddie Fleming, Winchester, Leo Dozier, W. A. Arant, Howard Williams, Freeman and Harry Peters.

A feature of the backfield will be the fact that just about every back, with the exception of Mayer, who will be depended on chiefly for his running and ball carrying ability, will be able to pass and punt. Roye, C. Mitchell and Patterson are all fair punters as well as passers and Stewart and Alvin Fleming are fairly accurate passers.

The workouts during the past week were light, although conducted twice a day, until yesterday morning when the Lions were run through their stiffest session, getting their first day's work at tackling. Tomorrow Coach Lefty Haynes will put them through a session of limbering up exercises after today's layoff and then open up with everything in the catalog Tuesday when the first scrimmage is scheduled to be held.

Once started, the scrimmages will continue every day until two or three days before the opening game here September 25 with the Delhi Bears. Coach Haynes' new assistants, Roy Ary of Tulane and Woodrow Turner of Normal, are on hand, along with George Riser, who has been with the locals a number of years, to lend their assistance in turning out a winning Ouachita eleven.

DELHI STARTS FOOTBALL DRILL WITH 20 SQUADMEN

DELHI, La., Sept. 5.—(Special)—The Delhi Bears went to work here Tuesday with 20 candidates for the team answering the initial call of Coach Vernon Coates, who is beginning his first season with the locals, and at least 15 more are expected to join the squad in the next few days.

Prospects for the 1936 season are looking slim with half of the Bruins' lettermen lost through graduation and the others showing up for training underweight and inexperienced material, Coates said.

The work during the past week consisted of limbering up exercises and signal drills, but the harder work will start next week.

At present there are two open dates on Delhi's schedule, which Coach Coates would like to have filled. The dates are October 23 and November 20 and teams desiring games on those days are requested to communicate with Coates at Delhi high school.

TULANE GREENIES READY FOR INTENSIVE TRAINING

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 5.—(AP)—With week's conditioning behind them, Tulane university's football candidates were ready to start intensive training next week.

Johnny Andrews at fullback and Wiltz Ott at quarter seemed favored at those posts. The other two back positions are sought by "Bucky" Bryan, who was ineligible last year, and Doug Johnson, who was out most of last season because of a broken leg.

ST. JOHN REGATTA TO BE HELD TODAY

Attendance And Course Records Expected To Be Broken At Races

FERRIDAY, La., Sept. 5.—(Special)—Attendance as well as course records should be shattered Sunday when the seventh annual outboard motorboat regatta of the Gray-McCearley post of the American Legion is conducted at Lake St. John's beach front.

Topped by the largest entry list in the history of the regatta, including a group of the nation's best boat owners, the program this year has several added attractions.

Foremost of the new features promised the thousands who attend the regatta Sunday will be the Bristow Flying circus, formerly known as Reg I. Robbins air show. The flying Bristows will give a series of stunt exhibitions during the day and passengers will be carried up by the pilots of the troupe. Then, too, there will be the fireworks display at 9 o'clock Sunday night, followed by a Bud Scott dance. Dancing will also be enjoyed throughout the day at the pavilion, recently remodeled.

Dr. E. E. Bemoist, racing director, and Dr. A. B. Browne, legion post commander, announced the first race will begin at 2:30 o'clock. The races will be two heats of three laps each. A pole boat and official starters, timers, secretaries and others will aid the judges. Mayor S. Beekman Lamb of Natchez, Miss., Mrs. A J McCearley, and Dr. E. E. Bemoist. Mayor E. W. Vogt will act as master of ceremonies and a public address system will be used to broadcast results and other announcements.

More than 50 boats will compete in the four contests, the class A, B, C, a runabout contest, and the free-for-all, feature race on the program. Prizes are $40 for the first place winners and trophies for second places. The free-for-all contest also carries an award of a loving cup for third place. All of the boats will participate in the free-for-all and this should prove the most thrilling of them all.

GOVERNORS READY FOR YACHT RACE ON MONDAY

BILOXI, Miss., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Governors Richard Leche of Louisiana and Hugh White of Mississippi and a retinue of colonels and dignitaries from throughout Mississippi and Louisiana reached Biloxi today aboard the Louisiana dockboard yacht to participate in a Labor Day celebration here.

The two governors came here to match skippering ability over the Biloxi Yacht club course Monday afternoon, the race, the climax of what Biloxi expects will be its greatest Labor Day in history, will attract thousands of visitors.

The governors will answer the starting gun in gulf one design boats from New Orleans.

As the two governors, Senator Pat Harrison, Adjutant General John A. O'Keefe of Mississippi and Raymond H. Fleming of Louisiana, and other prominent officials stepped from their boat the Biloxi schools' band serenaded them and a large twin motored plane from the Biloxi coast guard air station piloted by Lieut. F. F. Harding circled overhead.

Several coast guard boats were in harbor for the occasion and one took a party of local officials headed by Mayor Louis Braun a short distance from the port to greet the visitors.

HOLLY RIDGE NINE ENDS YEAR WITH BEOUF RIVER

HOLLY RIDGE, La., Sept. 5.—(Special)—The Holly Ridge baseball club will end its season here Sunday against the strong Beouf River Tigers. The batteries for the game are expected to be Jeffery and Stokes for Holly Ridge and Harris and Hunt for the visitors.

ALL-STARS MEET PROS AT DALLAS

Collegians To Put Strong Team On Field Against Bears Monday

DALLAS, Tex., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Southern football fans will be treated to a taste of that popular pre-season pigskin recipe — professional stars against collegians—in the Cotton Bowl here Monday night.

"Big name" college stars from last season have been picked for the centennial All-Stars. The Chicago Bears will furnish the professional opposition.

Matty Bell, Southern Methodist mentor, and Leo Meyer, coaching the All-Stars, said their offensive would be in the air.

"I understand, too," he said, "that Bell has some little rabbits on his club. My scouts last year told me this Bobby Wilson and Rex Clark (former T. C. U. halfback) can scat. Well, it looks like the only thing to do is to try to keep them from getting past the line of scrimmage."

Meyer said, "You're going to see one heck of a passing game." Bell echoed the statement.

Officials of the Texas centennial said they expected a near-capacity crowd. The stadium seats 40,000.

Starting for the All-Stars will be: ends, Geny (Vanderbilt) and Howell (Arkansas); tackles, Reynolds (Stanford) and Throgmorton (Vanderbilt); guards, Sklar (Kansas) and Stamps (S. M. U.); center, Muller (Stanford); quarterback, Mickal (L. S. U.); halfbacks, Macauley (Rice) and Lawrence (T. C. U.); fullback, Manton (T. C. U.).

Halas has not announced his lineup but indicated it probably would be: ends, Hewitt and Karr; tackles, Trost and Musso; guards, Carlson and Zeller; center, Miller; quarterback, Nolting; halfbacks, Manders and Masterson, and fullback, Sisk.

WOOD WINS LONG DUEL WITH HALL IN SINGLES EVENT

Brilliant Rally Features Third Round Of National Tournament

By Scotty Reston

FOREST HILLS, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Sidney Wood of New York, a slight kid with more heart and blond hair than anything else, fought one of the bravest fights in the long history of Forest Hills' famed center court today to win a five-set match from J. Gilbert Hall of South Orange, N. J., in the third round of the national tennis singles championship.

Wood's gallant comeback to win by 1-6, 2-6, 6-0, 6-3, 6-4, brought relief to a dreary program in which all favorites advanced without a struggle.

The battle between Wood and Hall really started a year ago on this same green turf in the same tournament. Then Hall, a dour, methodical player, took the first two sets, and watched Wood come back to win.

Again today, the same thing happened. Hall was magnificent at the start. He won the first set, 6-1, without taking a single false step. Then he took the second, 6-2. At that point he was in supreme command of the situation and Wood seemed irretrievably lost.

Suddenly the blond youngster came alive. Almost helpless until this stage, he began thumping the ball into the corners and cutting it past Hall down the sidelines, and by the end of the set, Hall looked as if he had been through a tough football scrimmage. Four times he had sprawled trying to hit those wicked drop-shots. From head to foot, he was green with grass stain and brown with dirt.

Nevertheless, Wood was still in a hole when he returned after intermission to play the fourth set. He won it, 6-3.

After Hall had held service through four games in the final set, Wood broke through in the fifth to lead, three games to two, and then broke again in the 10th game to clinch the match.

The rest of the program was routine. Every seeded player with the exception of Jacques Brugnon of France survived. Brugnon was beaten by John Van Ryn of Philadelphia, 6-3, 6-3, 6-2. Both former internationalists were below their best form.

Both favorites, Fred Perry of England in the men's and Helen Jacobs of Berkeley, Calif., in the women's, advanced, though Perry lost his first set of the tournament to Dave Jones, Brooklyn boy just returned from Cambridge university.

Miss Jacobs defeated Cecilia Riegel, Philadelphia, 6-0, 6-2, and continued to look the class of the field.

The other three stars in the upper bracket, Pierre Pelizza, France, Robert Riggs, the national clay courts champion from Los Angeles, and Gene Mako, also from Los Angeles, won easy victories.

Likewise in the women's tournament, the four seeded players who played came through. In addition to Miss Jacobs, they were Miss Kay Stammers, England, Mrs. Mary Greef Harris, Kansas City, Carolin Babcock, Los Angeles, and Mrs. Marjorie Gladman Van Ryn, Philadelphia.

At the conclusion of today's play, the upper half of the men's field had progressed through the third round, the upper half of the women's through the first, and the national scholastic through the round of eight.

BUCS BLANK CUBS

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Cy Blanton outpitched little Roy Henshaw today and the Pittsburgh Pirates won a 1 to 0 victory over the pennant-chasing Chicago Cubs.

The only run of the game was in the sixth. Arky Vaughan walked, went to third on Gus Suhr's single to center, and scored while Bill Jurges was handling Bill Brubaker's bounder and forcing Suhr at second. Box score:

CARDS SHADE REDS

CINCINNATI, Sept. 5.—(AP)—The Cardinals shortened the New York Giants' lead in the National league to 2 1-2 games today by taking a 3 to 2 victory from Cincinnati while the Giants were dropping a double header to the Boston Bees.

The Cardinals' victory stopped a Red winning streak at seven straight.

The game ended dramatically as Lynn King, Cardinal center fielder, stumbled in racing after Catcher Ernie Lombardi's towering fly, then recovered in time to make the catch as Les Scarsella neared home with what might have been the winning run.

Jim Winford, St. Louis starting pitcher, limited the Reds to four hits in the six innings he worked. He was removed in the seventh to permit Jim Collins to drive home the Cards' first run after the bases had been loaded by singles by Davis and Durocher and a walk to Garibaldi.

Davis was injured in sliding into first and Terry Moore, running for him, scored the run.

DODGERS WIN PAIR

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 5.—(AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers belted the Phillies in both ends of a double header today, winning the opener, 3 to 2, behind Ed Brandt's six-hit pitching, and taking the nightcap, 4 to 3, in 12 innings.

The Dodgers nicked Bucky Walter for ten hits in the first game, with Buddy Hassett, rookie first-sacker, celebrating his 25th birthday by driving in the winning run in the eighth.

It took Fred Frankhouse, Lefty Clark and Mac Butcher to stop the Phils in the nightcap, but among them they gave up only four hits in the dozen innings, one of which was a homer by Leo Norris with two mates on base in the fourth. The winning Brooklyn run was the result of French Bordagaray's single and Dolph Camilli's two errors.

A'S SHADE NATS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Bob Johnson's single in the tenth inning drove in the winning run to break up a pitcher's battle between Fred Archer and Joe Cascarella and give Philadelphia a 4 to 3 victory over Washington.

The defeat dropped Washington into fifth place as Chicago won from Cleveland. It was Philadelphia's sixth victory of the year over Washington in 20 contests.

TIGERS TRIM BROWNS

DETROIT, Sept. 5.—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers turned back the St. Louis Browns, 7 to 2, today in the opener of a two-game engagement at Navin field.

Harlan Clift, the Browns' third baseman, had a big day at bat, getting four hits off Elden Auker in five trips to the plate, one of them a home run over the scoreboard in the fifth inning.

Auker registered his eleventh victory of the season and went the route for the Tigers, although he was touched for 11 hits, only one less than the Tigers collected off Caldwell and Jakucki.

CHISOX BLANK INDIANS

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—(AP)—The Chicago White Sox advanced to within a game and a half of second place this afternoon when they walloped the Cleveland Indians, 9 to 0, in the opener of a three-game series.

Vernon Kennedy held the Indians to five hits to win his nineteenth of the season while the Comiskey team pounded Oral Hildebrand and Thornton Lee for fourteen. More than 4,000 fans saw the Sox knock Hildebrand from the box in the fifth inning to score six runs.

Leading the Chicago procession of hitters was Mike Kreevich, who whacked out a double and three singles. Mule Haas was put out of the game by Umpire Bill Summers in the sixth inning when Haas protested on a strike decision by throwing his bat in the air.

OUIMET'S GOLF

FRANCIS OUIMET

Another year rolls around, and with it comes another national amateur golf championship—the tournament that crowns the lone survivor, after a full week of eliminations, as the champion of all amateur golfers in the country.

Whether or not you care to regard this lone survivor as the champion amateur player of the country is for yourself to decide and debate. But the man who survives such a gruelling week of such intensive and testing match play rounds as are required in the national tournament must certainly be regarded as the amateur champion. For the first four days of the championship the field, with the exception of those who may draw byes, will be required to play two eighteen-hole rounds each day, with the losers being eliminated at a mighty fast rate. The final two days will see thirty-six hole matches played, but lucky will be the quartet that manages to wade through to the semi-finals in such a field as will gather for this year's tournament.

Those eighteen-hole sudden death rounds at match play are the very bane of a golfer's existence. Anything may happen, and it usually does. Top-notch golf, steel nerves and a bagful of luck are the primary requisites for keeping the ultimate title-holder's slate clean for the week. These short elimination rounds allow for no let-up whatsoever. There's no room or time for a breathing spell. Lost holes must be made up immediately or one suffers the consequences.

Member Rule Attacked

Criticism has been levelled at the United States Golf association recently in regard to the rules and requirements of the entrants in the district qualifying tests which were held the week before last. Since the association's rules allow only registered members of clubs to enter the qualifying rounds, it was pointed out that a vast army of amateur golfers, who can afford only the public pay-as-you-go links and park courses for their golfing recreation, are far superior to many who qualify for competition in the tournament.

Of course, there's no denying that some of the finest golfers learned the fundamentals of the drive, the pitch and the putt on the public links. This was shown by some of the scores posted in the recent qualifying tests in the New York district as well as scores in past tournaments. Frank Strafaci, winner of the national public links title a year ago but now a member of the Shore View club of Brooklyn, posted a pair of par-shattering 69's. In the same group was Scotty Campbell, of Seattle, a member of this year's Walker Cup team and also a former public links champion, who posted a fine par 144.

These two fine golfers are good arguments in point for the critics who decry the "closed competition" in the national amateur as far as non-club members are concerned. But if the U. S. G. A. left the entry lists open to any and all golfers in the country the championship not only would be an almost unmanageable affair, but it would require weeks and weeks to conduct. Thousands upon thousands would no doubt try their luck at the championship, with the hope that with the help of all the gods they would find themselves in the limelight and matching strokes with the game's stars.

So, with all due praise to the public links stars, they must be resigned to the rules and regulations of the U. S. G. A., which works on the most feasible and practical way in naming our amateur golf champion. Also, it is undoubtedly true that club members on the whole are superior golfers to those who have no club affiliation. And it must be said that when the fortunate fellow sweeps through the field of 210 who are qualified to play in the championship, he has certainly earned his title of United States Amateur champion.

SPARTANBURG TRIUMPHS IN JUNIOR LEGION GAMES

SPARTANBURG, S. C., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Spartanburg's junior American Legion baseball team won the national championship today, defeating Los Angeles, 8 to 1, in the decisive game of the "little world series."

COTTON

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 5.—(AP)—In a last minute sell-off the cotton market today wiped out its early gain and closed the day with losses ranging from 8 to 10 points. Trading was active in the brief session.

Prices opened more than 25 cents a bale higher induced by good Liverpool cables and an improved trade demand. Hedging was light during the first hour and the market held above its previous closing levels.

A report that the American Cotton Cooperative association had lowered its crop estimate to 11,600,000 bales from more than 12,000,000 bales a month ago aided speculative sentiment.

But just before the close the market turned easier and important long liquidation unsettled prices and turned options sharply lower.

December closed at 11.50, March at 11.57 and May at 11.61, the lows for the day.

Cotton futures closed steady at net declines of 8 to 10 points.

New York

NEW YORK, Sept 5.—(AP)—Opening advances in response to relatively steady Liverpool cables were followed by declines under liquidation and hedge selling which became active in late trading. December sold off from 11.74 to 11.53 and closed at that figure with the general market ending barely steady at net declines of 11 to 15 points.

Cotton futures closed barey steady, 11-15 lower.

SMOKIES BLANK LOOKOUTS

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Bill Beckman's five-hit pitching, combined with two home runs by Frank Skaff—his 13th and 14th of the season—aided Knoxville in defeating Chattanooga, 5 to 0, today in the opening of a five-game series. It was Beckman's 16th victory of the season.

ROCKS BLANK CHICKS

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Jennings (Jinx) Poindexter, Southern association strikeout king, whiffed nine Memphis batters tonight and the Travelers won a 5 to 0 victory to open their final home stay.

The lefthander, who struck out 17 batters in a game several weeks ago, was wild, as usual, issuing eight bases on balls, making a wild pitch and hitting a batter. He bore down in the pinches, leaving 12 Chicks stranded on the bases.

Jack O'Neill, Cotton States league rookie, paced the Traveler batting attack, getting a double and two singles. Duke of the visitors and Williams of Little Rock hit triples.

FERRIDAY ALL-STARS TO PLAY TALLULAH TODAY

FERRIDAY, La., Sept. 5.—(Special)—The Ferriday All-Stars, negro baseball club, will meet the Chicago Mill nine of Tallulah here Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock on the Fair Ground diamond.

The All-Stars split their double-header here last Sunday with the Elizabeth Black Eagles, losing the opener, 10 to 9, and winning the other, 4 to 2.

Passengers now are being carried over the Paris-Madagascar air route, and the trip is completed in 8 1-2 days.

NEW YORK STOCKS

By Victor Eubank
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—(AP)—The rails got up steam in today's stock market and, pulling many other leaders along with them, registered gains of fractions to a point or more.

The brief session had its profit-taking periods but these were undisturbing in most instances. The close was firm. Transfers were around 700,000 shares.

While many traders skipped the day's brief proceedings in favor of a prolonged holiday, those who appeared in the boardrooms displayed sufficient buying vigor to more than offset the absentees.

The activity, best for a Saturday in nearly a month, was a pleasant surprise to the commission houses which had expected the dullness customary before a Labor day recess.

Continued progress of economic recovery was said to have spurred accumulation of selected stocks. At the same time there seemed to be a bit less nervousness over the foreign situation.

Conspicuous on the upside were Delaware & Hudson, Baltimore & Ohio, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Southern Pacific, Northern Pacific, General Baking, American Telephone, Western Union, Great Northern Ore, Chrysler, Sears Roebuck, Macy, American Can, Loew's and Coca-Cola.

Improvement was also registered by U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, General Motors, Reo, Montgomery Ward, Douglas Aircraft, National Distillers, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Consolidated Edison, General Electric, Goodyear, Paramount, Electric Auto-Lite and Briggs Mfg.

Anaconda and Kennecott were not much better than steady notwithstanding the export copper rate was lifted to 9.77 1-2 cents a pound to the best level in five years.

Carrier bonds moved forward while U. S. government securities were a trifle easier. Commodities were mixed, as were foreign currencies.

Rail shares again stepped to the fore as expanding passenger and freight traffic brought hopes of cheerful earnings figures over the next several months.

The merchandising division was studied anew in the light of a survey of the large retail organizations throughout the country which indicated dollar volume of sales in June, July and August was 10 to 17 per cent above that of last summer.

While the major motor issues were in fair demand, a few of the low-priced stocks in this group were quite lively. There was a large turnover in Reo following disclosure of this company's plans to devote its entire facilities to the manufacture of trucks.

Interest was shown in the posting of increased fourth quarter prices on some finished steel products. The reason given was the advance in scrap costs as well as general operating expenses.

WOOD WINS LONG DUEL WITH HALL IN SINGLES EVENT

Brilliant Rally Features Third Round Of National Tournament

By Scotty Reston

FOREST HILLS, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Sidney Wood of New York, a slight kid with more heart and blond hair than anything else, fought one of the bravest fights in the long history of Forest Hills' famed center court today to win a five-set match from J. Gilbert Hall of South Orange, N. J., in the third round of the national tennis singles championship.

Wood's gallant comeback to win by 1-6, 2-6, 6-0, 6-3, 6-4, brought relief to a dreary program in which all favorites advanced without a struggle.

The battle between Wood and Hall really started a year ago on this same green turf in the same tournament. Then Hall, a dour, methodical player, took the first two sets, and watched Wood come back to win.

Again today, the same thing happened. Hall was magnificent at the start. He won the first set, 6-1, without taking a single false step. Then he took the second, 6-2. At that point he was in supreme command of the situation and Wood seemed irretrievably lost.

Suddenly the blond youngster came alive. Almost helpless until this stage, he began thumping the ball into the corners and cutting it past Hall down the sidelines, and by the end of the set, Hall looked as if he had been through a tough football scrimmage. Four times he had sprawled trying to hit those wicked drop-shots. From head to foot, he was green with grass stain and brown with dirt.

Nevertheless, Wood was still in a hole when he returned after intermission to play the fourth set. He won it, 6-3.

After Hall had held service through four games in the final set, Wood broke through in the fifth to lead, three games to two, and then broke again in the 10th game to clinch the match.

The rest of the program was routine. Every seeded player with the exception of Jacques Brugnon of France survived. Brugnon was beaten by John Van Ryn of Philadelphia, 6-3, 6-3, 6-2. Both former internationalists were below their best form.

Both favorites, Fred Perry of England in the men's and Helen Jacobs of Berkeley, Calif., in the women's, advanced, though Perry lost his first set of the tournament to Dave Jones, Brooklyn boy just returned from Cambridge university.

The other three stars in the upper bracket, Pierre Pelizza, France, Robert Riggs, the national clay courts champion from Los Angeles, and Gene Mako, also from Los Angeles, won easy victories.

Likewise in the women's tournament, the four seeded players who played came through. In addition to Miss Jacobs, they were Miss Kay Stammers, England, Mrs. Mary Greef Harris, Kansas City, Carolin Babcock, Los Angeles, and Mrs. Marjorie Gladman Van Ryn, Philadelphia.

At the conclusion of today's play, the upper half of the men's field had progressed through the third round, the upper half of the women's through the first, and the national scholastic through the round of eight.

BUCS BLANK CUBS

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Cy Blanton outpitched little Roy Henshaw today and the Pittsburgh Pirates won a 1 to 0 victory over the pennant-chasing Chicago Cubs.

The only run of the game was in the sixth. Arky Vaughan walked, went to third on Gus Suhr's single to center, and scored while Bill Jurges was handling Bill Brubaker's bounder and forcing Suhr at second. Box score:

CARDS SHADE REDS

CINCINNATI, Sept. 5.—(AP)—The Cardinals shortened the New York Giants' lead in the National league to 2 1-2 games today by taking a 3 to 2 victory from Cincinnati while the Giants were dropping a double header to the Boston Bees.

The Cardinals' victory stopped a Red winning streak at seven straight.

The game ended dramatically as Lynn King, Cardinal center fielder, stumbled in racing after Catcher Ernie Lombardi's towering fly, then recovered in time to make the catch as Les Scarsella neared home with what might have been the winning run.

Jim Winford, St. Louis starting pitcher, limited the Reds to four hits in the six innings he worked. He was removed in the seventh to permit Jim Collins to drive home the Cards' first run after the bases had been loaded by singles by Davis and Durocher and a walk to Garibaldi.

Davis was injured in sliding into first and Terry Moore, running for him, scored the run.

DODGERS WIN PAIR

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 5.—(AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers belted the Phillies in both ends of a double header today, winning the opener, 3 to 2, behind Ed Brandt's six-hit pitching, and taking the nightcap, 4 to 3, in 12 innings.

The Dodgers nicked Bucky Walter for ten hits in the first game, with Buddy Hassett, rookie first-sacker, celebrating his 25th birthday by driving in the winning run in the eighth.

It took Fred Frankhouse, Lefty Clark and Mac Butcher to stop the Phils in the nightcap, but among them they gave up only four hits in the dozen innings, one of which was a homer by Leo Norris with two mates on base in the fourth. The winning Brooklyn run was the result of French Bordagaray's single and Dolph Camilli's two errors.

A'S SHADE NATS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Bob Johnson's single in the tenth inning drove in the winning run to break up a pitcher's battle between Fred Archer and Joe Cascarella and give Philadelphia a 4 to 3 victory over Washington.

The defeat dropped Washington into fifth place as Chicago won from Cleveland. It was Philadelphia's sixth victory of the year over Washington in 20 contests.

TIGERS TRIM BROWNS

DETROIT, Sept. 5.—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers turned back the St. Louis Browns, 7 to 2, today in the opener of a two-game engagement at Navin field.

Harlan Clift, the Browns' third baseman, had a big day at bat, getting four hits off Elden Auker in five trips to the plate, one of them a home run over the scoreboard in the fifth inning.

Auker registered his eleventh victory of the season and went the route for the Tigers, although he was touched for 11 hits, only one less than the Tigers collected off Caldwell and Jakucki.

CHISOX BLANK INDIANS

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—(AP)—The Chicago White Sox advanced to within a game and a half of second place this afternoon when they walloped the Cleveland Indians, 9 to 0, in the opener of a three-game series.

Vernon Kennedy held the Indians to five hits to win his nineteenth of the season while the Comiskey team pounded Oral Hildebrand and Thornton Lee for fourteen. More than 4,000 fans saw the Sox knock Hildebrand from the box in the fifth inning to score six runs.

Leading the Chicago procession of hitters was Mike Kreevich, who whacked out a double and three singles. Mule Haas was put out of the game by Umpire Bill Summers in the sixth inning when Haas protested on a strike decision by throwing his bat in the air.

OUIMET'S GOLF

By FRANCIS OUIMET

Another year rolls around, and with it comes another national amateur golf championship—the tournament that crowns the lone survivor, after a full week of eliminations, as the champion of all amateur golfers in the country.

Whether or not you care to regard this lone survivor as the champion amateur player of the country is for yourself to decide and debate. But the man who survives such a gruelling week of such intensive and testing match play rounds as are required in the national tournament must certainly be regarded as the amateur champion. For the first four days of the championship the field, with the exception of those who may draw byes, will be required to play two eighteen-hole rounds each day, with the losers being eliminated at a mighty fast rate. The final two days will see thirty-six hole matches played, but lucky will be the quartet that manages to wade through to the semi-finals in such a field as will gather for this year's tournament.

Those eighteen-hole sudden death rounds at match play are the very bane of a golfer's existence. Anything may happen, and it usually does. Top-notch golf, steel nerves and a bagful of luck are the primary requisites for keeping the ultimate title-holder's slate clean for the week. These short elimination rounds allow for no let-up whatsoever. There's no room or time for a breathing spell. Lost holes must be made up immediately or one suffers the consequences.

Member Rule Attacked

Criticism has been levelled at the United States Golf association recently in regard to the rules and requirements of the entrants in the district qualifying tests which were held the week before last. Since the association's rules allow only registered members of clubs to enter the qualifying rounds, it was pointed out that a vast army of amateur golfers, who can afford only the public pay-as-you-go links and park courses for their golfing recreation, are far superior to many who qualify for competition in the tournament.

Of course, there's no denying that some of the finest golfers learned the fundamentals of the drive, the pitch and the putt on the public links. This was shown by some of the scores posted in the recent qualifying tests in the New York district as well as scores in past tournaments. Frank Strafaci, winner of the national public links title a year ago but now a member of the Shore View club of Brooklyn, posted a pair of par-shattering 69's. In the same group was Scotty Campbell, of Seattle, a member of this year's Walker Cup team and also a former public links champion, who posted a fine par 144.

These two fine golfers are good arguments in point for the critics who decry the "closed competition" in the national amateur as far as non-club members are concerned. But if the U. S. G. A. left the entry lists open to any and all golfers in the country, the championship not only would be an almost unmanageable affair, but it would require weeks and weeks to conduct. Thousands upon thousands would no doubt try their luck at the championship, with the hope that with the help of all the gods they would find themselves in the limelight and matching strokes with the game's stars.

So, with all due praise to the public links stars, they must be resigned to the rules and regulations of the U. S. G. A., which works on the most feasible and practical way in naming our amateur golf champion. Also, it is undoubtedly true that club members on the whole are superior golfers to those who have no club affiliation. And it must be said that when the fortunate fellow sweeps through the field of 210 who are qualified to play in the championship, he has certainly earned his title of United States Amateur champion.

COTTON

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 5.—(AP)—In a last minute sell-off the cotton market today wiped out its early gain and closed the day with losses ranging from 8 to 10 points. Trading was active in the brief session.

Prices opened more than 25 cents a bale higher induced by good Liverpool cables and an improved trade lemand. Hedging was light during the first hour and the market held above its previous closing levels.

A report that the American Cotton Cooperative association had lowered its crop estimate to 11,600,000 bales from more than 12,000,000 bales a month ago aided speculative sentiment.

But just before the close the market turned easier and important long liquidation unsettled prices and turned options sharply lower.

December closed at 11.50, March at 11.57 and May at 11.61, the lows for the day.

Cotton futures closed steady at net declines of 8 to 10 points.

New York

NEW YORK, Sept 5.—(AP)—Opening advances in response to relatively steady Liverpool cables were followed by declines under liquidation and hedge selling which became active in late trading. December sold off from 11.74 to 11.53 and closed at that figure with the general market ending barely steady at net declines of 11 to 15 points.

Cotton futures closed barey steady, 11-15 lower.

ROCKS BLANK CHICKS

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Jennings (Jinx) Poindexter, Southern association strikeout king, whiffed nine Memphis batters tonight and the Travelers won a 5 to 0 victory to open their final home stay.

The lefthander, who struck out 17 batters in a game several weeks ago, was wild, as usual, issuing eight bases on balls, making a wild pitch and hitting a batter. He bore down in the pinches, leaving 12 Chicks stranded on the bases.

Jack O'Neill, Cotton States league rookie, paced the Traveler batting attack, getting a double and two singles. Duke of the visitors and Williams of Little Rock hit triples.

FERRIDAY ALL-STARS TO PLAY TALLULAH TODAY

FERRIDAY, La., Sept. 5.—(Special)—The Ferriday All-Stars, negro baseball club, will meet the Chicago Mill nine of Tallulah here Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock on the Fair Ground diamond.

The All-Stars split their double-header here last Sunday with the Elizabeth Black Eagles, losing the opener, 10 to 9, and winning the other, 4 to 2.

Passengers now are being carried over the Paris-Madagascar air route, and the trip is completed in 8 1-2 days.

NEW YORK STOCKS

By Victor Eubank
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—(AP)—The rails got up steam in today's stock market and, pulling many other leaders along with them, registered gains of fractions to a point or more.

The brief session had its profit-taking periods but these were undisturbing in most instances. The close was firm. Transfers were around 700,000 shares.

While many traders skipped the day's brief proceedings in favor of a prolonged holiday, those who appeared in the boardrooms displayed sufficient buying vigor to more than offset the absentees.

The activity, best for a Saturday in nearly a month, was a pleasant surprise to the commission houses which had expected the dullness customary before a Labor day recess.

Continued progress of economic recovery was said to have spurred accumulation of selected stocks. At the same time there seemed to be a bit less nervousness over the foreign situation.

Conspicuous on the upside were Delaware & Hudson, Baltimore & Ohio, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Southern Pacific, Northern Pacific, General Baking, American Telephone, Western Union, Great Northern Ore, Chrysler, Sears Roebuck, Macy, American Can, Loew's and Coca-Cola.

Improvement was also registered by U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, General Motors, Reo, Montgomery Ward, Douglas Aircraft, National Distillers, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Consolidated Edison, General Electric, Goodyear, Paramount, Electric Auto-Lite and Briggs Mfg.

Anaconda and Kennecott were not much better than steady notwithstanding the export copper rate was lifted to 9.77 1-2 cents a pound to the best level in five years.

Carrier bonds moved forward while U. S. government securities were a trifle easier. Commodities were mixed, as were foreign currencies.

Rail shares again stepped to the fore as expanding passenger and freight traffic brought hopes of cheerful earnings figures over the next several months.

The merchandising division was studied anew in the light of a survey of the large retail organizations throughout the country which indicated dollar volume of sales in June, July and August was 10 to 17 per cent above that of last summer.

While the major motor issues were in fair demand, a few of the low-priced stocks in this group were quite lively. There was a large turnover in Reo following disclosure of this company's plans to devote its entire facilities to the manufacture of trucks.

Interest was shown in the posting of increased fourth quarter prices on some finished steel products. The reason given was the advance in scrap costs as well as general operating expenses.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Renewed active buying of grains early today swept wheat and corn prices more than a cent a bushel higher. September corn, which shot up 5 1-2 cents yesterday, advanced 2 cents more soon after today's opening, going as high as 1.13 1-2.

Opening 5-8-1 1-8 up, September 1.12-12 1-4, December 1.10 1-2-11, wheat later held near this range. Corn started unchanged to 1 1-2 higher, September 1.12 1-4-1-2, December 96 1-4-1-2, and later advanced all around.

Wheat closed 1-8-5-8 higher compared with yesterday's finish, Sept. 1.11 3-8-1-2, Dec. 1.10 3-8-1-2, and corn was 1-4 off to 1 1-4 up, Sept. 1.12-12 1-4, Dec. 96 1-8-1-4. Oats were unchanged to 3-8 higher, rye 1-4-1-2 up, barley 1-2-1 up, and provisions unchanged to 5 cents up.

HIGHWAY PAVING WORK GOING ON

Good Progress Reported From Various Projects In North Louisiana

Good progress is reported on the overpass near Corey, in Caldwell parish, during the past few days. With favorable weather conditions existing, all dirt work will be completed within two weeks, it was said Saturday. The initiation of the work of pouring cement for the bridge will be started later in the week by the Pittsburgh-Des Moines Steel company, which has the contract.

In East Carroll parish, Reynolds and Sutton are proceeding with drainage and other preliminaries eight miles north of Lake Providence on the highway that will extend to the Arkansas state line. This road will be paved with cement later.

Nelson Brothers are proceeding with the Springhill-Simsboro WPA state-owned project.

The Central Construction company inside of two or three days are scheduled to complete shoulders on the highway from Bonita to the Arkansas state line. This stretch of highway will shortly be turned over to the state highway department for acceptance.

Nelson Brothers have completed the highway into Alto which starts 12 miles east of Monroe at the end of the Winnsboro paved road. Only a gap remains which will be completed when a bridge is erected.

DEBT PAID

A free man once more, Joseph W. Harriman, one-time president of the Harriman National bank of New York City, hurries into an inn near Lewisburg, Pa., after being spirited away from the federal penitentiary in an elaborate midnight flight designed to elude watchers. He had been serving a 4 1-2 year term in connection with his bank's difficulties and was released on parole. His chauffeur seeks to shield him.

COMMERCE GROUP PLANS ON OUTING

Will Make Good Will Tour To Many Cities And Towns

All plans had been completed Saturday by S. H. McClary, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce of Monroe and West Monroe, for the fall good will tour which will be conducted on September 10.

The party, numbering 26 men, representing leading business firms of the city, will leave Hotel Virginia by bus at 7:30 a.m. They will visit Dubach and other cities, reaching Ruston at 11:45 a.m. and remaining there for luncheon until 1:15 p.m., when they will leave for the remainder of the trip which will take them to Jonesboro, Winnfield, Tullos, Columbia and other towns en route.

There will be sufficient time allowed at the various stops to permit the Monroe men to meet business leaders in all towns on the route.

A similar trip was made in the past to cities and towns east and southeast of Monroe and was pronounced an outstanding success. It is expected that the trip this week will prove even more successful than did the first one, which was also made by bus in one day.

Purchasers of

Home Sites in FAIRVIEW

We will be glad to show maps indicating the location and names of those who have already acquired building sites, and built homes in this new and beautiful residential section. And here are some of the reasons which prompted their selection:

Location:

A matter of a few minutes to the business district either by automobile or bus, near Neville High School, Lakeside Golf and Country Club, Muny Golf Club and Forsythe Park.

Restrictions:

Sensible restrictions preventing cheap speculative houses.

Development:

A guarantee of all new homes and rapid, substantial development for the immediate future.

Cost:

By comparison, the utmost to be had for the investment dollar. All paving and 1936 taxes paid.

HIGHWAY PAVING WORK GOING ON

Good Progress Reported From Various Projects In North Louisiana

Good progress is reported on the overpass near Corey, in Caldwell parish, during the past few days. With favorable weather conditions existing, all dirt work will be completed within two weeks, it was said Saturday. The initiation of the work of pouring cement for the bridge will be started later in the week by the Pittsburgh-Des Moines Steel company, which has the contract.

In East Carroll parish, Reynolds and Sutton are proceeding with drainage and other preliminaries eight miles north of Lake Providence on the highway that will extend to the Arkansas state line. This road will be paved with cement later.

Nelson Brothers are proceeding with the Springhill-Simsboro WPA state-owned project.

The Central Construction company inside of two or three days are scheduled to complete shoulders on the highway from Bonita to the Arkansas state line. This stretch of highway will shortly be turned over to the state highway department for acceptance.

Nelson Brothers have completed the highway into Alto which starts 12 miles east of Monroe at the end of the Winnsboro paved road. Only a gap remains which will be completed when a bridge is erected.

COMMERCE GROUP PLANS ON OUTING

Will Make Good Will Tour To Many Cities And Towns

All plans had been completed Saturday by S. H. McClary, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce of Monroe and West Monroe, for the fall good will tour which will be conducted on September 10.

The party, numbering 26 men, representing leading business firms of the city, will leave Hotel Virginia by bus at 7:30 a.m. They will visit Dubach and other cities, reaching Ruston at 11:45 a.m. and remaining there for luncheon until 1:15 p.m., when they will leave for the remainder of the trip which will take them to Jonesboro, Winnfield, Tullos, Columbia and other towns en route.

There will be sufficient time allowed at the various stops to permit the Monroe men to meet business leaders in all towns on the route.

A similar trip was made in the past to cities and towns east and southeast of Monroe and was pronounced an outstanding success. It is expected that the trip this week will prove even more successful than did the first one, which was also made by bus in one day.

NATION'S COTTON EXPORTS BETTER

Germany Doubles Purchases And France Comes Near Doing So

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—(AP)—An improved position for this country among the major exporters of raw cotton in the world for the season just closed compared with the previous year was reported today by the department of agriculture.

It said the United States, British India and Egypt exported 11,045,000 bales in international trade in the season ended July 31, as against 9,315,000 bales for the same countries in the 1934-35 season.

This country was said to have supplied 57 per cent of total exports of the three major countries as against 54 per cent the previous year.

However, last season's exports were far behind the 12,581,000-bale total for the 1933-34 season and the 1923-33 ten year average by 12,437,000 bales.

The increased share of exports for this country last year also was below the ten-year average of 66 per cent.

The season gain for this country was in the face of a sharp decline during the final month, July, when the index of cotton exports slumped to 50, compared with 76 in June and 72 in May, and 84 last July and 92 in July, 1934.

Foreign observers reported the European cotton textile situation continued gains during the final quarter of the season with heavy demand for flags and other goods needed in the Olympic games contributing to the upturn.

The German market for American cotton was reported at a standstill because of recent trade moves between the two countries. Chinese consumption of American cotton was at low ebb, it was said.

But deliveries of American cotton to spinners in Europe for the season just closed amounted to 4,192,000 bales compared to 3,485,000 the previous year and 5,525,000 in 1933-34.

Japan was the best buyer of American cotton during the last season taking 1,543,000 of the total exports of 6,267,000 bales or 25 per cent, it was said. This maintained a trend of recent years.

The United Kingdom took 1,461,000 bales, a gain of 2 per cent over preceding years but 19 per cent under the 10-year average previous to 1933.

Germany doubled her purchases of the staple and France almost did compared with the previous season. Exports to Italy dropped but cotton takings of Poland, Canada, Sweden and Portugal were higher.

GATHERING OF COTTON BEING PUSHED RAPIDLY

OAK GROVE, La., Sept. 5.—(Special)—Cotton picking in the vicinity of Oak Grove is being pushed rapidly and unless heavy rains occur during the next six weeks, it is expected that practically all the cotton in the Bayou Macon hill section will be gathered, it is reported. Due to the drouth this year the cotton has matured rapidly, cutting down the crop considerably Cotton in the delta along Bayou Macon and Boeuf river is not opening quite as fast as that on the ridge, as this section has had more rainfall.

Farmers in the hill section expect to harvest about half a bale of cotton to the acre, while those in the delta black lands anticipate as much as a bale to the acre, and perhaps more.

West Carroll parish made a good oat crop and practically all farmers who planted oats threshed 50 bushels or more to the acre.

The corn and hay crop in the parish will be cut about half of the yield expected six weeks ago and will be below the average for the normal crop for the parish, it is reported.

SCHOOLS TO OPEN

LAKE PROVIDENCE, La., Sept. 5.—(Specia)—East Carroll public schools will open September 14, it has been announced by Superintendent Ashley W. Warlick. St. Patrick's parochial school will open September 7, it was announced by Sister Catherine, supervisor.

P.-T. A. PLANS DISCUSSED

CHOUDRANT, La., Sept. 5.—(Special)—The Choudrant Parent-Teacher association met this week, with Mrs. H. M. Bagley presiding. This was the firs tmeeting of the 1936-37 season, and plans for the coming school session were discussed.

FERRIDAY, La., Sept. 5.—(Special)—All Ferriday High school students will be classified at the high school September 10, it has been announced by Hugh A. Bateman, principal. The purpose of the classification is to determine what subjects the students will take this fall.

ITALIAN LEAGUE SUPPORT SOUGHT

Secretary Of Nations' Tribunal Goes To Rome For Conferences

GENEVA, Sept. 5—(AP)—An endeavor to obtain full Italian support for League of Nations activities sent Joseph A. C. Avenol, league secretary-general, to Rome today.

Avenol planned to confer with Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian foreign minister, concerning Fascist intentions for the forthcoming league session, set for September 21.

In addition, the league official was to discuss the Italian contention that Ethiopia, annexed by Italy, is no longer entitled to representation in the league assembly.

The Italian delegation at Geneva walked out last June after stormy scenes during debate on war sanctions voted to punish Italy for her aggression in East Africa.

The situation created by the controversy, while never discussed officially with Rome, has left the Italian status in doubt. Avenol would seek to clarify the controversy in preparation for the September session.

Diplomatic circles, discussing the Ethiopian problem, believed Italy might refuse to participate in the assembly if representatives of Emperor Haile Selassie attend.

The question was complicated by provisions of article XVI of the league covenant which would allow expulsion of a regularly-elected member only if that member "has violated a covenant of the league."

WEST MONROE GETS TWO FIRE ALARMS

The West Monroe fire department answered two calls Saturday afternoon.

The first call, about 12:50, was a fire in W. R. Jordan's residence at 1004 Montgomery avenue. The blaze, which slightly damaged the kitchen of the home, was caused by children playing with matches.

The second call, shortly after one o'clock, was a grass fire at 804 Clayton street, caused by burning trash. No damage was reported.

WORK PROGRESSING

JENA, La., Sept. 5.—(Special)—Work on Jena's new $30,000 high school building is progressing rapidly. The structure will contain twelve classrooms, a home economics department, an office for the principal, and a gymnasium-auditorium. The building will probably be completed by November 1, it has been announced.

89 ARRESTS MADE

A total of 89 persons in Ouachita parish were arrested by the sheriff's department during the month of August, according to the monthly report released by the department yesterday. The arrests included burglary 8, larceny 14, non-support 4, assault 10, embezzlement 2, forgery 5, traffic violations 6, and miscellaneous 52.

TWO GRASS FIRES

Two grass fires, one about five miles south of Monroe on the new Columbia road and another at the corner of Pear and South First streets, were reported to the fire department yesterday. The fires were said to have been caused by burning trash and no property damage was reported.

L. S. U. OFFICERS ELECTED

LAKE PROVIDENCE, La., Sept. 5.—(Special)—E. D. Schneider has been chosen president of the East Carroll L. S. U. alumni. Barry Mitchell was elected vice-president, and Miss Marie Louise Gross secretary.

POWER CONCERNS PROTEST LOANS

Supreme Court Asked To Review Ruling Dismissing Action

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—(AP)—The Texas Utilities company and the Alabama Power company appealed to the supreme court today in an effort to prevent the government from making loans and grants to a number of cities for construction of municipally-owned electric systems.

They asked the tribunal to review a ruling by the United States district court for the District of Columbia dismissing the petitions for an injunction.

The power companies said the issues presented by the litigation are representative of over 35 cases now pending in the district court here.

The questions involved are similar to those raised in a petition by the Duke Power company, against a PWA loan and grant to Greenwood county, S. C., for construction of a power plant at Buzzard Roost, which the court already has agreed to review.

The petitioner said the question presented was whether the national industrial recovery act or the 1935 emergency relief appropriation act authorized "gifts or so-called loans of public moneys of the United States for the construction, at the sole expense and risk of the United States, of purely local electrical utility plants which can serve no national public purpose."

CHURCH REMODELED

JENA, La., Sept. 5.—(Special)—The First Baptist church of Jena has been recently remodeled. Fourteen classrooms have been added, and each department of the Sunday school now has an assembly room. The auditorium of the building has been made larger, and a new kitchen has been equipped.

CHURCH TO RAISE MONEY

Mt. Gilead church, negro, in West Monroe, will give a four-table supper on Friday night. A small fee will be charged. On Wednesday night there will be a hay ride from the church to Bastrop. Money raised by this means and by the church supper will be used to help defray expenses of the church.

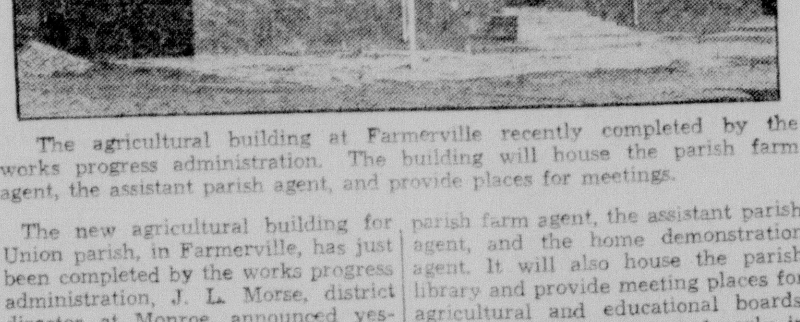
NEW DIRECTOR NAMED

JENA, La., Sept. 5.—(Special)—A. L. Hoke has been appointed director of the resettlement administration in LaSalle parish, succeeding B. R. Cain, who has been appointed district supervisor for several parishes in this district. Mr. Hoke was formerly director in Winn parish.

SCHOOL OPENING DELAYED

JENA, La., Sept. 5.—(Special)—LaSalle parish schools will open September 14 instead of September 7, as was recently announced by Superintendent J. D. Russell, Jr.

FOR UNION PARISH FARMERS



The agricultural building at Farmerville recently completed by the works progress administration. The building will house the parish farm agent, the assistant parish agent, and provide places for meetings.

The new agricultural building for Union parish, in Farmerville, has just been completed by the works progress administration, J. L. Morse, district director at Monroe, announced yesterday.

"This building will serve a long-felt need in this community," said Mr. Morse. "The parish, and particularly the Farmerville section, will now have a properly equipped place for its agricultural meetings."

The building provides space for the parish farm agent, the assistant parish agent, and the home demonstration agent. It will also house the parish library and provide meeting places for agricultural and educational boards.

The project was approved early in July and was sponsored by Louisiana extension service, Baton Rouge.

The building, a one-story brick structure with slate roof, cost approximately $14,000. Of this sum, $9,682 were federal funds and $4,554 sponsor's funds.

$90,000 SPENT ON SCHOOL BUILDINGS

Crutcher Outlines Work Going On Under WPA In This Part Of State

Approximately $90,000 is being spent this summer on school buildings and improvements in the Monroe district, according to James H. Crutcher, state administrator for the works progress administration. This district comprises the parishes of Caldwell, Franklin, Jackson, Lincoln, Madison, Morehouse, Ouachita, Richland, Tensas, and West Carroll.

A new auditorium is being constructed for the Delhi high school at a cost of $25,000, and a new frame school at Jena will cost $23,000. Other work in this district includes new office buildings costing $5,000 for the parish school board of West Carroll parish, and athletic field flood lights and auditorium at Louisiana Tech in Ruston. Several other schools in the district are being repaired, it was announced.

Federal funds allotted to this district amount to $64,000, and sponsor's funds, $26,000.

Over 85 school projects in Louisiana have been completed or are now in the course of operation, Mr. Crutcher announced. Over $1,000,000 has already been allotted for school work and school improvements by the federal government. To match this figure, approximately $750,000 has been contributed by the sponsors of this work in various parishes over the state.

These improvements have been made possible by the tremendous program of the works progress administration. With the cooperation of the cities, parishes, and other political sub-divisions, the WPA is carrying forward a schedule of school improvement which is statewide in scope. The program is providing many essentials, among them the necessary desks in schools where they are needed, playgrounds and recreation centers for the pupils, and in many instances a wholesome lunch is supplied.

INTEREST CONTINUES IN GOOD HOPE MEET

Good interest and large attendance still continue at Good Hope Baptist church revival. This church is located six miles from West Monroe. A record-breaking attendance is anticipated at all services today.

At the morning service today, Evangelist J. T. Walters will preach on "Blessed Burden Bearing" and at 7:30 p.m. on "A Marvelous Mountain Top Meeting."

The public is invited to attend and the church is cool and comfortable.

SPRINKLER ALARM RINGS

The alarm bell of the fire sprinkler system in the Durrett Hardware and Furniture company, Inc., 105 St. John street, started ringing early Saturday morning and firemen who made an investigation learned that no fire was in the building but that a change in air pressure in the sprinkler pipes had caused the bell to ring, it was reported. Joe Durrett, proprietor of the firm, was called there by firemen. Mr. Durrett unlocked the front door and turned off the bell.

TO ATTEND CONVENTION

I. W. Allen of Monroe, and Walter Fisher of West Monroe, left Saturday morning for Beaumont, Tex., to attend the two-day convention of the Grotto. They will also visit Houston before returning home.

SEAGRAM DEALERS' BANQUET

COLLEGE FACULTY TO GIVE ADVICE

Northeast Center To Be Divided Into Groups Of Twenty

Dean Stephen A. Caldwell of Northeast Center, stated Saturday that he plans an innovation which will be put into practice with the opening of the new semester. Students will be divided into groups of 20 who will be assigned to some particular faculty advisor. This advisor will meet with his group from time to time to give advice in matters concerning the students of the group.

When advice is desired concerning studies and in other matters that arise in connection with student life, the faculty member will be ready to aid. From time to time, groups of students wil be transferred under the guidance of another teacher in a sort of revolving manner, thus not being under the sponsorship of a single teacher during the entire school year.

Dean Caldwell stated that this plan will in his opinion prove helpful.

The faculty head will from time to time render reports to the acting dean, who in turn will report to the dean, thus the latter official will be able to keep in close touch with the entire student body and its activities.

The office of assistant dean has been created and the registrar will also rank in this capacity. W. M. Caskey will occupy this position for the coming semester.

NEGRO SCHOOL FOR TEACHERS CONDUCTED

The school conducted by Gertrude Ammon at the Monroe negro high school, the past week, closed Friday. Visits were paid by leading negro instructors from Southern university and elsewhere. Superintendent T. O. Brown of the Ouachita parish schools, also made an inspection and all praised the work performed.

The purpose of the work was to acquaint negro teachers with improved methods in the classroom, the discussion of school projects and objectives, the preparation of lesson plans and of the development of the curriculum of the various schools. Attention also was paid to the problems of the rural and urban pupils and efforts were suggested which are calculated to improve conditions and to coordinate the work of schools located in both the country and city.

ORCHARD LEAFLETS MAY BE OBTAINED

Farmers and fruit growers in Ouachita parish who are interested in plans and management of orchards are advised by E. R. Strahan, parish agricultural agent, to obtain copies of leaflets released by the agricultural extension department in Baton Rouge entitled "The Well-Gardened Home." The leaflets give valuable data relative to successful fruit growing and enumerate a list of fruit trees adaptable to this section of the state.

"The lists are designed to provide an adequate supply of home grown fruits for the average family, and a detailed plan of an orchard showing the distance between trees of the same and different varieties is included in the leaflets as well as valuable suggestions regarding pruning and spraying for insect and disease control," Mr. Strahan said.

TONSIL CLINC HELD

TALLULAH, La., Sept. 5.—(Special)—A tonsil clinic for pre-school children was held here Wednesday at Dr. Stevens' hospital. Dr. Stevens was assisted by Dr. Alston Callahan, Dr. Bronson and Dr. Hugh John of Vicksburg, Miss. The clinic was sponsored by the summer round-up committee of the Tallulah Parent-Teacher association, assisted by the local Red Cross and the Madison parish health unit.

EYE DISEASES TO BE STUDIED

Groups To Meet To Discuss Myopia And Other Visual Defects

Following the holding of the convention of the Louisiana State Optometric association in New Orleans, study groups to further research work and to study problems that confront the optometric profession have been formed in many cities of the state. Regular meetings are in progress in New Orleans, Alexandria, Shreveport and Monroe and a group will soon be formed in Baton Rouge. Statewide clinics will be held in which various groups will participate.

At the state convention, Dr. A. M. Skeffington, an outstanding lecturer and leader in optometric research, was in charge of the educational program. He informed his hearers that myopia, or near-sightedness as it is commonly termed, can be virtually abolished as a major eye problem if children received adequate attention to their visual problems in their early life.

He said that the disease is of a functional nature and is not an anatomical defect as is commonly supposed. Continuing he said:

"While it is true that some cases of myopia are the result of an abnormally long eyeball, most of them are not. Many cases of near-sightedness found among high school and college students could have been prevented by adequate attention to the visual function in the primary grades.

"If near-sightedness is the result of an abnormally long eyeball, there is little hope of remedying the condition but if it is of a functional nature, induced by a poorly coordinated visual function, then there are possibilities of correcting it."

The importance of adequately caring for this condition was stressed on account of the rapidly increasing occurrence of myopia among students in higher educational levels.

The Graduate Clinic foundation, of which Dr. Skeffington is director, is devoted to the development of modern analytical methods in optometry. It is supported through the efforts of some 5,000 optometrists in the United States and its purpose is to investigate and endeavor to solve some of the problems that arise in the optometric profession.

NATION'S COTTON EXPORTS BETTER

Germany Doubles Purchases And France Comes Near Doing So

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—(AP)—An improved position for this country among the major exporters of raw cotton in the world for the season just closed compared with the previous year was reported today by the department of agriculture.

It said the United States, British India and Egypt exported 11,045,000 bales in international trade in the season ended July 31, as against 9,315,000 bales for the same countries in the 1934-35 season.

This country was said to have supplied 57 per cent of total exports of the three major countries as against 54 per cent the previous year.

However, last season's exports were far behind the 12,581,000-bale total for the 1933-34 season and the 1923-33 ten year average by 12,437,000 bales.

The increased share of exports for this country last year also was below the ten-year average of 66 per cent.

The season gain for this country was in the face of a sharp decline during the final month, July, when the index of cotton exports slumped to 50, compared with 76 in June and 72 in May, and 84 last July and 92 in July, 1934.

Foreign observers reported the European cotton textile situation continued gains during the final quarter of the season with heavy demand for flags and other goods needed in the Olympic games contributing to the upturn.

The German market for American cotton was reported at a standstill because of recent trade moves between the two countries. Chinese consumption of American cotton was at low ebb, it was said.

But deliveries of American cotton to spinners in Europe for the season just closed amounted to 4,192,000 bales compared to 3,485,000 the previous year and 5,525,000 in 1933-34.

Japan was the best buyer of American cotton during the last season taking 1,543,000 of the total exports of 6,267,000 bales or 25 per cent, it was said. This maintained a trend of recent years.

The United Kingdom took 1,461,000 bales, a gain of 2 per cent over preceding years but 19 per cent under the 10-year average previous to 1933.

Germany doubled her purchases of the staple and France almost did compared with the previous season. Exports to Italy dropped but cotton takings of Poland, Canada, Sweden and Portugal were higher.

GATHERING OF COTTON BEING PUSHED RAPIDLY

OAK GROVE, La., Sept. 5.—(Special)—Cotton picking in the vicinity of Oak Grove is being pushed rapidly and unless heavy rains occur during the next six weeks, it is expected that practically all the cotton in the Bayou Macon hill section will be gathered, it is reported. Due to the drouth this year the cotton has matured rapidly, cutting down the crop considerably Cotton in the delta along Bayou Macon and Boeuf river is not opening quite as fast as that on the ridge, as this section has had more rainfall.

Farmers in the hill section expect to harvest about half a bale of cotton to the acre, while those in the delta black lands anticipate as much as a bale to the acre, and perhaps more.

West Carroll parish made a good oat crop and practically all farmers who planted oats threshed 50 bushels or more to the acre.

The corn and hay crop in the parish will be cut about half of the yield expected six weeks ago and will be below the average for the normal crop for the parish, it is reported.

SCHOOLS TO OPEN

LAKE PROVIDENCE, La., Sept. 5.—(Specia)—East Carroll public schools will open September 14, it has been announced by Superintendent Ashley W. Warlick. St. Patrick's parochial school will open September 7, it was announced by Sister Catherine, supervisor.

ITALIAN LEAGUE SUPPORT SOUGHT

Secretary Of Nations' Tribunal Goes To Rome For Conferences

GENEVA, Sept. 5—(AP)—An endeavor to obtain full Italian support for League of Nations activities sent Joseph A. C. Avenol, league secretary-general, to Rome today.

Avenol planned to confer with Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian foreign minister, concerning Fascist intentions for the forthcoming league session, set for September 21.

In addition, the league official was to discuss the Italian contention that Ethiopia, annexed by Italy, is no longer entitled to representation in the league assembly.

The Italian delegation at Geneva walked out last June after stormy scenes during debate on war sanctions voted to punish Italy for her aggression in East Africa.

The situation created by the controversy, while never discussed officially with Rome, has left the Italian status in doubt. Avenol would seek to clarify the controversy in preparation for the September session.

Diplomatic circles, discussing the Ethiopian problem, believed Italy might refuse to participate in the assembly if representatives of Emperor Haile Selassie attend.

The question was complicated by provisions of article XVI of the league covenant which would allow expulsion of a regularly-elected member only if that member "has violated a covenant of the league."

WEST MONROE GETS TWO FIRE ALARMS

The West Monroe fire department answered two calls Saturday afternoon.

The first call, about 12:50, was a fire in W. R. Jordan's residence at 1004 Montgomery avenue. The blaze, which slightly damaged the kitchen of the home, was caused by children playing with matches.

The second call, shortly after one o'clock, was a grass fire at 804 Clayton street, caused by burning trash. No damage was reported.

WORK PROGRESSING

JENA, La., Sept. 5.—(Special)—Work on Jena's new $30,000 high school building is progressing rapidly. The structure will contain twelve classrooms, a home economics department, an office for the principal, and a gymnasium-auditorium. The building will probably be completed by November 1, it has been announced.

89 ARRESTS MADE

A total of 89 persons in Ouachita parish were arrested by the sheriff's department during the month of August, according to the monthly report released by the department yesterday. The arrests included burglary 8, larceny 14, non-support 4, assault 10, embezzlement 2, forgery 5, traffic violations 6, and miscellaneous 52.

TWO GRASS FIRES

Two grass fires, one about five miles south of Monroe on the new Columbia road and another at the corner of Pear and South First streets, were reported to the fire department yesterday. The fires were said to have been caused by burning trash and no property damage was reported.

POWER CONCERNS PROTEST LOANS

Supreme Court Asked To Review Ruling Dismissing Action

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—(AP)—The Texas Utilities company and the Alabama Power company appealed to the supreme court today in an effort to prevent the government from making loans and grants to a number of cities for construction of municipally-owned electric systems.

They asked the tribunal to review a ruling by the United States district court for the District of Columbia dismissing the petitions for an injunction.

The power companies said the issues presented by the litigation are representative of over 35 cases now pending in the district court here.

The questions involved are similar to those raised in a petition by the Duke Power company, against a PWA loan and grant to Greenwood county, S. C., for construction of a power plant at Buzzard Roost, which the court already has agreed to review.

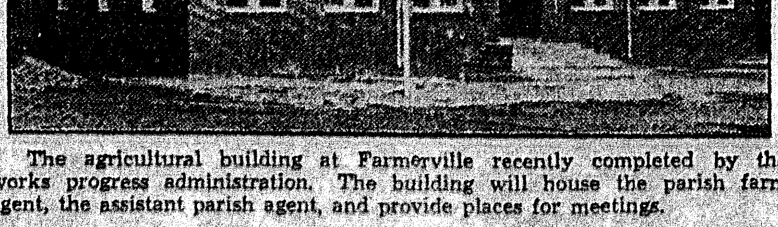
FOR UNION PARISH FARMERS



The agricultural building at Farmerville recently completed by the works progress administration. The building will house the parish farm agent, the assistant parish agent, and provide places for meetings.

The new agricultural building for Union parish, in Farmerville, has just been completed by the works progress administration, J. L. Morse, district director at Monroe, announced yesterday.

"This building will serve a long-felt need in this community," said Mr. Morse. "The parish, and particularly the Farmerville section, will now have a properly equipped place for its agricultural meetings."

The building provides space for the parish farm agent, the assistant parish agent, and the home demonstration agent. It will also house the parish library and provide meeting places for agricultural and educational boards.

The project was approved early in July and was sponsored by Louisiana extension service, Baton Rouge.

The building, a one-story brick structure with slate roof, cost approximately $14,000. Of this sum, $9,682 were federal funds and $4,554 sponsor's funds.

Vacationists Return; College Students Prepare To Leave

Sororities Start Annual Rushing; Important Marriage Plans Being Announced

By Eve Bradford

SEPTEMBER! Shake the dreams of summer from our eyes as the shadows of approaching autumn deepen along the horizon. Even though the temperature continues to be persistently torrid, when September comes we know that the excitement of cool, crisp days are just ahead.

Even before the crackle of dry leaves there's college color on the horizon and concentrated social bid for prospective sorority pledges nears its height.

Collegiate enthusiasm mounted high at the Lotus club last week where the Tri Deltas and their rushees sipped tea and like the walrus "talked of many things." The rushees in question were lovely enough to grace any sorority house, so it is little wonder Greek letter women and especially the Tri Deltas would like to add the names of Doris Reid, Laura Grace Kendall, Sara Cole Morrison, Mable Sharp Devenport, Fay Bennett and Dorothy Graves to their illustrious roster.

Dorothy Graves, off on the fourteenth for Brenau was also wearing one of her new outfits—a brown sport model with off-the-face brown hat, brown plaid skirt and a natty three-quarter coat. It is the last word in a sport model for the college girl. In the matter of clothes, college girls set their styles. They are influenced neither by motion picture actresses nor their own laws and seek the advice only of their classmates. Though different colleges have individual fads, the sweater and skirt have become the college uniform throughout the land. Polo coats and tweed ulsters are universally liked and so is the tweed coat. Expensive fur coats are considered very poor taste. The "date" dress is considered one of the essentials, so almost every Monroe girl we know of has packed away two or three of these attractive gowns for her first year at college. Despite the studied simplicity of the attire, college girls love to wear ribbons in their hair by day and gleaming clips by night. The seasoned student uses make-up with restraint, dislikes eye-shadow and applies rouge sparingly because she glories in the look of radiant health. College girls agree that the average girl improves greatly in appearance after her first year. This is due to the mutual, kindly and helpful criticism of their classmates and to the fact that most of them achieve a simplicity in clothes which they feel is real smartness.

The theme song today is "Let me live in my trailer by the side of the road and be a friend to the filling station man." Mrs. A. L. Smith saw so many of these comfortable little trailers nestling in cool out-of-the-way places in Colorado this summer that she returned home fully determined to possess one of her own. Friends are already beseeching her for invitations to trail with her to Florida this winter.

Homes are being aired, slip covers are being whisked off the furniture and everyone is returning home from vacation lands. We glimpsed several sunburned noses that spoke louder than words of a summer spent in the mountains and on the seashore. Betty and Bernard Biedenharn have a splendid coat of tan but it was the Louisiana sun that did the job. Bernbeth Lodge tucked away in the pines near Cheniere brake is their summer rendezvous. So isolated is this comfortable lodge of theirs, they conceived the idea of drawing a map of the road when they issued invitations to their friends to be their guests at a dutch supper recently. Malcolm and Francesca Biedenharn were also hosts on this occasion. During the convivial cocktail hour a steady flow of iced liquids poured through a mound of ice, reminiscent of a cool mountain brook. Tin cups were found nearby It was just another top-notch evening so prevalent at this domicile.

Everyone we know of has had a vacation this year with the exception of Dan Cupid. He worked overtime, judging from the crop of engagements soon to be announced. Bertha Marie Masur is wearing a gorgeous square cut sparkler and announces her engagement to a young man back east. Mary Louise O'Donnell has a tell-tale sparkler on the third finger and confided to us that the wedding will take place later in the year. Hope to have all the interesting details very soon now. Two more popular members of society will formally announce their engagements within the next few weeks. Several others have reached the "want-to-be-alone-together" stage which is just one step removed from the marriage license bureau.

Violet Meyer is on the bounding main today. She is on board the Seminole en route from New York to Galveston. She will arrive home just in time to say good bye to her father, Walter Meyer, who will leave shortly for big game hunting in Quebec. The hunter's moon will also shine on P. M. Atkins, who will accompany him. Their return home is uncertain as they have already promised four moose heads.

When you are on a holiday you must expect to find a few illusions shattered but such was not the case with us. A long, long trail in an air-conditioned train lashing along through the desert as if the devil himself were after it with five hundred passengers on board. Through the desert the train roared with the sun coming up like thunder in the desert the second morning. It was hotter than pepper outdoors but in the car a heavenly freshness and no speck of dust. The train barged through the Sierra Nevada mountains and then California with its flowering trees, great splashes of scarlet and pink hibiscus hedges, terraces covered with purple lantana, exotic gardens and a maze of flowers all combined with a special wizardy—tall oleanders wafting perfume and towering overhead the palms trees swaying in the breeze from the Pacific.

Hollywood Bowl under the stars with thirty thousand people hushed to the glorious voice of Lily Pons echoing through the nearby mountains. An intermission and all eyes turn to the towering cross on a nearby mountain peak with the moon a golden ball of fire rising directly behind it. It was an awe inspiring picture, not directed by the hand of man.

Through the Paramount studios with a guide. Walking down strange looking streets in this cardboard city where the glamorous movie stars live their lives. We walked through the streets of old St. Louis where the "The Plainsmen" is in the making and back again to the present day in a courtroom scene where the "Accusing Finger" was being made.

On to San Francisco with its atmosphere of complacent charm. Nob hill with creaking cable cars zagging downward like flies upon a wall. The shops open elegantly at nine-thirty in the morning. Everyone pauses to buy a nosegay from the flower venders found on every street corner—gleaming white gardenias, purple pansies and long stemmed violets. Chinatown, alive with Chinese men and women in native attire milling around in the pale moonlight with red and gold lanterns swaying from the lacquered rafters of gilded joss houses high above the narrow crooked streets.

On board our steamer for two wonderful days on the broad Pacific with dancing waters a curious blue—not the gray blue of the Atlantic but the Persian blue of a peacock's breast. Strong are the winds from the tropics and seated on deck in a steamer chair we are given to day-dreaming of those far off enchanted isles. In the long watches of the night the venerable old ship sings her theme song. With a grunt and a groan like a tired old woman, she slaps the waves and hums a dirge-like ditty, always the same and as old as time and the tides.

Truly the charm of California takes possession of every stranger. It is a land that changes restlessly from mountain to dale, from wooded copse to wild yellow cliffs along the ocean where the water surges against a rock bound coast. Riotous colors of flowers and luxuriant vegetation intermingle with the evergreen pines which enrich the landscape and always in the distance the surging Pacific.

Parsons-Kincaid

A wedding in which friends in the Twin Cities will be interested was that of Miss Gartha Lea Kincaid, lovely daughter of Mr. C. A. Kincaid of Monroe, and Charles A. Parsons of El Dorado, Ark.

The vows were taken Sunday, August 23, in the presence of a few intimate friends, with the Rev. H. M. Geren officiating.

Mrs. Parsons has for a number of years been affiliated with a beauty salon in El Dorado and Mr. Parsons who is the son of Mrs. C. A. Parsons of that city, is a promising young business man of El Dorado, where the young couple will reside.

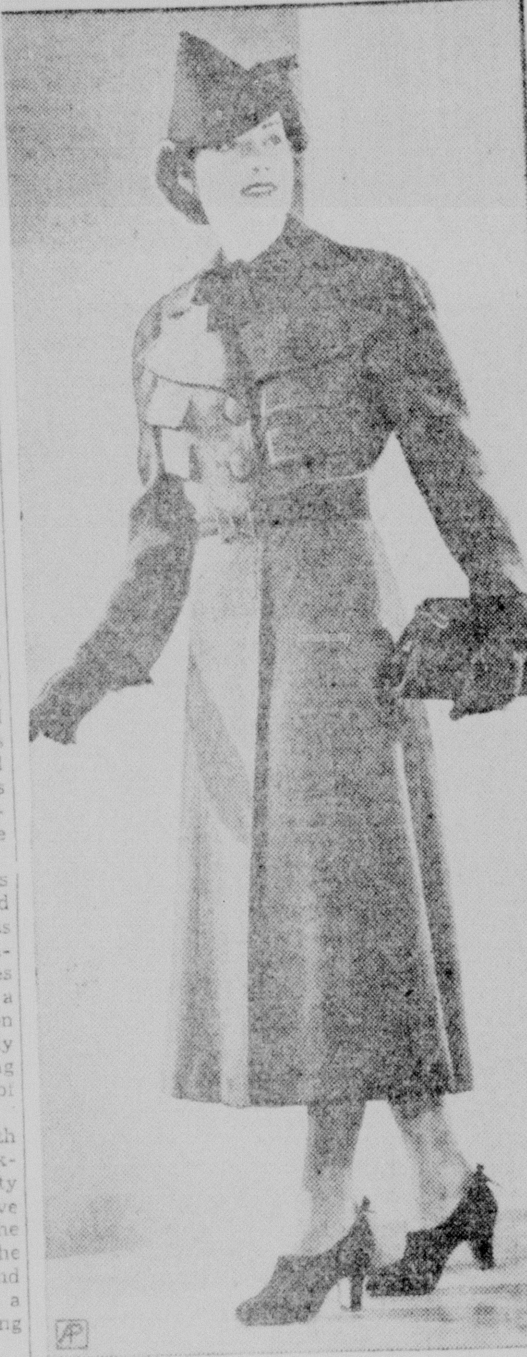
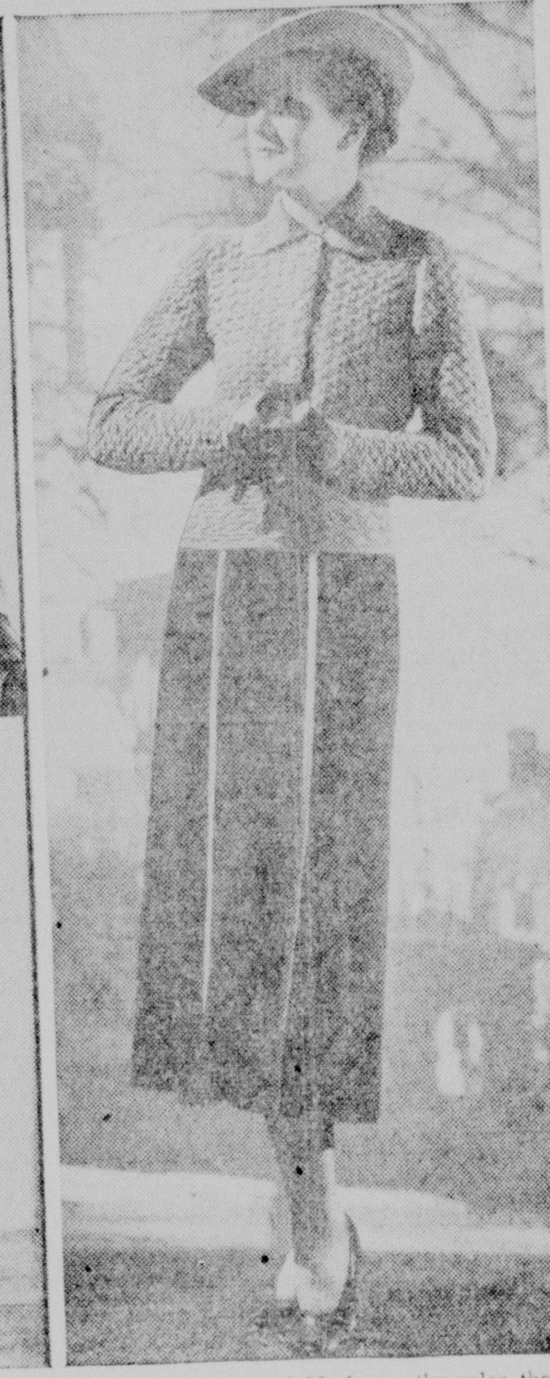
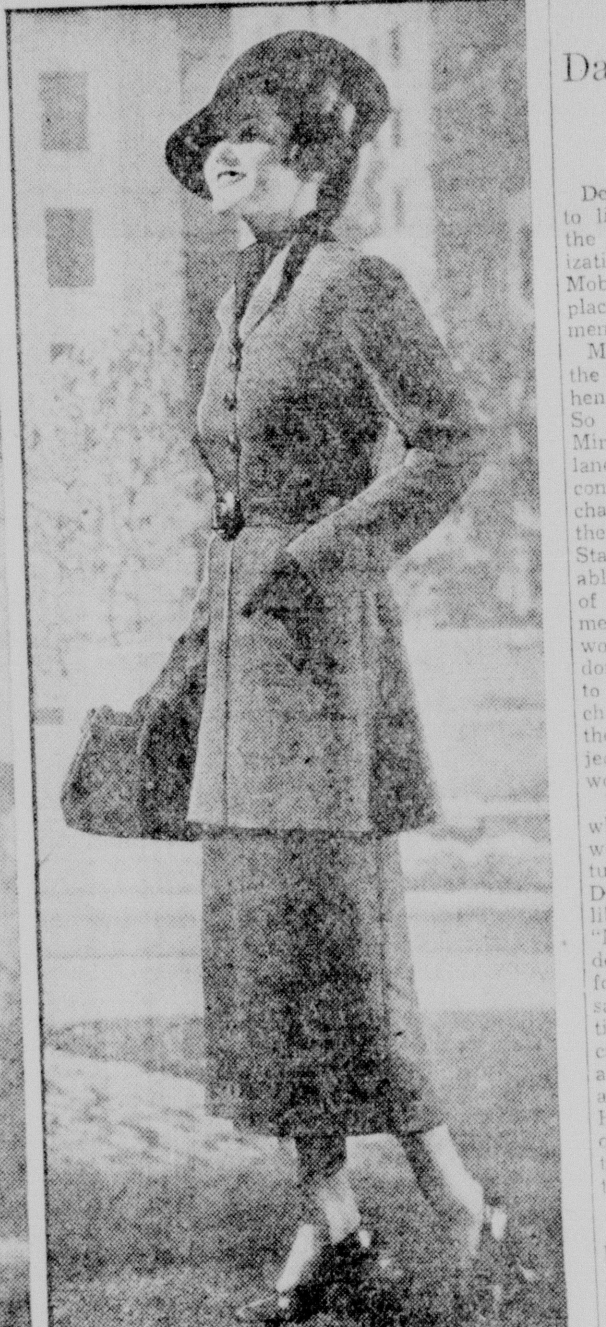
Wide Color Range Used For Fall Style Picture



The fall vogue for subtle color blending is reflected in this three-piece coat, skirt and blouse combining a rich blue green with brown. The coat of blue green diagonal wool with pointed revers is worn with a skirt of the same material and a brown sheer wool blouse.



Emerald green and black are the color theme of this machine knit costume designed for September days. The jacket blouse is knit in a matelasse effect matched by two vertical stripes down the front of the black wool skirt to accent its slim lines. A green felt hat tops the costumes.



For that first fall ensemble to replace summer frocks of sheer material, here is a flat knit wool suit in beige and brown herringbone tweed weave. This combines a skirt, a blouse and a three-quarter length belted jacket with brown leather belt, buttons and accessories.

Miss Moss Is Married

Member Of Prominent Ruston Family Weds Daniel C. Gilbert

The traditional charm of the old south was reflected in the marriage of Miss Elizabeth Tallulah Moss, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Y. Moss of Ruston and granddaughter of the late Judge J. B. Holstead, prominent jurist of this state, to Mr. Daniel C. Gilbert of Monroe.

The wedding, characterized by charming simplicity, took place at the home of the bride's parents in Ruston with Rev. Guy Hicks, pastor of the Trinity Methodist church, performing the double ring ceremony in the presence of a few intimate friends and members of the family.

The guests, upon arrival, were welcomed by the bride's parents, and the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. J. S. Gilbert. Courtesies were also extended by Mr. and Mrs. George B. Holstead.

The ceremony was performed in the candlelit library before an improvised altar, above which was an arch fashioned of flaming cathedral tapers. Tapers also gleamed in the handsome bronze candelabra used for the wedding ceremony of the bride's parents. Tall baskets overflowing with white carnations, and white Crego asters placed in the background, formed a decorative floral note. The lighting of the candles by Betty Ruth Barnes and Anne Stuart Moss was an impressively beautiful ceremony.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Ernest Pennebaker, Jr., of Wisner, wore a beautiful model of gold colored organza over yellow taffeta and carried a cascade bouquet of golden hued asters.

Mr. Robert Williams of Monroe acted as best man.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a handmade lace wedding gown, the handiwork of Mrs. E. S. Pennebaker of Wisner. It was fashioned along princess lines over white duchess satin. A cap of rose-point lace was caught to the hair with a chaplet of orange blossoms worn by the bride's maternal grandmother on her wedding day. A beautiful bouquet of white bride's roses and valley lilies was carried.

An informal reception was held and later the bride cut the wedding cake, a luscious confection presented to the bride by Mrs. E. A. Epps, a cherished friend. Delicious confections were served. Miss Jacqueline Moss and Miss Miriam Foster presided over the punch bowl.

Prominent among the guests were Mr. John Sherrouse and son, John, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. George B. Holstead, and their sons, James Oliver and George, Jr., and Mr. Thomas Lewis, and Dr. S. L. White, lifelong friend of the bride's family.

The bride changed her wedding gown for a smart navy blue tailleur with corsage of valley lilies.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert are spending their honeymoon in Chicago and points in the east.

Engagement Announced

Claiming the interest of many friends in this city is the following announcement:

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Seale of 1301 West Capitol street, Jackson, Miss., announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Juanita, to Mr. Arthur McKinstry White of Starkville, Miss. The wedding will take place in Jackson Saturday afternoon, September 12, at 5 o'clock, at the Galloway Memorial church. Reverend Loyd DeCue will perform the ceremony.

Miss Seale attended Randolph-Macon college in Lynchburg, Va., and is a graduate of Belhaven college in Jackson. She is a member of Beta Sigma sorority.

Mr. White is a graduate of Mississippi State college and is connected with the state highway department in Jackson.

Formal invitations will not be issued but friends are cordially invited to be present at the ceremony.

Beautiful gifts were presented Miss Brown, for which she expressed her thanks.

Mr. and Mrs. Sigmund Masur, Mr. and Mrs. Sylvan Masur, Miss Bertha Masur and Mr. Jack Masur comprised a family party enjoying a month's sea cruise from New York City. They returned home on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Entrican and little daughter, Judith Ann of Brookhaven, Miss., were the guests last week of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Entrican, Mr. Marco Entrican and Mrs. Maud Thompson.

Henry Biedenharn, Jr., and John Sherrouse, Jr., will leave the first of the week to resume their studies at Culver Military academy, Culver, Ind.

Miss Lela Mae Nelson is attending a house party in the home of Miss Mary Mhoon Noble of Rayville. Miss Noble and Miss Nelson are classmates at Whitworth college and will return to college the first of the week.

Mrs. B. O. Dover and children of Cove, Ark., were the guests last week of Mrs. Dover's sister, Mrs. G. L. Nelson.

Miss Etta Hale will leave on Monday for Brookhaven, Miss., where she will matriculate at Whitworth college for the coming year.

Entertains Guest

Mrs. William Lee entertained during the tea hour on Friday complimentary to her charming house guest, Miss Bettye Grafton, of Shreveport.

The reception suite, banked with garden flowers of vivid hue, formed a colorful setting for the hostess, who was assisted in the courtesies by Miss Ruth Hood Poimbeouf and Miss Margaret Warren. Miss Grafton, wearing a lovely summery frock of organza, was the central figure in the group of friends, who included Misses Marjorie Robins, Barbara Jo Younse, Sara Elizabeth Randle, Ann Warren, Margaret Warren, Jane Humphries, Gene Parker, LaJeanne Weatherly, Evelyn Wade, Bettye Rinehart, Lelia Dean Frazier, Ruth Poimbeouf, Bettye Bryant, Rose Mary Bryant, Bettye Evans and Mary Salley.

Off On Honeymoon

Mr. and Mrs. Sargent Pitcher, Jr., of Baton Rouge are off on a honeymoon trip to Colorado following their marriage on September 2 at 8 p. m. at the First Methodist church, which was an event of brilliance. The charming bride was Miss Charlie Holcombe, third daughter of Mr. Charles Andrew Holcombe and the late Rachel Jones Holcombe, and her wedding brought together a large gathering of society.

Mr. Jack Moseley of this city was a member of the wedding personnel and Miss Dorothy Calvert was numbered among the guests.

Donald and Owen Halsell, sons of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Halsell, have returned from Dallas, Tex., where they enjoyed a visit in the home of their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Kemple. While there they visited the centennial.

Mr. M. C. McDonald, vice-president of the Brown Paper mill, has returned from a visit with his parents, in Poultney, Vt.

Misses Teresa and Mary Turk, accompanied by their mother, Mrs. Mary James, returned from New York, where they have been studying under famous dancing instructors for the past four weeks.

Friends will regret to learn that Mrs. L. N. Collier is a patient at St. Francis sanitarium. Visitors will now be permitted to call.

Mr. and Mrs. Meyers Jackson and little daughter, Nan, formerly of this city, are being welcomed by old friends. They are at home for the time being at 313 North Third street.

Miss Dorothy King, who has been spending the summer in Port Arthur, Tex., with her father, has returned to West Monroe and will be at home again this winter with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Carey Holmes.

Mr. and Mrs. Dwight L. Schieber, Mrs. Gladys Vaughan and Mrs. J. D. King have returned from a motor trip to New Orleans and a visit of several days in the Rigolets where they spent their time boating and fishing.

Mrs. Clarence Faulk, regent of Fort Miro chapter, D. A. R., attended a state board meeting in Alexandria last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Young Henson of Meridian, Miss., spent the past week-end in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Price Martin. They were accompanied by Mr. Rudolph Brown, who also was a guest in the Martin home.

William Norris, Jr., has returned home from Davenport, Iowa, where he took a special course of study at the Palmer school from which he was graduated in 1934.

Guest Much Feted Here

Miss Geralyn Williams Entertained In Home Of Miss Jane Dawkins

Miss Geralyn Williams, of Columbia, S. C., a most delightful guest in the home of Judge and Mrs. Benjamin Dawkins, claimed the spotlight of social attention last week.

Miss Williams, a classmate of Miss Jane Dawkins at Mary Baldwin college, is typically collegiate and enjoyed to the utmost the swimming and boating parties arranged for her pleasure. The barbecue in the patio of the Dawkins' home was one of the gayest and most colorful affairs of all.

Prominence among the informal affairs complimenting Miss Williams was Fred Fudickar's buffet supper; Miss Louise Grey's luncheon on the Virginia roof; Mrs. J. Q. Graves' boating party on the Brown Craft; Mrs. Thomas Sullivan's dinner party at her home on Stubbs avenue; Miss Sara Talbert's breakfast party at the Lotus club; Miss Carolyn Stubbs' morning bridge; Mrs. John Holmes' bridge affair; Mrs. Douglass Miles, Jr., and Mrs. Theodore Terzia's bridge and Mr. Thomas Hayes' dinner on the Virginia roof.

Clubs Will Launch Programs This Week

Daughters Of American Revolution And Book Units Will Play Important Part

Decided momentum is being added to life these days of early fall with the wheels of every women's organization in the city being set in motion. Mobilization of members will take place this week when the season commences officially.

Members of Fort Miro chapter of the D. A. R. have outlined a comprehensive course of study for the year. So interesting is the work of Fort Miro chapter that Mr. Berney Oakland was inspired to write an article concerning the ideals and work of this chapter. It was published recently in the public forum of the Monroe News-Star and elicited considerable favorable comment. The ideals and work of the society are to perpetuate the memory and the spirit of the men and women who gained American freedom; to promote the development and to foster patriotic citizenship. The chairman of the various committees of the local chapter are continuously injecting these aims and ideals in their work.

It is hoped that the general public which is interested in any of these works will avail itself of the opportunity of reading the books on the D. A. R. shelves in the Monroe public library. There is a complete set of "Messages and Papers of the Presidents," donated to the chapter by a former member, Mrs. Herbert Millsaps. There is quite a varied collection of books pertaining to genealogical and historical research. A recent addition to the collection has been a copy of "Our Government," by Koskin, which is an approved source of valuable information concerning the various departments of our system of government.

Another star has been added to the literary firmament.

The Miro Book club has been organized by members of the Miro Delphian society who completed the six-year Delphian course.

The object of the new club is both literary and social. This year's work will embrace 116 meetings at which time a book review and a topic on current events will be featured.

Mrs. James M. Russell has been elected president; Mrs. J. E. Whitfield, vice-president; Mrs. J. T. Pugh, secretary, and Mrs. J. B. Collins, treasurer. The membership consists of the following: Mrs. F. C. Bennett, Mrs. G. R. Younce, Mrs. J. D. Calhoun, Mrs. W. A. Whitfield, Jr, Mrs. S. M. Collins, Mrs. J. E. Whitfield, Mrs. M. M. Munholland, Mrs. Henry Whitfield, Mrs. J. B. Collins, Mrs. C. R. Tidwell, Mrs. W. G. Murphy, Mrs. J. T. Pugh, Mrs. A. S. Tidwell, Mrs. John Pracher, Mrs. James M. Russell, and Mrs. S. H. McClary.

A distinct acquisition to the literary field of the city is the organization of Beta chapter of the Delphian society with Mrs. E. G. Waring, president; Mrs H. M. James, vice-president; Mrs. Reginald Fields, recording secretary; Mrs. R. F. Roberts, corresponding secretary; Mrs. H. R. Arlig, treasurer. Members of the board are Mrs. Smith Colvin, Mrs. George Lofton and Mrs. Crawford Young.

The membership comprises Mrs. A. B. Clarkson, Mrs. Smith Colvin, Mrs. H. R. Arlig, Mrs. J. T. Eubanks, Mrs. H. M. James, Mrs. D. C. Metcalf, Mrs. L. G. Frost, Mrs. William Mintz, Mrs. Reginald Fields, Mrs. John Liest, Mrs. H. M. Lindquist, Mrs. H. H. Reardon, Mrs. R. F. Roberts, Mrs. J. B. Collins, Mrs. George Lofton, Mrs. M. H. Sager, Mrs. R. C. Stokes, Mrs. E. G. Waring, Mrs. John Snelling and Mrs. J. F. Jones.

The new club year will open officially for members of the Welcome branch of the Twentieth Century Book club on Wednesday, when Mrs. J. Norman Coon will offer the hospitality of her home.

Officers guiding the destiny of the club this year are: President, Mrs. J. Norman Coon; first vice-president, Mrs. D. M. Moore; second vice-president, Mrs. Dudley Stone; recording secretary, Mrs. J. D. Petty; corresponding secretary, Mrs. F. F. Smith; treasurer, Mrs. J. W. Treadwell; reporter, Mrs. J. R. White; parliamentarian, Mrs. Don Shattuck; historian, Mrs. Henson Coon.

The following program of subjects recommended by the Federation of Women's Clubs will be discussed by guest speakers at the first meeting.

Mrs. Addison Thompson, chairman of publicity for the fifth district of women's clubs, will talk on the subject of "Publicity." Mr. E. R. Strahan, parish agricultural agent, will talk along constructive lines; Dr. G. D. Williams will address the club members from a health viewpoint; Judge W. M. Harper will talk on "Public Safety"; Mrs. Jewel McQuiller, home demonstration agent, will give interesting information.

The club has taken for its subject this year "Around the World in Literature."

A better understanding of international relations is hoped to be gained through the study of this year's program. Each program will feature a discussion of foreign countries and a review of books of fiction written by outstanding authors.

JILTED AGAIN!
MOTHER, HERE'S A LETTER FROM MARY BREAKING OUR ENGAGEMENT!
OH JIM, I DID SO HOPE---!
SO DID I HOPE! HONESTLY, I THINK THERE'S A JINX ON ME!
JIM, YOU CRITICIZE OTHER PEOPLE FOR BAD BREATH—DO YOU KNOW THAT SOMETIMES YOU.. WELL, I MEAN, WHY DON'T YOU SEE THE DENTIST TODAY?
JIM, MOST BAD BREATH IS CAUSED BY FOOD PARTICLES THAT COLLECT AND DECAY IN HIDDEN CREVICES BETWEEN IMPROPERLY CLEANED TEETH. I ADVISE COLGATE DENTAL CREAM. ITS SPECIAL PENETRATING FOAM REMOVES THESE ODOR-BREEDING DEPOSITS
2 MONTHS LATER—NO BAD BREATH BEHIND HIS SPARKLING SMILE!
S.S.
COLGATE RIBBON DENTAL CREAM

MOST BAD BREATH BEGINS WITH THE TEETH!

HOW foolish to risk bad breath when it's so easy to be sure! Just one thing to remember—and that's this simple fact—the commonest cause of bad breath is improperly cleaned teeth!

Authorities say decaying food deposits, lodged in the hidden crevices between the teeth, are the source of most unpleasant mouth odors—and of much tooth decay.

Ordinary cleaning methods, which merely polish the exposed surfaces of your teeth, fail to remove these odor-breeding deposits.

Use Colgate Dental Cream. Its special penetrating foam gets into every tiny crevice—emulsifies and washes away the food and acid deposits that cause bad breath. At the same time, Colgate's soft, safe polishing agent cleans and brightens enamel—makes teeth sparkle.

So brush your teeth, gums and tongue with Colgate Dental Cream at least twice daily—and have cleaner, brighter teeth and a sweeter, purer breath. Get a tube today!

During the convivial cocktail hour a steady flow of iced liquids poured through a mound of ice, reminiscent of a cool mountain brook. Tin cups were found nearby It was just another top-notch evening so prevalent at this domicile.

Everyone we know of has had a vacation this year with the exception of Dan Cupid. He worked overtime, judging from the crop of engagements soon to be announced. Bertha Marie Masur is wearing a gorgeous square cut sparkler and announces her engagement to a young man back east. Mary Louise O'Donnell has a tell-tale sparkler on the third finger and confided to us that the wedding will take place later in the year. Hope to have all the interesting details very soon now. Two more popular members of society will formally announce their engagements within the next few weeks. Several others have reached the "want-to-be-alone-together" stage which is just one step removed from the marriage license bureau.

Violet Meyer is on the bounding main today. She is on board the Seminole en route from New York to Galveston. She will arrive home just in time to say good bye to her father, Walter Meyer, who will leave shortly for big game hunting in Quebec. The hunter's moon will also shine on P. M. Atkins, who will accompany him. Their return home is uncertain as they have already promised four moose heads.

When you are on a holiday you must expect to find a few illusions shattered but such was not the case with us. A long, long trail in an air-conditioned train lashing along through the desert as if the devil himself were after it with five hundred passengers on board. Through the desert the train roared with the sun coming up like thunder in the desert the second morning. It was hotter than pepper outdoors but in the car a heavenly freshness and no speck of dust. The train barged through the Sierra Nevada mountains and then California with its flowering trees, great splashes of scarlet and pink hibiscus hedges, terraces covered with purple lantana, exotic gardens and a maze of flowers all combined with a special wizardy—tall oleanders wafting perfume and towering overhead the palms trees swaying in the breeze from the Pacific.

Hollywood Bowl under the stars with thirty thousand people hushed to the glorious voice of Lily Pons echoing through the nearby mountains. An intermission and all eyes turn to the towering cross on a nearby mountain peak with the moon a golden ball of fire rising directly behind it. It was an awe inspiring picture, not directed by the hand of man.

Through the Paramount studios with a guide. Walking down strange looking streets in this cardboard city where the glamorous movie stars live their lives. We walked through the streets of old St. Louis where the "The Plainsmen" is in the making and back again to the present day in a courtroom scene where the "Accusing Finger" was being made.

On to San Francisco with its atmosphere of complacent charm. Nob hill with creaking cable cars zagging downward like flies upon a wall. The shops open elegantly at nine-thirty in the morning. Everyone pauses to buy a nosegay from the flower venders found on every street corner—gleaming white gardenias, purple pansies and long stemmed violets. Chinatown, alive with Chinese men and women in native attire milling around in the pale moonlight with red and gold lanterns swaying from the lacquered rafters of gilded joss houses high above the narrow crooked streets.

On board our steamer for two wonderful days on the broad Pacific with dancing waters a curious blue—not the gray blue of the Atlantic but the Persian blue of a peacock's breast. Strong are the winds from the tropics and seated on deck in a steamer chair we are given to day-dreaming of those far off enchanted isles. In the long watches of the night the venerable old ship sings her theme song. With a grunt and a groan like a tired old woman, she slaps the waves and hums a dirge-like ditty, always the same and as old as time and the tides.

Truly the charm of California takes possession of every stranger. It is a land that changes restlessly from mountain to dale, from wooded copse to wild yellow cliffs along the ocean where the water surges against a rock bound coast. Riotous colors of flowers and luxuriant vegetation intermingle with the evergreen pines which enrich the landscape and always in the distance the surging Pacific.

Parsons-Kincaid

A wedding in which friends in the Twin Cities will be interested was that of Miss Gartha Lea Kincaid, lovely daughter of Mr. C. A. Kincaid of Monroe, and Charles A. Parsons of El Dorado, Ark.

The vows were taken Sunday, August 23, in the presence of a few intimate friends, with the Rev. H. M. Geren officiating.

Mrs. Parsons has for a number of years been affiliated with a beauty salon in El Dorado and Mr. Parsons who is the son of Mrs. C. A. Parsons of that city, is a promising young business man of El Dorado, where the young couple will reside.

Mrs. L. A. Seale of Shreveport is the guest of her sister, Mrs. R. A. Evans of West Monroe.

Mr. W. A. Albritton of Hamlin, Tex., has been enjoying a visit with his mother, Mrs. Bettye Albritton, and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Curry and children spent the week-end in Laurel, Miss., with relatives. W. C. Curry, Jr., remained in Laurel for a visit of longer duration.

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Davis and grandson, Adrian Young of Jonesboro, were visitors in West Monroe last week.

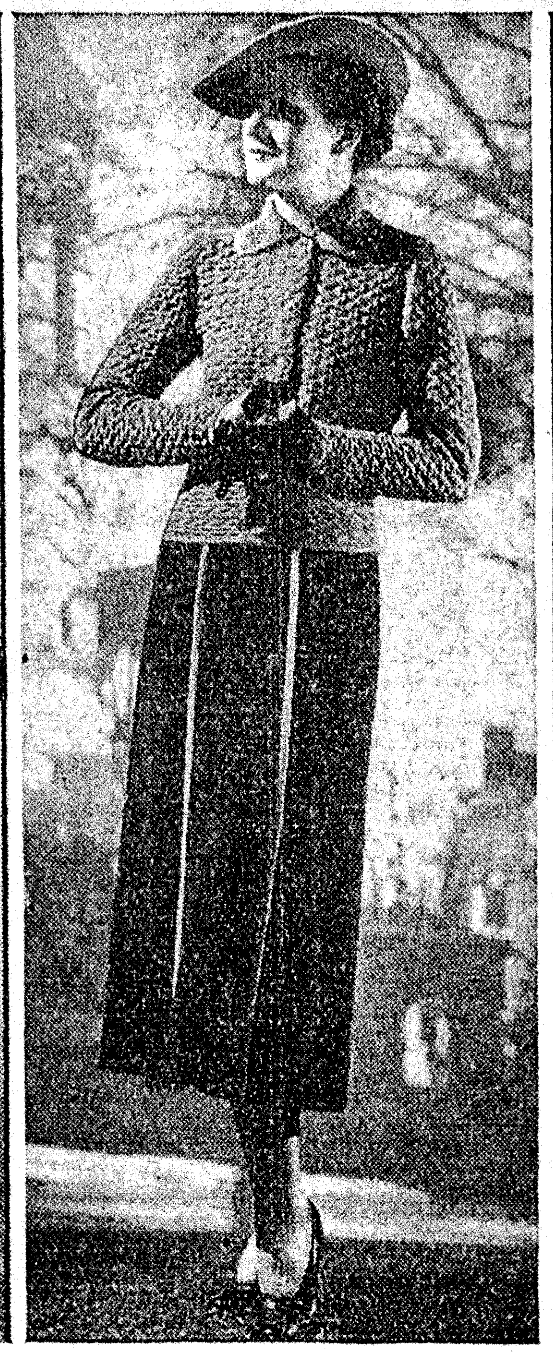
Miss Yvonne Tolar has returned from New York City, where she received special dancing instruction.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Wilson have as their guest Mrs. Gene Wilson and children of Beaumont, Tex.

Mrs. R. H. Redding has returned from Colorado Springs, Colo., where she spent her vacation.

Wide Color Range Used For Fall Style Picture

The fall vogue for subtle color blending is reflected in this three-piece coat, skirt and blouse combining a rich blue green with brown. The coat of blue green diagonal wool with pointed revers is worn with a skirt of the same material and a brown sheer wool blouse.



Emerald green and black are the color theme of this machine knit costume designed for September days. The jacket blouse is knit in a matelasse effect matched by two vertical stripes down the front of the black wool skirt to accent its slim lines. A green felt hat tops the costumes.

For that first fall ensemble to replace summer frocks of sheer material, here is a flat knit wool suit in beige and brown herringbone tweed weave. This combines a skirt, a blouse and a three-quarter length belted jacket with brown leather belt, buttons and accessories.

Miss Moss Is Married

Member Of Prominent Ruston Family Weds Daniel C. Gilbert

The traditional charm of the old south was reflected in the marriage of Miss Elizabeth Tallulah Moss, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Y. Moss of Ruston and granddaughter of the late Judge J. B. Holstead, prominent jurist of this state, to Mr. Daniel C. Gilbert of Monroe.

The wedding, characterized by charming simplicity, took place at the home of the bride's parents in Ruston with Rev. Guy Hicks, pastor of the Trinity Methodist church, performing the double ring ceremony in the presence of a few intimate friends and members of the family.

The guests, upon arrival, were welcomed by the bride's parents, and the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. J. S. Gilbert. Courtesies were also extended by Mr. and Mrs. George B. Holstead.

The ceremony was performed in the candlelit library before an improvised altar, above which was an arch fashioned of flaming cathedral tapers. Tapers also gleamed in the handsome bronze candelabra used for the wedding ceremony of the bride's parents. Tall baskets overflowing with white carnations, and white Crego asters placed in the background, formed a decorative floral note. The lighting of the candles by Betty Ruth Barnes and Anne Stuart Moss was an impressively beautiful ceremony.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Ernest Pennebaker, Jr., of Wisner, wore a beautiful model of gold colored organza over yellow taffeta and carried a cascade bouquet of golden hued asters.

Mr. Robert Williams of Monroe acted as best man.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a handmade lace wedding gown, the handiwork of Mrs. E. S. Pennebaker of Wisner. It was fashioned along princess lines over white duchess satin. A cap of rose-point lace was caught to the hair with a chaplet of orange blossoms worn by the bride's maternal grandmother on her wedding day. A beautiful bouquet of white bride's roses and valley lilies was carried.

An informal reception was held and later the bride cut the wedding cake, a luscious confection presented to the bride by Mrs. E. A. Epps, a cherished friend. Delicious confections were served. Miss Jacqueline Moss and Miss Miriam Foster presided over the punch bowl.

Prominent among the guests were Mr. John Sherrouse and son, John, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. George B. Holstead, and their sons, James Oliver and George, Jr., and Mr. Thomas Lewis, and Dr. S. L. White, lifelong friend of the bride's family.

The bride changed her wedding gown for a smart navy blue tailleur with corsage of valley lilies.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert are spending their honeymoon in Chicago and points in the east.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Seale of 1901 West Capitol street, Jackson, Miss., announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Juanita, to Mr. Arthur McKinstry White of Starkville, Miss. The wedding will take place in Jackson Saturday afternoon, September 12, at 5 o'clock, at the Galloway Memorial church. Reverend Loyd DeCue will perform the ceremony.

Miss Seale attended Randolph-Macon college in Lynchburg, Va., and is a graduate of Belhaven college in Jackson. She is a member of Beta Sigma sorority.

Mr. White is a graduate of Mississippi State college and is connected with the state highway department in Jackson.

Guest Much Feted Here

Miss Geralyn Williams Entertained In Home Of Miss Jane Dawkins

Miss Geralyn Williams, of Columbia, S. C., a most delightful guest in the home of Judge and Mrs. Benjamin Dawkins, claimed the spotlight of social attention last week.

Miss Williams, a classmate of Miss Jane Dawkins at Mary Baldwin college, is typically collegiate and enjoyed to the utmost the swimming and boating parties arranged for her pleasure. The barbecue in the patio of the Dawkins' home was one of the gayest and most colorful affairs of all.

Prominence among the informal affairs complimenting Miss Williams was Fred Fudickar's buffet supper; Miss Louise Grey's luncheon on the Virginia roof; Mrs. J. Q. Graves' boating party on the Brown Craft; Mrs. Thomas Sullivan's dinner party at her home on Stubbs avenue; Miss Sara Talbert's breakfast party at the Lotus club; Miss Carolyn Stubbs' morning bridge; Mrs. John Holmes' bridge affair; Mrs. Douglass Miles, Jr., and Mrs. Theodore Terzia's bridge and Mr. Thomas Hayes' dinner on the Virginia roof.

Clubs Will Launch Programs This Week

Daughters Of American Revolution And Book Units Will Play Important Part

Decided momentum is being added to life these days of early fall with the wheels of every women's organization in the city being set in motion. Mobilization of members will take place this week when the season commences officially.

Members of Fort Miro chapter of the D. A. R. have outlined a comprehensive course of study for the year. So interesting is the work of Fort Miro chapter that Mr. Berney Oakland was inspired to write an article concerning the ideals and work of this chapter. It was published recently in the public forum of the Monroe News-Star and elicited considerable favorable comment. The ideals and work of the society are to perpetuate the memory and the spirit of the men and women who gained American freedom; to promote the development and to foster patriotic citizenship. The chairman of the various committees of the local chapter are continuously injecting these aims and ideals in their work.

It is hoped that the general public which is interested in any of these works will avail itself of the opportunity of reading the books on the D. A. R. shelves in the Monroe public library. There is a complete set of "Messages and Papers of the Presidents." donated to the chapter by a former member, Mrs. Herbert Millsaps. There is quite a varied collection of books pertaining to genealogical and historical research. A recent addition to the collection has been a copy of "Our Government," by Koskin, which is an approved source of valuable information concerning the various departments of our system of government.

Another star has been added to the literary firmament.

The Miro Book club has been organized by members of the Miro Delphian society who completed the six-year Delphian course.

The object of the new club is both literary and social. This year's work will embrace 116 meetings at which time a book review and a topic on current events will be featured.

Mrs. James M. Russell has been elected president; Mrs. J. E. Whitfield, vice-president; Mrs. J. T. Pugh, secretary, and Mrs. J. B. Collins, treasurer. The membership consists of the following: Mrs. F. C. Bennett, Mrs. G. R. Younce, Mrs. J. D. Calhoun, Mrs. W. A. Whitfield, Jr, Mrs. S. M. Collins, Mrs. J. E. Whitfield, Mrs. M. M. Munholland, Mrs. Henry Whitfield, Mrs. J. B. Collins, Mrs. C. R. Tidwell, Mrs. W. G. Murphy, Mrs. J. T. Pugh, Mrs. A. S. Tidwell, Mrs. John Pracher, Mrs. James M. Russell, and Mrs. S. H. McClary.

A distinct acquisition to the literary field of the city is the organization of Beta chapter of the Delphian society with Mrs. E. G. Waring, president; Mrs H. M. James, vice-president; Mrs. Reginald Fields, recording secretary; Mrs. R. F. Roberts, corresponding secretary; Mrs. H. R. Arlig, treasurer. Members of the board are Mrs. Smith Colvin, Mrs. George Lofton and Mrs. Crawford Young.

The membership comprises Mrs. A. B. Clarkson, Mrs. Smith Colvin, Mrs. H. R. Arlig, Mrs. J. T. Eubanks, Mrs. H. M. James, Mrs. D. C. Metcalf, Mrs. L. G. Frost, Mrs. William Mintz, Mrs. Reginald Fields, Mrs. John Liest, Mrs. H. M. Lindquist, Mrs. H. H. Reardon, Mrs. R. F. Roberts, Mrs. J. B. Collins, Mrs. George Lofton, Mrs. M. H. Sager, Mrs. R. C. Stokes, Mrs. E. G. Waring, Mrs. John Snelling and Mrs. J. F. Jones.

The new club year will open officially for members of the Welcome branch of the Twentieth Century Book club on Wednesday, when Mrs. J. Norman Coon will offer the hospitality of her home.

Officers guiding the destiny of the club this year are: President, Mrs. J. Norman Coon; first vice-president, Mrs. D. M. Moore; second vice-president, Mrs. Dudley Stone; recording secretary, Mrs. J. D. Petty; corresponding secretary, Mrs. F. F. Smith; treasurer, Mrs. J. W. Treadwell; reporter, Mrs. J. R. White; parliamentarian, Mrs. Don Shattuck; historian, Mrs. Henson Coon.

The following program of subjects recommended by the Federation of Women's Clubs will be discussed by guest speakers at the first meeting.

Mrs. Addison Thompson, chairman of publicity for the fifth district of women's clubs, will talk on the subject of "Publicity." Mr. E. R. Strahan, parish agricultural agent, will talk along constructive lines; Dr. G. D. Williams will address the club members from a health viewpoint; Judge W. M. Harper will talk on "Public Safety"; Mrs. Jewel McQuiller, home demonstration agent, will give interesting information.

The club has taken for its subject this year "Around the World in Literature."

A better understanding of international relations is hoped to be gained through the study of this year's program. Each program will feature a discussion of foreign countries and a review of books of fiction written by outstanding authors.

JILTED AGAIN!
MOTHER, HERE'S A LETTER FROM MARY BREAKING OUR ENGAGEMENT!
OH JIM, I DID SO HOPE---!
SO DID I HOPE! HONESTLY, I THINK THERE'S A JINX ON ME!
JIM, YOU CRITICIZE OTHER PEOPLE FOR BAD BREATH—DO YOU KNOW THAT SOMETIMES YOU.. WELL, I MEAN, WHY DON'T YOU SEE THE DENTIST TODAY?
JIM, MOST BAD BREATH IS CAUSED BY FOOD PARTICLES THAT COLLECT AND DECAY IN HIDDEN CREVICES BETWEEN IMPROPERLY CLEANED TEETH. I ADVISE COLGATE DENTAL CREAM. ITS SPECIAL PENETRATING FOAM REMOVES THESE ODOR-BREEDING DEPOSITS
2 MONTHS LATER—NO BAD BREATH BEHIND HIS SPARKLING SMILE!
S.S.
COLGATE RIBBON DENTAL CREAM
20¢ LARGE SIZE
Giant Size, over twice as much, 35¢

MOST BAD BREATH BEGINS WITH THE TEETH!

HOW foolish to risk bad breath when it's so easy to be sure! Just one thing to remember—and that's this simple fact—the commonest cause of bad breath is improperly cleaned teeth!

Authorities say decaying food deposits, lodged in the hidden crevices between the teeth, are the source of most unpleasant mouth odors—and of much tooth decay.

Ordinary cleaning methods, which merely polish the exposed surfaces of your teeth, fail to remove these odor-breeding deposits.

Use Colgate Dental Cream. Its special penetrating foam gets into every tiny crevice—emulsifies and washes away the food and acid deposits that cause bad breath. At the same time, Colgate's soft, safe polishing agent cleans and brightens enamel—makes teeth sparkle.

So brush your teeth, gums and tongue with Colgate Dental Cream at least twice daily—and have cleaner, brighter teeth and a sweeter, purer breath. Get a tube today!

MAKES TEETH CLEANER AND BRIGHTER, TOO!

Trophy Awarded At Legion Convention

Auxiliary Given Coveted Prize As Result Of Excellence Of Its Welfare Program

For the second time in the history of the American Legion auxiliary in Louisiana and the first time for Monroe, a handsome silver loving cup has been permanently awarded to the local auxiliary. The award was made at the annual state convention recently held in New Orleans. The cup, which was originally awarded by Governor Simpson, has been keenly competed for, and in order to hold permanent possession it was required that the cup be awarded for three successive years to a single auxiliary group.

The Monroe auxiliary captured the cup, in state-wide competition, for the superior excellence of their program, in 1934, 1935 and 1936. It now remains permanently in possession of the local group and is regarded as a proud trophy.

The award was made on the basis of the continuity of programs already initiated and the extension of a new program. The old programs that have been maintained under the sponsorship of the auxiliary are those of the local Camp Fire and the Monroe Recreation department. The story telling hour at the Monroe Public library is the new program.

Mrs. Charles Mitchell, when state president of the auxiliary, received the handsome loving cup from Governor Simpson, who specified that it be entered in a state-wide, governor's contest for superior excellence of auxiliary work. It was awarded twice to the Monroe group but was lost the third year to another group.

By no means disheartened, the local unit set out again and was active in advancing Camp Fire, of which Mrs. Mitchell is president, as one project. Then they sponsored and assisted in the organization of the Monroe Recreation department, both of which activities they have continued to aid. Then a library program, which comprised the establishment of the so-called "children's story hour," was initiated. This was in charge of Miss Eleona Brinsmade from the outset. Through her efforts as director and backed by the auxiliary and also by the L. B. Faulk post of the American Legion, the prized governor's cup was won here for superior excellence in 1934. Then this feat was repeated in 1935 and again this year, for the third and last time, it was awarded to Monroe, now for "keeps."

The members of the L. B. Faulk post, headed the past year by Commander William Perhamus, and the auxiliary, headed by Mrs. Marian Huckaby and Mrs. Mitchell, the latter as directly in charge of the activities, were highly pleased with the fact that the coveted trophy will remain here permanently.

The handsome cup will be placed on display either at the Monroe Public library, in the children's story room, or some other place of vantage where the public can view it at leisure.

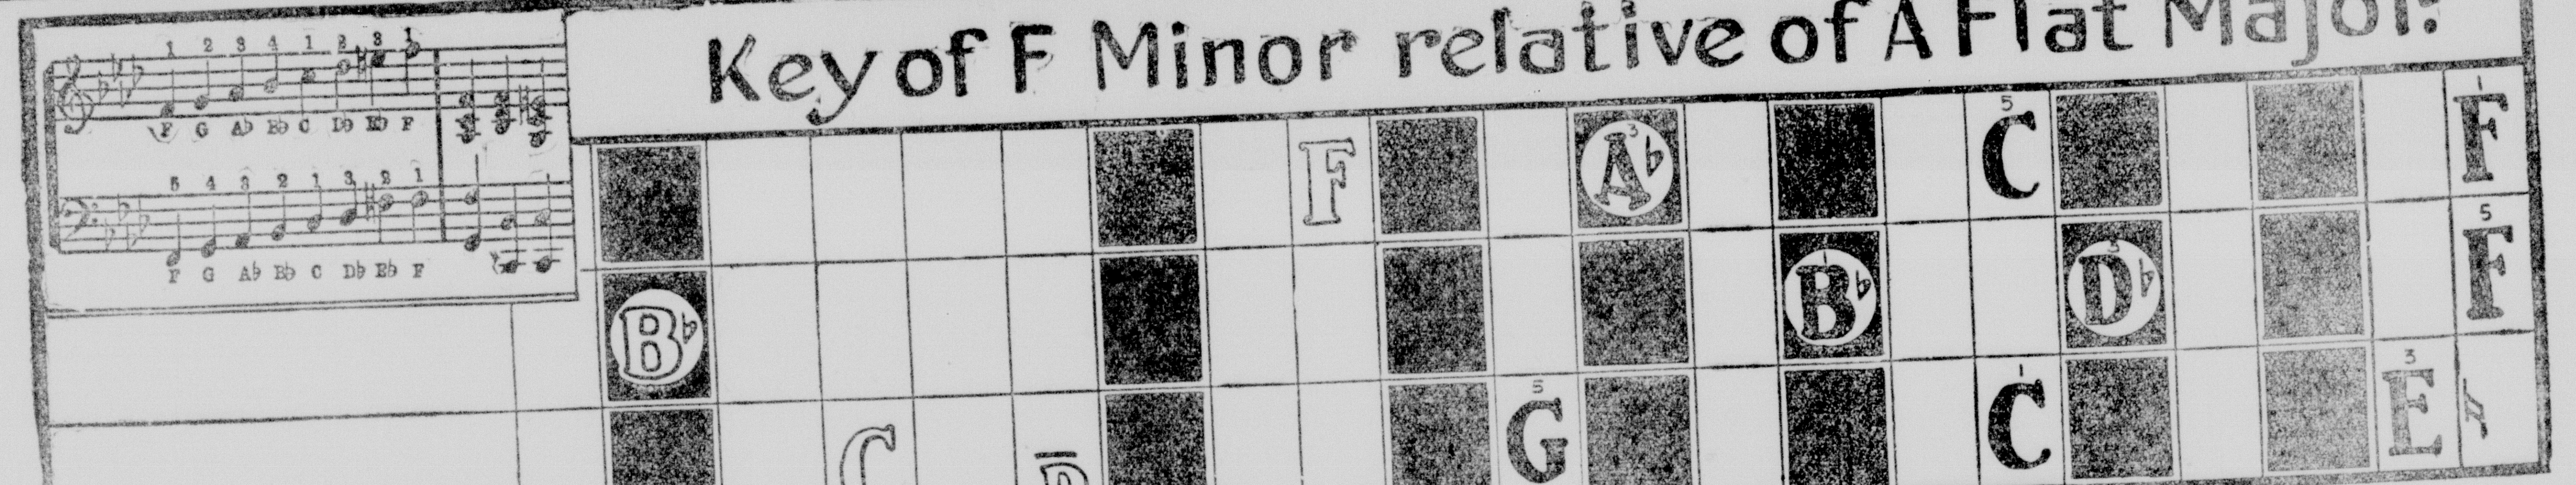
HOME COURSE IN PIANO PLAYING—LESSON NO. 22



Copyright, 1927, by W. Scott Grove, Scranton, Pa.

GROVE'S MUSIC SIMPLIFIER is fully protected by copyrights in the United States, Canada, Great Britain, the countries of Continental Europe and their colonies.

This lesson on the piano or organ, continuing the study of Grove's system of home lessons, deals with the key of F Minor, which is the relative of A Flat major. The chart shows you at a glance how to play this chord.

INSTRUCTION—Place the chart upon the keyboard of the piano or organ in such a position that the small letter D with a line over it at the bottom of each chart corresponds with the key D of the instrument. This letter indicates position only and is not to be played. Now with the left hand play on the piano the white letter of the top horizontal series of letters and with the right hand play the three black letters of the same series. Do the same for the second series and for the third, returning to the first again and thus forming a complement of chords in the key of F Minor.

Memorize these chords. Memorize the letters and the relation of the notes of each chord to one another, which you will find to be the same in the corresponding chord of every chart that you have studied. Memorize with eyes and with fingers as well, so that, starting with the first chord of any key, you can play the other chords of the same key without stopping to think what they are. Practice long and hard. It is persistence that will teach you.

When you are playing accompaniments each chord you strike should (in general) contain the note of the melody that is sounded with the chord. You can study this out from the charts, but few persons should need more instruction on this point than the ear itself can give.

Every triad in black letter is marked 1, 3, 5. Always read it so, no matter in what vertical order the notes may be written. Note that the small letter D with a dash above it must not be played.

NEXT LESSON—Key of D Flat Major.

Copyright, 1927, by W. Scott Grove, Scranton, Pa.

GROVE'S MUSIC SIMPLIFIER is fully protected by copyrights in the United States, Canada, Great Britain, the countries of Continental Europe and their colonies.

This lesson on the piano or organ, continuing the study of Grove's system of home lessons, deals with the key of F Minor, which is the relative of A Flat major. The chart shows you at a glance how to play this chord.

INSTRUCTION—Place the chart upon the keyboard of the piano or organ in such a position that the small letter D with a line over it at the bottom of each chart corresponds with the key D of the instrument. This letter indicates position only and is not to be played. Now with the left hand play on the piano the white letter of the top horizontal series of letters and with the right hand play the three black letters of the same series. Do the same for the second series and for the third, returning to the first again and thus forming a complement of chords in the key of F Minor.

Memorize these chords. Memorize the letters and the relation of the notes of each chord to one another, which you will find to be the same in the corresponding chord of every chart that you have studied. Memorize with eyes and with fingers as well, so that, starting with the first chord of any key, you can play the other chords of the same key without stopping to think what they are. Practice long and hard. It is persistence that will teach you.

When you are playing accompaniments each chord you strike should (in general) contain the note of the melody that is sounded with the chord. You can study this out from the charts, but few persons should need more instruction on this point than the ear itself can give.

Every triad in black letter is marked 1, 3, 5. Always read it so, no matter in what vertical order the notes may be written. Note that the small letter D with a dash above it must not be played.

NEXT LESSON—Key of D Flat Major.

REPRESENTATIVES OF LOCAL BUSINESSES CALL TO ASSIST YOU

STOP

"THERE'S DANGER HERE"

Your CHIEF OF POLICE WARNS

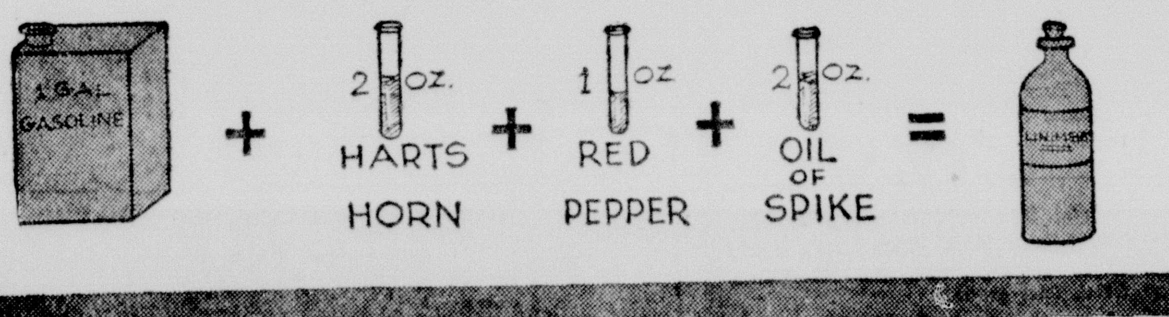
You see the news of day light burglaries in the newspapers every day. Crooks are organized; they employ many peddling schemes and tricks to get inside your home. Once they are inside they can survey your premises, they are trained to do this quickly, and you may be visited by a burglar soon.

The safe course to pursue is to assure yourself that the person knocking at your door is a representative of one of your local businesses before admitting in your home. You can do this by asking; if in doubt, ask to see their credentials. Reputable businesses provide their representatives with proper credentials. Welcome into your home those representatives of local businesses BUT DON'T ADMIT UNIDENTIFIED STRANGERS.

--And More Dangerous To Your Health Are The Inferior And Cheap Peddler Sold Cosmetics, Lotions, Hair Tonics, Drugs, Medicines, And Extracts.

A PEDDLER MADE AND SOLD LINIMENT

Ask your Doctor about the medicines, drugs, cosmetics, etc., that are being peddled about the streets. Much of this cheap and inferior "peddled goods" is made by the peddler himself in his own home. The ingredients used are dangerous to your health. The peddler buys the cheapest merchandise to sell you from concerns who specialize in peddler sold products. Much of the powder, lotions, medicines and aspirin sold by peddlers have been found to be made of chalk. Why risk your health by purchasing such merchandise? Your druggist sells guaranteed and safe products.



An actual peddler formula for making "Liniments," sold to you by peddlers for Rheumatism, Headache, Pains and "what have you,"

PEDDLERS CALL TO ANNOY AND TRICK YOU

The Peddler calls to "pester" you until he can sell of his wares. His methods are crude but smart. Be safe and send the peddler on his way.

DON'T admit unidentified strangers into your home. They may be surveying your premises as the forerunner of a burglary. Reputable concerns provide their representatives with proper credentials.

DON'T sign any contracts which a stranger offers. This is the way some shrewd forgers have secured signatures.

DON'T give any money to strangers without assuring yourself it is for a worthy cause. "Racketeers" plead many kinds of charity to enrich themselves.

DON'T cash checks for strangers. You have no way of knowing their worth or worthlessness.

Report to your Police Department all suspicious characters and others who you think are conducting illegitimate schemes.

'Anthony Adverse,' Famed Novel, On Paramount Screen

March Tops Cast Of New Film Classic

Elaborate Settings Provided For Screen Version Of Best Seller

Fredric March has the stellar role, with beautiful and talented Olivia de Havilland playing the leading feminine role.

In order to give this sweeping panoramic story the magnificence and magnitude it merited, Warner Bros., the producers, are said to have spared neither time, nor effort, nor cost. In fact, more than two years were spent in preparing the script, in research work to make perfect the atmospheric settings, and in the actual filming of the many and intricate scenes.

There never has been a cast to approach this one in size, and few that will equal it in talent. There are 98 principals with speaking parts, 2,550 bit players and extras, and nearly 3,000 artisans and technicians worked behind the cameras to make the picture letter perfect. More than 1,000 scenes were "shot" for the production on 131 mammoth sets.

The colorful and picturesque backgrounds are set in five countries on three continents. The scenes open in France, in the beautiful countryside and a great chateau, sweep through the Swiss and Italian Alps to the quaint city of Leghorn, Italy, then to Havana, Cuba, on to Africa and the great slave marts of other days, back to Italy and again to France to the court of Napoleon Bonaparte.

The presentation of portions of two operas adds to the magnificence of the production. Number one was written especially for the picture by Aldo Franchetti, former conductor of the Chicago Opera company. The second is the famous "L'Orfeo," and is produced on a mammoth scale in a replica of the Theatre de La Opera of Paris.

Fredric March, who proved himself a dashing hero in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," "Smilin' Through," "Dark Angel" and many other big productions, has the title role.

The leading feminine part is played by Miss de Havilland, who startled the film world by her exceptional performances in "A Midsummer Night's Dream" and "Captain Blood."

Steffi Duna has the part of the half white, half African sweetheart of Anthony's at the time he is conducting a slave market on the dark continent. The role of Anthony's grandfather's sensuous housekeeper is played by Gale Sondergaard. The grandfather, a rich Scottish merchant doing business in Leghorn, Italy, is portrayed by the noted English actor, Edmund Gwenn.

Anthony's mother, married under pressure of her father to a Spanish nobleman, and who dies at her son's birth, is portrayed by Anita Louise. Claude Rains plays the role of the grandee of Spain who slays his wife's lover in a duel. The latter part is enacted by Louis Hayward.

INVITED TO STATION

TALLULAH, La., Sept. 5.—(Special)—An invitation to Ouachita parish farmers to visit the northeast Louisiana experiment station at St. Joseph has been extended by C. E. This is how "Godfrey" appears to the family for whom he buttles, after their night out. William Powell stars with Carole Lombard in the feature picture, "My Man Godfrey," playing Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the Paramount theater.

Bruce Cabot and Louise Latimer in a scene from "Don't Turn 'Em Loose," playing at the Capitol theater Monday. Lewis Stone, James Gleason and Betty Grable have other roles.

'Pride Of Marines' At Capitol

Charles Bickford And Florence Rice Head Cast Of Thriller

Filmed entirely at the United States marine base in San Diego, the film presents Bickford as the gruff Sergeant Steve Riley, a Marine who would rather fight than eat. It is through young Burrud, his orphaned charge, that he meets the charming Florence Rice, only to find considerable romantic opposition in the handsome young Robert Allen, a former suitor.

Bickford does a really splendid piece of work in his role as the hardbitten but sentimental marine sergeant, playing the part with sincerity and warmth, and a very convincing degree of toughness.

Miss Rice again displays her outstanding histrionic talents and is more than lovely as the feminine angle of the romantic triangle. Billy Burrud is delightful as the lad who wins the heart of America's toughest leathernecks.

Thurston Hall, George McKay, Ward Bond and Joseph Sawyer are excellent in the supporting cast. D. Ross Lederman directed "Pride of the Marines" from the screen play by Harold Shumate.

DOCTORS ATTEND MEET

'Anthony Adverse,' Famed Novel, On Paramount Screen

Elaborate Settings Provided For Screen Version Of Best Seller

Fredric March has the stellar role, with beautiful and talented Olivia de Havilland playing the leading feminine role.

In order to give this sweeping panoramic story the magnificence and magnitude it merited, Warner Bros., the producers, are said to have spared neither time, nor effort, nor cost. In fact, more than two years were spent in preparing the script, in research work to make perfect the atmospheric settings, and in the actual filming of the many and intricate scenes.

There never has been a cast to approach this one in size, and few that will equal it in talent. There are 98 principals with speaking parts, 2,550 bit players and extras, and nearly 3,000 artisans and technicians worked behind the cameras to make the picture letter perfect. More than 1,000 scenes were "shot" for the production on 131 mammoth sets.

The colorful and picturesque backgrounds are set in five countries on three continents. The scenes open in France, in the beautiful countryside and a great chateau, sweep through the Swiss and Italian Alps to the quaint city of Leghorn, Italy, then to Havana, Cuba, on to Africa and the great slave marts of other days, back to Italy and again to France to the court of Napoleon Bonaparte.

The presentation of portions of two operas adds to the magnificence of the production. Number one was written especially for the picture by Aldo Franchetti, former conductor of the Chicago Opera company. The second is the famous "L'Orfeo," and is produced on a mammoth scale in a replica of the Theatre de La Opera of Paris.

Fredric March, who proved himself a dashing hero in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street," "Smilin' Through," "Dark Angel" and many other big productions, has the title role.

The leading feminine part is played by Miss de Havilland, who startled the film world by her exceptional performances in "A Midsummer Night's Dream" and "Captain Blood."

Steffi Duna has the part of the half white, half African sweetheart of Anthony's at the time he is conducting a slave market on the dark continent. The role of Anthony's grandfather's sensuous housekeeper is played by Gale Sondergaard. The grandfather, a rich Scottish merchant doing business in Leghorn, Italy, is portrayed by the noted English actor, Edmund Gwenn.

Anthony's mother, married under pressure of her father to a Spanish nobleman, and who dies at her son's birth, is portrayed by Anita Louise. Claude Rains plays the role of the grandee of Spain who slays his wife's lover in a duel. The latter part is enacted by Louis Hayward.

INVITED TO STATION

TALLULAH, La., Sept. 5.—(Special)—An invitation to Ouachita parish farmers to visit the northeast Louisiana experiment station at St. Joseph has been extended by C. E. Hester, Madison parish agricultural agent. The farmers are invited to visit the station on Wednesday, September 9, when the superintendent will conduct a tour of inspection commencing at 9:30 a.m. Farmers who wish to visit the station are asked to assemble at the courthouse in Tallulah at 8 a.m. on that date.

'Pride Of Marines' At Capitol

"Pride of the Marines" features Charles Bickford, Florence Rice and little Billy Burrud in a rollicking, joyous tale of a brawny leatherneck who adopts a ten-year-old lad and brings him to the military post to live.

Filmed entirely at the United States marine base in San Diego, the film presents Bickford as the gruff Sergeant Steve Riley, a Marine who would rather fight than eat. It is through young Burrud, his orphaned charge, that he meets the charming Florence Rice, only to find considerable romantic opposition in the handsome young Robert Allen, a former suitor.

Ulysses S. Smith, as young Burrud is patriotically called, becomes the mascot of the marines. During maneuvers under actual battle conditions, Ulysses is seriously injured as he tries successfully to save the life of his hero. This almost tragic juncture in the boy's happy life at the marine base brings to a dramatic denouement the romantic dilemma of the three principals.

Bickford does a really splendid piece of work in his role as the hardbitten but sentimental marine sergeant, playing the part with sincerity and warmth, and a very convincing degree of toughness.

Miss Rice again displays her outstanding histrionic talents and is more than lovely as the feminine angle of the romantic triangle. Billy Burrud is delightful as the lad who wins the heart of America's toughest leathernecks.

Thurston Hall, George McKay, Ward Bond and Joseph Sawyer are excellent in the supporting cast. D. Ross Lederman directed "Pride of the Marines" from the screen play by Harold Shumate.

DOCTORS ATTEND MEET

These Beautiful New Monroe Homes Designed And Constructed By Skilled Monroe Craftsmen

WELL WATER IS PRACTICAL FOR HOUSE COOLING

Only Slight Expense Involved In System, Engineer Says

A method of house cooling through the use of well water is being used by an engineer, who describes his system. Very little expense is involved, according to the engineer, who believes that this method may be utilized in any part of the United States where an ample supply of well water at a suitable temperature is available.

The drilling of the well and the installation of all necessary equipment may be financed under the modernization credit plan of the federal housing administration. The equipment consists of a well, an electrically driven pump, some cooling coils, an electrically operated fan, and ducts leading to the rooms on the first floor.

The feature of this installation is the low cost of operation and maintenance, the water being delivered at from 50 to 55 degrees. Electricity for the operation of the pump and fan is the main operating cost.

Two thermostats in the living room make the equipment entirely automatic in operation. One controls the fan and the other the motor supplying water to the cooling units. The latter is set at the desired room temperature and turns the water on and off as the temperature rises and falls. The fan thermostat is set about three degrees lower so that the fan starts before the water is turned on and operates continuously until cooling is no longer required.

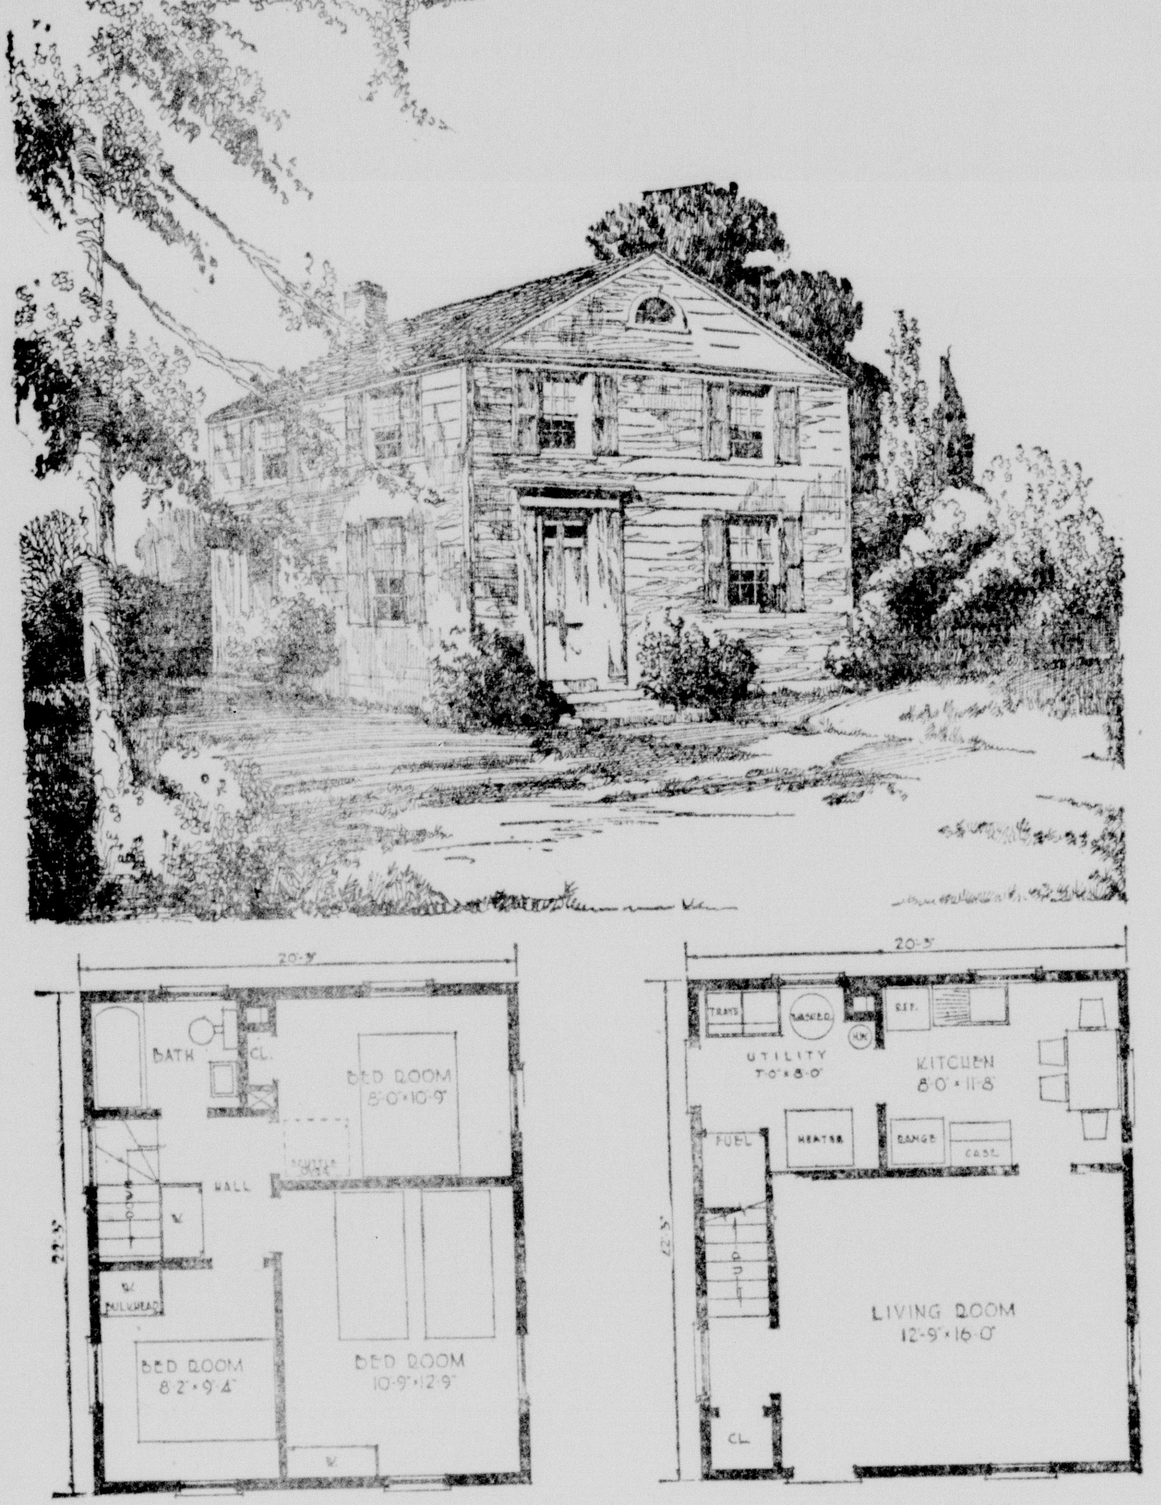
$2,500 House



Designated as House "E" in the Federal Housing Administration booklet "Principles of Planning Small Homes", this is a comfortable, dignified home of the formal Georgian type, yet simplicity itself, both in design and construction. The pediment treatment of the gable end changes it from just a house and gives it character. The plan shows a small but well-proportioned living room with good wall spaces. With the no-cellar plan a dining space is provided in the kitchen, where the intimate family meals can be eaten. On more formal occasions the end of the living room can be used. The utility room provides a place for the heating unit, with full storage and good space for laundry work. If a cellar is built, a dining alcove is provided as part of the living room, and a combination sink-tray is placed in the kitchen. The bedrooms are large enough to accommodate two people each, which makes this a possible house for a family of six. The wall spaces are well worked out, and cross-ventilation is provided in each room. Built-in wardrobes are shown in two of the rooms instead of closets; they take up less space than the usual closets and are good-looking pieces of furniture. The Housing Administration estimates that this house may be built for not more than $2,500.

'GINGERBREAD' ON OLD HOME EASILY REMOVED

If the "gingerbread" can be successfully removed exteriorally and interiorally the plain effect resulting is more in the present manner and gives the house a modern look.

A house of this type ordinarily contains a series of small cut-up rooms. If partitions are removed the more spacious rooms are attractive and offer greater possibilities in the way of redecorating and furnishing as well as comfort.

Funds for this type of work may be obtained under the modernization credit plan of the federal housing administration.

SEEK BLEND OF COLOR IN MODERN INTERIOR

Many modern interiors are planned for a blend of color rather than a contrast. This is particularly true in rooms with woodwork of the honey-colored or other light woods. Walls are painted the same shade.

One room with woodwork, walls, and floor of beige had upholstery and lamps which accented brown and white, with occasional touches of blue. The decorating of a room may be accomplished with funds obtained from a private financial institution holding a contract of insurance with the federal housing administration.

FHA WILL HOLD CONFERENCES ON AREA PLANNING

Land Planning Section Sponsors Neighborhood Clinics

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 3.—In order to acquaint bankers, operative builders, and others directly or indirectly affiliated with the construction industry with the latest developments in low-priced home subdivision building, a series of conferences has been arranged in large-population centers by the federal housing administration.

These subdivision conferences will be conducted by Seward H. Mott, chief of the land-planning section of the housing administration, who will outline the needs and requirements of such projects. It will be the purpose of the program to show the need of decent and attractive sites for modest dwellings and to give practical suggestions as to how they may be profitably created. Mr. Mott will utilize a model low-priced home subdivision in his talks to builders and others.

The first conference was held late in July in Detroit. Other conferences have been scheduled for successive Mondays in Chicago, Cleveland, Washington, D. C. Tenttative plans call for two additional conferences in Newark, N. J., and Boston, Mass.

Significant

"The creation of desirable residential communities has a much greater significance than simply the providing of a decent home site," said Mr. Mott. "Growth and character of our cities is absolutely controlled by the manner in which subdivisions are developed. A badly planned street layout or the lack of control of land use in a single subdivision can create traffic and social problems that throttle a whole section of a city with losses of millions of dollars to home owners and investors.

"It is because of the tremendous effect that subdivision development has on real-estate values that the federal housing administration insures no loans in new or partially developed subdivisions until they have been reviewed and approved."

Subjects that will be discussed at the subdivision conferences include topography, soil, drainage, transportation, sewers and water, lot shapes, parks and playgrounds, street patterns, shopping and community centers and other important factors attending such developments.

Model Subdivision

The housing administration has just completed a model subdivision in miniature which will be displayed at the subdivision conferences.

There are 94 homes in the group, but only four house designs are used. There is no appearance of standardized design, however. Variety is obtained through slight architectural changes, choice of color and material, and the manner in which the house is placed on the lot. The houses used in this display are from the designs of low-priced houses suggested in the federal housing administration's technical bulletin No. 4.

It is the intention of the housing administration to show through this exhibit of miniatures, the results possible when an entire subdivision is planned around the low-priced home. The streets are laid out in an unusual fashion, another feature which avoids the appearance of uniformity.

An area of the property is set aside for park and recreation purposes. There is also a shopping center, set off from the residential section by a line of poplar trees. Adequate parking space has been provided to avoid congestion in the market place.

Each lot is completely landscaped.

LINEN CLOSET LIGHT ADDS TO CONVENIENCE

A light in the linen closet will save you the embarrassing experience of hurriedly giving a guest a torn towel, or grabbing a sheet instead of a table cloth.

Funds for the rewiring of your home may be obtained under the terms of the national housing act. A private financial institution which holds a contract of insurance under the federal housing administration's modernization credit plan will advance funds for the work.

REPLICAS OF COLONIAL WOODWORK EFFECTIVE

If you want to redecorate a room and don't know quite what to do about the woodwork, take a tip from the early colonial houses of Virginia. Many of these homes had woodwork painted a soft green, a turquoise blue, a dull red, or a soft pink.

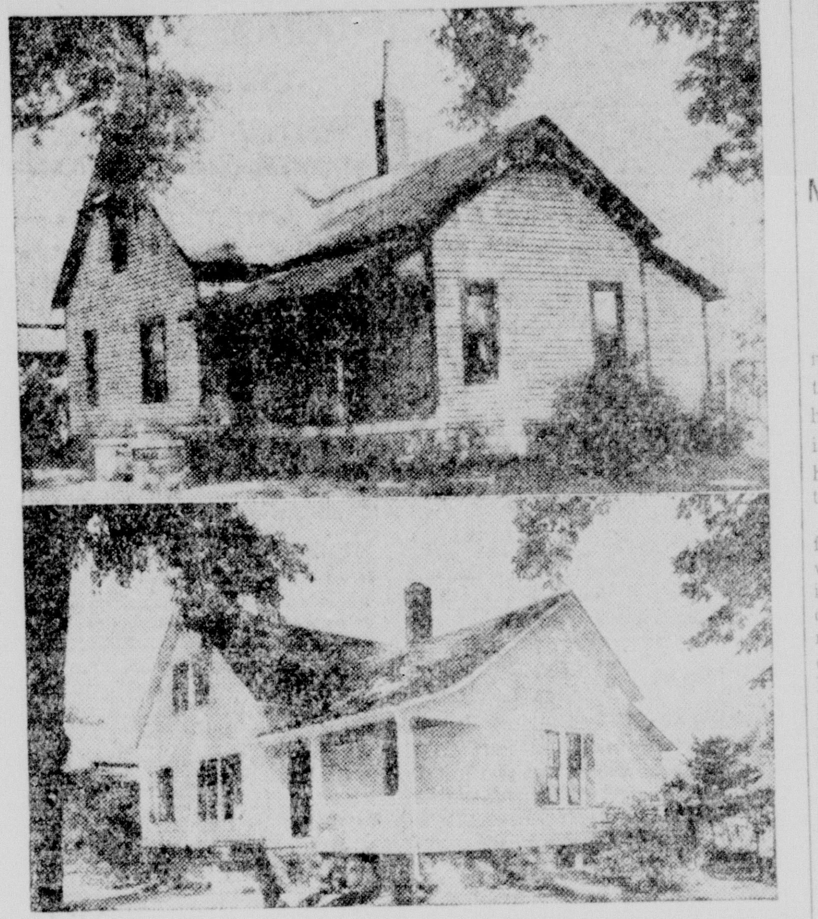
Transformation



Hundreds of homes such as shown in the "before" picture here may be found throughout the United States. They are painted a dull yellow, gray, or green. Generally they need painting. There is nothing to distinguish them from a dozen other such houses in the neighborhood. The owner of one such house was not satisfied with it. He could not afford to buy a new home; and, while his house was basically sound, he did not feel that he could afford the cash outlay necessary to remodel it. He applied to a private financial institution which held a contract of insurance with the Federal Housing Administration. His credit reputation and expectation of a steady income were sufficient guarantee, and the bank extended an insured modernization loan, which the home owner is able to repay in equal monthly payments over a period of five years. The roof line of the house was changed, windows relocated, unnecessary trimming removed, and the front porch was remodeled. Then the structure was painted white, and blue shutters were added. The result was a charming home in simple but good taste.

IMPORTANCE OF PLUMBING FOR NEW HOME IS STRESSED

Plumbing in the present-day house is as important and necessary as the floors or walls. No house can be considered to meet the requirements of modern living standards that does not include a kitchen sink, a complete bathroom, and an adequate supply of hot water. The piping for these fixtures should be as carefully studied and specified as any other part of the house.

The location of the main soil stack should be shown on the plans and a wall thickness provided sufficient to contain it. A four-inch soil line that is needed where a toilet is installed, cannot be contained in a wall made of four-inch studs. Unless a wall with six-inch studs is provided the soil line must be boxed in either with wood or with lath and plaster. This makes a break in the wall that in many cases could have been avoided by proper planning. Sometimes this box can be placed in a closet where it is not objectionable.

Many metals are now used for water piping, and the proper one to be installed frequently will be determined by the chemical composition of the water. The best piping possible within the budget should be installed, as replacement of piping is usually an expensive and difficult operation and requires tearing out sections of walls and floors.

Bathroom and kitchen fixtures come in infinite variety and have been improved greatly in design and usefulness. A combination sink and laundry tray for the kitchen, or where a separate laundry room exists, an all-metal sink and drain board; lavatories with high backs to protect the walls and raise the faucets high enough above the basin to be well out of the way and with enough flat area to set down a brush or jar without having it slide into the water; medicine cupboards set below the lavatory; tubs with integral seats; toilets with low tanks, etc., give the home builder a wide choice.

MANY CHURCHES THROUGHOUT U. S. FAVOR FHA PLAN

Notes For This Type Of Work Total $779,561 In 11 Months

WASHINGTON, D. C.—In the 11-month period from August 1935 through June 1936, 1,353 churches have taken advantage of the modernization credit plan of the federal housing administration. These notes totaled $779,561.

Of this number 70.9 per cent were for structural alterations and repairs, with the remaining 29.1 per cent going for the purchase and installation of machinery and equipment. The majority of these notes were in the classification which includes loans for less than $2,000. The average loan was for $564, which is above the average note for most properties in this classification.

Under amendments to the national housing act passed recently, churches have become eligible for loans above $2,000. Since that time loans in this latter class totaling $20,038 have been granted.

On the basis of this 11-month estimate, it is believed that approximately $1,200,000 has been insured in church loans by the federal housing administration.

LIGHT CHAIN SHOULD BE REPLACED, NOT FIXED

If the pull chain on an electric fixture over the basin breaks, as it frequently does, do not mend it with a piece of string or wire, for there is, or should be a nonconducting link in the chain that prevents the possibility of forming a circuit from the light to the plumbing fixture that one may be holding. So replace the broken chain with a new one provided with such a link.

WELL WATER IS PRACTICAL FOR HOUSE COOLING

Only Slight Expense Involved In System, Engineer Says

A method of house cooling through the use of well water is being used by an engineer, who describes his system. Very little expense is involved, according to the engineer, who believes that this method may be utilized in any part of the United States where an ample supply of well water at a suitable temperature is available.

The drilling of the well and the installation of all necessary equipment may be financed under the modernization credit plan of the federal housing administration. The equipment consists of a well, an electrically driven pump, some cooling coils, an electrically operated fan, and ducts leading to the rooms on the first floor.

The feature of this installation is the low cost of operation and maintenance, the water being delivered at from 50 to 55 degrees. Electricity for the operation of the pump and fan is the main operating cost.

Two thermostats in the living room make the equipment entirely automatic in operation. One controls the fan and the other the motor supplying water to the cooling units. The latter is set at the desired room temperature and turns the water on and off as the temperature rises and falls. The fan thermostat is set about three degrees lower so that the fan starts before the water is turned on and operates continuously until cooling is no longer required.

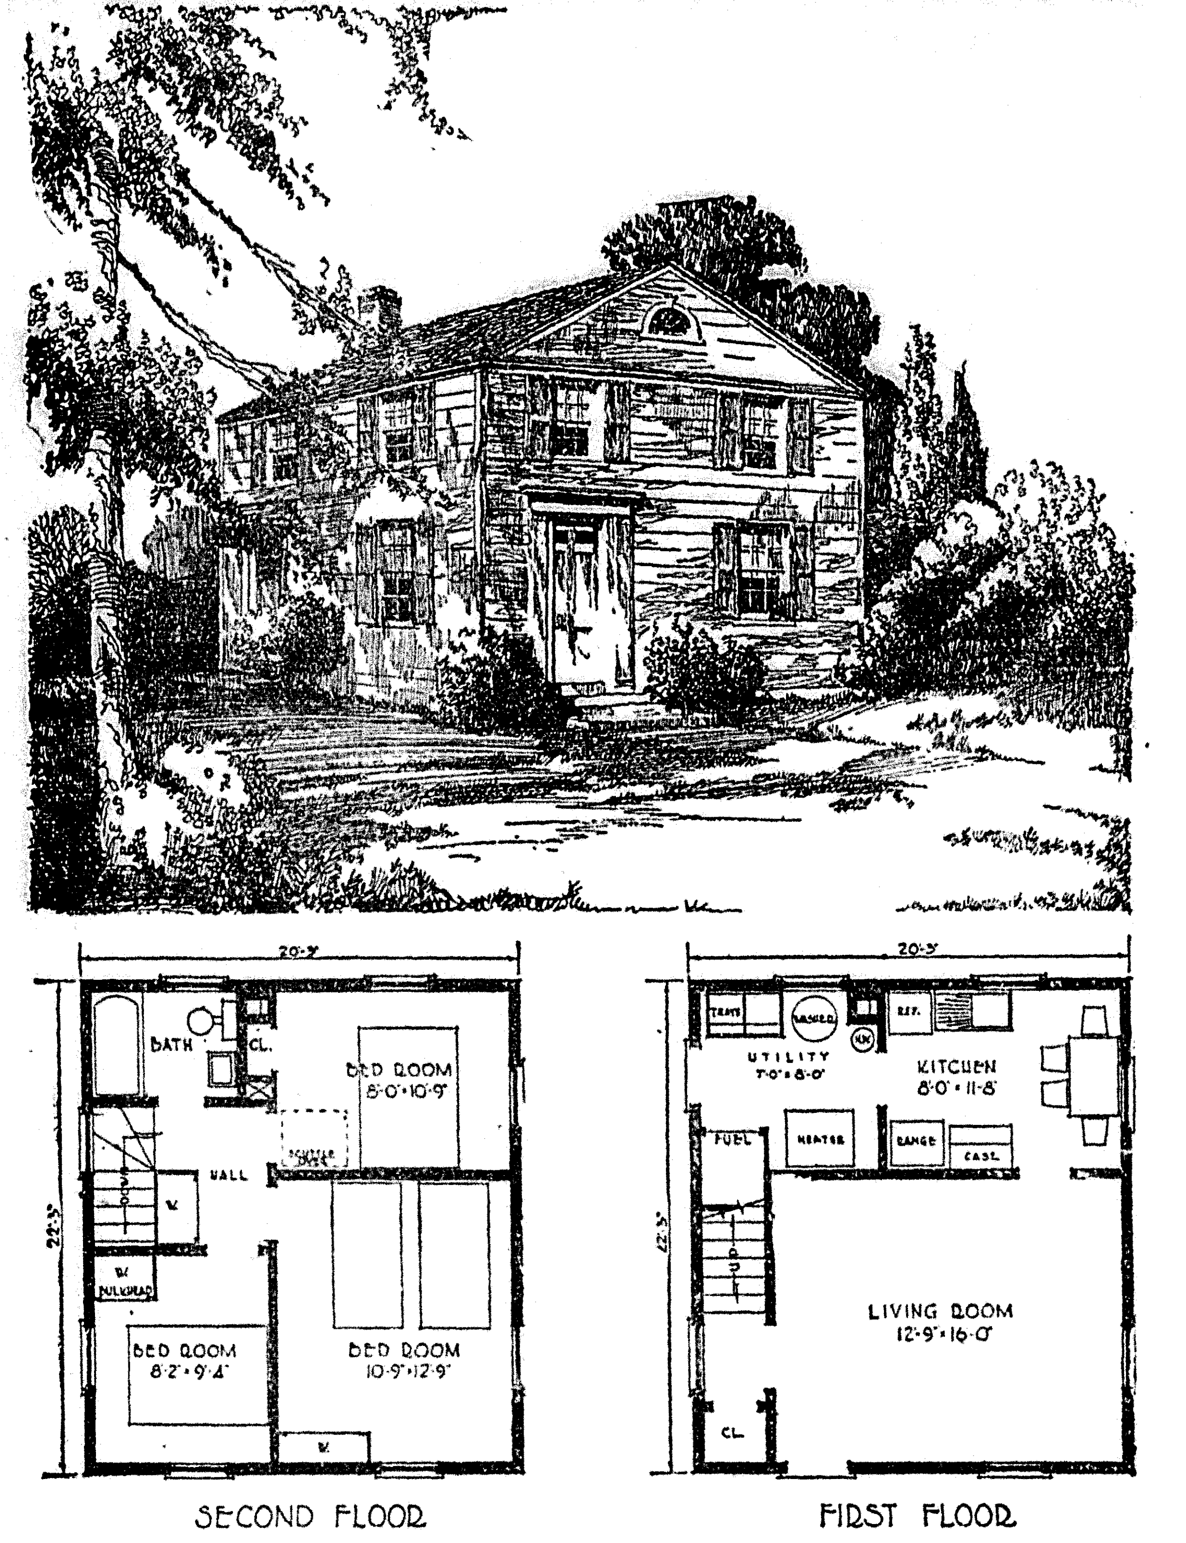
$2,500 House



Designated as House "E" in the Federal Housing Administration booklet "Principles of Planning Small Homes", this is a comfortable, dignified home of the formal Georgian type, yet simplicity itself, both in design and construction. The pediment treatment of the gable end changes it from just a house and gives it character. The plan shows a small but well-proportioned living room with good wall spaces. With the no-cellar plan a dining space is provided in the kitchen, where the intimate family meals can be eaten. On more formal occasions the end of the living room can be used. The utility room provides a place for the heating unit, with full storage and good space for laundry work. If a cellar is built, a dining alcove is provided as part of the living room, and a combination sink-tray is placed in the kitchen. The bedrooms are large enough to accommodate two people each, which makes this a possible house for a family of six. The wall spaces are well worked out, and cross-ventilation is provided in each room. Built-in wardrobes are shown in two of the rooms instead of closets; they take up less space than the usual closets and are good-looking pieces of furniture. The Housing Administration estimates that this house may be built for not more than $2,500.

'GINGERBREAD' ON OLD HOME EASILY REMOVED

Houses substantially built a generation ago frequently show no definite signs of deterioration. They are "dated" however by the excessive ornamentation—a "gingerbread" effect popular at the time of their erection.

If the "gingerbread" can be successfully removed exteriorally and interiorally the plain effect resulting is more in the present manner and gives the house a modern look.

A house of this type ordinarily contains a series of small cut-up rooms. If partitions are removed the more spacious rooms are attractive and offer greater possibilities in the way of redecorating and furnishing as well as comfort.

Funds for this type of work may be obtained under the modernization credit plan of the federal housing administration.

SEEK BLEND OF COLOR IN MODERN INTERIOR

Many modern interiors are planned for a blend of color rather than a contrast. This is particularly true in rooms with woodwork of the honey-colored or other light woods. Walls are painted the same shade.

One room with woodwork, walls, and floor of beige had upholstery and lamps which accented brown and white, with occasional touches of blue. The decorating of a room may be accomplished with funds obtained from a private financial institution holding a contract of insurance with the federal housing administration.

FHA WILL HOLD CONFERENCES ON AREA PLANNING

Land Planning Section Sponsors Neighborhood Clinics

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 3.—In order to acquaint bankers, operative builders, and others directly or indirectly affiliated with the construction industry with the latest developments in low-priced home subdivision building, a series of conferences has been arranged in large-population centers by the federal housing administration.

These subdivision conferences will be conducted by Seward H. Mott, chief of the land-planning section of the housing administration, who will outline the needs and requirements of such projects. It will be the purpose of the program to show the need of decent and attractive sites for modest dwellings and to give practical suggestions as to how they may be profitably created. Mr. Mott will utilize a model low-priced home subdivision in his talks to builders and others.

The first conference was held late in July in Detroit. Other conferences have been scheduled for successive Mondays in Chicago, Cleveland, Washington, D. C. Tenttative plans call for two additional conferences in Newark, N. J., and Boston, Mass.

Significant

"The creation of desirable residential communities has a much greater significance than simply the providing of a decent home site," said Mr. Mott. "Growth and character of our cities is absolutely controlled by the manner in which subdivisions are developed. A badly planned street layout or the lack of control of land use in a single subdivision can create traffic and social problems that throttle a whole section of a city with losses of millions of dollars to home owners and investors.

"It is because of the tremendous effect that subdivision development has on real-estate values that the federal housing administration insures no loans in new or partially developed subdivisions until they have been reviewed and approved."

Subjects that will be discussed at the subdivision conferences include topography, soil, drainage, transportation, sewers and water, lot shapes, parks and playgrounds, street patterns, shopping and community centers and other important factors attending such developments.

Model Subdivision

The housing administration has just completed a model subdivision in miniature which will be displayed at the subdivision conferences.

There are 94 homes in the group, but only four house designs are used. There is no appearance of standardized design, however. Variety is obtained through slight architectural changes, choice of color and material, and the manner in which the house is placed on the lot. The houses used in this display are from the designs of low-priced houses suggested in the federal housing administration's technical bulletin No. 4.

It is the intention of the housing administration to show through this exhibit of miniatures, the results possible when an entire subdivision is planned around the low-priced home. The streets are laid out in an unusual fashion, another feature which avoids the appearance of uniformity.

An area of the property is set aside for park and recreation purposes. There is also a shopping center, set off from the residential section by a line of poplar trees. Adequate parking space has been provided to avoid congestion in the market place.

Each lot is completely landscaped.

LINEN CLOSET LIGHT ADDS TO CONVENIENCE

A light in the linen closet will save you the embarrassing experience of hurriedly giving a guest a torn towel, or grabbing a sheet instead of a table cloth.

Funds for the rewiring of your home may be obtained under the terms of the national housing act. A private financial institution which holds a contract of insurance under the federal housing administration's modernization credit plan will advance funds for the work.

REPLICAS OF COLONIAL WOODWORK EFFECTIVE

If you want to redecorate a room and don't know quite what to do about the woodwork, take a tip from the early colonial houses of Virginia. Many of these homes had woodwork painted a soft green, a turquoise blue, a dull red, or a soft pink.

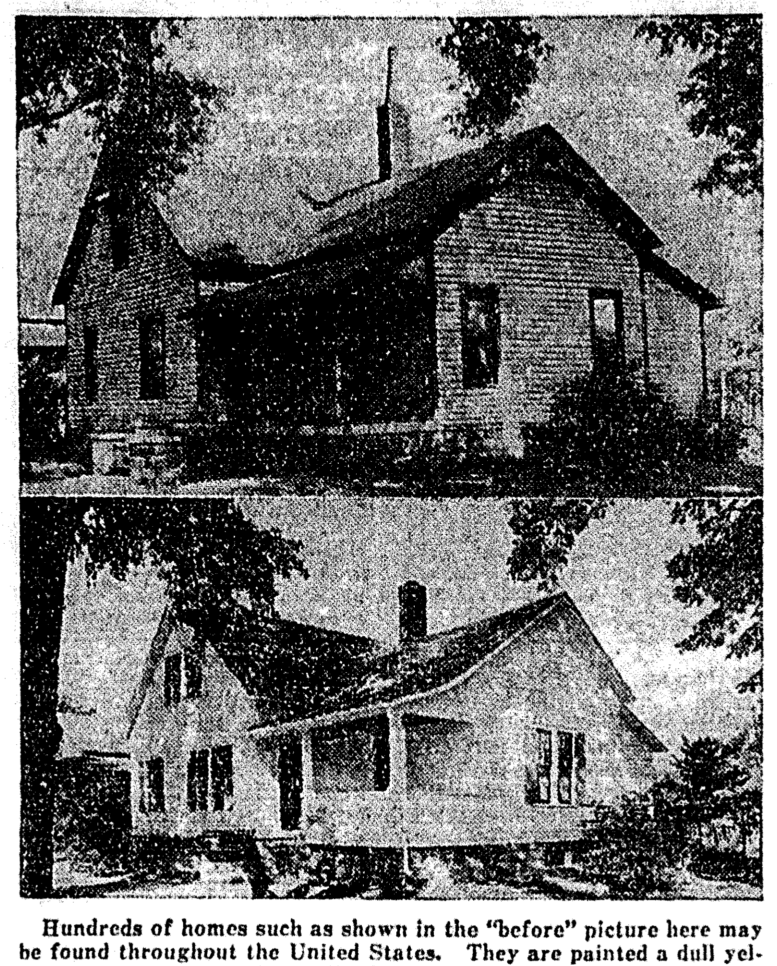
Transformation



Hundreds of homes such as shown in the "before" picture here may be found throughout the United States. They are painted a dull yellow, gray, or green. Generally they need painting. There is nothing to distinguish them from a dozen other such houses in the neighborhood. The owner of one such house was not satisfied with it. He could not afford to buy a new home; and, while his house was basically sound, he did not feel that he could afford the cash outlay necessary to remodel it. He applied to a private financial institution which held a contract of insurance with the Federal Housing Administration. His credit reputation and expectation of a steady income were sufficient guarantee, and the bank extended an insured modernization loan, which the home owner is able to repay in equal monthly payments over a period of five years. The roof line of the house was changed, windows relocated, unnecessary trimming removed, and the front porch was remodeled. Then the structure was painted white, and blue shutters were added. The result was a charming home in simple but good taste.

IMPORTANCE OF PLUMBING FOR NEW HOME IS STRESSED

Plumbing in the present-day house is as important and necessary as the floors or walls. No house can be considered to meet the requirements of modern living standards that does not include a kitchen sink, a complete bathroom, and an adequate supply of hot water. The piping for these fixtures should be as carefully studied and specified as any other part of the house.

The location of the main soil stack should be shown on the plans and a wall thickness provided sufficient to contain it. A four-inch soil line that is needed where a toilet is installed, cannot be contained in a wall made of four-inch studs. Unless a wall with six-inch studs is provided the soil line must be boxed in either with wood or with lath and plaster. This makes a break in the wall that in many cases could have been avoided by proper planning. Sometimes this box can be placed in a closet where it is not objectionable.

Many metals are now used for water piping, and the proper one to be installed frequently will be determined by the chemical composition of the water. The best piping possible within the budget should be installed, as replacement of piping is usually an expensive and difficult operation and requires tearing out sections of walls and floors.

Bathroom and kitchen fixtures come in infinite variety and have been improved greatly in design and usefulness. A combination sink and laundry tray for the kitchen, or where a separate laundry room exists, an all-metal sink and drain board; lavatories with high backs to protect the walls and raise the faucets high enough above the basin to be well out of the way and with enough flat area to set down a brush or jar without having it slide into the water; medicine cupboards set below the lavatory; tubs with integral seats; toilets with low tanks, etc., give the home builder a wide choice.

NORMAL FACULTY ADDITIONS MADE

Ten Members Added; New Library Built; Other Buildings Improved

NATCHITOCHES, La., Sept. 5.—(Special)—A new $150,000 library building, a $80,000 project including improvements to dormitories and academic buildings, improved curricula in the teacher training department of the college, the addition of ten new members to the faculty and a marked progress in the landscaping program on the campus are features which will attract the attention of students at the Louisiana State Normal college here when they enroll for the fall quarter of the state teachers' college on September 14, 15 and 16.

The new library structure named in honor of Governor Richard W. Leche, work on which was started several months ago, is nearing completion and will be ready for occupancy soon after the fall term gets under way. The three-story brick building of Tudor Gothic design occupies a space opposite the main hall of the college and completes the academic court rectangle.

Sixteen buildings, including five fireproof dormitories, the dining hall and ten academic buildings, have been repaired and renovated through a WPA state project. Improvements to the buildings include flooring, plastering and painting.

Other improvements to buildings at the college include the addition of several classrooms and offices, showers, handball court, and manual training room in Warren Easton hall and the installation of a sprinkling system in Caldwell hall. A $135,000 power and heating plant now under construction on the campus is expected to be completed before the end of the year.

The improved curricula in the training school department of the college calls for the combination of principles of the traditional and progressive systems in which the tools of learning mastered in the traditional will be utilized freely in a rich activity program. A series of methods courses appropriate for traditional principles will be retained. Other methods courses are being converted so as to cover the progressive principles of the elementary school. The methods courses dealing with the progressive principles will be taught by Dr. F. A. Ford, director of teacher training at the college, and his staff of supervisors.

The ten additions to the faculty this term include a new head of the music department, one new member of the biology department, three in the high school division and five in the elementary training school.

Paul Thornton, M. S., Northwestern, has been employed to head the department of music for the new session, and Miss Lauretta E. Fox, Ph. D., University of Illinois, will be added to the biology department.

In the high school division Miss Kathryn Cragg, M. A., Louisiana State university, will teach home economics; Miss Dorothy Cohen, M. A., Columbia, will instruct in the social sciences and in English, and Gayre Bazar, A. B., State Normal college, will be bandmaster.

The elementary training school additions are Miss June Cooley, M. A., Peabody college, first and second grade supervisor; Miss Mary Elise Bridges, A. B., State Normal college, fourth grade supervisor; F. S. Rankin, M. A., Peabody college, seventh grade supervisor; W. W. Winstead, A. B., Mississippi college, manual training; and George L. Parks, M. A., Louisiana State university, fifth grade supervisor.

Recent improvements in the landscaping program at the college include the construction of a network of sidewalks in the academic court and around Caldwell hall, repair to roads on the campus, widening of the main entrance to the college and the leveling and grading of various parts of the campus.

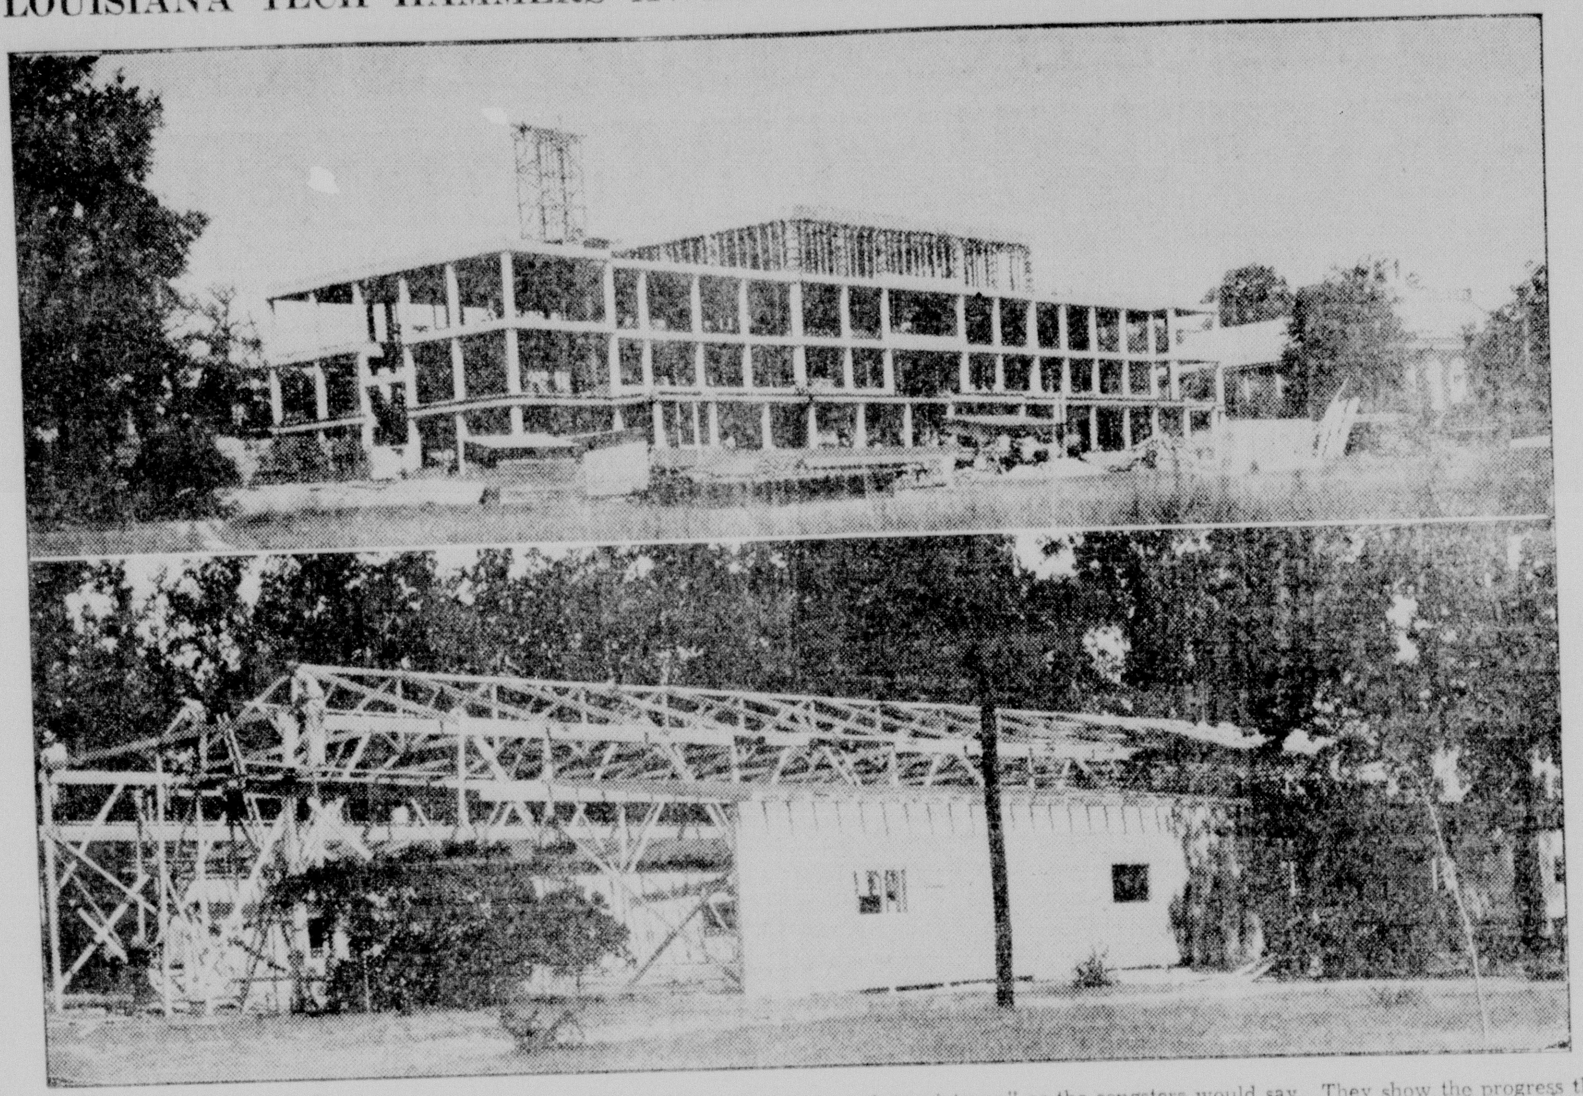
CLUB ORGANIZED IN WEST CARROLL PARISH

OAK GROVE, La, Sept. 5.—(Special)—The Junto Philosophical club of West Carroll parish, a literary organization designed to promote philosophy, science, education, art, literature, economics, music, business and politics, has been organized here with Lawrence W. Long, president; Joel B. Dickerson and J. Vernon Sims, vice-presidents; Mrs. Lonnie James, secretary, and Bill Pollard, treasurer.

Membership in the new club will be confined to residents of West Carroll parish and it is expected that practically all public school teachers and educators as well as business men and women of the parish will become members.

Among the objectives of the new club is the building of an addition to the library at Oak Grove, it was stated.

LOUISIANA TECH HAMMERS AWAY ON ITS BIGGEST BUILDING PROGRAM



"Knock, knock!" "Who's there?" "Tech." "Tech who?" "Tech a look at these pictures," as the songsters would say. They show the progress that is being made on the biggest building program ever planned for Louisiana Tech. In the upper photo is the new administration building which has advanced to the brick-laying stage and the laying of sub-flooring. The large hall will provide numerous classrooms as well as offices. It is being erected by Caldwell Brothers and Hart of New Orleans, with the architects being Weiss, Dreyfous and Seiferth of New Orleans, and the firm of Edward F. Neild of Shreveport. The lower picture depicts the construction of the "Wigwam," which is to serve as a temporary campus meeting place, pending the completion of the new combined auditorium and music hall that has been approved for the college. The new emergency structure will be 70x112 feet, with a stage measuring 18x34 feet. It is being constructed under the supervision of T. A. Wright, superintendent of buildings and grounds at Tech, with Dean Frank Bogard and H. J. Nethken of the Tech school of engineering, collaborating. (Tech News Bureau Photos.)

CHURCHES

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
Grammont at Catalpa
Ernest Holloway, Pastor

"A Spiritual Strategy That Means Success" and "After Peniel" are the subjects of our meditations this Lord's day. The first will deal with the order of God Almighty to Moses and the children of Israel; the second has as its scriptural basis the facts set out in Genesis 33. Indications are favorable for the best fall and winter in the history of the church school. The attendance last Sabbath was gratifying. Were you present last Sabbath? The adult Bible classes are well officered and splendidly taught. Claude G. Bowers, editor and the author of "The Tragic Era," testified to the Sabbath school's value. Quote: "The Sunday school is as essential in the moulding of character for useful citizenship as the public schools. It gives a needed emphasis to ethical standards, creates ideals of personal conduct, and raises one's ideas of the values above the merely material things of life. The Sunday school prevents that exaltation of money over morals which constitutes the more serious menace to our country and our civiliation today. It stands for things that are elemental and abide." You are expected today. A hearty welcome awaits you.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST
Corner Auburn Avenue and North Second Street

Sunday services 11 a.m., Sunday school 9:30 a.m., Wednesday evening testimony meetings 8 o'clock. Reading room, 602 Ouachita National Bank building, open daily, except Sunday and holidays, 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. The public is welcome to all services and the use of the reading room. "Man" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, September 6, 1936. Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "So God created man in His own image, in the image of God created He him; male and female created He them." (Gen. 1). The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Man: God's spiritual idea, individual, perfect, eternal. Man reflects infinite Truth, Life and Love. The nature of man, thus understood, includes all that is implied by the terms 'image' and 'likeness' as used in Scripture." (pp. 115 and 94).

FIRST METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH
Jackson at Wood Street
W. C. Scott, Pastor

On next Sunday our congregation will welcome back to the pulpit our pastor after a month's absence. The choir will also be well organized and in their place with special music. At the morning hour, the pastor will preach a communion sermon and administer the sacrament of the Lord's supper. Evening services will be held at 7:45. Mid-week prayer services will be resumed on Wednesday evening. You are cordially invited to worship with us at all services. The church school year ends on September 30 and plans are being made for promotion in all departments. If you have been away for the summer, you are urged to join your class next Sunday that you might be registered properly for promotion and classification for the new year. On account of Monday being Labor day, the finance committee will meet on Tuesday evening at 7:30 for the monthly business meeting. This is a very important meeting and a full attendance is urged as plans will be made for the closing out the year's work, which ends on December 1. Conference meets on December 2 in Minden and every effort is being made to report every item "in full" and progress in every department of the church. The Woman's Missionary society will meet in circles on Tuesday at 3 p.m.

PLEASANT HILL CHURCH—Church school at 10:15 a.m., C. R. Beard, superintendent. Worship service at 11 a.m. and 8 p.m. The Congregational-Christian churches of the North Louisiana Larger Parish will meet for an all-day session with the Pleasant Hill church. Basket dinner will be served at noon. The North Louisiana Parish council will have part of the day in special session for the planning of a more effective program proceeding the fall campaign.

GORDON AVENUE METHODIST CHURCH
S. S. Holladay, Pastor

Church school at 9:45 a.m. Morning services at 11 o'clock. Mr. Redmon will have charge of these services. Night services at 7:45 o'clock. Mr. Dodd will preach at these services. Prayer meeting and choir practice each Wednesday night at 7:45 o'clock. We are gratified with the progress made to date in collections to retire the parsonage debt and hope that all will bear in mind that they have only three more months to pay their pledges against the debt. Young people's meeting at 6:45 p.m. All young people who have been absent during the summer are urged to come back for the fall and winter services.

TRINITY LUTHERAN CHURCH
Woodman Building
Vernon C. Grosse, Pastor

Sunday school and Bible class at 8:30 a.m. Church service at 9:30 a.m. The Epistle lesson for the 13th Sunday after Trinity is found in Galations 4, 15 to 22. The text of the sermon will be taken from the Gospel of St. Luke, chapter 14, verse 28 to 30. All are cordially invited to come and worship with us.

CALVARY BAPTIST CHURCH
812 Mississippi Street
I. J. Brooks, Pastor

This Sunday marks the close of the pastor's fifth year with the church. A record of the work during the five years will be read at the morning services. We hope to have as many as can possibly come, and on time, for Sunday school at 10 a.m. and B. T. U. at 7 p.m. The pastor's morning subject will be "Trumpeting the Gospel," text 1 Thess. 1:8. The evening subject, "The Sufferings of Christ and the Glory That Should Follow." Text 1 Peter 1:11.

GRACE CHURCH
Fourth and Glenmar Streets
Edward Farren Hayward, Rector

Services for thirteenth Sunday after Trinity are as follows: The Holy Eucharist will be celebrated at 7:30 a.m. and again at 9:30 a.m., which celebration will be choral. The rector will preach the sermon. Evensong and sermon at St. David's, Rayville, at 4:30 p.m. Please note the hours for services; the same as during the past several months. Tuesday, September 8, is the Feast of the Nativity of St. Mary the Virgin, the Mother of our Lord. The Holy Eucharist will be celebrated at 9 a.m. Friday, September 11. The weekly requiem will be offered at 7:30 a.m. The Epistle for the thirteenth Sunday after Trinity demonstrates the unity of the Abrahamic covenant with the Christian covenant. While the Holy Gospel shows us how to make all men our neighbors. The lawyer did not like to own that a Samaritan could be nearer to a Jew than a priest or a Levite of his own people; but was forced to own as much by circumlocution. In like manner Christ commands us to make all men our brethren. And the collect for the day, which speak sof "true and laudable service," comments with this Gospel, and beseeches God that we, who are His People, may not fail to be like the Samaritan also, in his Christ-like benevolence and love. The church is open daily from 7:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. Come in, rest and pray.

METHODIST PROTESTANT CHURCH
Stone Avenue and South Third Street
L. L. Yeager, Pastor

Sunday school at 9:45 a.m., M. B. Hearne, superintendent. Morning worship at 11 o'cock. Christian Endeavor at 7 p.m., Carter Martin, leader of meeting. Evening service at 7:45. Circle No. 1 to meet with Mrs. T. F. Seiler, 113 Texas avenue, Tuesday afternoon at 2:30. Circle No 2 to meet with Mrs. R. W. Irby Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Choir practice Tuesday evening at 7:30. Prayer service Thursday evening at 7:30, Mrs. H. B. Hearne, leader. An invitation is extended to the public to worship with us. "The place where you will feel welcome."

CHURCH OF CHRIST
South Second and Apple Streets
J. P. Lowrey, Minister

"Except Jehovah build the house, they labor in vain that build it: except Jehovah keep the city, the watchman waketh but in vain." Reports in religious journals concerning Rev. Lowrey's meetings in Tennessee and Arkansas are very encouraging. We are happy to know he is returning to the field to continue his work of faith and labor of love with this congregation, and that every member may be inspired to greater efforts and full cooperation, is our prayer. Worship every Lord's day at 11 a.m. and 7:45 p.m. Bible study for all ages at 9:45 a.m. Ladies' Bible class at 3 p.m. Tuesday. Mid-week Bible study and prayer service at 7:45 p.m. Wednesday. "Be of good courage, and let us play the man for our people, and for the cities of our God; and Jehovah is that which seemeth him good."

TECH ICE PLANT NOW BEING USED

Modern Cooling System Replaces Decrepit Plant At College

RUSTON, La., Sept. 5.—(Special)—Weather report for a portion of Louisiana Tech today, 37 degrees; for tomorrow and following days, continued cold without much change in temperature.

That's the story told by thermometers in the new refrigerating and ice-making plant just completed as an accessory to the college dining hall. The modern cooling system replaces a decrepit plant that had ceased to function.

When given its initial trial, the new equipment highly pleased President E. S. Richardson, who pointed out that the addition would effect considerable saving not only in food preservation but in providing ice, which in the past has been purchased for use on the campus.

Already, Mrs. Clara S. Burris, supervisor of the dining room and kitchen, has stocked the new cooling rooms with large supplies of meat and other food for the football players now in practice. The plant will have plenty in store for the dormitory students arriving for the opening of the fall semester on September 14.

The new building, built of brick, measures 22 feet square inside. It includes four refrigerating rooms, one each for meat, green vegetables, milk and butter, and left-over foods. The rooms are eight feet high. Underneath is a compartment six feet, six inches deep, for the cooling coils and other apparatus.

The new addition also includes two ammonia compressors, which will provide 1,500 pounds of ice in 50-pound cakes daily. In connection with the plant is a 60-gallon tank for drinking water, which will cool 40 gallons an hour, it is said.

C. E. Andrews, Ruston contractor, erected the building. The machinery contract was awarded to the Ace Combustion Engineering company of Shreveport. Edward F. Neild of Shreveport was the architect.

COMMUNITY NIGHT TO BE OBSERVED HERE

Community night on September 11 will be held in West Monroe by the West Monroe recreation council, it was decided at a meeting held Friday night in the library rooms on Wood street.

Mrs. Virginia Littlepage of the WPA office will have charge of the program. Prizes will be awarded for various stunts which will include dramatics and folk dances.

The public is invited to attend, and further details will be announced later.

TOBACCO HABIT

Here is one occasion on which no one can object to a girl having the tobacco habit. In fact, there might be some protests if she was without it. The Virginia beauty's costume of tobacco leaves trimmed with cigarettes was designed to be worn in the National Tobacco fete at South Boston, Va.

MIXUP CAUSES REPORT OF SUITCASE LARCENY

It was all a mistake that Othia Cagle, former Northeast Center of L. S. U. football player, lost his suitcase here Thursday when he left it at a Louisville avenue filling station and a station attendant gave it to a negro man who called for "a suitcase that was left there."

Coincidentally, another person had left a suitcase at a filling station two blocks away, police said last night, and a negro, sent to get the bag, went to the wrong station and was given Cagle's.

When the mistake was discovered the negro returned to the other service station for the bag he had been sent to get in the first place, and left Cagle's suit case there instead of taking it back where he got it.

ADD ONE GASSER IN PAST WEEK

Two Abandonments Reported In Gas, Oil Field Areas

One completion, that of a gasser in Union parish, was the only producer added the past week in the local gas and oil fields, according to the report of the state department of conservation. There were two abandonments, one in Grant and one in Caldwell parishes.

The Union parish gasser was that of the Interstate Natural Gas company, section 29-21-4 east, completed as making 15,632,800 cubic feet daily open flow, rock pressure 900 pounds, total depth 2,144 feet.

The Grant parish abandonment was that of T. Davis et al, Barrett No. 1, section 18-9-1 east, which was classed as dry and abandoned at 1,700 feet. The Caldwell parish abandonment was that of S. D. Davis et al, Louisiana Central No. 1, in section 14-11-5 east. It was abandoned at a depth of 1,850 feet.

Progress on drilling tests was reported as follows:

Richland Parish

Section 15-18-7 east, J. F. Morrissey, W. T. Jones No. 1, drilling at 3,110 feet.

Section 32-17-6 east, Gulf Refining company, R. R. Rhymes No. 15, drilling at 5,967 feet.

Franklin Parish

Section 12-11-6 east, S. C. Jensen, Dailey No. 1, shut down at 1,888 feet.

Morehouse Parish

Section 10-20-7 east, Rondeau and Camp, E. M. Clark, No. 1, shut down at 3,760 feet.

Section 4-20-4 east, United Carbon company, Stovall No. 5, drilling at 2,050 feet.

Section 30-22-5 east, United Gas Public Service, Crossett No. 43, drilling at 2,200 feet.

Section 24-22-4 east, United Gas Public Service, Crossett No. 44, set six-inch casing at 2,165 feet.

Section 32-22-5 east, United Gas Public Service, Crossett No .45, drilling at 2,179 feet.

Ouachita Parish

Section 30-20-5 east, La-Del, Fee No. 49, arranging to abandon at 2,400 feet.

Union Parish

Section 34-21-3 east, Federal Pet company, Series B. U. 3014 No. 1, drilling at 6,700 feet.

Section 5-19-3 east, Fed. Pet. company, Series B. U. 3015 No. 1, plugging back to Monroe gas rock, total depth 4,562 feet.

Section 32-21-4 east, Interstate Natural Gas, Fee No. 52, set six-inch casing at 2,069 feet.

Section 32-21-4 east, Interstate Natural Gas, Fee No. 54 set six-inch casing at 2,068 feet.

LaSalle Parish

Section 7-10-2 east, O. Robichaux et al, Urania Lumber company, No. 2, 10-inch casing set. Waiting on permit.

THEFTS REPORTED

Effecting an entrance by prying open a window in the rear of a servant's house on property belonging to Dewey Kramer, 506 Bres avenue, an intruder Friday night stole a quantity of bedding and some clothes, according to a report made to the police yesterday. The articles taken included three bed quilts, three blankets, a bed spread, a pair of pants, a pair of overalls and a dress. Roscoe Arwood of Athens, Tenn., reported the loss of a brown suitcase which he told police was stolen from his automobile sometime Friday night.

NORMAL FACULTY ADDITIONS MADE

NATCHITOCHES, La., Sept. 5.—(Special)—A new $150,000 library building, a $00,000 project including improvements to dormitories and academic buildings, improved curricula in the teacher training department of the college, the addition of ten new members to the faculty and a marked progress in the landscaping program on the campus are features which will attract the attention of students at the Louisiana State Normal college here when they enroll for the fall quarter of the state teachers' college on September 14, 15 and 16.

The new library structure named in honor of Governor Richard W. Leche, work on which was started several months ago, is nearing completion and will be ready for occupancy soon after the fall term gets under way. The three-story brick building of Tudor Gothic design occupies a space opposite the main hall of the college and completes the academic court rectangle.

Sixteen buildings, including five fireproof dormitories, the dining hall and ten academic buildings, have been repaired and renovated through a WPA state project. Improvements to the buildings include flooring, plastering and painting.

Other improvements to buildings at the college include the addition of several classrooms and offices, showers, handball court, and manual training room in Warren Easton hall and the installation of a sprinkling system in Caldwell hall. A $135,000 power and heating plant now under construction on the campus is expected to be completed before the end of the year.

The improved curricula in the training school department of the college calls for the combination of principles of the traditional and progressive systems in which the tools of learning mastered in the traditional will be utilized freely in a rich activity program. A series of methods courses appropriate for traditional principles will be retained. Other methods courses are being converted so as to cover the progressive principles of the elementary school. The methods courses dealing with the progressive principles will be taught by Dr. F. A. Ford, director of teacher training at the college, and his staff of supervisors.

The ten additions to the faculty this term include a new head of the music department, one new member of the biology department, three in the high school division and five in the elementary training school.

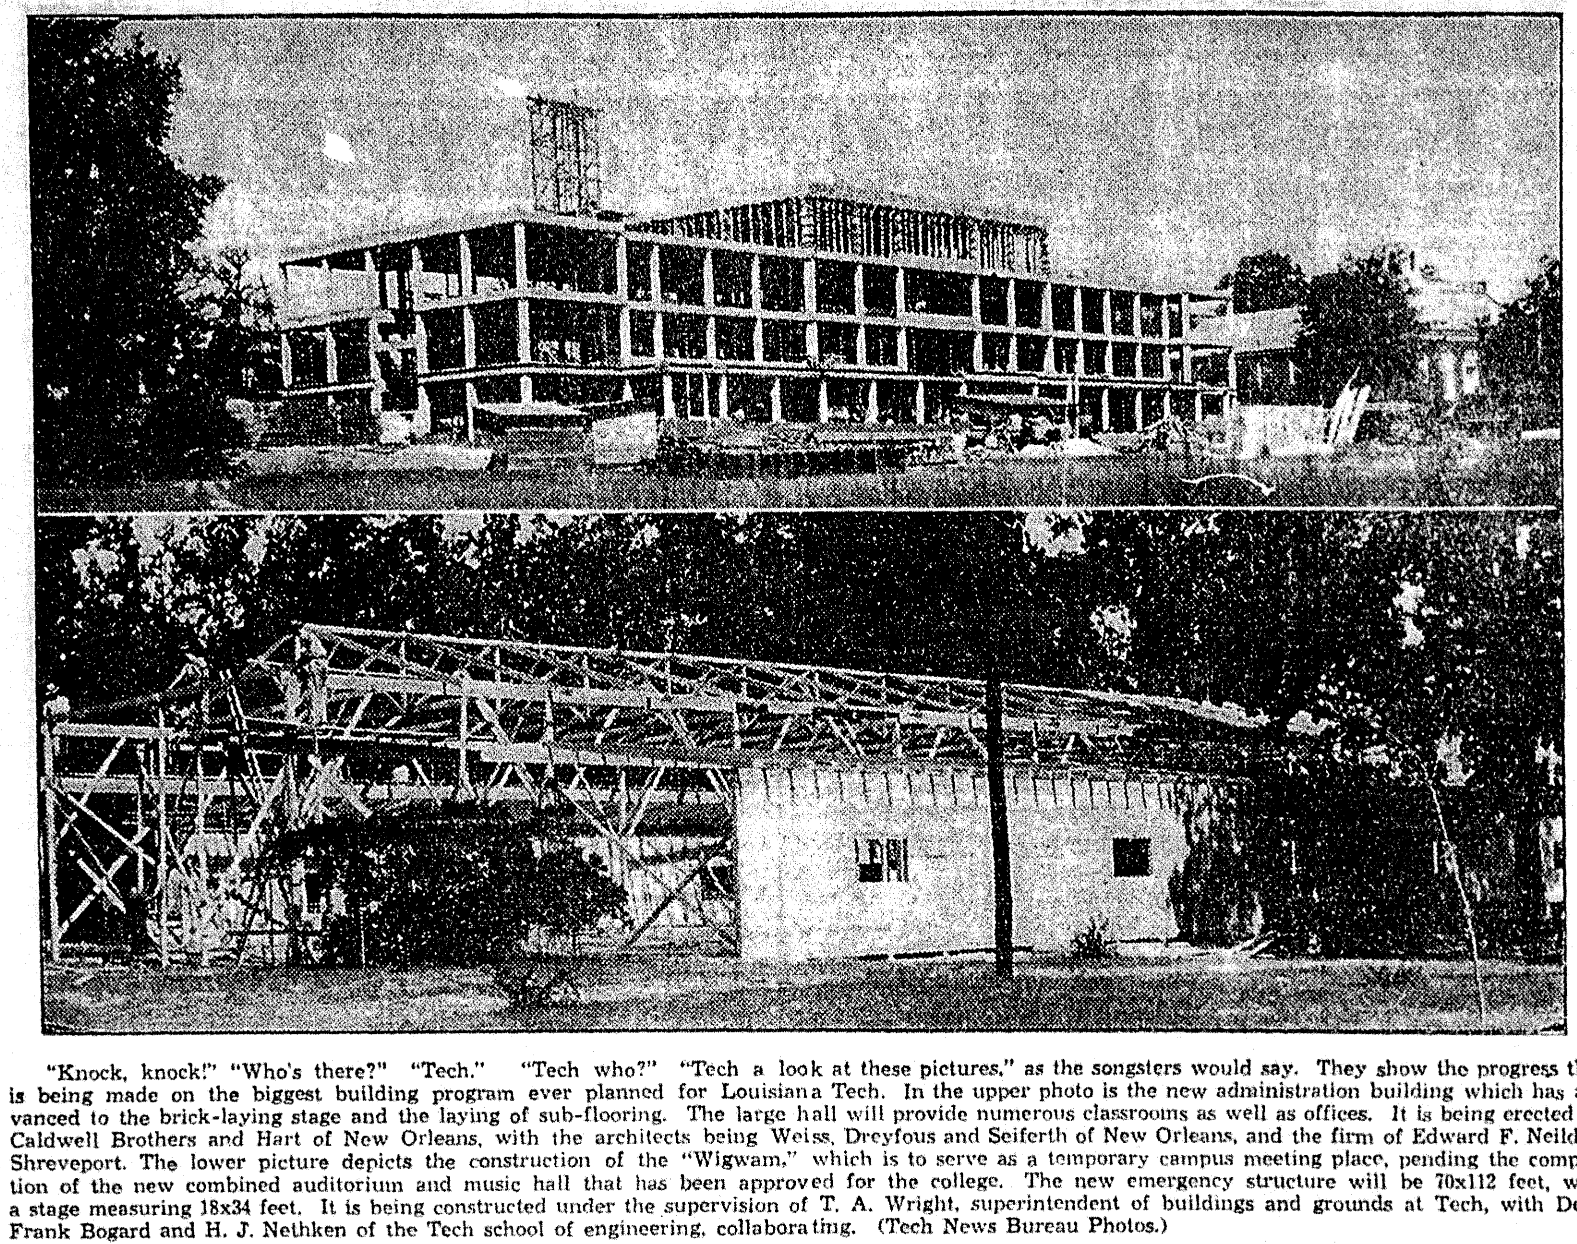
Paul Thornton, M. S., Northwestern, has been employed to head the department of music for the new session, and Miss Lauretta E. Fox, Ph. D., University of Illinois, will be added to the biology department.

In the high school division Miss Kathryn Cragg, M. A., Louisiana State university, will teach home economics; Miss Dorothy Cohen, M. A., Columbia, will instruct in the social sciences and in English, and Gayre Bazar, A. B., State Normal college, will be bandmaster.

The elementary training school additions are Miss June Cooley, M. A., Peabody college, first and second grade supervisor; Miss Mary Elise Bridges, A. B., State Normal college, fourth grade supervisor; F. S. Rankin, M. A., Peabody college, seventh grade supervisor; W. W. Winstead, A. B., Mississippi college, manual training; and George L. Parks, M. A., Louisiana State university, fifth grade supervisor.

Recent improvements in the landscaping program at the college include the construction of a network of sidewalks in the academic court and around Caldwell hall, repair to roads on the campus, widening of the main entrance to the college and the leveling and grading of various parts of the campus.

LOUISIANA TECH HAMMERS AWAY ON ITS BIGGEST BUILDING PROGRAM



"Knock, knock!" "Who's there?" "Tech." "Tech who?" "Tech a look at these pictures," as the songsters would say. They show the progress that is being made on the biggest building program ever planned for Louisiana Tech. In the upper photo is the new administration building which has advanced to the brick-laying stage and the laying of sub-flooring. The large hall will provide numerous classrooms as well as offices. It is being erected by Caldwell Brothers and Hart of New Orleans, with the architects being Weiss, Dreyfous and Seiferth of New Orleans, and the firm of Edward F. Neild of Shreveport. The lower picture depicts the construction of the "Wigwam," which is to serve as a temporary campus meeting place, pending the completion of the new combined auditorium and music hall that has been approved for the college. The new emergency structure will be 70x112 feet, with a stage measuring 18x34 feet. It is being constructed under the supervision of T. A. Wright, superintendent of buildings and grounds at Tech, with Dean Frank Bogard and H. J. Nethken of the Tech school of engineering, collaborating. (Tech News Bureau Photos.)

CLUB ORGANIZED IN WEST CARROLL PARISH

OAK GROVE, La, Sept. 5.—(Special)—The Junto Philosophical club of West Carroll parish, a literary organization designed to promote philosophy, science, education, art, literature, economics, music, business and politics, has been organized here with Lawrence W. Long, president; Joel B. Dickerson and J. Vernon Sims, vice-presidents; Mrs. Lonnie James, secretary, and Bill Pollard, treasurer.

Membership in the new club will be confined to residents of West Carroll parish and it is expected that practically all public school teachers and educators as well as business men and women of the parish will become members.

Among the objectives of the new club is the building of an addition to the library at Oak Grove, it was stated.

:-: CHURCHES :-:

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
Grammont at Catalpa
Ernest Holloway, Pastor

"A Spiritual Strategy That Means Success" and "After Peniel" are the subjects of our meditations this Lord's day. The first will deal with the order of God Almighty to Moses and the children of Israel; the second has as its scriptural basis the facts set out in Genesis 33. Indications are favorable for the best fall and winter in the history of the church school. The attendance last Sabbath was gratifying. Were you present last Sabbath? The adult Bible classes are well officered and splendidly taught. Claude G. Bowers, editor and the author of "The Tragic Era," testified to the Sabbath school's value. Quote: "The Sunday school is as essential in the moulding of character for useful citizenship as the public schools. It gives a needed emphasis to ethical standards, creates ideals of personal conduct, and raises one's ideas of the values above the merely material things of life. The Sunday school prevents that exaltation of money over morals which constitutes the more serious menace to our country and our civiliation today. It stands for things that are elemental and abide." You are expected today. A hearty welcome awaits you.

FIRST CHURCH OF CHRIST, SCIENTIST
Corner Auburn Avenue and North Second Street

Sunday services 11 a.m., Sunday school 9:30 a.m., Wednesday evening testimony meetings 8 o'clock. Reading room, 602 Ouachita National Bank building, open daily, except Sunday and holidays, 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. The public is welcome to all services and the use of the reading room. "Man" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, Sunday, September 6, 1936. Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "So God created man in His own image, in the image of God created He him; male and female created He them." (Gen. 1). The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Man: God's spiritual idea, individual, perfect, eternal. Man reflects infinite Truth, Life and Love. The nature of man, thus understood, includes all that is implied by the terms 'image' and 'likeness' as used in Scripture." (pp. 115 and 94).

FIRST METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH, SOUTH
Jackson at Wood Street
W. C. Scott, Pastor

On next Sunday our congregation will welcome back to the pulpit our pastor after a month's absence. The choir will also be well organized and in their place with special music. At the morning hour, the pastor will preach a communion sermon and administer the sacrament of the Lord's supper. Evening services will be held at 7:45. Mid-week prayer services will be resumed on Wednesday evening. You are cordially invited to worship with us at all services. The church school year ends on September 30 and plans are being made for promotion in all departments. If you have been away for the summer, you are urged to join your class next Sunday that you might be registered properly for promotion and classification for the new year. On account of Monday being Labor day, the finance committee will meet on Tuesday evening at 7:30 for the monthly business meeting. This is a very important meeting and a full attendance is urged as plans will be made for the closing out the year's work, which ends on December 1. Conference meets on December 2 in Minden and every effort is being made to report every item "in full" and progress in every department of the church. The Woman's Missionary society will meet in circles on Tuesday at 3 p.m.

THE CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH
George H. Dierlamm, Minister
Donald Evans, Assistant Minister

PLEASANT HILL CHURCH—Church school at 10:15 a.m., C. R. Beard, superintendent. Worship service at 11 a.m. and 8 p.m. The Congregational-Christian churches of the North Louisiana Larger Parish will meet for an all-day session with the Pleasant Hill church. Basket dinner will be served at noon. The North Louisiana Parish council will have part of the day in special session for the planning of a more effective program proceeding the fall campaign.

GORDON AVENUE METHODIST CHURCH
S. S. Holladay, Pastor

Church school at 9:45 a.m. Morning services at 11 o'clock. Mr. Redmon will have charge of these services. Night services at 7:45 o'clock. Mr. Dodd will preach at these services. Prayer meeting and choir practice each Wednesday night at 7:45 o'clock We are gratified with the progress made to date in collections to retire the parsonage debt and hope that all will bear in mind that they have only three more months to pay their pledges against the debt. Young people's meeting at 6:45 p.m. All young people who have been absent during the summer are urged to come back for the fall and winter services.

TRINITY LUTHERAN CHURCH
Woodman Building
Vernon C. Grosse, Pastor

Sunday school and Bible class at 8:30 a.m. Church service at 9:30 a.m. The Epistle lesson for the 13th Sunday after Trinity is found in Galations 4, 15 to 22. The text of the sermon will be taken from the Gospel of St. Luke, chapter 14, verse 28 to 30. All are cordially invited to come and worship with us.

CALVARY BAPTIST CHURCH
812 Mississippi Street
I. J. Brooks, Pastor

This Sunday marks the close of the pastor's fifth year with the church. A record of the work during the five years will be read at the morning services. We hope to have as many as can possibly come, and on time, for Sunday school at 10 a.m. and B. T. U. at 7 p.m. The pastor's morning subject will be "Trumpeting the Gospel," text 1 Thess. 1:8. The evening subject, "The Sufferings of Christ and the Glory That Should Follow." Text 1 Peter 1:11.

GRACE CHURCH
Fourth and Glenmar Streets
Edward Farren Hayward, Rector

Services for thirteenth Sunday after Trinity are as follows: The Holy Eucharist will be celebrated at 7:30 a.m. and again at 9:30 a.m., which celebration will be choral. The rector will preach the sermon. Evensong and sermon at St. David's, Rayville, at 4:30 p.m. Please note the hours for services; the same as during the past several months. Tuesday, September 8, is the Feast of the Nativity of St. Mary the Virgin, the Mother of our Lord. The Holy Eucharist will be celebrated at 9 a.m. Friday, September 11, the weekly requiem will be offered at 7:30 a.m. The Epistle for the thirteenth Sunday after Trinity demonstrates the unity of the Abrahamic covenant with the Christian covenant, While the Holy Gospel shows us how to make all men our neighbors. The lawyer did not like to own that a Samaritan could be nearer to a Jew than a priest or a Levite of his own people; but was forced to own as much by circumlocution. In like manner Christ commands us to make all men our brethren. And the collect for the day, which speak sof "true and laudable service," comments with this Gospel, and beseeches God that we, who are His People, may not fail to be like the Samaritan also, in his Christ-like benevolence and love. The church is open daily from 7:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. Come in, rest and pray.

METHODIST PROTESTANT CHURCH

Choir practice Tuesday evening at 7:30. Prayer service Thursday evening at 7:30, Mrs. H. B. Hearne, leader. An invitation is extended to the public to worship with us. "The place where you will feel welcome."

CHURCH OF CHRIST
South Second and Apple Streets
J. P. Lowrey, Minister

"Except Jehovah build the house, they labor in vain that build it: except Jehovah keep the city, the watchman waketh but in vain." Reports in religious journals concerning Rev. Lowrey's meetings in Tennessee and Arkansas are very encouraging. We are happy to know he is returning to the field to continue his work of faith and labor of love with this congregation, and that every member may be inspired to greater efforts and full cooperation, is our prayer. Worship every Lord's day at 11 a.m. and 7:45 p.m. Bible study for all ages at 9:45 a.m. Ladies' Bible class at 3 p.m. Tuesday. Mid-week Bible study and prayer service at 7:45 p.m. Wednesday. "Be of good courage, and let us play the man for our people, and for the cities of our God; and Jehovah is that which seemeth him good."

AND NOW RUFUS FLINT, AS VIRTUAL DICTATOR, MOBILIZED THE ARMY TO CAPTURE TARZAN AND PRINCESS NAKONIA.
MEANWHILE THE APE-MAN AND HIS FOLLOWERS BORE NAKONIA INTO THE FOREST, THERE TO ESTABLISH SECRET HEADQUARTERS
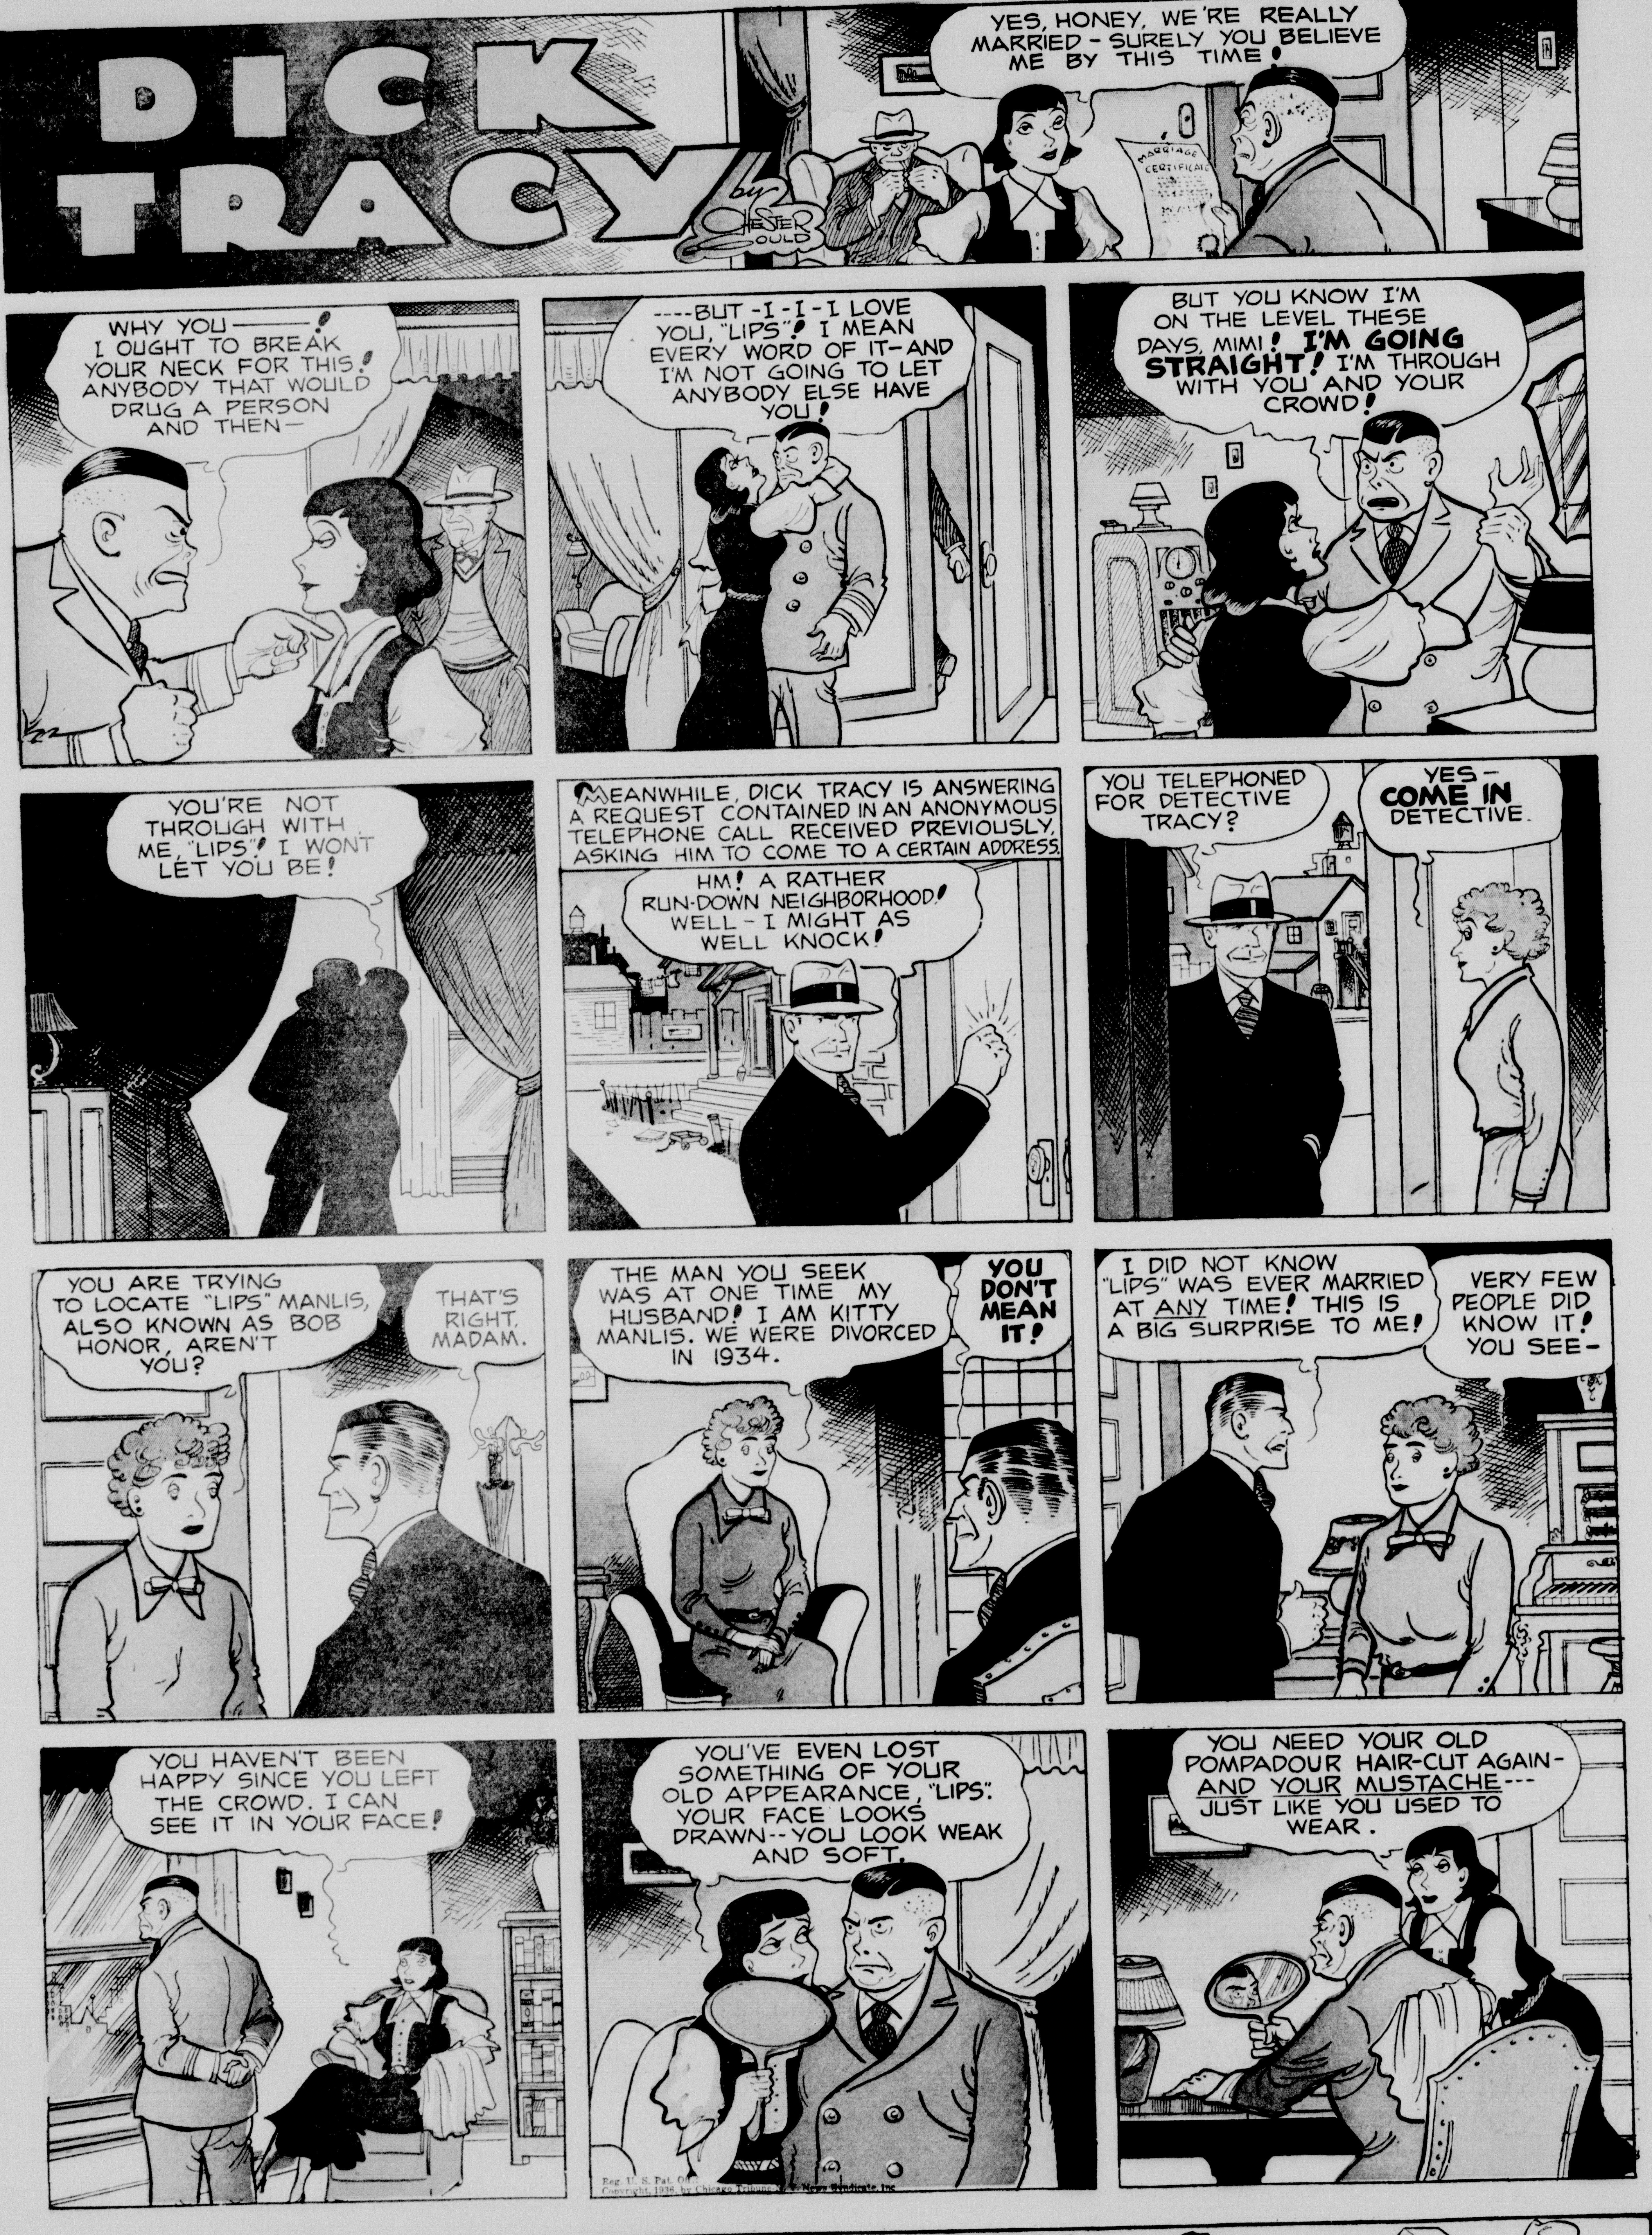
FROM AMBUSH THEY STRUCK FURIOUSLY AT THE VANGUARD OF THE FOE. ONE QUICK THRUST, THEN........
....THEY RETIRED, FOR TARZAN HAD RESOLVED ON GUERRILLA TACTICS AGAINST SO VAST A FORCE.
BUT THREE OF HIS MEN WERE TAKEN PRISONER, AND NOW HE VENTURED BACK TO LEARN THEIR FATE.
"TOMORROW," HE HEARD A CAPTAIN SAY, "THEY WILL BE EXECUTED IN THE PLAZA."
H FOSTER
THEN THE JUNGLE LORD CALLED DOWN. "THEY SHALL NOT DIE! IT IS TARZAN WHO PROMISES--TARZAN, SWORD OF FREEDOM!"
NEXT WEEK: BALKED



DICK TRACY

YES, HONEY, WE'RE REALLY MARRIED - SURELY YOU BELIEVE ME BY THIS TIME!
MARRIAGE CERTIFICATE
WHY YOU ------! I OUGHT TO BREAK YOUR NECK FOR THIS! ANYBODY THAT WOULD DRUG A PERSON AND THEN—
----BUT -I-I-I LOVE YOU, "LIPS"! I MEAN EVERY WORD OF IT—AND I'M NOT GOING TO LET ANYBODY ELSE HAVE YOU!
BUT YOU KNOW I'M ON THE LEVEL THESE DAYS, MIMI! I'M GOING STRAIGHT! I'M THROUGH WITH YOU AND YOUR CROWD!
YOU'RE NOT THROUGH WITH ME, "LIPS"! I WON'T LET YOU BE!
MEANWHILE, DICK TRACY IS ANSWERING A REQUEST CONTAINED IN AN ANONYMOUS TELEPHONE CALL RECEIVED PREVIOUSLY, ASKING HIM TO COME TO A CERTAIN ADDRESS.
HM! A RATHER RUN-DOWN NEIGHBORHOOD! WELL - I MIGHT AS WELL KNOCK!
YOU TELEPHONED FOR DETECTIVE TRACY?
YES— COME IN DETECTIVE.
YOU ARE TRYING TO LOCATE "LIPS" MANLIS, ALSO KNOWN AS BOB HONOR, AREN'T YOU?
THAT'S RIGHT, MADAM.
THE MAN YOU SEEK WAS AT ONE TIME MY HUSBAND! I AM KITTY MANLIS. WE WERE DIVORCED IN 1934.
YOU DON'T MEAN IT!
I DID NOT KNOW "LIPS" WAS EVER MARRIED AT ANY TIME! THIS IS A BIG SURPRISE TO ME!
VERY FEW PEOPLE DID KNOW IT! YOU SEE-
YOU HAVEN'T BEEN HAPPY SINCE YOU LEFT THE CROWD. I CAN SEE IT IN YOUR FACE!
YOU NEED YOUR OLD POMPADOUR HAIR-CUT AGAIN- AND YOUR MUSTACHE--- JUST LIKE YOU USED TO WEAR.

HELLO, MRS. RAGGS! HOW IS YOUR BABY TODAY?
I'M SORT OF WORRIED ABOUT HIM TODAY
JO
OH, I'M SO SORRY! WHAT SEEMS TO BE THE TROUBLE?
HE'S HAVING A SIMPLY TERRIBLE TIME LEARNING TO WALK
BUT, HE'S GETTING THE HANG OF IT

DON'T TELL ME YOU'VE CHANGED YOUR MIND ABOUT NO DATES! WHY, LATE DATES HAVE YOU SO DOWN, YOU DON'T LOOK AS IF YOU CAN GET BACK UP.
RIGHT! I'M SIMPLY SUNK-VERY SIMPLY! AND I'M STICKING TO WHAT I SAID... NOT ONE DATE FOR THE NEXT MONTH!
NOW YOU'RE TALKING WHAT THE PROFESSOR WOULD CALL GOOD COMMON SENSE, BY JOVE. AN' I'M STICKIN' WITH YA AS A NO-DATER.
FOOLIN' ASIDE, TOO MANY DATES KEEP YOU FROM ENJOYING ANY OF THEM. IT'S THE SAME OLD STORY-EAT, DANCE AND GROW FAGGED OUT. A REST IS WHAT WE NEED.
GEE-E-E! JES LOOK AT THAT MOON.
I'M LOOKING! AN' IT KINDA GETS YA, DOESN'T IT?
YA KNOW, AS A MATTER OF FACT, WINTER TIME IS THE TIME TO STAGE THE NO-DATE STUFF. WHY SPOIL PART OF THE SUMMER BY STICKING INDOORS? IT'S TOO HOT!
SURE, YA ONLY LIVE ONCE... AND SUMMERTIME IS THE TIME TO LIVE. WE'D BOTH GO CUCKOO, IF WE STUCK AROUND THE HOUSE.

WHAT'RE YOU GONNA TELL MAMIE ABOUT US SNEAKIN' OFF ON A LITTLE VACATION WITHOUT HER, UNCLE WILLIE?
MY DEAR MOONSHINE, THAT AIN'T WORRYING ME HALF AS MUCH AS WHAT MAMIE'S GOING TO TELL ME.
MAYBE I'D OUGHT TO GO IN FIRST AND SORTA BREAK THE NEWS THAT YOU LOST ALL YOUR DOUGH SHOOTIN' CRAPS
YES- BREAK IT GENTLY. YOU MIGHT SAY THAT I'M DEAD OR SOMETHING AND THEN GRADUALLY WORK UP TO THE CLIMAX.
DADGUMMIT! I'VE LOST MY KEY TO THE HOUSE, MOON.
WELL, YOU'RE ALWAYS BRAGGIN' ABOUT HAVIN' A DUPLICATE KEY IN CASE OF A EMERGENCY LIKE THIS- I SUPPOSE YOU'VE LOST IT, TOO.
NO- I KNOW WHERE IT IS.
WELL, GIVE IT TO ME AND I'LL OPEN THE DOOR
GEE! IT'S DARKER'N COALEY'S ALLEY IN THERE.
KERASH!
HEL-LO!
MAMIE'S READY, UNCLE WILLIE- YOU BETTER GET YOURSELF READY

THE ships of Mohammed II, Sultan of Turkey, in 1453, were besieging Constantinople from the Sea of Marmora to the south. A triple wall held back the invaders from the west. Stout iron chains kept the Turkish ships from entering the Golden Horn north of the city. But attack from the north, Mohammed reasoned, would soon defeat the Greeks. How to get his ships into the Golden Horn!

His engineers found a solution. Across the neck of land between the Bosporus and the Golden Horn, they built a sturdy inclined plane of greased planks. Then, by night; with the aid of pulleys and oxen, the invaders dragged their fleet of 70 vessels up the plane from the Bosporus, and let them slide stealthily into the Golden Horn.

That strategic move ended all hope for the Greeks, and Constantinople was captured, May 29, 1453. A map stamp issued by Turkey in 1916 includes the scene of this historic maneuver.
